SENATE PASSES POINCARE PLANS

First Clause To Be Made Law at Session of Assembly.

LARGE MAJORITIES.

PARIS, Aug. 7. —(Canadian Press). — Preliminary stages of Premier Poincare's plans to put the franc on a stable financial footing were realized to-day.

The Senate, by wide margins in each case ,adopted the bills creating a sinking fund for the floating debt, transfering the tobacco monopoly to private control and permitting the Bank of France to purchase reserves of gold currency.

Next Tuesday, the first measure, regarded by the Premier as the most important of the financial projects will be made law at an extraordinary session of the two houses of parliament, sitting at Versailles as the National Assembly.

It was believed for the last few days that Premier would ask immediate ratification of the British and United States debt settlements but stubborn opposition by certain groups has altered this and ratification may be delayed.

"BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES"

HEROIC CAPTAIN GIVES UP LINER

W. R. D. Irvine, R.N.R., Is Known as "Rajah" For His Strictness.

IS WAR HERO.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press)—"The Rajah" of the Cunard Line, Captain W. R. D. Irvine, R. N.R., commander of the Berengaria, has resigned because of ill health. He plans to spend the rest of his days in Southern France.

Captain Irvine 56 years old, and a hero of the World War, earned his regal nickname because of his unwavering enforcement of authority under all circumstances. He once held the Berengaria in quarantine for 36 hours during a gale despite the fact that J. P. Morgan was a passenger and anxious to get to New York and that Sir Ashley Sparks, also a passenger, had arranged a dance for 200 guests aboard the liner shortly after the hour she was scheduled to dock.

When the Laconia went down off the Irish coast in 1917, Captain Irvine succeded in saving all but three of his 291 passengers and crew. He left his ship last and was picked up from the sea unconscious. When he revived, crowds on the shore were cheering him.

"What's the noise?" he inquired, and when told it was applause for him, replied "nonsense."

CANADA PROTECTS RAILWAYS

The custom of American manufacturers of automobiles to drive new cars across the Canadian border has aroused the customs department at Ottawa, the officials of which maintain that this is a discrimination against the railways that should be stopped. They say it is not only unfair to the railways, but if allowed to continue would cause congestion in the highways at times.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

ship God according to the dictates of their conscience.

We call the attention of the American Government to remind it that the representatives of Calles have insulted and degraded and expelled American citizens, men and women, under circumstances that are abhorrent to our conception of constitutional government. The fundamental rights guaranteed by our Constitution and so dear to the hearts of Americans are unknown to the despotic power that is dominating Mexico, or to a so-called Constitution that was forced upon the Mexican people at the point of the gun.

Charge "Russianizing" of Mexico

We warn our fellow American citizens that they cannot endure at their very doorstep, with impunity, the Russianizing of Mexico. The Soviet philosophy controls the military powers of Mexico. The family to them is a myth and marriage of degradation. They have robbed it of its sanctity. Their conception of God is contempt for all religions.

Ministers of all religions are denied the right to exercise their sacred functions; professions and vocations are prohibited; the right to take sacred vows for the service of God is denied; freedom of conscience is illegal; freedom of the press, freedom of petition; freedom of speech and lawful assemblage to present grievances of the people are denied and forbidden; freedom of education is repudiated and abolished; individual liberty is impossible; intolerance is defied; confiscation and spoliation of property are justified; constitutional liberty and orderly government are unknown; liberty, justice and right have been assassinated by the Red rulers of Mexico; Communism in principle, precept and practice is made the order of the day.

While on the other hand, as enunciated in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is the ideal and practice; justice is established; domestic peace and tranquillity are assured; promotion of the general welfare is encouraged and safeguarded; the blessings of liberty are maintained and freedom of conscience, right of petition, free speech, free press are guaranteed.

WOOLER PERSONALS

WOOLER, Aug. 7.—The "Guild" of the Anglican church, met at the home of Mrs. Frank Ellis on Friday afternoon.

The W.M.S. of the United church met at the home of Mrs. Donald McColl on Tuesday, with an attendance of thirty. The president, Mrs. S. L. Terrill was in the chair and all the officers were present. After the business part of the meeting the programme opened with a temperance exercise. This being the time to emphasie the importance of the work of our women, to encourage, support the temperance cause.

Miss Mary Teale gave a very inspiring talk on some of the abilities of the women of India, if only we may reach them with Christianity.

The meeting then adjourned to the spacious cool lawn, to enjoy the refreshments served by Mrs. Irwin Scott, Mrs. M. Sharpe, Mrs. Sam Sharpe, Mrs. Arthur Down and Mrs. Don McColl.

Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury of Detroit are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McColl.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward, Cleveland, Ohio, called on Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terill on Wednesday.

Sam Dudley of Colborne paid a few calls in this community on Wednesday.

Cherries are so plentiful there is fear of many trees not being picked.

Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Herrington of Frankford spent Wednesday at Floral Hill Farm.

Preparation are being made for the re-opening of the United church on Sunday, August 8th. Morning and evening services. On the following Tuesday evening a garden party will be held on the church lawn.

PONTYPOOL NEWS

PONTYPOOL, Aug. 7.—Most of the farmers in this vicinity have finished haying and report a fair crop.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Richardson, Mrs. E. Shaw, Miss Iva Shaw and Miss Eva Staples of Pontypool, Mr. and Mrs. W. Cully of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. James McMullen and Mr. Howard McMullen of Lotus all motored to Bewdley on Sunday last, coming via Newcastle.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Whitmee of Osaca, Mrs. C. Feller, Miss Beatrice Feler, Mr. Louis Feller and Mr. R. Lemauix, Toronto, Miss Ida Payne, Miss Esther Payne and Mr. F. Eddy of Bowmanville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Payne for the week end.

The annual Field Day, August 11, promises to be a huge success. Soft ball, football and baseball games have been arranged for and a brass band will be in attendance.

Richardson Bros. have moved their garage several yards to the rear and are making preparations for the erection of a new one which will be made of stone block.

Mr. William Hudson of Welland was the guest of Mr. John Trick over the week end.

Miss Frances Payne of Montreal is visting at her grandmother's, Mrs. E. Payne.

MOSCOW (United Press).—The Moscow physician, A. G. Braizev, recently saved the life of a woman who had drunk acid and was threatened with starvation through the contraction of her aesophagus by preparing an artificial tube out of skin taken from her chest and feeding her succesfully through this.

DIVINE PROVISION OF MANNA

Text: Exod. 16: 11-18, 35.

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,
I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, At even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am the Lord your God.

And it came to pass, that at even the quails came up, and covered the camp; and in the morning the dew lay round about the host.

And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderness there lay a small round thing, as small as the hoar frost on the ground.

And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, It is manna: for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat.

This is the thing which the Lord hath commanded, Gather of it every man according to his eating, an omer for every man, according to the number of your persons; take ye every man for them which are in his tents.

And when they did mete it with an omer, he that gathered much had nothing over, and he that gathered little had no lack: they gathered every man according to his eating.

And the children of Israel did eat manna forty years, until they came to a land inhabited: they did eat manna until they came unto the boarders of the land of Canaan.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 8. The Giving of the Manna. Exod. 16: 11-18, 35.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The problem of feeding a great company of people who are on pilgrimage, or not in settled abode, is a very serious one. Many a military campaign has failed, not because of the lack of soldiers or the lack of valor but because of the difficulty of feeding the army.

Here is the story of how Israel solved this problem in journeying through the wilderness. Some scholars have seen in the giving of the manna a purely miraculous circumstance of divine intervention, others think that it was a natural product provided in some unusual way, like the coming of the quails described in verse 13 of our lesson. This is a critical problem that we have no means of solving, nor is it of importance for the spiritual teachings of the lesson. Whatever the actual historic background of the narrative, the purpose here is to show Israel's dependence upon God and God's care.

Work Necessary.

It would be a great mistake to interpret this lesson as suggesting that all one has to do is to assume an attitude of faith and receptivity to have God provide daily bread. It is true that we pray every day in the Lord's Prayer, "Give us this day our daily bread," but, like all prayers, its answer must come only as we co-operate with God and work for the answering of our own prayers.

Prayer and Providence are not and never were intended to be provisions for careless, improvident, and lazy people. The very conditions under which the manna was given laid great stress upon human care and Providence. The manna was not given for a long period at a time; it was given only day by day, and it did not keep beyond the day for which it was intended.

Do We?

The manna ought to have been for Israel a symbol of God's presence and his provision for the higher things of life. Unfortunately, however, it became for many of these people of Israel little more than a material blessing.

They did not feel and realize God's wonder in the material gifts. Do we? Is the bread upon our tables a symbol of God's wonderful working? Is it an expression of man's co-operation with God? Or do we eat our daily bread without any thought about where it comes from and with no conception of the miracle that brings the little kernel into the full ear of golden grain, and the miracle of the modern world that brings the grain from western plains through various processes to the bread upon our tables?

He must truly believe in God and in the power of God who feels the miraculous quality of all life and the divine wonder in every natural fact and process. Just as bread in the New Testament is a symbol of spiritual feeding, and Christ is represented as being to us the bread of life, so manna in the Old Testament is the symbol of God's rich provision for his people.

Provision Ceased.

The closing verse of our lesson which says that the children of Israel ate manna for forty years does not mean that it was their exclusive diet during that long period. It is interesting, however, to note that the provision of manna cease when they came to an inhabited land and settled down to normal conditions.

God does not intend that we should be subservient or helpless. The gifts of nature and of Providence are not bestowed upon men without their own effort, and it would be very unfortunate for men if they were. It was significant that the manna ceased when the Israelites had a new opportunity to provide for their own material wants, but God was no less present under these normal and settled conditions.

Man never provides wholly for himself. He works with forces and powers that are mightier than he. If it were not for summer and winter, seed-time and harvest, cold and heat, moisture and sunshine, bringing the annual miracle of sowing and harvest, man would be helpless no matter how much he sought to provide for himself.

This lesson teaches us what every one in his own life ought to learn—dependence upon God and God's goodness.

ASSIST THE AUTHORITIES.

(By H. Rush)

The Examiner has requested business and professional men to contribute editorials on subjects of civic betterment. The following is the first of the series:

"We have one of the finest cities in Ontario, and instead of criticizing those in authority, who are the rulers thereof for the time being, we should encourage and assist them in every way we can. They have been elected by the majority of the ratepayers, and we should not grumble."

SAVING—IS IT WISE?

There are good and bad features about the report that savings in Canadian banks are largely on the increase. The report indicates good times in the country, and it shows that the depositors are far-seeing, providing for the future. If this foresight were observed by many more it would add to the wealth of the country and prevent much of the hardship that now exists.

But, on the other hand, the sound investments that could be made out of these large savings in Canada's natural resources would develop more wealth and eventually lead to more savings. As it is now, the savings in Canadian banks are being used as call money by United States banks, and the money is being reinvested in Canada by Americans, who are reaping the profits. Several sound industrial propositions have been offered Peterborough people in the last year, but all were compelled to go elsewhere because of the lack of available capital here. There have been, of course, two or three unfortunate enterprises launched in this city, inclining people to be timid, but those now referred to are vouched by bankers to have been solid and sound.

There are some who are ready to invest in every new scheme that offers; sometimes they win, often they lose. It is just a question whether others who refuse to invest at all are receiving full value for the effort they spent in gaining their money.

WANTON DESTRUCTION.

Telling the truth about the cutting down of the cherry tree did not save the tree for George Washington's father. Once a tree is destroyed, no human effort can cause it to grow again.

In a section of the city where there are some splendid trees, and particularly one beautifully kept lawn, boys with an axe have stripped the bark from growing trees to such an extent that the trees may be ruined. Paint has been applied to the wounds in an effort to repair the damage, but it may not succeed.

The work is wanton, wilful destruction. When a good citizen goes to the trouble of planting trees in an effort to beautify his home and the street on which he lives, he has the right to expect that his property shall be respected. And parents should see that their children respect others' property. If they fail to do so, civic authority should have some means of giving the injured citizen redress.

WEEDS AND WARNINGS.

Apart altogether from the fact that they are infringing a civic bylaw and rendering themselves liable to a $5 fine, the owners of neglected vacant lots within the city limits would enhance the value of their property and help maintain the good appearance of the city in which they live, if they would heed the injunction of the Police Chief to clean their unused land of the accumulation of noxious weeds that grow up almost overnight in rank, unhealthy profusion and send out clouds of seeds and spores on every passing breeze, unwelcome guests on any patch of ground, cultivated or uncultivated.

The fact that it has become necessary for the authorities to issue a similar warning or request every year for the past three or four years shows that civic pride and community spirit in Peterborough has not yet reached the stage of fullest development.

As the police justly remark, one would fancy that owners would from mere self-interest cut down these unproductive growths at least once in a summer without having to be impelled to do so by either threats or requests from the powers that be. But the many unsightly areas which cause complaint are sufficient evidence that self-interest alone has failed to inspire the necessary action.

Perhaps an appeal to a higher motive may have the desired effect. Indeed, it is more than probable that the undesirable condition of affairs has arisen, in most cases simply from thoughtlessness. Good citizens there are who are sometimes careless with their own property, but shrink from doing anything that might tend to depreciate the value of that of their neighbours.

It may not have occurred to such people that in neglecting their own land they are perpetuating a state of things that is a decided annoyance to their fellow-citizens. The weeds that are allowed to grow unchecked on one neglected plot very quickly find their way to another that may have been cultivated at a considerable expenditure of money or effort.

This is not a square deal to the other fellow.

And by doing the right thing by his neighbour in this respect; the conscientious owner of a lot is doing the right thing by his community, and in the last analysis, by himself.

WELCOME, SIR KNIGHTS!

Peterborough extends a hearty welcome to the visiting Knights Templar on the occasion of the forty-third annual assembly, opening here on Monday. The assembly will last three days, and headquarters will be in the Collegiate Institute.

Peterborough is always glad to welcome conventions, not only for the advertising they give the city [illegible] but because they broaden the mental horizon of the citizens. The Knights Templar assembly brings representatives from all over the Dominion, accompanied by their ladies. The members are men of the highest standing in their communities; they have the view-points of Canadians from coast to coast and away north to Dawson City. The visit of such an organization cannot but be thankful to the people of Peterborough, who hope that their stay here may be pleasant and profitable.

THE DUTY OF CITIZENSHIP.

Referring to the "confusion and impotence in the high court of Parliament, resulting in bitter recrimination and an undignified struggle for office," the Social Service Council of Canada calls upon all citizens to exercise their franchise in the coming election to promote a better national life.

As repeatedly urged by The Examiner, the Council decries the making of supreme national issues the mere points of partizan attack and defence. Questions that affect the well-being of Canadian citizens as a whole should not be made the football of political scrimmage. If there are political battles to be fought, they should not be fought over the trampled rights of Canadians. Statesmen would not so fight, and lesser politicians should be curbed.

But the responsibility rests primarily upon the voter. Neglect or misuse or the subversion of the franchise to party or personal ends is a fundamental cause of much of the political impurity so greatly deplored. If the political campaigns and the political dealings of Canada are to be cleaned up the first duty lies with the electors in this election.

There are many men of high character in the public life of Canada. "Since the dawn of freedom," to again quote the Social Service Council, "such men have always been the glory and sometimes the salvation of states. Ordinary citizens have little idea of the difficulties they have to meet." There is today, The Examiner believes, an unrivalled opportunity to serve the nation, and there was never a time when the service of such men was more needed. Parliamentary institutions are being weighed in the balance. For the sake of these institutions with which the freedom and progress of the Dominion are inseparably linked, it is incumbent upon all who have the right to vote to join in a noble effort to promote the highest welfare of the country. Canada is called to a high destiny, and she can only achieve it through the building of efficient and honest government by those who are charged with the duty—the electors.

SEE PETERBOROUGH FIRST.

Civic Holiday gives Peterborough people an opportunity to enjoy a day in Peterborough—for a change. There are many holidays when there is no attraction in the city, and everyone takes to the highway, but Monday is different. Through the initiative of the Great War Veterans' Association there has been arranged a splendid programme of sports, to take place at the Exhibition Grounds, and once again The Examiner commends this event to the citizens as a worthy effort and a splendid idea.

Vacation and Sundays are periods when most people who have automobiles leave the city, but Civic Holiday is an occasion when the civic spirit should urge not only the doing of a good deed for a worthy city organization, but the seeing of Peterborough first.

BUY AT HOME—A REASON.

"When we buy goods from a foreign country, we get the goods and the foreigner gets the money; but when we buy goods made at home, we get both the goods and the money." This was Abraham Lincoln's view of the buy-at-home idea.

It is the idea, too, that animates Kiwanis Club in arranging a big "Produced in Canada Exhibition" to take place in the Armouries in October. There are thousands of articles of different kinds made in Peterborough, the buying of which would keep money in Peterborough and assist local enterprise. When multiplied by all the cities in Canada it appears that most of the things used in the Canadian home can be obtained in Canadian factories, keeping the money in Canada and keeping Canadian workmen employed.

The fact that Canada is very near a country that has highly developed manufacturing businesses makes competition keen, but there is no doubt about the duty devolving upon Canadian people to support their own industries. It is this that encourages Kiwanis Club to arrange its exhibit for Peterborough. Goods from all over Canada will be displayed beside exhibits showing Canada's natural resources. It is a project that commends itself as timely, and The Examiner hopes that it may be effective in showing the value of buying produced-in-Canada goods.

YOUTHFUL CRIME.

Every day the public is shocked and enraged by some new tale of youthful crime. Here is the story of an aquarium which put some goldfish into a public fountain, and the boys of the neighborhood immediately got busy with sticks and stones and killed the little beauties to the last one. From which it is argued that the boy of today is born to do mischief as the sparks fly upward.

Another story is told of the breaking of windows just for fun by neighborhood hoodlums, the cost in the course of the year running into sums of three or four figures. The desperado instincts of boys, however, are not new. Bernard Shaw in his "Pier 70" speech the other night in London spoke of children as having neither "character, morals, industry nor even common decency." It was the Shavian way of saying the obvious, viz., that children are not born with character, but have to acquire it, and parents are intrusted with the duty and are supposed to have learned something of the great art of helping them in that process.

The aquarium story is cited by a very earnest reformer as proof that we are growing criminals faster than we can apprehend and punish them. And, of course, we are if such hoodlumism never meets with the necessary instruction and restraint until it lands in the police courts in the middle 'teens and too late for correctional treatment. But that is not so much the fault of the police as of the home, where this preliminary discipline is supposed to be operative.

After all is said and done, the work of moral admonition and reclamation has to get a good long start in the home or there is a broken link in the chain of good conduct and respect for law that can never be either mended or replaced. Not, at least, by the law.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards for the past week have been moderate. Cattle export trade has been slow, export shipments for the week being 677 head.

One load of exceptionally good export cattle brought $8.20, but the majority sold at $7.50 to $7.75. Good butcher cattle are steady but the unfinished type are slow sellers.

The cow trade has been slow. There is no demand for heavy export cows. The demand for heavy or butchers bulls is light and bologna bulls are hard to sell.

Baby beeves are selling well at good prices. Buyers are looking for them, choice bringing from $9.00 to $11.00.

Springers and milkers. This week the trade on springers is a little better, although there is no change in price. Choice springers ranged from $80 to $90. There appeared to be no demand for milkers.

Stockers and Feeders

Considerable trading was carried on in these classes, most of the sales during the last couple of days being at from $4 to $5.75 a hundred with one load going at $6.

Sheep and Lambs

Lambs dropped from a top of $17 on Tuesday to $16 on Wednesday. Though trade is not expected to slacken, a little lower prices are looked for.

Calves

The trade in these has been good all week. Choice 11c to 12c; medium 9c to 10c; light 8c to 9c; heavy 7c to 8c; grassers 4c to 5c.

Hogs have been steady all week at $12.25 f.o.b., $12.85 fed; 1,300 off cars premium on selects $2.51 per head. With the present price of hogs the lowest it has been this season, it is believed the bottom has about been reached.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday continued quiet. There was little local trade done and prices for all grades of Canadian Western oats were reduced fractionally.

With the inquiry from all sources still on the quiet side, the local and export trade in spring and winter wheat flour was again dull but prices were unchanged.

Only a light trade was done in millfeed but values ruled steady. The inquiry for standard grades of rolled oats remained light, but the undertone to the market was firm.

A stronger feeling developed in the butter market under a better demand and prices were marked up a fraction. The receipts were 4,045 packages.

The cheese market was also firmer but the trade volume continued small. The receipts were 16,040 boxes.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained in spite of a small demand from all sources. The receipts were 1,787 cases.

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Disapointment over smallness of estimates of actual new export business did a good deal to bring about a late downturn in wheat prices yesterday. Besides, considerable selling pressure on wheat resulted from corn market weakness which developed toward the last. Wheat closed weak, 1-4 to 7-8 net lower, corn unchanged to 7-8 off, oats at 1-8 decline to 1-4 advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25 cents.

Apparent likelihood that foreign demand would improve tended to give an upward slant to the wheat market throughout the greater part of the day, but in the end the seaboard failed to confirm any important fresh amount as having been taken by Europe. Premiums at Gulf ports and also east of Chicago on wheat available for export were firmer nevertheless, and during the last few days fairly heavy vessel charters have been made for wheat from here to Montreal. About 1,000,000 bushels of this wheat is expected to move out of Chicago by Monday and be dropped from the U. S. visible supply.

Indications of a decided falling off in the movement of wheat southwest helped at times yesterday to encourage sentiment favorable to the buying side of the wheat market. In some quarters, too, a report that Russia is unable to finance her crop movement was discussed as a bullish factor, the inference being that under such circumstances, the import needs of Europe would be intensified and that the bulk of supplies during the next ninety days must be obtained from Canada and the United States.

Posting of more corn here, as out of condition had a bearish effect on the corn market. Oats were dull but steady.

Provisions reflected better demand for lard and some inquiry for meats.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE MIND GUIDES YOU

Surround yourself with worry, make every enemy your can conveniently, go about grumbling, be blunt, hard, and cruel, and you will soon fall into the coal-hole.

Be courteous and considerate, be patient, tactful, and tolerant, systematically cultivate faith in others, and soon others will have faith in you.

A man travels in the direction of his mind, and when his mind is not on straight, others travel as far away from him as they possibly can. It's largely up to you.

It is a bad egg that will hit a man and then run.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

CREDIT FOR USING GOOD ENGLISH.

All of us, probably, have met the man or the woman who uses good English, and who knows that he or she does so. In fact, sometimes there is a "painful precision," about such a person, accompanied by an "I am holier than thou" air.

Such persons should chasten themselves with the thought that we are all under the obligation to use good English, and that no one deserves especial credit for doing so. F. P. Adams wrote, in the New York Tribune, not long ago:

"The best teacher we ever had, Professor V. C. Alderson, was fond of insisting that his students speak in clean English. He used to say that a person deserved no more credit for using decent English and spelling correctly than for breathing."

MEXICO AND ONTARIO

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Mexico is a land of sore tribulation at the present time. In the past, with all the terrible tryanny of peonism the poor natives and half-castes of Mexico representing 95 per cent of the population, were allowed the consolation of their religion. Now even that is to be taken away from them. Bearing in mind that a banner bearing a false device is better than no banner at all the Mexican despotism (called a government) has decreed that "the laws must be obeyed," and that in suppressing religion they are only carrying out the law. The fine phrase "The laws must be obeyed by all right-thinking citizens will be obeyed even where they are not approved" is the watchword of Mexico.

This noble principle of "the law should be obeyed" has a strangely familiar ring in Ontario, too. The plan of campaign against the churches of all denominations in Mexico is very simple. The government is a despotism of the vilest type and the church protects, so far as it can, the poor peons from the horrors of their slavery. This interferes with the contractors who pay a large license fee to the government for the privilege of working the poor natives to death. Hence the government passes laws, if such a proceeding can be dignified by that name, and the churches are charged with the heinous offence of disobeying these laws and encouraging the natives to do so, too. There is a lot in a name after all. These iniquities against religion are perpetrated under the name of compelling the churches to obey the laws, when what the churches are really doing is trying to protect the population from the most awful system of slavery in the known world. Some time ago a few Protestant English missionaries were escorted to the frontiers and unceremoniously kicked out. The Catholic Church comprises almost the whole native population and cannot be treated in this way, otherwise there would be no natives and no slaves left. Despotism is the same no matter what name it bears and wherever it rears its head. It is the outcrop of tyranny and the negation of religion and of civilization. Just as we must fairly try and properly condemn even the worst of criminals if we are to preserve civilization, so the introduction of summary force and the denial of right works the same disastrous result everywhere. It is poison, and whilst alcohol may slay its thousands, the spirit of despotism will slay the world. A resort to such a method and such a "remedy" shows what sort of people a nation has become.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

GROWING THINGS.

Toes have a way of coming through
New places in a baby's shoe;
Boys have a way of bursting out
Through seams you never thought about;
Girls have a way of growing tall
Until their clothes won't fit at all.

Although we worry, though we fret,
The children keep on growing yet;
Last summer's jersey is too tight,
And Sonny's waists are far from right;
There's something wrong with things, I guess,
But it's the girl and not the dress.

And yet I notice in the spring
It's much the same with ev'ryt'ing;
And summer has its bursting pods,
Its opening buds and swelling sods.
A lot of things have just outgrown
The springtim e garments that they own.

So, when I see a baby's toe,
It's just another bud, I know.
When big the youngster seems to be,
It's just a sapling now a tree.
And when the girl her clothes outgrow,
It's just a rose about to blow.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

READING WITH A PURPOSE.

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Almost anyone who writes regularly for the newspapers receives many inquiries from people who want to know what books they must read in order to educate themselves.

Few of us realize the extent to which the desire for education goes.

Education is felt by everyone to be a distinct asset of life and those who have been denied the privilege of education in their early days seek to make up for their lost opportunities by later activity.

Dr. Albert Mansbridge of England, lecturing in this country, recently spoke of the Workers Educational Association and other similar organizations in England.

He said that fully fifty thousand workers in England were following some sort of an educational course.

Some classes study for four years and some for two and others for seven. The great mass of people had been forced to quit school when from ten to fourteen years of age. They sought in this way to make up for what they had missed.

Right after the war the same sort of thing was done in Germany. Both Czechoslovakia and Denmark, as well as China, have shown good results in this direction.

Dr. Mansbridge said that at Balliol College he saw a large group of working people being instructed by the professor of international law. He also said that there are now 528 such classes in England and Wales and more than 200 in Australasia, and the movement is on foot in Holland, Sweden, Germany and Scotland.

It is very difficult for one who is not personally acquainted with the case to recommend a list of books for another. As a rule an intelligent librarian can be of more assistance here than anyone else.

HOSTILITY TOWARDS MOVEMENT TO RUSH RATIFICATION OF DEBTS POSTPONES COUNCIL DISCUSSION

U. S. Minister Defers Departure From France Until Situation Clears.

OUTLOOK CLOUDED.

Republican Inter-Group May Try To Secure Safeguard Clause.

PARIS, August 7. —(Canadian Press). — Hostility to Premier Poincare's proposed move to push for ratification of the debt agreements wtih the United States and Great Britain expressed in the parliamentary lobbies yesterday afternoon, has caused the government to postpone discussion of the pact in a ministerial council to-day, as was planned. Instead, the ministers will meet Monday.

M. Berenger, Ambassador to United States, who negotiated the Washington debt agreement, has deferred his departure for the United States, set for to-day until the situation is straightened out by ratification. He said to-day that he expected ratification before the close of the present session.

M. Poincare's original intention, as sent out in the form of a trial balloon, yesterday morning, was to get the Chamber and Senate finance and foreign affairs committees, to name "reporters" to bring in recommendations for ratification of both agreements as soon as the senate and chamber, sitting at Versailles Tuesday as a national assembly had made the premier's sinking fund bill an organc law of the land

However, the opposition of the Chamber's so-called republican union group—remnants of the old national bloc,—which is represented in the cabinet by Minister of Pensions Marin, caused the Premier to change his mind. If Poincare, even with his present grip on parliament and public opinion should venture to bring up ratification of the debt agreements next week, it is conceded on all sides that they could be adopted only with reservations. It is pointed out that parliament would insist upon the adoption of safe guard and transfer clauses which, for the Washington agreement would probably take the form of complementary letters attached to the original Berenger-Mellon pact.

In some parlamentary circles tonight it was said that the best the Premier can hope for now is to get the chamber and senate committee to report out the debt accords favorably, then adjourn parliament and press for actual ratification in the autumn.

At any rate, the "republican inter-group," comprised of the members of a number of parties of the chamber, have let it be known that they intended to press for a resolution designed to make an appeal to the people of the United States for insertion of a safeguard clause in the Washington agreement, if the government brought up the debt question.

This resolution would reaffirm France's willingness to pay her debts, but would embody reservations to reconcile the payments with Frances capacity, in case difficulties arise in the future. In this connection, the Journal des Debates says that it would be best, as a last resort, to ratify "while formulating reservations which would remind the United States Senate of its own methods."

A semi-official note given out last night declares that members of the government during the day merely melt out the opinions of the chamber group, that M. Poincare and M. Briand, as soon as the chamber finance committee named a reporter were ready to go before that body to give all the desired information concerning the accord. The note adds:

The government's viewpoint with regard to the debts has not varied from that expressed in the ministerial declaration, and in the Premier's speeches in the chamber and senate. Concerning France's financial restoration the government expects it will be brought about by the measures already taken in which ou creditors are just as interested as ourselves."

Semi-official Havas Agency adds that all the government hopes for is to get the chamber and senate committees to work on the debt accords during the recess. An overrapid decision, it says, would risk compromising the result the government is seeking, and would surprise public opnion, which needs to be enlightened just as much as parliamentary cicles.

BILL TO MODIFY TRADE UNION LAW

Benefit Funds To Be Separated From All Strike Money.

LONDON, Aug. 7. —(Canadian Press). — The Westminster Gazette learn that the cabinet has decided to introduce a bill modifying the trade union law. The principal change is described as the separation of trade union benefit funds from strike funds, making the latter liable for action for breach of contract the change would also restrict the right of picketing.

The bill, as set forth by the Westminster Gazette, also provides that contracts between trade unions and employers or employers associations shall be subject to enforcement at law, and that remedies which an employer can take aginst a trade union for breach of contract, or a trade union against an employer for breach of contract shall be simpified. The rights of free speech and public meeeting would not be restricted, but massed picketing would be prohibited, as would visits by pickets to workers homes or other forms of intimidation.

The bill, the newspaper says, will arouse antagonism and is likely to make the 1927 session of parliament memorable.

SILVER FOXES FOR RUSSIANS

PROSPECTS GOOD.

CHARLOTTETOWN, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Soviet Russia may soon become a big contributor to the silver fox fur market, according to J. G. Schneiderman, representative of a Russia fur company who recently visited the fox ranches of Prince Edward Island to obtain information on the possibilities of the business. He was a guest of Dr. Leo Frank, prominent Island rancher.

Mr. Schneiderman, following his investigations, expressed himself as convinced that Russia is especially adaptable to the ranching of silver black foxes. The industry was already in the experimental stage, he said, and was soon to be developed for the commercial market on a large scale. Prince Edward Island, he said, would be the source of supply for the foundation stock.

BETHANY WINS.

BETHANY, Aug. 7.—There was quite a large crowd gathered on Thursday night to witness the baseball game between Mount Pleasant and the home team as this game was the last of the series to determine the winners of the league. It was expected that it would be interesting, but after the first two innings it became listless. When Alex. Kay, umpire, called the game on account of darkness the score stood 17-3 in favor of the home team.

DEFENDS ROAD SCHEME BEFORE FEDERAL HOUSE

Bruce Government Is Determined To Continue Tax on Petrol.

ROAD SCHEME.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 7 Canadian Press Cable).—Dr. Earle Page, Australian Federal Treasurer, in the House of Representatives yesterday defended the Federal roads scheme, and said that similar schemes are being carried out by the United States Government.

Dr. Page declared that the Bruce Government was determined to continue the petrol tax of two pence a gallon, but had decided to withdraw the 2 1-2 per cent tax on chassis and the 15 per cent tax on motor tires.

The Federal roads scheme is proving unpopular with the states, five of them, according to a statement made recently by Premier Bruce, not being inclined to accept it. The scheme involves an expenditure of £40,000,000 in the next ten years.

The Victoria House of Assembly rejected the scheme a few days ago on a tie vote which was decided by the speaker giving the casting vote against the measure, and there was talk of the Allan government resigning in consequence, as it had sponsored the scheme. The government did not resign, however.

PICNIC TO COBOURG ON CIVIC HOLIDAY

Hastings United Sunday School Holds Annual Outing.

HASTINGS, Aug. 7.—The second annual picnic of the United Church Sunday School was held on Monday, Civic Holiday, at Cobourg beach. A drizzling rain locally made things appear gloomy early in the morning, but the weather clearing, the conveyances met at the church, as previously planned, and the picnickers proceeded. Several auto-loads and truck-loads were in the string, and on arrival dinner was started.

After lunch a softball game was played by the men, after which several of the members went in bathing.

A softball game was played by the single girls vs. the married ladies. The former were the winners.

Races as follows were run and excellent prizes given to the winners:

Boys 7 years and under—Willis Preston, Bert Johnson.

Girls 10 years and under—Rea Preston, M. Austin.

Boys 10 years and under—Steven Emery, M. Preston.

Girls 12 years and under—Georgina Beavis, Madaline Bond.

Boys 12 years and under—Kitchener Smith, H. Emmory.

Girls 15 years and under—Sara Emmory, Georgina Beavis.

Boys 15 years and under—Howard Wilson, Iden Bond.

Married ladies' race—Mrs. A. Fleming, Mrs. A. Merrills.

Ladies' three-legged race—Mrs. B. Preston and Miss Beamish, Mrs. A. Merrills and Miss B. Merrills.

After the races were run off more softball was indulged in and supper was then prepared. This being over, the return journey was made.

Civic Holiday.

Civic Holiday was held on Monday by the local merchants, all places of business being closed. A number of tourists and fishermen were in the village over the holiday, and were camped along the banks of the river.

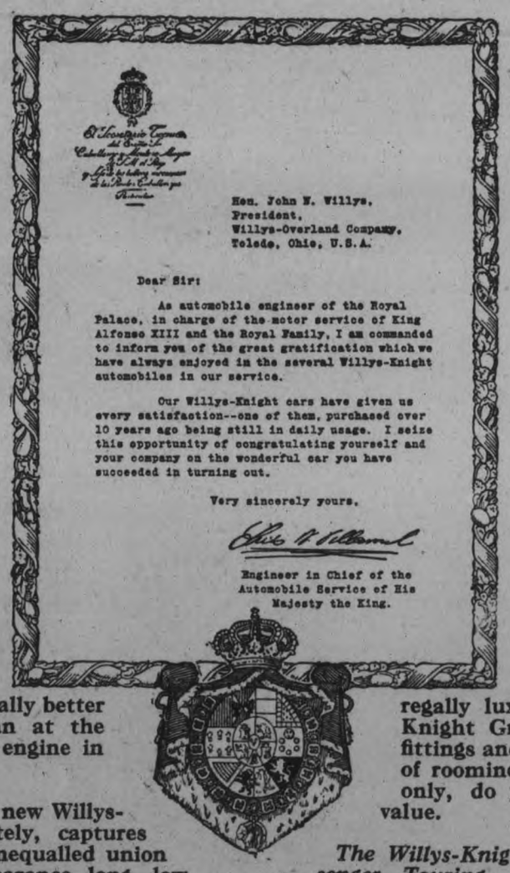
Ownership of this fine Car puts you in company with World-notables

IN company with that ultra-select group of world-notables who favor Knight-motored cars for their personal use—the King of England, the Prince of Wales, the King of Belgium, and half the Ministers and Peerage of Continental Europe—His Spanish Majesty now graciously extends felicitations to the Willys-Knight.

With the same type of patented power-plant, and built under one and the same license as the finest and costliest European cars, the "70" Willys-Knight by virtue of its established super-efficiency has earned title to its distinction as the fastest and most powerful product of its size among all automobiles built on this continent.

Engine simplicity is the real secret of this engine's amazing efficiency. There are 65 to 118 less parts than in the ordinary poppet valve engine. There are no valves to grind, no noisy pounding cams, no carbon to remove—simply two single sleeves working smoothly, silently up and down, one within the other in a protective film of oil. It is actually better and smoother at 50,000 miles than at the beginning. It is the only type of engine in the world that improves with use.

As to beauty, luxury, comfort, the new Willys-Knight "70" quickly and completely, captures everybody's approval. It has an unequalled union of liberal room and compact appearance long, low racy effect with moderate actual length, as easy to handle and to park as it is easy to steer. Four wheel brakes and other details of advanced engineering are of course standard equipment.



Hon. John N. Willys,
President,
Willys-Overland Company,
Toledo, Ohio, U.S.A.

Dear Sir:

As automobile engineer of the Royal Palace, in charge of the motor service of King Alfonso XIII and the Royal Family, I am commanded to inform you of the great gratification which we have always enjoyed in the several Willys-Knight automobiles in our service.

Our Willys-Knight cars have given us every satisfaction--one of them, purchased over 10 years ago being still in daily usage. I seize this opportunity of congratulating yourself and your company on the wonderful car you have succeeded in turning out.

Very sincerely yours,

See this sensational new "70" Six at your earliest opportunity. A proof of its brilliant performance is awaiting you. Arrange to get it. A surprise also awaits you when you learn the remarkably moderate price of the "70" touring, coupe, coach, or sedan, and the easy time payment terms.

+ + + + + + + + + +

With all the inherent qualities of the new "70" Willys-Knight Six but with still greater power, greater richness, roominess and refinements is the Willys-Knight Great Six—built for those who want the finest—with rare luxury adding relish to wonderful performance.

Consider the Willys-Knight Great Six as the chassis which ranks with European types costing upwards of $5,000 for the under-structure and power plant alone . . . then supplement this chassis with the regally luxurious coach work of the Willys-Knight Great Six with the richness of its fittings and equipment and the extra measure of roominess and comfort . . . then, and then only, do you get a true conception of its value.

The Willys-Knight Great Six is available in 7 Passenger Touring, 4 Passenger Coupe, 4 Passenger Roadster, 5 Passenger Sedan, 7 Passenger Sedan.

We recommend that a letter from the Maple Leaf Milling Company and White and Ackford asking that George Street, south of Charlotte Street, be resurfaced, be received.

We referred the letter from the Workmen's Compensation Board pointing out the city's responsibility to see that contractors and sub-contractors were covered by the board, to the city engineer and the chairman of this Board.

We recommend that a letter from the trustees of Trinity Church asking that the sidewalks at Rubidge and Scott Streets and at Rubidge and Simcoe Streets be carried outside the trees and the trees not removed, be referred to the city engineer to co-cperate with the rustees.

We received a letter from residents of Otonabee Street and Armour Road north of Downer's Corners for street improvements and recommend that the petitioners be advised that Otonabee Street is under the jurisdiction of the Suburban Road Commission and that the matter of street lights will be considered by the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

We recommend that the chairman of this Board and the city engineer purchase a sewer cleaning machine if the payment for it can be provided for out of the streets and bridges appropriation.

We recommend that Alderman Ackerman be chairman of this Board during the illness of Alderman Fife.

With reference to the petition from Joseph Meagher and others asking that Aylmer Street between Charlotte Street and the Canadian Pacific Railway be paved with asphalt, we recommend that Mr. Meagher be written to and advised that the petition has been received and that the paving programme depends upon the ability of the city to do the necessary preparatory work, which is under way.

We requested the acting chairman of this Board to get particulars regarding a road roller with scarifier and if possible arrange for a demonstration of one.

We received a report from the city engineer on tenders received for paving Rubidge Street from Charlotte Street to Rink Street; a copy of which is attached to this report.

We gave instructions to have a by-law prepared to authorize the laying of asphaltic pavements on Rubidge Street from Charlotte Street to Rink Street and on Weller Street from Park Street to Albertus Avenue.

We recommend that the deposit cheques and bid bonds received with the tenders for paving Rubidge Street be returned to the tenderers.

We authorized a by-law to be prepared to authorize an agreement with the Sawyer-Massey Company for the purchase of a steam road roller and scarifier for the price of 6,275.00 f.o.b. Hamilton, sales tax included, and a by-law to authorize the issue of debentures for $5,300.00, to pay for it, bearing five per cent interest and payable in five years.

We recommend that the city engineer be authorized to have a concrete top constructed on the Smith Street bridge.

We recommend that the Monaghan Road from Sherbrooke Street to McDonnel Street be repaired and that the council of North Monaghan be requested to pay its share of the cost.

Fire Water and Light.

MEN ASSAULT POLICE OFFICER

Leave Provincial Policeman Lying Unconscious in Roar Near London.

CAPTURED LATER.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 7.—Provincial Officer L. G. Fleming, Toronto, stationed here on special duty, with three other Provincial men, was battered into insensibility and left lying beside his car near Parkhill late yesterday. He had attempted to place three men under arrest for alleged bootlegging activities, subsequent to an investigation that is being conducted in this district in the Province-wide poison liquor probe.

Only after one of the most thrilling chases in which Provincial officers in this district have participated in years were his alleged assailants captured, overpowered and placed under arrest by Provincial Officers R. S. Scott, Thomas Richardson and William Sproule, all of Toronto, and brought to London. They are being held in the county jail, charged with assault.

They are Donald McKinnon, aged 24; John McKinnon, aged 25, and Harry McKinnon, aged 29, all of Parkhill. The men are brothers and alleged by police to be the source of a huge contraband liquor supply. They will appear in county police court this morning, and a still more serious charged is expected.

WOMAN BREAKS PHONE.

LONDON, August 6.—United Press.—Her patience tried after failure to secure the correct number at a telephone pay station here a woman took the receiver and smashed the instrument beyond further use.

She was fined $10 and ordered to pay $2.50 for a new telephone. She plead that she had merely tapped the instrument to call the operator, and that it fell to pieces.

CORONER'S JURY NAMES D'ANGELO AS RESPONSIBLE

Finds That George Gill Died From Alcohol Supplied By D'Angelo.

MANY WITNESSES.

OAKVILLE, Augx. 7. —Bert d' Angelo, the Hamilton fruit peddler and alleged purveyor of the wood alcohol which a few weeks ago marked its trail of death throughout the Province, was last night named by a Coroner's Jury as the man responsible for the death of George Gill of the Seventh Line.

Based on "Confession."

The jury was out twenty minutes the verdict which it brought in read that George Gill had come to his death on July 23 by consuming wood alcohol. "We also find," it continued, "that the said wood alcohol was purrhased from Bert d'Angelo of Hamilton. We make this finding from d'Angelo's confession to Detective Crocker of Hamilton that he 'delivered two one-gallon cans of alhohol to the late George Gill."

In his instructions to the jury, Coroner T. W. Peart of Burlington stated that it was plain from the evidence of Mrs. E.P. Soanes and J. P. Savage that Gill had died of alcoholic poisoning and from the testimony of other witnesses that he had been in the habit of purchasing liquor. Those, who sold this liquor, he continued, were unpatriotic and did not hesitate to break the laws.

To Fix Responsibility.

"It is your duty tonight, from the evidence that you have heard to place the responsiblty, if you can for the death of this man," he said.

Nineteen witnesses were examined. Crown Attorney W. I. Dick of Milton, who acted for the Crown, extended to them all the protection of the court, so far as their evidence was concerned.

The Council -Chamber was filled with spectators and because increasingly close as the inquest went on. Several of the jurymen sat through out the evening in their shirt sleeves.

Tells of Conditions.

Dr. W. M. Wilkinson, the first witness, stated that when he was first called to Gill on Friday night Juy 2, the latter was seated on the veranda. His body was cold and covered with a clammy perspiration. and the pupils of his eyes were somewhat dilated. Gill had died a few hours later—at 10 o'clock—when Dr. J. P. Savage was also present.

"From the symptoms, you think it was poisoning" asked Crown Attorney Dick. "Yes."

Gill had lived alone, said the doctor, and so far as he knew, had been found by one of his brothers lying on the floor of his shack on the Seventh Line.

Chief of Police David Kerr, called to the stand stated that he had found five samples of the alleged bootleg liquor in and about Gill's house.

Wood Alcohol Found.

Professor L. J. Rogers, the analyst, who testified later declared that two of these samples found in the yard analyzed from 90 to 95 per cent. wood alcohol, and one other found in the same place contained 30 per cent. wood alcohol The single sample found in house had no wood alcohol in it.

Gill's stomach continued witness, had shown a trace of wood alcohol and about 1-15 ounce of gram alcohol. "The detection of wood alcohol would indcate that as the cause of the man's death,' 'asserted the professor.

EASIER DIVORCE FOR GERMANS

Law Before Reichstag Allows New Cause For Separation.

MAKES IT CHEAPER.

By FREDERICK KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, August 7. — (United Press)—A huge increase in divorces is expected in Germany, if the Reichstag, at its next session, passes the Socialists' amendment to the divorce law.

Hitherto, marital infidelity has been virtually the only effective grounds for divorce in this country. The Socialists now demand that husband and wife may be divorced "if their marital relations are such as either party or both parties cannot reasonably be expected to continue them." Legal experts interpret this proposal as going much farther than the American "incompatibility of temperament" provision.

If passed, the amendment will put prosperous Germans of both sexes, now doing a thriving busines as corespondents, completely out of business. Oddly enough, German law stipulates that no husband or wife may marry the corespondent in his or her divorce suit. If Hans Schmidt succeeds in divorcing his wife, Gretchen, after naming Ludwig Schultz as co-respondent, Gretchen is forbidden to marry Ludwig. The same "verboten" applies to a lady co-respondent.

As a result of this law, it has been customary in Germany for an unhappy spouse to pay substantial sums to a third party in return for his prospective services as co-respondent. Thousands of men and women enjoyed prosperous times as a consequence of payments received for "being seen under compromising circumstances" in a hotel or summer resort with the husband or wife of the future divorcee.

The Socialist amendment also proposes that the decree shall name neither husband nor wife as the "guilty party." The sole condition for a divorce, under this amendment, would be that husband and wife come to an agreement regarding the disposition and allocation of any children born of the union.

Professional purveyors of such "guilt" are alarmed and enraged at this bill. But thousands of couples straining at the powerful chains of matrimony, are eagerly awaiting its appearance on the statute books. The bills passage would not only render divorce in Germany easy, but also make it a cheap luxury.

Chrysler Alone Offers Standardized Quality

An important new principal, assuring unsurpassed Chrysler performance to the buyer of any Chrysler car

For, at one step, it eliminates "purchaser's risk" .... ends the buyer's doubts and fears as to quality .... makes possible the purchase of either the lowest-priced or the highest-priced Chrysler with positive knowledge that the quality is equally assured and the value is supreme in its class.

Leading manufacturers have been striving for years to achieve this absolute evenness of quality.

An Unique Achievement

But Chrysler alone has achieved it ... translated it into fact by an extraordinarily complete coordination of engineering and manufacturing resources. Chrysler standardization of quality goes back to the sources of raw material; it governs the very minutest operation; it makes certain that every unit is produced with the finest precision standards under the most rigid inspection; it even moulds the manufacture of accessories.

Of course, Chrysler models to meet the four great quality markets differ, in price, in size of chassis, in richness of appointments, in speed and power—the model numbers representing miles per hour—but all are basically the same in rigid adherence to the same law of quality.

Advantages for the Buyer

Obviously, cars bearing one name .... built by one organization .... under one all-embracing system of standardized quality manufacture .... must be essentially fine to a degree beyond comparison with other cars made under ordinary methods.

This most important of Chrysler advantages insures the superior and uniform quality which is the foundation of superior performance, dependability, comfort, economy and long life in every Chrysler.

That each Chrysler, because of standardized quality, is far ahead of any car near its price ... in quality of construction and quality of performance .... you can easily verify by comparative demonstration. Hundreds of thousands of Chrysler owners know this superiority to be a fact. We invite you to prove these superiorities of standardized quality for yourself.

CHRYSLER "70" — Phaeton $2075, Coach $2075, Roadster $2235, Royal Coupe $2510, Brougham $2580, Sedan $2295, Royal Sedan $2655, Crown Sedan $2800.

PLAY GROUND OPENS MONDAY

Kiwanis Club Has Put Equipment Near James Stevenson Park.

SPLENDID SITE.

The children of Ashburham will have a playground of their own as a result of the actvities of the local Kiwanis club. Last year the club petitioned the Council for a piece of ground for this purpose and renewed its request this year with the result that the City Council has fixed up the portion west of the steps leading to the James Stevenson park. The spot makes an ideal location for such a place as it is removed from traffic and thus prevents any possibility of accidents.

The Kiwanis Club is supplying all the equipment necessary and already have installed a slide for the smaller children in addition to a "giant stride" for those who wish to use it.

City Engineer R. H. Parsons has had his men at work preparing concrete bases for the equipment and getting the ground into condition generally.

The grounds will be thrown open to the public on Civic Holiday.

RAIN DAMAGES STANDING GRAIN

Heavy Fall Last Night Also Harmful To Fruit Crops.

WESTERN ONTARIO.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press). — Considerable damage to the standing crops was done by an electric storm and heavy rainfall over western and central Ontario, last night. The rain, however was of much benefit to root crops. High wind and much lightning accompanied the downpour.

The standing wheat, oats and barley crops and the fruit crops in the Niagara Peninsula are reported to have suffered most.

PARLIAMENT CAN'T MAKE PEOPLE GOOD

Drink Bad, But Prohibition Worse, Says English Scholars.

LONDON (United Press).—Acts of Parliament cannot make people good.

This opinion was expresesd through a questionnaire on the drink problem in England, sent out by the Liberal Summer Schools, a semi-political organization, and answered by more than 800 associations and groups of various sorts.

Discussing prohibition of liquor sales, the response to the questionnaires showed a considerable sentiment supporting the criticism that prohibition creates new crimes of a sort easy to commit and tempting. This social harm done the state by creating new crimes, together with the hopelessnes of making people good by Acts of Parliament, were emphasized as objectionable to prohibition.

The questionnaires, however, expressed the opinion that the absolute effects of drinking are considerable and that workers who do not drink are more efficient than those who do.

"But as to the relative effects upon productive efficiency of drinking, and of the creation of unrest by forcibly regulating the consumption of drink, it is harder to judge," continued the report in which the answers to the questionnaire were compiled.

"It will be remembered that some of the committee which inquired into industrial unrest during the war attached importance to the evil effects of the restriction of beer."

The drain on the national income resulting from the drink habit, the answers showed, is out of proportion to its value and "perhaps constitutes the most serious argument against it."

The report concludes that "the total prohibition of alcoholic drinks of more than a prescribed strength is to be recommended." No effort was made to discover the alcoholic strength favored by the groups answering the questionnaire.

Earl Grey of Falloden, Ramsey Muir and Philip Guedalla were among the speakers at the session of the Liberal Summer Schools at which the answers to questionnaires on six national problems were discussed.

WOMEN GEOLOGISTS TOUR.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(Associated Press).—A dozen girl graduates under the leadership of Dr. Margaret Fuller of the Geology Department of Northwestern University, are making a summer field trip to study the rock formations of Glacier National Park this summer. One man, husband of one of the students, accompanies the group.

KING ATTACKS NEW MINISTRY

Every Member "Political Buccaneer," He Says at Rosthern.

NOW ON JOY RIDE.

ROSTHERN, Sask., August 7. —Canadian Press. — A sweeping attack was launched at the administration by Hon. Mackenzie King here last night of the ministry. He said: "Every one is a political buccaneer. They seized the ship of state, and after throwing all the members of Parliament and the senators overboard by closing the doors, started on a joy ride through the country at the people's expense."

"Thursday night," Mr. King went on, an ex-member of Parliament made a serious charge against a large part of the civil service, but he has made a serious mistake in making a charge he cannot prove."

HURRICANE VISITS NEW YORK STATE

Trees and Wires Blown Down—Lightning Causes Fires.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Lightning of unusual intensity, a record-breaking rainfall, and a miniature cyclone struck central New York last night, leaving the roads strewn with wreckage, tangled electric wires, trees, and the charred ruins of more than one building. Streets in this city were made impassable by raging torrents of water.

ROYAL TOMBS TO BE OPENED

Archaeologist Contracted To Investigate Contents of Holyrood Graves.

TO LEARN HISTORY.

EDINBURGH (United Press).—Some of Englands most remarkable history will be revived shortly when the Royal Tombs at Holyrood are opened.

R. T. Skinner, London archaeologist,h as contracted to investigate the tombs and catalogue the contents. He is expected to begin work at an early date.

In general interest the royal vault in Holyrood has no parallel in England. Among those buried there is Darnley, the ill-fated husband of Mary Stuart. Close to this is the grave of the Countess of Argyle, one of the witnesses of Rizzio's murder. The casket containing the remains of the Countess is one of the most remarkable ever made in Scotland—part of it is solid gold.

When the casket was opened some time ago, it was found that the head of the Countess had been sawn in two. According to one theory, the head was opened to learn the cause of death.

The body of the unhappy David Rizzio, once the court favorite of Mary Queen of Scots and later prime minister, rested for many decades a few feet from the miscreant mainly responsible for his end. A later king, however, had the bones removed and they have not since been located.

Quen Victoria, during her reign, had the tombs completely renovated, but new history is expected when they are opened again.

BARN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

IMPLEMENTS SAVED.

Peteherick's Corners, August 7. —Lightning struck the frame barn of Thomas Fry, on the 11th concession of Seymour, about 11 o'clock last night, and burnt it to the ground. The barn was 30 x 50 ft., with an L adition. The season's crop of hay was lost, and 16 hogs. The implements were got out of the barn. The fire burning the fresh hay made a very dense smok for hours.

FORMER FAME HIDDEN BY TITLE

British Statesmen Lose Some of Identity as Peers.

LONDON, Aug. 7—(Canadian Press).—British public men need some sort of Lucy Stone League to protect them against losing the glory of their early careers when they are converted into peers and assume a lordly title.

Lord Oxford and Asquith is an example. As plain "Mr. Asquith" he was known to everyone in the Empire. As Premier he had the greatest glory which can come to a British subject. All other Asquiths and Askwiths took a back seat for the Premier.

"Lord Oxford" Small Identity.

But when plain Mr. Asquith was no longer able to withstand the blandishments of a peerage and became Lord Oxford and Asquith, he began to slip. By degrees the Asquith was lost in the newspapers and he became merely Lord Oxford.

The name suggests the university, or the dictionary.

That put him into the class with hundreds of lords who are merely lords by virtue of birth, because they have given liberally to charities or distinguished themselves by public service. Also it robbed him of the right to sit in the House of Commons, and sitting in the House of Lords is a thankless task.

Lloyd George Avoids Peerage.

Lloyd George has avoided a peerage. He realizes that the House of Commons is the forum which is really important. Consequently he held an advantage over Lord Oxford and Asquith in the struggle they were having for supremacy in the Liberal party.

Lord Birkenhead is another who took a chance when he accepted a peerage. He had been Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, and was ranked as one of Great Britain's ablest legal lights.

Staggering under the plebian name of F. E. Smith, he managed to lend brilliancy even to that name but when a peerage was tendered he assumed the more high-sounding title of Lord Birkenhead. By attacks on what he described as the stupidity and inactivity of the House of Lords membership, however, he has kept himself in the limelight through suggestions for its reform.

William E. Gladstone did not accept a peerage. He saw danger to a Liberal politician in the assumption of the hobbies which membership in the House of Lords carries with it. Arthur Balfour declined to become a peer for many years and as plain Mr. Balfour became one of Britain's greatest diplomatists.

Must Have Publicity.

The great majority of old peerages are held by men known only to readers of Burke's Peerage and of the social and sporting columns of prominent British newspapers. A Lord is on the defensive, and must show great ability to attract attention from the general public, and gain space in the press. Ramsay MacDonald and Lloyd George hold universal fame, but their light might be put under a bushel were they to become peers and assume some high-sounding name which not readily associated itself with their activities as Premiers and party leaders.

WATER BARROW MEN ON STRIKE

Chinese Protest Against Laying of Water Mains in Peking.

LAY COMPLAINTS.

By RANDALL GOULD.

PEKING, Aug. 7.—(United Press). — For centuries past the narrow hut'ungs of Peking have rung to the grinding screech of the ungreased barrow which, for a sum equivalent to an American cent and a half per three buckets, brought cool well water to the Chinese householder.

But today the lanes are silent, and thirsty would-be customers stand in their scarlet doorways and jingle coppers in their palms without result.

The waterbarrow men are on strike.

For months there has been a half-concealed warfare between the barrow men and the layers of water-pipe through Peking streets. It has found expression in occasional quarrels and fights, but there has been no concerted action. Now, following a definite attempt by the Water Carriers' Guild to prevent a merchant from laying the hated water-pipes to his shop, open combat has resulted; three water carriers are in jail; several waterworks employees are in hospital, and the strike is on.

Simultaneous with declaration of the general water carriers' strike, the guild laid a series of complaints before the police and the Municipal Council. It was declared that the company should be disenfranchised and all water should be taken from wells and brought by barrow. Company water was not good water, it was argued. Also, it was pointed out the company may some day stop supplying water due to the coal shortage caused by civil war around Peking.

All indications point to failure for the barrow men. The authorities have ordered a medical examination of the company's water, but they have likewise voiced high indignation at the presumptuous barrow men's action in daring to strike, and police have been ordered to compel the water barrows to squeak their rounds as of yore to serve such old-fashioned folk as prefer not to patronize the company's new pipelines.

DECLARES AGAINST DOMINION STATUS

Equality of Dominions To Other Country Exists Only in Theory.

DE AAR, Cape Colony, Aug. 7. —(Canadian Press). — Hon. F. W. Beyers, minister of mines, in a long speech here yesterday on the constitutional question said that at present the equal status of the Dominions with other countries existed only in theory. It was desirable, he said, to put the matter in definite form and have a declaration which would make it clear that each of the dominions forming the British Commonwealth should be on an equal footing with Great Britain and all the world. He said this was the only sure means of binding the different units of the British Commonwealth together for all time.

The minister of mines dealt with three matters which he regarded as desirable. The first was with regard to the appointment of the governor-general, he said, should be appointed by the government of the dominion itself, his appointment being subject only to the King's approval.

The second change desired, Mr. Beyers said, was that the appointment by foreign powers of consuls to the different dominions should be first approved by the governments of the dominions concerned, and then sanctioned by the King direct.

The third change desired was that each dominion should have direct communication with the King through its governor-general, instead of through the secretary of state for the dominions.

SHE IS NOW DAME KENDAL.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(Associated Press).—Mrs. Madge Kendal, who has been made a Dame of the British Empire and will hereafter be known as Dame Madge Kendal, was a favorite with theatre-goers in the United States during the late Eighties, when she toured there with her husband, W. H. Kendal, in "A Scrap of Paper," "Marriage" and many other plays with which she and her husband were identified in England.

Dame Madge Kendal was born of theatrical parents and first appeared on the British stage in 1854. In more than sixty years of acting she has played nearly every female part in Shakespeare and the other English classical plays, as well as countless modern roles. Mrs. Kendal made her last stage appearance fifteen years ago, but is still very active as a speaker and philanthropic worker.

INDIAN MARRIAGE IS USUALLY HAPPY

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(United Press).—In each thousand marriages in India, 999 are happy, according to Prince Rai Godalpas, prominent in the Punjab, here after a trip to Copenhagen where he performed a special religious rite under the "midnight sun."

"The marriages in India are almost always happy because the Indian woman always sees her master in her husband," he explained. "Here in Europe women are too dominating, too much at the front. In India the opposite is the case. Our women are stronger than the women of the West in the sense of morals and belief. The moral doctrines of the West are all right, but the question is, do the people stick to them in their daily life?"

The special religious rite which Prince Rai Godalpas travelled from India to the Arctic Circle to perform, took place on shipboard under the "midnight sun" and was watched by Lord and Lady Ullswater. The Brahmin Jagadish Chatterji accompanied Prince Rai and assisted him. It was necessary that royalty should take part, Prince Rai explained. His studies of Sanscrit enabled him to evolve the ceremony from ancient books.

A similar ceremony was performed long ago by Scandinavians, and he believed the similarity showed a pre-historic link between the two civilizations of India and the northern lands. The present North and South Poles, he believes, were then in different locations, one being in Armenia between the rivers Araxes and Kura, where the Garden of Eden was also located then.

A "terrific catastrophe in the universe of enormous power," as Prince Rai described it, took place and changed the polar sites. He pointed out that flower fossils and ossified animals found in the Polar Zone seem to sustain the theory that the Polar Zone was not always frigid.

The powerful catastrophe which changed the location of the Poles, Prince Rai said, might have been the same described in the Old Testament as the deluge.

The ceremony performed in the Polar Circle will be repeated by Prince Rai and the Brahmin Jagadish Chatterji in Armenia, on the supposed ground of the Garden of Eden. They intend to make their long journey for the religious ceremonia each year.

BUTTERICK 6923

A SLEEVELESS pinafore frock leads the infant class of the Summer school of chic. Chambray in its soft pinks, buffs and blues, pin-check gingham in grass green and white bound off with flax-blue bias-fold tape, silk or cotton pongees in the new pastel shades of rose, lilac and porcelain blue, challis prints in prim flower patterns will take the small girl to the country or the beach. With bloomers below and not much more than the frock above, sandals and no socks, not even a hair ribbon on our shingle, it doesn't much matter if the garden hose turns the wrong way or a wicked wave creeps up on one unawares. Dressed for afternoon in pin-dot swiss is another story.

The Silhouette of Moderate Line

Floral patterns are especially modish in the new printed materials, and the simplicity of this attractive design lends itself to the development of this graceful afternoon frock of interesting cut. The back is straight and slender, while the front displays the jumper effect. There are two rows of fine shirrings at each shoulder, and the right front is cut with a jabot and fastens over the left with large buttons. A group of shirrings at each side of the skirt front contribute extra fulness, and the long full sleeves are shirred to fit the wrists and finished with a narrow cuff. No. 1282 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3¾ yards 39-inch, or 3 yards 54-inch material. Price 20 cents.

Every woman's desire is to achieve that smart different appearance which draws favorable comment from the observing public. The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are originated in the heart of the style centers and will help you to acquire that much desired air of individuality. KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarhoea, dysentry, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1926.

The moon is read as helpful to many human ambitions its influences being stimulating and harmonizing.

Again women are subject to the best direction and the seers declare that they are to accept great national responsibilities.

In reform and in philanthropic movements women are to lead through great campaign s for which they have organized as it for unimportant matters for they are to be directed without realization of their possible ultimate achievements it is prophesied.

All lovers should benefit from this sway, which quickens sentiment and at the same time permits common sense to prevail.

The west is to progress tremendously in many cultural interests, for originality, is to mark achievements in the newer states, the seers forecast.

Jupiter gives encouragement to men of heavy financial interests and banks will profit greatly.

Great manufacturing enterprises are to be prominent, owing to an exigent demand for their products.

Lawyers as well as heads of big corporations are subject to the best plaentary influences at this time.

In the coming months there will be a decided trend toward the centralization of business interests not already part of combinations of capital, it is foretold.

New mineral discoveries are to give impetus to surveyors and assayers this month, it is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be exceedingly cautious about all changes or investments in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be endowed with nobility of spirit and great ambitions. Many of them may develop mechanical talents.

Contrary stars exercise influences over human destinies today, according to astrology, which finds that it is wise to avoid unnecessary mental activity while the configuration prevails.

Women still appear to be especially well directed by the stars and it is safe to say that a national project of importance soon will be launched.

Religious controversies may be widespread, but women will be little involved in them.

Women will become leaders and teachers of cults, creeds and philosophies, but they will not indulge in serious dissensions with those of differing ideas, it is forecast. Men who are less religious than women, at least in outward observances are to organize to defend antagonistic faiths, the seers prophesy.

There is a sign indicating much public religious pageantry as well as the spreading of secret organizing, astrologers declare.

Indian, Argentine and Japan are now under a planetary government which should bring prosperity as well as many anxieties.

International interest is to be aroused by a series of forgeries which affect securities as well as bank notes or bonds.

Serious complications among the European powers may mark the next few weeks, Great Britain and Japan are to have harmonious understanding and to co-operate in an important international demand, it is prognosticated.

When the autumn ingress takes place, September 23, the rising position of Uranus and Mars may greatly disturb the United States.

Political corruption is to be uncovered in many states in the east where sensational events will be recorded.

Persons whose birthdate it is may meet decided changes in the coming year and they should have all their affairs in good order, so as to profit.

Children born on this day may have lived marked by unusual experiences. These subjects of Leo are usually able to carve fame for themselves.

OLD AUTOS NOW ON EXHIBIT

At the South Kensington science museum in London a permanent exhibit of tht first automobilgs and motorcycles is attracting crowds of curious visitors. Gypsy Picnics

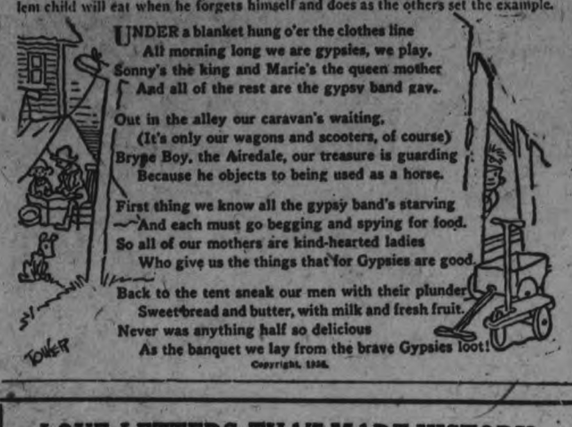
By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

SOME WAY, food tastes so good outdoors, and since it does why not capitalize the fact, especially for the child who doesn't eat heartily? During the summer let the children eat outdoors all you can. It isn't necessary to always go away for a picnic. Give them a tray and let them play in the yard while they eat in company with other children. Just shut your eyes and let them relax from the etiquette of the in-doors table. Perhaps it's the denial of the "peck o' dirt" old mothers declared children had to eat, which is affecting the modern child's appetite. At any rate it will make you happy to see how many sandwiches that problem child will eat when he forgets himself and does as the others set the example.



UNDER a blanket hung o'er the clothes line
All morning long we are gypsies, we play.
Sonny's the king and Marie's the queen mother
And all of the rest are the gypsy band gay.

Out in the alley our caravan's waiting,
Bryce Boy, the Airedale, our treasure is guarding
Because he objects to being used as a horse.

First thing we know all the gypsy band's starving
—And each must go begging and spying for food.
So all of our mothers are kind-hearted ladies
Who give us the things that for Gypsies are good.

Sweetbread and butter, with milk and fresh fruit.
Never was anything half so delicious
As the banquet we lay from the brave Gypsies loot!

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)
HENRI IV. AND MME. DE LEANCOURT.

Henri IV. of France was married to the beautiful Marguerite de Valois. He was a handsome, brave, clever and popular man. Between the couple there was sympathy and understanding but that was as far as their relations Theirs was a marriage of convenience.

Both Henri and "Margot" took in the situation calmly and sought love elsewhere. Among the others in whose embraces Henry found ease from the turbulent state affairs of his time, was Madame de Leancourt. Some of his letters to this lady are preserved and show an elegant grace, in keeping with his personality. Here is one of them:

"My Beautiful Love—Two hours after the arrival of this messenger you will see a cavalier who loves you very much; they call him the king of France and of Navarre, an honorable title, certainly, but very troublesome—that of your subject is more delightful; the three together are good for any sauce and I am resolved to give them up to no one. (This 12th of September, from our delicious desert of Fontainbleau.)"

Henry of Navarre was one of the leaders who established Protestantism. He was originally a Protestant but when he married Marguerite he was forced to change his belief for Catholicism. It was at this time that the terrible massacre of St. Bartholomew's Eve took place when thousands of French Protestants were butchered on the streets and in their homes. Henri shook off the faith he had adopted as soon as he was able. He then became the head of the Hugueonots and his activities have become celebrated in story, play and opera. Like many another great ruler, Henri IV. died a martyr, assassinated by a madman.

RETAIN YOUR VIGOR.

This Can Only Be Done By Keeping the Blood Rich and Red.

If you would regain your vigor and ambition, keep your blood and nerves in good condition. Anaemia, or thin blood lowers the vitality, starves the nerves and causes a general run-down condition. When the blood is thin the skin loses its color, the shoulders droop and weight is lost. The victim of anaemia loses appetite, suffers from indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness, and is nervous and exhausted after slight exertion. If you have any of these symptoms do not delay but begin treatment now with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will be gratified with the prompt improvement in your condition. Among the thousands who have found new health through the use of this medicine is Mrs. Herbert Nagle, Ludlow, N.B., who says:—"I had not been feeling well for some time and was gradually growing weaker. I would take dizzy spells and often faint. I was subject to severe headaches and found it hard to do my work. I took doctor's medicine for some time, but it did me no good, and I was still growing weaker. In this condition I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a short time found they were helping me. I continued the use of the pills for a while longer, and found that the trouble that had bothered me was gone and I was once more a well woman."

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at your druggist's or write The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The coral is today's talismanic stone. To wear it is to insure recovery from illness. Indeed, the ancients believed that those who wore a coral could not contract a sickness, since this gem had the power to give modily strength and increase resistance against contagion.

The emerald is today's natal gem. Though belonging to Venus, by some queer contradiction it is an enemy to sentiment. It bestows upon those whose birth anniversary it is extraordinary clarity of vision.

Black is the lucky color for today.

Mignonette is the flower chosen for this date.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

CORDELIA.

Charming in its translation is Cordelia, jewel of the sea. Its origin is purely Keltic and it is not derived from cor, meaning heart, nor is it the feminine of Cordeleo, lion heart, as is generally supposed. The first form in which it appears is the appalling and much syllabled Creirdyddlydd, which was derived from Crair, the Keltic word for token, the sacred article on which man makes oath, hence jewel.

Creirdyddlydd was a creation of ancient Welsh poetry, once mythical, and was the daughter of the sea, who went by the name of Llyr. Geoffrey of Monmouth took the story and, making the eleventh of the kings descended from Brute, to be called Leir and to live at Leircester, in the time of Elisha the prophet, laid the foundation for the later exquisite story of filial devotion presented by Shakespeare in his "King Lear."

Geoffrey of Monmouth gave the name of Cordelia to the reserved but faithful of Leir's daughters, who refused to pay lip service, but none the less, redeemed her father's kingdom when he was exiled and misused by her flattering sisters. According to his story, Leir was buried by Cordeilla in a vault made under the river, Lore and she was later dethroned by her nephews and committed suicide in despair.

Spenser adheres to this story, but Shakespeare's sweet Cordelia is spared self-destruction. Cordula is another form of the name, but we cannot be certain that it was meant to indicate the same origin. It appears on Welsh and German church calendars, where Cordula day is set down for the twenty-second of October as one of 11,000 virgins, her feast following that of St. Ursula.

Amber is Cordelia's talismanic gem. It is said to ward off illness and the jinx of bad luck. Through its mystic association with the sea, it insures a safe voyage to travelers. Friday is Cordelia's lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

EXERCISE, IS DANCER'S TIP.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—(Associated Press).—Karsavina, the ballerina who heads the Diaghileff Russian Ballet which is having a long season in London, says strict diet is really not essential to keep a dancer in trim. The secret of perfect condition, in her opinion, is constant and vigorous exercise.

Karsavina and her associates rise at 7 a.m. and have two hours of vigorous exercise before they begin rehearsals.

"The secret of perfect physical condition is to stick faithfully to exercise," declared Karsavina. "When one begins to exercise there must be no slacking, however off color or disinclined one may feel."

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT.
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. — United Press).— Before taking advantage of the August fur sales, it is well to familiarize one self with wearing qualities of different pelts. As we all know, the cost of a fur coat has nothing to do with its wearing qualities, since many inexpensive furs out last more expensive ones. For general durability nothing can equal Alaskan seal, American mink racoon, skunk, beaver, Kolinsky Hudson seal, krimmer or Russian sable.

The woman who possesses two fur coats may choose one of the following pelts which are suitable for light wear: fox, squirrel, caracul, American broadtail, silver muskrat or ermine. Even less durable tha these are mole. chinchilla and chipmunk.

For sports wear leopard, racoon, muskrat, civet cat, oppossum and pony are very successful since they wear well and do not spoil with rain.

One has much to consider when selecting suitable furs for Winter. When buying the fur coat in August one is apt to choose a fur regardless of its warmth. Aside from warmth and utility, one must select a fur which corresponds with one's size and figure. A tall, slender woman can wear long-haired furs such as skunk, fitch badger, racoon, fox, etc., where as a short, plump woman finds short-haired furs more flattering. Among popular short-haired pelts are seal, mink, squirrel, mole, ermine flat cararcul and kolnsky.

Women wear furs so generally these days that it becomes quite customary to purchase a new coat every few seasons. The essential coat comes first and it must be one which is chosen for durability. The business girl or the school girl prefers a sport coat, whereas the average matron chooses seal or mink as her utility garment. The second coat may be one chosen for dressier wear and since this is alternated with the utility coat, it wears several seasons. Squirrel, dyed fitch, caracul, ermine and broadtail are suggested for light wear. Natural ermine is the popular Winter evening wrap with white rabbit — sometimes called "cony," being its clever imitator.

WOMEN SMOKERS AFFLICTED

Dr. Herman Prinz, professor of therapeutics at the University of Pennsylvania, says that in some parts of the Orient where women smoke more even than the men do, they are great sufferers from cancer of the mouth. Fifty per cent of the cases of cancer of the mouth he maintains is caused by the use of tobacco.

NEW CREAMERY BUILDING OPENS

NORWOOD, Aug. 7.—The new creamery built during the summer by Walter Bitten to replace the one burned about a year ago, was opened for business this week. The first print of butter manufactured in the new building was made on Wednesday.

The building, which is a two-storey structure, is built of cement blocks and has a fireproof roof. It is situated on Peterborough street, on the lot just west of the railway crossing, and is easy of access to patrons and for shipping facilities.

The interior of the butter making rooms are spotless, the walls being of a white granite composition, and the floors of white cement, with an incline to permit of hosing them off. The boiler room, with a 22 inch wall around it, is fireproof. The test room is also done in white, and next to it is the large refrigerator. This is lined with four inches of cork for insulation and insures a very even temperature. A large ice chamber, with a capacity of 500 blocks of ice, adjoins the refirgerator. At the front of the building, next the street, a well lighted office room is provided. Electric lights are installed throughout and an electric motor furnishes the power.

On the second floor is situated buttermilk and water tanks, giving feed by pipes to the outlets below. It is roomy and well lighted and provides ample space for storage of all supplies and also provisions for living apartments if desired.

The creamery is a great addition to Norwood and with the improved facilities, Mr. Bitten, who is an expert butter maker, should be able to build up an extensive business.

The new plant will be capable of turning out at least 3,00 pounds of butter per day and as there is a keen demand for Norwood creamery butter, Mr. Bitten is practically assured of an increased output of his manufacture.

LEAGUE MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Devotional Department Is In Charge of Programme This Week.

RESORT POPULAR.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Aug. 7.—The league meeting on Monday evening was again well attended, seventy being present. The programme was in charge of the leader of the Devotional Committee, Thomas Fry. Rev. Mr. Daniel led an interesting and instructive discussion on the stewardship of money. A solo by Fred Barnum, readings by Miss Agnes Thompson and Mrs. Fred Barnum and a devotional talk by Thomas Fry were other items on the programme. At the next meeting the totals to date of the attendance contest will be announced.

After the league meeting a short business meeting of the congregation was held to make arrangements for the social on August 12.

Personals.

Mrs. Lorne Barnum is a patient in Belleville hospital, having undergone an operation.

The Seymour road gang is busy this week repairing the road from Campbellford to Crow River. This road has become a very popular one with motorists since W. J. Dalgleish has established his well-known picnic grounds and summer camp. Mr. Dalgleish reports splendid success with his new venture this season, the business done being more than double that of last year. It is quite common for three or four picnics to be held there each week and often more than one on a day. The Campbellford public, as well as those from other towns, have discovered the advantages of this convenient resort and flock in ever-increasing numbers to enjoy their outings here. Mr. Dalgleish is a splendid manager and is always ready to lend a helping hand. It is no uncommon sight to see him helping some unlucky motorist repair a tire, while he is always on hand to assist at the races and look after the safety of those around the river. His family lives there for the summer and takes charge of the refreshment booth.

NORTHERN ONTARIO TOUR OPEN TO ALL.

A wonderful Tour of Northern Ontario has been planned by the Association of Canadian Clubs and to be run subsequent to their Annual Convention to be held at Ottawa during September this year. While primarily organized for Canadian Club members, all others who care to join this splendid trip will be most heartily welcomed. The Tour is designed to be interesting, entertaining and instructive and will occupy approximately the full week from the evening of September 10th to Saturday morning, September 18th. The tour proper commences at Ottawa and is completed upon arrival at Toronto. Arrangements can be made, however, which will enable parties not wishing to make the entire trip to join the train or leave it at other more convenient points, e.g., at Sudbury on the going journey or North Bay returning. Suitable entertainment is being provided en route and the north country will live up to its established reputation for hospitality. The gold, silver and nickle mines will be visited as well as a splendid opportunity afforded for seeing at first hand the unique development of Northern Ontario and its resources. Descriptive booklet giving full details of tour, itinerary and complete cost of trip can be had from any Agent of Canadian National Railways.

MacINTOSH HONEYMOON

EDINBURGH, Aug. 7.—Constance Talmadge and her Scotch husband, Captain Alistair Macintosh, are making an automobile tour of Scotland, which will last nearly two months.

This is Miss Talmadge's first visit to Scotland which is a delayed honeymoon.

WARSAW NEWS

WARSAW, Aug. 7.—Fred Clifford has lost several sheep. Evidently sheep-killing dogs have been at work.

The bridge near Dr. Munro's is completed. It will take a few days yet to fill in the approaches.

The rain was much needed, and the gentle, soaking rain was just the kind to do good. There is a lot of short grain in the country, but the rain will lengthen it, and help fill the berries. Even those who had planned to get in hay were glad to see the rain.

Huckleberry picking seems to be the order of the day. Pickers report success. Some think the berries will be better in two or three weeks.

The Women's Institute will hold its picnic on Thursday afternoon, August 12, in George Tucker's grove. All in any way interested in the Institute are cordially invited, and any others who would like to spend a pleasant afternoon. This picnic is being held on the regular Institute day, and there is no admission charge. There will be amusements of various kinds, and the Warsaw softball team will play some other team.

Girls, or young married women under twenty-six years of age, are urged to remember the class for coaching in 'Good Taste in Dress' on Tuesday afternoon, August 10th. This class is open and free to all, of proper age, and will be held in the Institute rooms.

Mr. Allan Hendren was home from Toronto for the week end.

Miss Burry from Port Hope, spent the week end with Mrs. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston and son from Toronto, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Calder.

Mrs. Churchill, of California, cousin of Alex and Charles Calder, and Mrs. Ira McConnell, of Saginaw, Mich., are visiting their sister and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. David Rose (nee Miss Molly Lumsden) spent a few days last week with Mr. John Rose, and visited old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Batten arrived home on Saturday evening after spending about two and a half weeks motoring, visiting and sightseeing in the northern and western part of old Ontario.

Misses Laura and Jean Bowen returned from their holiday in Toronto on Saturday. On Sunday they motored to Belleville.

Miss Jean Munro and Master Kenyon, Choate were successful in passing the introductory piano examinations of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. They are pupils of Prof. Gliddon, of Peterborough Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. Pollock and child are visiting Mrs. Pollock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Batten.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Selkirk, also Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Selkirk were in the village on Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Sinclair and children are visiting Mrs. Sinclair's mother.

STONEY LAKE NEWS

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 7.—The "special events regatta" will be held on Saturday afternoon at Juniper Island. This will include all the sailing events, viz.: canoe sailing, dinghy sailing and open sailing and the one and two cylinder outboard motor boat races. This year Mr. Gordon K. Fraser has presented a handsome trophy for the dinghy sailing for 14-foot boats.

The paddle around Juniper for the Gordon Grahame cup brings out a good entry list. It is a test of endurance, speed and skill in making the trip by taking all the available short cuts. There are several places where a skilled canoeist can paddle the course and play the game but can make a safe passage among the shores on the south east end of the island. In other years the little buoys on the west side of the island have proved the undoing of the unwary who imagined that they marked the beginning of the channel.

Last year a handsome trophy was presented by Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser for a long distance swim, starting at Lech's Island and ending at Juniper. Last year Don Fitzgeraldof Lakefield was the winner.

A familiar figure is missing from the lake this year, in the person of Mr. Levi Payne, who was for many years one of the most indefatigable fishermen. Although well over eighty years of age he never forsook his canoe as a fishing craft, paddling with ease and dexterity. Few young fellows paddle better than this veteran who probably held the record for lunge on the lake. During the past year he and his wife have crossed the great divide and "Baynesboro,' their cottage at Hurrican Point, knows them no more but happy memories remain of the genial old couple who always had a kind word for every one on the lake.

STERLING EXCHANGE

Sterling demand $4.85.

Sterling cables $4.85 1-2.

THERE IS NO SATURATION POINT FOR HONEST VALUE

Build a product that the world needs, better than the world expects, and mounting sales will answer those who are constantly predicting a saturated market.

During the first six months of this year, for instance, Dodge Brothers (Canada) Limited, sold and delivered to customers 79% more motor cars and trucks, than for the same period during 1925. This gain over the first six months of the previous year advances Dodge Brothers (Canada) Limited to an enviable position in the Industry.

For the three weeks ending July 17th, 89% more motor cars and trucks were delivered to customers, than during the same period last year. This increase is impressive evidence that Dodge Brothers great sales gain is continuing through the quiet weeks of mid-summer.

There may be a saturation point for mediocrity, but honest value will always command a great and ever expanding market.

NOT SUICIDE.

SARNIA, August 7. — Near Russell Island, in the St. Clair River, 20 miles south of Sarnia, William Pritchard of Newark, Ohio, jumped overboard from the Steamer Leonard B. Miller, an ore carrier. After floundering in the water with a life preserver on, Pritchard was rescued by Forest Heath, aged 20, a University of Michigan student in a launch with some friends. Nearing the steamer a man was seen to swing from the upper deck and drop into the water unobserved by the deck hands. The launch was turned towards the form struggling in the water, and Heath pulled him out of the water.

Wanted a Vacation.

Pritchard, who was taken to Tashmoo Park by the rescue party, and given dry clothes, said he had engaged as steward's helper on the Leonard B. Miller in order to have a vacation. He made a trip from Huron, O., to Ashland, Wis., and was on his way back with the boat when he decided it was better to struggle with the waters of the St. Clair River than to put up with the strenuous labor of a steward's helper.

So, his story went, he slipped quietly into a life preserver and jumped into the water hoping the current would land him ashore a short distance down the river.

Not Used to Sailors' Talk.

"I was not accustomed to the language of the sailors," Pritchard said. "My boss nagged me and drove me from morning till night. I could not stand it any longer. Things became unbearable and I figured the easiest way out was to swim to shore. I did not see the launch when I jumped but now I am glad that it was near, for the water was so cold. I was nearly chilled when rescued."

SWIMMING FEAT CAUSES DELIGHT

Women Are Specially Pleased—Swimmers Comment on Strokes.

MOTHER CONFIDENT.

PARIS, August 7. Canadian Press. —Gertrude Ederle's feat in swimming the English Channel is greeted with enthusiasm, particularly by women folk. In swimming circles it is considered that Miss Ederle's successful exploit demonstrates beyond all question the superiority of the new styles of swimming, such as the crawl, over the breast stroke, on which most of the Channel aspirants have pinned their faith for success.

Mother was Confident.

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 7. — (United Press.) — "I am the happiest mother in the world," said Mrs. Gertrude Ederle, mother of the first woman to swim the English Channel, at her home here, when informed of her daughter's victory.

"I knew she was going to make it all the time," Mrs. Ederle continued. "She would have made it in faster time if it had not been for the tide."

Ready for Another.

DOVER, August 7. — Canadian Press. — Declaring that she was ready for another swim, Gertrude Ederle, who yesterday swam the Channel in record time, showed no effects of her great feat when she prepared to-day to return to France, crossing this time by steamer.

RICHARDS & ABRA · ARCHTS · OTTAWA · ONT ·

By Richards & Abra, Architects.

Many homes are called semi-bungalows simply because their exterior appearance suggests that the habitable second floor area is not equal to that of the first. Really, with the exception of this rather insignificant detail, they are to all intents and purposes two storey houses absolutely lacking in any form of semblance to bungalows. When one remembers that the chief characteristic of the latter type of home is ground floor bedrooms, the why and wherefore of the application of the term semi-bungalow to any one and a half or two storey houses having all the bedrooms on the second floor is a bit perplexing.

The floor plans for this house show that one of the bedrooms and a bathroom are on the ground floor. There are two more bedrooms and another bathroom on the second floor, so that while the bungalow idea is not quite getting an "even break" it is at least a compromise and one which assures much comfort and convenience.

The foundation of stone or concrete is finished off with a dressed stone course above grade. The walls from the top of this stone course to the cornice line are veneer construction in rug or tapestry brick with white stucco gables. Stained cedar shingles laid on asbestos paper provide an attractive and serviceable roof.

The central entrance opens into a good sized stair hall which gives direct access to the living and dining rooms.

The kitchen is well lighted and laid out for the convenient arrangement of cupboards, refrigerator, etc., and also has convenient and direct access to the front door. Opening off the vestibule is an outside lighted and ventilated coat cupboard.

The living room openson to a good sized verandah, and the ground floor bedroom has conveniently arranged cupboard and bathroom, and is very suitable for the owner's room.

On the first floor the bedrooms are fairly roomy and have good cupboards and ready access to the second bathroom.

There are hardwood floors throughout with good pine finish suitable for paint or enamel.

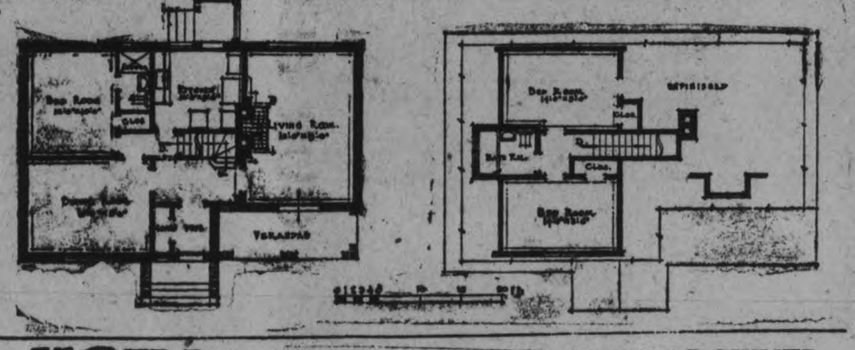
The dimensions of this desirable home are 25 ft. x 41 ft., and, including hot water heating, the approximate cost is $7,500.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architects direct. Address, Messrs. Richards & Abra, 126 Sparks Street, Ottawa, Ont. Copyright, 1926, MacLean Building Reports, Limited.



HOW TO SWIM

by Lillian Cannon

FIRST TWO POSITIONS OF BACK STROKE

From the breast stroke one graduates very easily to the back stroke, which is invaluable for resting.

While in deep water, push forward, so that one goes over backwards. The first position is with hands extended along the side.

Second, the hands are brought together over the body, touching the body all the time, and upward as high as is natural.

Third, the forearms are brought over and outward to the stretch of the arm, and in the water with palms at right angles to the surface.

Fourth the arms are swept downwards to the first position, beside the hips, and the movement is started all over again.

GERMAN EMBASSY WARNS AGAINST MARK BUYING

WASHINGTON, August 6. United Press. — The German Embassy has issued a warning against speculation in former German paper mark bonds and bank notes which is still going on.

The Embassy points out that owing to the creation of a new currency the former German bank notes are practically worthless. Bonds and securities have been revaluated to a limited extent.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7. —(Canadian Press). — Two persons were drowned late last night when an automobile in which they wee riding got out of control and plunged into the Soulanges Canal, about 25 miles from Montreal. The dead are Edward Flynn and his wife Montreal. The first information reaching Montreal was that five had been drowned but this was later disproved.

K.K.K. PLANNING TO KEEP SMITH OUT OF CONTEST

Nomination By Democrats of New York Governor Would Ruin Klan.

NO CEREMONIALS.

Averting Disaster Will Take Up All Time of Annual Convention.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. —(Uniter News). — When the Klu Klux Klan holds its national convention here next month, considerable attention will be devoted to blighting Governor Al. Smith's Presidental prospects. In view of the position of the Klan in the democratic south, its future standing is involved in the democratitic situation, making it highly desirable to stop the Smith movement, which has gained strength rather than lost since the stalemate with McAdoo at Madison Square Garden two years ago.

This is fully realized by Klan leaders and they intend to make the Washington convention a business affair. At Klan head-quartes here it is said that there will be no ceremonials. It will be a serious session of Klan leadlers bent for one thing on averting the disaster that Smith's nomination by the democrats would involve and on improving the political position of the order generally.

ROMAN CLERGY ARE DISCIPLINED

Are Forbidden To Wear Civilian Garb While at Health Resorts.

MUST HAVE LEAVE.

ROME, Aug. 7.—The Sacred Congregation of the Council yesterday issued a circular to Roman Catholic bishops aiming to discipline members of the clergy who stay at health resorts. The council regrets to hear that many of these are taking advantage of the greater liberty of some of these places to don civilian clothes and frequent indecorous places of amusement.

The circular declares that this must cease. Under the council's order every priest before going to such a resort must obtain leave from his bishop and name the resort to which he is going, giving his address there.

Bishops under whose jurisdiction these resorts come are to keep track of the priests staying there.

The Congregation, which was founded 362 years ago by Pope Pius IV., was instituted to discipline the secular clergy and their flocks. It is recognized by the Holy See as a competent disciplinary tribunal. Cardinal Babarretti is prefect over the thirty other cardinals who are members.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE WILDERNESS WOMAN" AT THE CAPITOL MONDAY.

Aileen Pringle, Lowell Sherman and Chester Conkling in "Wilderness Woman."

MISS PRINGLE COMEDIENNE

Sherman "Reforms" and Conklin Wears Home-Grown Beard in Addition to Mustache.

"The Wilderness Woman", featuring Aileen Pringle, Lowell Sherman and Chester Conklin, is Robert T. Kane's latest production for First National release. It is an adaptation of Arthur Stringer's celebrated serial-novel which ran recently in the Saturday Evening Post.

The story is about an Alaskan miner and his daughter who strike it rich and come to New York to spend some of their gains. Miss Pringle, who plays the part of the daughter, garbs herself in mail-order house styles of the year 1903.

In addition to knowing nothing of the conventions of the Big City, Miss Pringle is woefully ignorant of the sort of pets that are permitted with her from the frozen fields of Alaska her grizzly bear cub Skeemo.

One of the most hilarious episodes in "The Wilderness Woman" occures when Skeemo escapes from his room in a fashionable New York hotel and runs amuck in the lobby.

For the first time in her career Miss Pringle appears as a comedienne. Formerly she played stellar roles in costume fantasies.

Lowell Sherman also appears in a role that is, for him, unusual. This is in the character of the hero. Mr. Sherman's previous film types have almost always been "heavies."

Chester Conklin, the comic with the walrus mustache, auguments this celebrated facial appendags with a home-grown beard in "The Wilderness Woman." Others in the cast are Robert Cain, Henry Vibart, Harriet Sterling and Burr McIntosh.

Howard Higgin directed the production.

The Wilderness Woman is the feature attraction at the CAPITOL for the first half of next week.

Diamond Disputes Decided

By Billy Evans

What is the usual procedure of major league umpires in determining an infield fly?

The infield fly is a judgment play, hence there is no set rule that could be given.

What would be regarded an infield fly by one umpire, might not be so interpreted by another official equally competent.

The infield fly is any fair fly ball other than a line drive that the umpire believes can be handled by an infielder.

With less than two out and first and second, or first, second and third occupied, the batsman is automatically out when the umpire so rules.

Most umpires make it a rule definitely to decide the status of the drive after the ball has reached its height and has started to descend.

SECRETS OF STARS INSIDE BASEBALL

as told by Billy Evans

BY WALTER JOHNSON.
World's Greatest Pitcher.

There are four essentials of successful pitching—ability, control a knowledge of the weakness and strength of the opposing batters, and a change of pace to vary one's assortment of stuff.

One can be a smart pitcher or just a pitcher who defeats the opposition through sheer ability.

The smart pitcher conserves his strength, pitches to the weakness of the opposition, studies each batter carefully and if he is working with a brainy catcher, relies to a considerable extent on the backstop's judgment.

However, no pitcher, no matter how wise his catcher may be, should permit himself to become a merely mechanical workman. When he is of the opinion that the catcher has called for the wrong ball, he should make known his belief.

Never make the mistake of treating any opposing batsman lightly. Work on the theory that every man who steps to the plate is a good hitter. With that thought in mind you will keep from getting careless on some batter who is thought weak.

No pitcher has a chance who lacks control. Great speed and a sharp breaking curve are of no use unless he is able to get the ball over the plate.

I have certain convictions as to control. My idea of control is not merely getting the ball over the plate but rather pitching to the batter's weakness. You get the ball over but at the spot hardest to hit.

Control is more or less an acquired art. A pitcher can perfect it by constant effort.

ABE MITCHELL—WETHERED'S LONG BALL.

Mr. Wethered hits the ball very cleanly, and not often does he hit it into the sky a point which is due to his club head traveling well after the ball before the head begins to come up. Put another way, here is a long flat bit in the swing which is seen immediately before the club head reaches the ball, and also just after the ball has gone. This is just as it should be, and the onlooker, who is out to see those things, will notice that his left arm comes well forward on the line of flight.

We cannot drive well if we pull the arms in as the club head meets the ball, and here Mr. Wethered is an example to us all, for at the finish his hands are well out and away from the body.

He is, to my idea, one of the modern school who hit the ball first and let the follow through take care of itself, and his length off the tee, and with iron clubs, is truly remarkable, for he does not appear to be physically strong, but he has all the art of good timing, without which even the strongest cannot drive the ball far.

MEXICAN TROUBLE NOT YET SETTLED

No Prospects For Early Settlemen of Religious Dispute.

CHURCHES OPEN.

MEXICO CITY, August 7. Canadian Press. — To-day brought no lessening in the strained relations existing between the Catholic Church authorities and the Mexican government over the government's recently imposed regulations governing the enactment of the religious clauses of the constitution. There aparently are no prospects of a settlement of the controversy at an early date. The priests continue to absent themselves from the churches but, the doors of many of the edifices are open for worshippers to enter and meditate and pray.

Business circles continue gloomy, fearful that the economic boycott instituted as a protest against the religious regulations may assume more serious proportions in the capital.

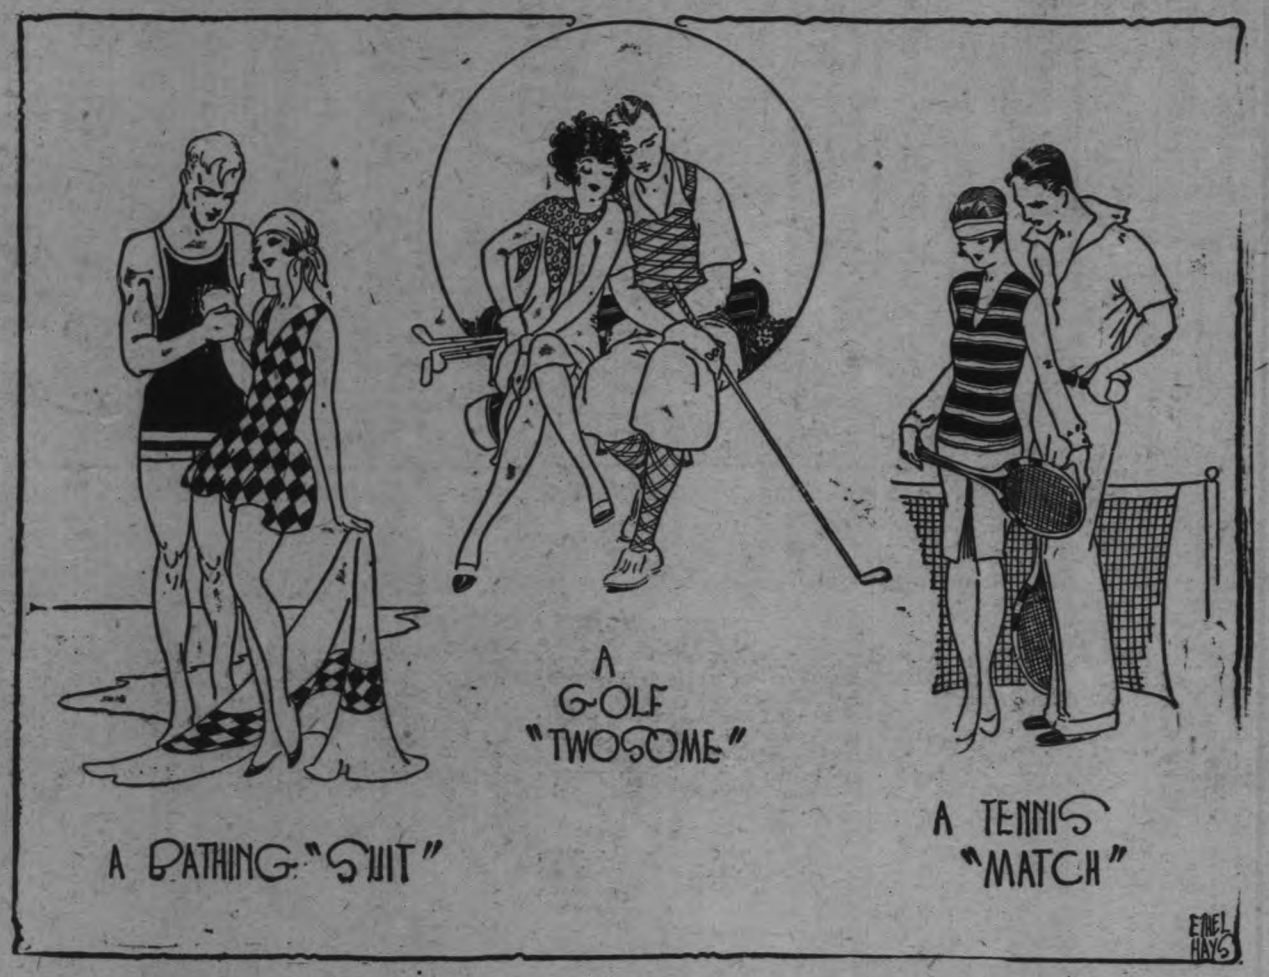
Love Matches and Others

By J. T.



Love matches! Some people declare there ain't no such animal but experience leads us to believe that the people who talk this way are the fellows who thought they had something different from what they actually got. Every married couple you see is the product of a love match, at least if they aren't they should be or else we have gotten our ideas twisted.

Every stratum of life brings its matches whether they be for good or bad, but the main idea to keep in mind is that one time in all probability the world to a particular couple was a paradise for two, to be shattered only by the ravages of time and depending greatly upon the temperaments of the matchers.

The poor, misguided mortal who thought he had the only girl, the girl of his dreams, the girl who was to make life one long dream, comes to his senses (if he has any left) and exclaims for the benefit of harsh world —if I was only single again! He never thinks that his partner in crime often gives way to the same thoughts and seeks relief from the daily grind by simply taking a chance in the same direction again.

It is said that experience teaches fools but in this game of love matches there cannot be any fools for they never seem to learn. From the cradle to the grave mortals indulge in the pastime. Who has not seen a man who has apparently had his day all of a sudden appear to have a new lease of life and suddenly blossom forth with the idea that he is not as old as he thought he was and just as spry as he used to be? A visit to any of the public dance halls almost any night in the week should convince a person that the game of matching is the world's greatest sport. Its popularity will never wane, as the chief necessity for the game is the eternal feminine, with her wiles and smiles and you can bet on it that she never loses a chance of being in at the finish.

Some of the chaps who fell early in the game not being able to survive the charms of the wily female are the only grouches to be encountered. Because in their innocence they fell for a lady who later was to be a brick around their necks; they seem to th,nk that this great sport should have no place in the universe.

But even with the knocks of the losers there is a thrill to the pastime that forbids its disappearance from the ranks of civilization, and if the whole truth were told even those who consider themselves victims of the game sometimes when circumstances permit, renew once again their acquaintance with it. Even the poor, henpecked husband, a bundle of worn nerves due to the continual nagging of his better half cannot resist the challenge of a pair of limpid eyes, or maybe a striking (to his eye) figure. He may have thought himself an expert and loudly declared his avowed hatred of all women, but the first one that gives him a chance to talk about himself (in a safe place of course) is usually the victor. Before he gets wise to himself he is the old dare devil of former years and once again is enjoying the greatest thrill in the world and, although he may not know it, is just as green as he ever was. If the girl is a good listener and if she isn't she acquires the habit as it is her sole weapon, she has him on the string and the eternal triangle once again makes its appearance. There's no fool like an old fool, but the trouble (or blessing according to the inclination) is, that we never bet old enough to realize it.

The season of the year when this game of match-making reaches the height of its popularity is naturally the summer time. Tired business men, shaking off the responsibilities of business for a brief period, clerks and stenographers freed from the deadly monogony of their daily grind, with the first warm sun get the urge. From April on their thoughts wander to the summer vacation, with its opportunities for pleasure. The girls just naturally pick out a classy summer resort that is patronized by a lively crowd and when the time arrives after a few months of speculating as to what particular kind of regalia they will bedeck themselves with, they are into the game right up to the neck.

The man may declare his intention of going on a fishing trip, but alas, too often the fish is himself, for who is there that willingly undertakes to bury himself in the wilds just to be able to spin his stories to an unbelieving gang upon his return? Most so-called fishing trips end at a spot within easy reach of a jolly bunch of girls or it may be that most girls decide to spend their vacation within easy reach of good fishing.

Whatever may be the case the result is the same. They just come together and ere long the game is in progress. With that "ain't nature grand" look in their eyes (not thinking of a human being, of course), the game begins. It may be a bathing suit that catches the eye, but if he only stopped to think that bathing suit bathing suit was purchased from a George street store with that very purpose in mind. However be as it may, the bathing suit has justified the expenditure for here is the fish rising to the bait. If the occupant of the swimming suit has taken a correspondence course in "making men like you" she plays her cards accordingly. It may be just a smile, or a where-have-I-seen-you-before look, or some of the other wiles resorted to by members of the fair sex—but the damage has been done.

If swimming is not her strong forte she may be interested in tennis or then again it may be golf but, irrespective of the sport the objective is the same—flirtation that ends sometimes in that concoction called a love match.

The male of the species by no means takes a back seat in the playing of this great sport. The first indication that he is in the fray is a regular epidemic of soap and water followed by liberal applications of scented hair oil. Then, like the woman, he resorts to the multi-colored clothes that have become so prevalent during the last few seasons.

You may see him anywhere, lounging around with a six-inch amber cigarette holder adorning his powdered face. His hair slicked back, his baggy trousers flapping serenely in the breeze. He his interests are aroused.

He steps up to the lady, and ifhe is lucky, makes her acquaintance and the preliminaries are begun.

So much for love matc... chatwere but the sequel to a holiday romance. They sometimes result in complications of an international aspect. When the parson has his say and they who started out so carefree to face life's battlehav time to realize that for them the game, with all its potentialities is over, and that they are doomed to a mediocre existence—what is the result?

Fed up with wifie's looks or tired of her cooking, sick of her nagging, the victim when he has existed fora couple of seasons in giving good advice to anyone who looks as if he would stand for it, almost without realizing it is into the game again.

I took my girl to the movies the other night, and we had a swell time. Oh, it was swell. They had girls in white pants and black coats to take your tickets, and seats with leather bottoms and everything.

There was a News Weekly on. A circus parade was coming down the street, and just as the elephant was disappearing slowly in the distance, Myrtle says, "Hold my hand!"

Then there was a fire. Buildings were falling down and people were being burned to death and everything And suddenly Myrtle leans over in the dark and kisses me. I let out a scream! I thought I was being scalded to death.

Now I ask you how can a guy with a vivid imagination have a good time at the movies any more huh? Now I ask you?

OUR PERFECT ATHLETE---By W. Edgar

The people who are charged with the duty of showing us how to succeed in life never weary of telling us that it is a very profitable thing to trace the steps up which have travelled the great and mighty on their way from the low and common levels to the higher reaches of successful effort.

It therefore might be well if we should trace the career of the darling of the grid-iron or the track right from his humble beginnings to the climax, or anti-climax of his fame and achievement. We will follow him sympathetically until we leave him on the giddy height to wh'ch he has attained.

The first step in his long and painful journey to the top was when he awoke to a realization of the things that really mattered. For example, he had to cast aside that hoary exploded theory that the old folks really knew best. He had to throw off many foolish errors he had imbibed from them. Naturally he felt that he ought to be excused for having entertained these strange ideas. One would really think that those who had travelled along the road before him would be able to put him wise as to the location of the hard spots on the way. But he was not long at college before finding out that this was all bunk.

In the first place, the old man had led him to believe that college was a place where you really learned something. "The place where the future leaders of thought and action are trained" was his favorite phrase. But it was something of a shock to find that the man who openly and unashamedly announced that his object in coming to college was to acquire an education was looked upon as "queer." Who ever heard of anyone learning anything at college?

Still it took the young man quite a long time to rid himself of the outlandish fancies implanted in his head by his foolish old father. He committed that awful breach of good breeding of actually setting himself to study—thereby stamping himself as the most rustic of hicks. He would win renown, he resolved, in the field of academic attainment. He would leave behind him a name that would be an inspiration to future students. He set himself out to acquire knowledge. He quit going to the ball games; the movies knew him no more; he shunned with rustic horror the dance hall; and he fled from the pretty co-eds whose bewitching glances would tempt him away from his devotion to the goddess of midnight oil whose outward visible sign is a 32 candle-power electric light bulb.

It was about this period in his career he made the discovery that led him to an appreciation of the real values in college life. He found that though he had pretty nearly absorbed all knowledge, ancient and modern; though he could quote Homer in the original with the ease and fluency of an oil-stock salesman who has found a more than usually gullible prospect; though he could discuss hydrostatics and dynamics, paleontology, seismology and ecology with the freedom of two flappers debating the relative merits of "Three Flowers" and "Trejur," he never heard that awed whisper, "There he is," from hero-worshippering freshmen that was invariably elicited when the full-back of the rugby team appeared in the offing. He was wisdom and learning personified, he esimply xuded knowledge, and could no more help scintillating than a star could help shining, but that got him nowhere.

He reflected bitterly that the professor could hand him lots of bouquets in class for his erudition and application, but this same prof. never yelled himself hoarse and threw his hat in the air on hearing an apt quotation or lucid translation as he did when he witnessed a fine drop kick by Red Kickum who was so dumb that when he first came to college, he thought China was a town in Pennsylvania.

This knowledge stuff was the bunk. Such was the conclusion to which our hero felt himself irresistibly led. Forthwith he hied himself to the captain of the rugby team and explained to that astonished dignitary his new resolution to turn out to the practices. The captain who in the past had favored all and sundry with some very scornful criticisms of those in the school, who he declared were afraid to bend their backs in a little physical exercise hails his new recruit as a brand snatched from the burning.

Clad in a suit that seems to be a combination of the armor of one of the knights of old, with the chaps of a cowboy and the jerseys affected by seamen before the mast of tramp sailing vessels, he makes his debut among the grinning Titans who have hitherto carried the standard of the school to invariable defeat. Practice begins. The raw recruit is bowled over and rolledi n the muddy ground. Hefty players who, he is prepared to swear, each weigh over half a ton, trample on him. Th3y walk over his face and climb up his spine to sit astride his shoulders. He emerges from the game dusty, dishevelled and ragged, looking for all the world like a misguided enthusiast who had ventured into Russia to distribute tracts on deportment among the Bolsheviks—but he has a curious feeling of well-being and he determines to try again.

The day comes when he gets a chance in a big game. He turns out into the field the cynosure of many eyes belonging to thousands of "rah rah rah" boys and screaming girls. He comes out of the game covered with gore and not a little glory. He has long ago forgotten all about the hydrostatics, etc., but he is on the scroll of college fame.

His renown accompanies him into th drawing-room. All the girls make eyes at the boy who has so often carried his team to victory. There are lots of them who think he looks just cute in his bathing costume and who are ready at any time to put on more clothes and go with him for a swim. They tell him he is a sheik on land and a shark in the water. He blushingly accepts the compliment until little Polly, who has not a single rational thought in her pretty little head, remarks that a shark is a big fish and so are men who think they are sharks.

Conquest succeeds conquest until one find day he finds himself the captive of one of his conquests. He has caught a Tartar. In plain English, he is married and his wife is a very emphatic asserter of woman's rights. All his former feats are eclipsed by those he performs, not before a wildly cheering throng, but before the coldly critical eyes of his scornful spouse who looks on with pursed lips, which she relaxes occasionally to ask freezingly, "Haven't you got that fixed yet: One would think you were a congenital idiot"—to which ht climbs that ladder which wobbles at every step he reaches, he murmurs cynically to himself:

"The heights that all great men have reached
Were not attained by sudden flight."

The thought provokes the farther reflection that the greatest of men might be of little use in hanging pictures. Even an aviator who may be a wonder in the skies may be no earthly good for domestic labors.

Perched precariously on the top of that not too safe ladder, hammering away at nails that he does not always hit, he presents a spectacle that sorely tempts us to bring him down to mother earth, but as we promised to demonstrate to our readers the giddy heights attained by our perfect athlete, and having regard to our reputation for veracity, we feel that we are in honor bound to leave him in his lofty elevation. Besides, while he remains there, he is safe from the wrath of his wife.

THE VULGAR BOATMAN

The shell was sliding swiftly through the water. One—two—three—four—go. "One—stroke; two—stroke," came the hoarse call of the coxswain. The stop watch ticked off the seconds. Still the shell slid through the water Suddenly, as out of the night, or day, or week-end came the shout, "Stop!"

Had they won the race? No, dear reader, they had not. The shell came out of the water. The man cried "Stroke," and with one sharp blow of the knife, the shell was broken. The only commend was, "I told you to boil it five minutes. It isn't even hard. What's the matter with that watch?"

By C. J. Beauclerc

There are sports and sports: outdoor sports and indoor sports; winter sports and summer sports; strenuous sports and easy sports; sports that exercise the body and sports that exercise the mind; native sports and foreign sports; modern sports and ancient sports; good sports and cheap sports; competitive sports and solitary sports; every kind of recreation and some kinds of work are called sport.

Football, baseball, basketball, hockey, lacrosse, tennis, golf, ski-ing, cricket, hunting, fishing, pool, bowling, poker, eucre, eating, sleeping, walking, cycling, jumping, swimming, the list could go on to an almost unbelievable length. These are only a few of the sports, real or so-called, that are indulged in by Peterborough people, and other nations have their own ideas of sport. Then again, some of the sports of former days have died out or become modified for modern usage.

Hockey has probably the largest following of any sport in Peterborough. Not only is it a game that draws many spectators, due to the great success of the Peterborough seniors in the past few seasons, but it is played by more people than any other game. Nearly every boy and nearly every girl has a hockey stick and a pair of skates and contests ranging from mere shinny to really scientific play, may be seen on every small patch of smooth ice. Playing dates for scratch games at the enclosed rinks have to be set far ahead, so great is the demand.

Hockey is a truly Canadian sport. The game played here, ice hockey, was doubtless taken from the English game of field hockey, which has never had much vogue in this country, but the addition of skates has added speed to the game and now a great many nations are copying Canada and some outstanding Canadians have obtained good positions as hockey coaches, both in North America and in Europe.

Baseball comes next in the mind of the average Peterborough citizen. Unfortunately, of late years, the seniors have not been very successful, while the advent of outdoor softball for men has worked to the disadvantage of the city league. Still, every boy plays baseball, the sphere being anything from a few yards of cord wound on a cork to a real "Big League" baseball. The cost of financing a baseball team is so high, however, that societies and clubs that used to back teams have turned to softball, for which a special uniform is not required, and the cheaper form of baseball, which can also be played by men not in the pink of condition, is gaining many devotees.

The position of the two leading sports is not threatened by any other played in this district and to many boys the time in spring and fall when neither can be played is a dull and dreary season.

Those who can claim the "tight little isle" as a birthplace have brought with them the great English games of football and cricket, and not a few native Canadians have joined them in their sport. Soccer is very popular and draws large crowds, while the brand of play is of a very high calibre. The league has functioned successfully in the senior series since the end of the war, and recently branched out with junior and juvenile sections in an endeavor to develop players in the city instead of depending on the immigrants from across the pond for new players.

Cricket has its little quota of devotees who turn out regularly for practices and games, but has not as yet accumulated a large following of spectators, as all those interested in the game take part if they are able. In this respect it differs largely from some of the other games, where the fans far outnumber the actual players. The local cricket club is acquiring a reputation as one of the best in the Province and has made a splendid showing in its games with outside teams.

All these games are team games, and others played more or less in Peterborough and the surrounding district are rugby, lacrosse and basketball. Rugby and basketball are principally played by students of the Collegiate, although frequenters of the gymnasiums at the Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. frequently play basketball, which is really the only indoor team game. Lacrosse still maintains its hold in Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, and Norwood, but efforts to sponsor it in Peterborough have met with very little success, and the old timers sigh as they recall the old days when every lad carried a lacrosse stick instead of a baseball mitt.

A game that has made great strides in recent years, principally because it allows scope for individual ability, is tennis. Long regarded by the boys as a "sissy, pink tea" pastime, due no doubt to the fact that the players were usually immaculately dressed in white flannels, while ladies took part, it has gained its place as a game that requires great stamina and speed. Yet, for the one who cannot be a Tilden or a Lenglen there is room, and the exercise and competition in the game can be arranged to suit the speed, age, and health of the player. The rapid increase in the number of courts in the city bears mute testimony to the number of citizens who find healthful recreation in this is still regarded by many as a rich man's game, but last year a second club was started where golf pure and simple is the motto, and the cost was brought down to the reach of almost everybody, but to him who seeks some of the social amenities and all the conveniences, the pretty course on the River road still proves attractive. No titles have been brought to Peterborough yet, but many fine players make the rounds on the local courses and the quality is improving year by year as the players start in at an earlier age.

After holding a warm spot in the hearts of many men for years, bowling, like all other games, has cast its spell over the fair sex. Both green and alley bowling are popular here and facilities for their enjoyment have been recently increased, due partly to the fact that the ladies have taken them up. Many thrilling ends have been played at the greens of the local club, which has been in existence for many years, and its tournaments attract players from a wide area.

Kindred to lawn bowling in its matter of scoring, curling attracts in winter many who play the other game in summer. The local curling club has always a number of names on its waiting list, so popular is the game, and its seven ices are crowded every evening for the scheduled games of those fortunate enough to obtain membership. The rooms of the local club have sheltered almost every trophy of importance offered in Eastern Ontario, and the junior provincial award, the District Cup, has visited here. One lament the members have, however, and that is the fact that the much-coveted tankard has never been captured by local players.

In this respect the ladies who use the ices during the mornings can laugh at the veterans of the male club for two rinks of them brought back the Ladies' Tankard soon after it was offered for competition.

Sports, where there is one winner out of many competitors, such as swimming, running and jumping, are found on the calendar of many Peterborough people. Most of the swimming is done at regattas, as far as racing is concerned, but many practice the aquatic art for pleasure. Few indeed are the Peterborough people who cannot swim at least a few strokes. Canoeing is another cooling summer sport that is popular.

Running and jumping, both for pleasure and in competition, find many participants. The schools provide most of the competitive form, although various field days give the older fellows a chance to show their prowess, and a runner in gym clothing is not an uncommon sight on the roads around the city.

Although the man-to-man struggle is absent, there is an element of competition in hunting and fishing that adds zest to these sports, favored by many Peterborough people. The pleasure of outwitting the birds and beasts of the forest and the fish of rivers and lakes in their native haunts far exceeds that of eating the flesh of the victim, although to many folk eating is the principal sport of the whole bunch.

There may be no competition but there's lots of fun in ski-ing, snowshoeing, walking, cycling, sleigh-riding, and tobogganing, and there are hundreds of residents of this district who indulge in the exhiliaration of these pleasures, and happy parties go forth from the [illegible] take part in them. Exercise and fresh air are the rewards gained by the men and women who take part in these pleasant sports.

The use of nature's weapons is not indulged in on any organized basis here, but the cry of "fight! fight!" still resounds in the schoolyards and alleys of the city, and the little fellows show an aptitude in the use of these weapons that, properly trained, might lead them to high places in the fistic realm.

Frowned upon by many people, principally because unscrupulous men

Frownd upon by many people, principally because unscrupulous men have made use of it to fleece the unwary, horse racing still flourishes in Peterborough. Running races are rare, but each pacer, with his sulky, can find backers in the large crowds which gather to watch this variety of the "sport of kings."

These games and exercises provide the play for the citizens of Peterborough of the present time. Far different are they from some of the sports of other lands and other times. The bull fight of Spain, the rodeo stunts of the west, the duelling of continental countries, and the polo of India have no foothold here. Bull and bear baiting, archery and jousting, practiced by our ancestors, have long been extinct or have become illegal. The rough football games of the olden days, when whole villages formed the playing fields, and the boxing bouts where only one contestant survived, have gone the same way. The more ancient gladiatorial contests and the pleasant ancient custom of throwing the captives to the wild beasts died out with the progress of Christianity. Signs of decadence these would seem to our wild forbears, but in time of war the men trained in the less hazardous modern sports proved themselves fit to stand beside the warriors of Thermopylae, Crecy or any other battle of ancient times, and the care taken of life and limb does not indicate a growing national cowardice.

Strong men and true are they who, in Peterborough, in Canada, in the Empire, take part in the games and exercises of the times, and the advent of women to the ranks of the players gives promise of an even better race than it was in the days when Wellington said that the Battle of Waterloo was won on the cricket fields of Eton. Let them therefore, whether old or young, boy or girl, man or woman, take part in the sports that appeal to them, and they will be better citizens and stronger men and women for it.

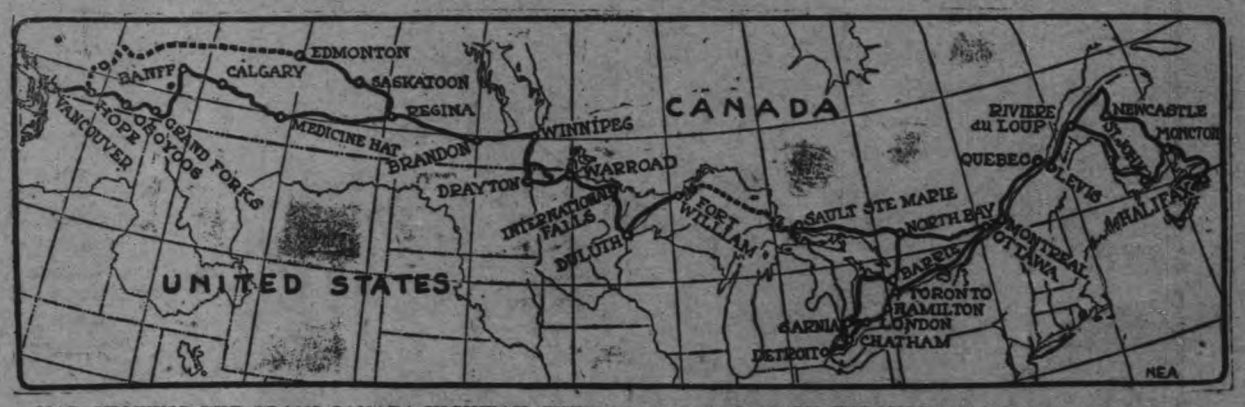
ADVENTURE ACROSS CANADA

Route Through Dominion Gives Motorists a Varieiy of Mountain, Lake and Field Scenes



MAP SHOWING THE TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY, WITH SIDE TRIPS MAINLY THROUGH ONTARIO PROVINCE

But inhabited Canada is represented by a long narrow strip along its southern boundary. From end to end the Trans-Canada Highway traverses eight of the nine provinces of the Dominion. Prince Edward Island alone is off the direct highway but accessible to it.

A cross-country tour of Canada has its starting point in Halifax. Leaving Halifax on the Atlantic Ocean side, a fine hard surfaced road leads for 10 miles around Bedford Basin.

From Bedford a fine gravel surfaced highway extends across the province to the New Brunswick border. Although Nova Scotia is one of the oldest settled parts of Canada, within 20 miles of Halifax, moose and deer abound in the wilderness which comes almost up to the city's gates. The whole central section of Nova Scotia is a wild, broken, uncultivated country, filled with streams and beautiful lakes and making an ideal summer play ground for the tourist.

In Dutch Country.

Passing through Truro, the head of the Minas Basin is reached. Here one finds the highest tides in the world. Tiny streams at low tide become rivers as the waters rush down their courses until their banks are full and in many places would be overflowing but for the dikes built to protect the lowlands.

From Five Islands to Parrsboro on to Amherst, the highway winds through beautiful valleys with rugged forest slopes, dotted here and there with small areas of cultivated land. Emerging through Amherst, it crosses the Sackville Marshes. On an elevation in this marshland stand the ruins of old Fort Cumberland.

The inter-provincial boundary is crossed at the Musquash river, a tidal curiosity. A few miles beyond lies Sackville, the site of Mount Allison University.

Twenty miles farther is Moncton, more American in its type than any other city of the maritime provinces.

Natural Phenomena.

From this point the Trans-Canada Highway branches. The eastern branch goes by way of Shediac, Chatham, Bathurst and Matapedia, reaching the St. Lawrence near Metis, while the western branch passes through St. John, the commercial metropolis of the province and up the beautiful St. John valley to reach the St. Lawrence at Riviere du Loup.

Two phenomena of world interest are passed on the New Brunswick end of the trip, the Bore at Moncton and the Reversing Falls at St. John. The Bore is a tidal wave which, owing to the rapid rise of the head waters of the Bay of Fundy in Minas Basin, rushes up the Petticodiac river.

The same high tides are responsible for the Reversing Falls at St. John, where at low tide the mighty St. John river rushes over a jagged, rugged descent of 15 or more feet. A few hours later at high tide these falls are entirely obliterated when the waters of the bay flow backward up the water.

Sixty miles from St. John on the St. John river lies Fredericton. From this point through Woodstock, Grand Falls, where the St. John river tumbles over a precipice of 40 feet, and on through St. Leonards to Edmunston, the highway follows the river.

Excellent gravel roads make the entire province of New Brunswick a pleasure to motorists. The highway continues to the St. Lawrence at Riviere du Loup.

In Middle Canada.

Many of the villages in Quebec are as quaint as any in France. Interesting sights near Quebec are St. Anne de Beaupre with its sacred shrine and the Quebec railway bridge, which has the longest supported span of any cantilever bridge in the world.

From Quebec to Montreal there is a hard pavement with a delightful stopping place midway at Three Rivers. A great part of the way the road skirts the river and huge ocean liners are usually to be seen on the way up to the head waters at Montreal.

Montreal, the largest city in Canada, is worth a long visit. The view from its park on top of a mountain repays the trip, although automobiles are not permitted in the park owing to the danger.

The Capital City.

Crossing westward to the mainland, a well developed highway extends 103 miles along the Ottawa River to Ottawa, Canada's capital. Here the Parliament buildings, public parks and other interesting places make it an ideal tourist city.

From the capital, the highway passes on through Pembroke along the upper Ottawa River to Mattawa. From Pembroke to Mattawa, the highway is in a state of development. The river is left at Mattawa and the route leads over a fine gravel road of 50 miles to Callender. The road here skirts the lake for a few miles into North Bay.

From North Bay to Sault Ste. Marie the highway follows the shores of Georgian Bay and Lake Huron through a country of varying interest, passing enormous pulp and paper mills at Sturgeon Falls and again at Espanola. At Sudbury the greatest nickel deposits in the world are found.

Near Sudbury, the huge nickel smelters, with their mountains of slag appear like volcanoes in eruption when whole trains of the white hot slag are poured down these heaps.

A Break By Ferry.

A great break in the highway exists between Sault Ste. Marie and Whitemouth, which lies about 30 miles west of the Ontario boundary near Winnipeg. This is being built in rapidly and in a few years will make the highway continuous. In the interval two lines of Canadian steamers ply between the Sault and Port Arthur and Fort William, and make a pleasant break in a transcontinental motor journey.

THE OLD PASSES THE NEW ON A NOVA SCOTIA ROAD

A detour is necessary from this point to reach the Manitoba border, and there is a delightful run along the north shore of Lake Superior. The highway to Duluth lies for more than 100 miles on the shore, a marine drive of great beauty. From Duluth the highway through International Falls, brings the tourist to Donaldson.

Sixty-four miles of Canada can be included in this detour by crossing the river on the bridge at International Falls, taking the Canadian Highway through to Rainy River and then recrossing to Baudette.

From Emerson to Winnipeg, 66 miles, a fine broad highway has been entirely gravelled.

To the Pacific.

From Winnipeg the Trans-Canada route passes through Portage la Prairie, Brandon, Verdun and Broad view directly on to Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan. Here, like the New Brunswick section, the highway divides. The southern section goes through Moose Jaw, Medicine Hat, Calgary and Rocky Mountain Park. The northern route goes through Saskatoon, Lloydminster, Edmonton, Jasper Park and proceeds down the Thompson to join the southern highway through the Fraser Canyon and on to Vancouver.

BY THE WAY

American tourists who motor in Canada and carry the American flag on their car are requested to respect international courtesy and also display the Union Jack.

A major portion of the Trans-Canada Highway route is over improved and hard-surfaced roads.

The motorist who enjoys swimming, fishing, hiking, mountain-climbing and similar recreational sports will find that all of his favorite pastimes can be included in a tour of Canada.

When Knees Were a Dark Secret

(By Tom Sims.)

There was a time, and not so long ago either, when the ladies marched out on the tennis court in shock-absorbing two-way skirts, and striped blazers that would make a barber-pole turns pale with envy.

They wore them, it seems, not because they were Regulation Equipment. They never forgot they were Gentlewomen, and they blushed when they said :"Thirty-love."

The girls didn't around the courts very fast but they did prseerve their Dignity and Decorum.

This was not back in the mid-Victorian days when the parlor was upstairs and the most prized possession in the household was the what-not. It was only ten years ago and the young lady pictured above is none other than Mary K. Browne, who lost the other day to Suzanne Lenglen. She lost a great deal more gracefully than she would have had she been wearing the outrage upon civilization shown here.

Nowadays the tennis girls are short on skirts but long on playing. When they go on the courts they are prepared to give the cash customers an eyeful of white stocking, but they throw in a little tennis with it.

The sleeveless blouses may reveal an undimpled elbow but they do permit arm movement. And their skirts may be undignified but they don't mop up all the terra firma in Wimbledon.

SPORTSWOMEN---By Jeannette

In the Grecian mythology, Atlanta was a maiden of Boetia, famed for running. She was to be obtained in marriage only by him who could outstrip her in a race, the consequence of failure being death. One of her suitors, Hippomenes, obtained from the Goddess of Love, Aphrodite, three golden apples from the Gardens of Hesperides, which he threw behind him, one after another, as he ran. Atalanta stooped to pick them up, and was, not unwillingly, defeated.

Again, Artemis was an ancient Greek divinity who was also identified with the Roman goddess Diana, and was variously represented as a huntress, with bow and arrows; as a goddess of the nymphs, in a chariot drawn by four stags; and as the moon goddess, with the crescent of the moon above her forehead. She was a maiden divinity, never conquered by love, and demanded the strictest chastity from her worshippers. No man was allowed to enter the temple of the Roman Diana.

Atalanta and Artemis were therefore alike in their fondness for pursuits which have been considered exclusively masculine, until late years, but the former was more amiable to her masculine admirers. Whether their modern prototypes indulge their fondness for sports to such an extent as to shut out thoughts of love and flirtation is a moot question. Gazing on some of the ladies who go in for hiking and big game hunting nowadays, as they appear in pictorial supplements, it seems as though they had subordinated their natural feminine liking for prettiness and nice clothes to a desire to bulk as large as their masculine competitors in the world of sport.

Women have invaded almost every department of men's activity in their recent years of emancipation, and have copied men in every possible way, from the cut of their hair to their fashion of smoking cigarettes. Although we have not yet heard of women acting as Pullman car porters or as members of the "White Wings" gang in street-cleaning departments, they have invaded fields such as the plumbing business, deep-sea diving and meteorological survey parties.

As for sports, there is nothing to it. Women are stalking and shooting big game in the wilds of Africa and the hinterlands of South America, they are competing, and very successfully too, with men in such events as the Bisley shoot in England, they are taking part in aerial trials of speed and endurance, they are defying men to beat them in long-distance running and walking contests, they are going on hiking trips (like the lady who invaded Peterborough a year or two back, who made her way from California to Ontario alone and unguarded, a trusty six-shooter on her hip, a firm twist to her lip and a man's khaki suit on her back), they are engaging in swimming races and canoe stunts and mountain climbing and archery competitions. And, in the milder forms of playful sport, they are sizing up well with their male companions, in golf and tennis, or with a bowling ball or a "curling stane." They are playing hockey and cricket, lacrosse and softball, basketball and Badminton. In the aquatic art, women seem to be pre-eminent among those who essay the passage of the British Channel, and they are shining lights, when it comes to anything like prowess on the tennis courts. It may be the fact that they are women that gives them an added prominence, but it is also undeniable that few men have ever equalled Suzanne Lenglen or Helen Wills on the courts.

Still, while we are open for contradiction, we have never heard yet of a lady who was a professional or even a good amateur player of pool or billiards.

When it comes to taking defeat "like a man," a woman swallows the bitter dose with pretty good grace, with few exceptions, and she doesn't get any more "upstage" or temperamental than a masculine player, either. There are some notable exceptions to this rule. The famous Suzanne, for instance, is said to be very averse to accepting defeat amiably, but her English and American competitors, Mary K. Browne and Helen Wills, are real good sports on the tennis courts. Of course, a woman will always play a game just a little differently to a man. She is much more apt to lose her head in a pinch. Police officials take this feminine trait into consideration, when considering traffic problems, for a woman driver, caught in a jam, will, like as not, stall her car and lean back to close her eyes, rather than search for an outlet, like a masculine motorist.

They are not so quick, either, to appreciate or prepare for differences in playing fields. A woman hockey player will not gauge the difference, for instance, in her own home town rink and that of the neighboring city, as readily as a man, and a lady who is used to bowl on a wooden alley finds it hard to refrain from sending a smashing ball down the greensward of the open court, where a gentler approach is required.

But women have just as much responsiveness to the need of team play as men have, and perhaps more so. It is rarely that a softball player on a woman's team will rag the umpire. Perhaps she has more respect for the masculine decision than her brother, who will lift his voice in vain protest over what he considers a wrong ultimatum, but the fact remains that she accepts the verdict quite readily, in most cases.

Women, too, have the attitude toward sport that they have to other matters in life. They take it very seriously. Gilbert Chesterton says that women should not be in business at all, because they take it too hard. He asserts that a young woman secretary, set at the task of declaring to the world in typewritten formulae that King Charles First, wrote the plays commonly attributed to Shakespeare would, in six months' time come to believe in the idea absolutely, and that the trouble with women in business is that they become married, in a spiritual sense, to their job. So with women in sport. They take it very hard. If a woman plays a game, she plays it with every bit of her, and she doesn't spend much time during intervals in quaffing bottles of pop and exchanging bits of gossip with her companions. She sits down and regrets her errors and omissions of the previous period, or criticizes her companions' playing. And here, then, is the hopeful viewpoint for the men. For women take things much too seriously to ever successfully compete, except in small ways, with their more easy-going male companions in the same games.

Whether women use their wits as much as they might in matters of competitive sport, or whether they rely almost solely on that sixth sense of the lady which is sometimes termed intuition, is a matter for argument. They probably, at all times, have much more appreciation for and apprehension about their appearance than a mere man would have, unless they happen to be very homely and elderly, and it is for this reason that apparel for women engaged in sporting activities will always be a matter of moment to purveyors of such things. The time may come when they will don any old uniform for a ball game, or any old bathing suit for a swimming contest, or refuse to think of the set of their visored caps when they engage in flying races, but it hasn't arrived yet, that is, with the majority of them. Some of the specimens portrayed, of course, make the onlooker wonder if a third sex has descended on the world overnight.

As for women who engage in gentler types of sport, such as bridge contests and chess games and checkers, here the wit of the female of the species, and also her claws, come into full play. Nothing in the world can equal the acidity of the tongue of the lady whose partner has revoked in the final round of a bridge game and caused her to lose possession of the cup and saucer (purchased by the hostess for exactly fifty cents at a marked-down sale the day before), which constitutes the first prize. "I don't see why they allow people like you to play bridge at all," was the amiable remark of a strange person to her partner at one of these trials of endurance in a city drawing-room, and the partner, a mediocre player who had been asked as a last minute resource of a disappointed hostess, was reduced to tears. But the ordinarily kind-hearted woman who had just pierced her through was adamant to such weakness, and continued to glare furiously at her for the rest of the afternoon.

A HOLIDAY IDYLL---By Wilson Craw

George and Mary had planned a motor trip on the Blue Water Highway as their vacation this year for they had lately acquired a cantankerous old Ford but yet a reliable old fliver, for a pair of pinchers and a piece of fence wire was all that was needed to repair any breaks. The tour was to take them through the wilds of Muskoka.

They spent several weeks in planning the trip and the closer the day of George's vacation drew near their vacation-land seemed to becoming more and more a dreamland to them. The trip was all mapped out and remade every night for the fortnight previous before starting for they were going to celebrate the anniversary of their tenth wedding on this trip.

The camping outfit which they carried was not large, a couple of sleeping bags, a small amount of provisions, a small camp stove with a few cans of canned heat for fuel, and clothes necessary for two weeks' travel. This and a small tent made up the camping outfit.

George was up bright and early the morning for starting, making all the windows burglar proof, telling the milkman to bring no more milk for two weeks, disconnecting the lights from the house, getting the post office clerk to forward his mail to certain points at set dates, for he had his trip mapped out to the hour. Mary, on the other hand, got the provisions in readiness to start, and all the other small necessities collected.

George was one of these easy-going fellows who never gets excited and takes everything very cooly and moves about in a slow way. Mary was just the opposite and this is why they got along so well together. She was always in a hurry, every little thing worried her, she hated to be crossed, and about all she was decidedly clean and tidy in her house keeping. When the word decidedly is used, it means that if you entered the house at the front door she would follow you around with the broom or a dust cloth until you left at the back door.

The first day out was not very exciting; the old Ford worked fine and they reached Orillia that night. After building their camp fire, pitching their tent and eating their supper, they went to the weekly band concert which is usually preceded by a monster parade for all the citizens of this beautiful little town turn out on band concert night to hear the music. They returned to their tent that night very tired.

The second day they followed the trail on north, up through Simcoe County and into the Muskoka district. Lizzy was very naughty,—she would spit and backfire and chunk along like an overloaded railroad engine climbing a steep grade. With this and the sore back which Mary had after the previous day's journey, for those who have travelled in a Ford know that they are not any chesterfield; she commenced to complain about the trip and to worry about things at home. "Oh, dear, what wouldn't I give for a nice hot bath? Are you sure you locked the back door, George? This is the last camping trip you will ever get me on. Oh, dear, I wonder if I turned out the gas under the water tank? Did you shut the attic windows? I wish we'd brought a hot water bottle along. Did you stop the milk, George? Oh, dear, I wonder if I turned out the basement light. I'll bet you forgot to stop the paper, didn't you; Oh, dear, I wish I were home. I wonder if the neighbors are feeding Kitty," and in all this long stretch of complaints George said not a word, but knit his brow all the more, as Lizzy kept on her chugging along. "Here is a good place to stop, George, and fix the motor, there is plenty of shade. Oh, dear, you can't; there is a sign 'Keep out'." But George went on until he found a nice quiet spot on the side of a sparkling lake, and here he pulled on his overalls and went to work with his pinchers and fence wire.

With the sight of the lake and the coolness of the breeze which was blowing from it, Mary's spirits revived, and in the moonlight and starlight which was playing on the rippling waters in a warm summer night they dreamt their dreams of life over again. Out of this dream was woven a web stronger than all the strength of years, stronger even than life itself, for it was the tenth anniversary of their wedding. Their thoughts went back to a warm summer night in July, 1916, when a big round moon was building misty shadows on Stoney Lake. An ardent lover and his sweetheart stood on the floating bridge and watched the moonbeams on the water of the lake.

The girl was Mary Green and she was telling the boy George Gray that she had finished making her wedding gown and he had told her that they would be married in a week's time after graduation.

The wind rustled the leaves in the trees beside the quiet lake and all the wild world narrowed to the quiet orbit that held these two. The wedding followed soon after. The bride was radiantly happy. A glint of forgotten girlhood was in her eyes and tonight the two entered once again into that great path of life. Their eyes were a trifle misty, but they started the remaining ten days of their vacation in the morning with a new vigor, a new happiness and with new resolutions.

YOUR CHILD'S CAREER--

By Prof. J. H. Breasted

World-famous Archaeologist, Director, Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, and Director of the National Academy of Sciences.

Young people in the field of science? We simply can't get enough of them with the proper qualifications to meet the multifold opportunities.

The highest expression of a nation's quality is what it produces in science. If we wish to qualify among nations we must give attention to the development of science. Great stress has been placed upon business opportunities in that field, but not enough attention has been given to science.

Science requires men of energy, patience and perseverance, who are willing to spend a long period of conscientious study in preparation.

The business world has offered greater and earlier financial rewards with less preparation. But the scientist has not been without his rewards in the love of his work, his service to humanity and his contributions to knowledge.

Financial Promise

At present there is promise that the young man with the inclination and ability to enter the field of science may find greater prospects of financial remuneration, which will make it possible for those of promise to prepare for their chosen fields and continue in research work.

This promise is held forth by the movement of the National Academy of Sciences for the establishment of a national research endowment. I would direct the young man seeking to evaluate the opportunities of the field of science to the following quotation from a bulletin of the Academy, setting forth the purpose of the endowment:

"By rendering the career of research more productive and thus more attractive, the endowment will draw into graduate work many brilliant students who are now lost to science, strengthen the system of national research fellowship and enable young men of demonstrated research ability to continue their investigations in pure science."

Of course I am most intimately acquainted with the needs and opportunities in my own field—the investigation of the early phases of civilization—but I believe it is typical of the province of science in general in that respect.

Asks for Names

I recently appealed to the presidents of leading colleges and universities for the names of young men with the special qualifications for that field, and who are handy and resourceful and have the investigative turn of mind—requisites to a successful scientific career.

Science cannot offer the large financial returns of busines, but that is not necessary to attract men of scientific bent who have been lost to science in the past.

Adequate means to provide the necessary facilities for research and to meet the personal needs of the scientist in a manner commensurate with his position are necessary.

It is the hope of the new endowment to help in obtaining such means, and its soundness is demonstrated by the fact that the leading scientists, educators and business men throughout the nation have given it their endorsement and support.

Of course, the scientist always will have to find a large portion of his reward in other than strictly financial remuneration.

A group of the famous scientists and inventors of the day—Edison, the wizard of electricity and sound; Madame Curie, co-discoverer of radium; Marconi, the father of radio; Brush, who gave the world the arc light and is the inventor of the storage battery; Miller, famous astronomer; Millikan, who measured the electron; Tesla, wonder worker of wireless, and Pupin, immigrant boy who is now a university professor and who taught the world how to tune its radio sets.

Daily Short Story

BORROWED SHOES

"I do think you might!" Felicia whined. "Seeing you're not going—not even invited—besides, the shoes are too long for you."

"All which, though true, has nothing to do with the case," Sandy retorted, her nose very high. "I would have been invited but for your lie—you told the Clarks I didn't dance—on account of my religion."

"I—I didn't! Who told you? They lied," Felicia cried weakly, her voice betraying terror. "All I said was your mother never wanted you to dance——"

"But not a word that she died five years back—and told me at the very last how sorry she was she'd been so hard and narrow. Poor dear. She couldn't help it, an orphan ward in your family that thought wickedness into every pleasant thing, and ate up half she had, after eating up all their own. Finding them out I do believe hurt her worse than being so plundered ——" Sandy burst out, sparks in her eyes. "But we're wastin, breath that can be better spent. Mine in saying you shan't wear my black satin pumps —now nor ever—burn 'em up first."

Sandy—properly Alexandria Semmes —was semi-private secretary to Banker Lawrence, going in and out eight miles daily by help of the trolley. She loved to dance, better than to dream of a possible Prince Charming. And she did often alone, timed by a neighbor's radio, in the dusk of her big room with all the windows wide. If she had said so, folks would have looked askance —even wthout that they were given to saying behind the hand how queer she was. How very queer. Yet, oddly, she was better liked than Felicia, who by influences not generally named out loud—being ecclesiastical or political—fed in public pastures, seeking always the most money for the least work.

In their small-girlhood Sandy had disliked her tepidly. Now that they were rising twenty, dislike had changed into blazing contempt. The affair of the dance and the shoes was typical—she determined to wear the pumps to rags, as soon as she knew of Sandy's misfitting gift. It might better have come to her. The sender, an old teacher gone higher in the school machine, had written with the parcel: "Too long, I know, dear Sandy—but so slim and soft, they deserve to be seen on your beautiful feet."

Felicia went to the party—in borrowed shoes, rather than miss it. Too narrow, too long, her heels were blistered by their slipping up. But that didn't hurt half so much as the fact that they split up and down the middle—which meant putting a new pair in place of them. Fifteen dollars was an awful price to pay, even for dancing with all the best partners. Sandy should pay much more than that—else Felicia would know the reason why. She began sedulously to cultivate Mrs. Lawrence, who was as good as she waw beautiful, and guileless to the edge of imbecility. Presently she was hearing —of course told regretfully—the tale of Sandy's wickedness—how she mocked at piety, and was, in fact, an atheist unconfessed. Did Mrs. Lawrence feel it right to have her husband subjected to such influences? Mrs. Lawrence sighed deeply, blushed and said vaguely she trusted Elbridge as she did her God. But next week, Felicia danced had a new occupant—and Sandy herself had vanished.

Also and further, Mrs. Lawrence had been more than kind—taking Felicia in her car all about the county, on her speaking tours. Sandy wasn't mentioned.

So time, ambling withal, brought another Thanksgiving imminent. Felicia somehow felt that the feast would mark a climax in her affairs. Banker Lawrence had said rather pointedly that there needed to be changes in county affairs. She had never managed to get really acquainted with him—but his wife's kindness more than made up for that. Of course they might ask her to Thanksgiving dinner—Mrs. Lawrence had spoken vaguely of a possible absence. But nothing was settled —it was a happy hopeful Felicia that breezed into the County offices bright but not too early the Monday morning of Thanksgiving week. She found the men there twittering, the women gasping. The friendliest of them fought with the unfriendliest to tell the news. Willard Lawrence, sole heir to the banker, was fetching home a wife for Thanksgiving—and who should that wife be but Sandy Semmes!

Luck! Pure, blind, bull luck! Nothing else. This was the how of it: Son Willard had a scientific complex—a very robust one—he had taxed his eyes till blindness threatened just when there was required, the most difficult, the most accurate, the most tedious calculation—for which his father had chosen. Sandy, sending them away to a seaside home where, in a darkened room, young Willard could listen to the results Sandy read him. Outside a noted mathematician checked them —and found never a flaw. She had made the tedious job a labor of love—in result she had won the love of her employer. They had been married a month—with full parental approval—of course she'd never go back to the bank—but think of her queening it there at the Lawrence house. Felicia waited to hear no more. Instead she made haste to write her resignation, ask an invitation to visit a distant cousin—and there to decide that another tate and county gave better scope for her abilities—a decision never challenged by those she left behind.

WORKING GIRLS GROW PRETTIER

More Exercise and Higher Wages Given Credit For Improvement.

IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, (United Press). —London's working girls are yearly growing beautiful.

According to Sir Thomas Legge, Senior Medical Inspector of Factories, the last 20 years have shown a marked improvement in the beauty of the English working girl. He attributes the improvement to an open air life, more exercise and higher wages.

"In the last factory visited," he said "I noted that 72 per cent of the girls were good-looking—of the Rossetti, Burn-Jones or Greek type —28 per cent were average looking and none at all were bad looking.

"The change in health is remarkable. Twenty years ago, records showed 30 to 35 per cent of the working girls were anaemic. To-day

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DOTTY MEETS MR. MARSH WREN.

Dotty sat down and laughed. The whole marshlands were alive with wild chatter and yet Dotty couldn't see a single bird in sight.

"Isn't that funny?" she mused, glancing from one side to the other. "All this racket and I can't see who's making it."

Just then one little bird, braver than the rest, flew up and settled on a swaying cat-tail and nodded at Dotty.

He was a dainty little bird with a great long bill. His little back was covered with soft, downy brown feathers while his vest was a dusky white. Over his sharp, snappy eyes was a little white line. A long tail was carried proudly up in the air.

"Hello, there, Dotty," he chattered merrily. "I hope my friends and I don't bother you. You see, it's nesting time among Marsh Wrens, and that means a happy, busy season. I guess we all think the more noise we make the faster we can work."

"Mother always says you can work faster and better if you sing," answered Dotty. "But did I hear you say your name was Mr. Marsh Wren? I'm mighty glad to know you. I've often seen Miss Jenny Wren. She builds her nest out in Daddy's orchard. Tell me, Mr. Marsh Wren, have you a wife?"

"Goodness, yes," chuckled Mr. Marsh Wren. Then he called softly, and out from under the tangled weeds and cat-tails fluttered a wee tiny bird. She was dressed just like her mate.

"I'm glad to know you, Mrs. Marsh

"It's Nesting Time."

Wren," said Dotty, bowing very politely. "Have you folks built a nest in these marshes?"

"Indeed we have," replied Mrs. Marsh Wren. "Haven't you seen our nest? Then come right along," and she flew down among the weeds, calling softly.

Dotty and Mr. Marsh Wren, followed, and Dotty gave a cry of delight when she spied the tiny little hole in what looked like a big ball of weeds.

"Isn't that just too cunning?" cried Dotty. "And did you build this little nest of weeds and grasses? Then you deserve a gold medal," she laughed when Mrs. Marsh Wren told her she had made the nest.

"I just bend down the rushes and weave them with the weeds and grasses Daddy brings me," laughed Mrs. Marsh Wren. "Then I gather the down from the last season's cattails and line the nest. Isn't it cozy? Let's see, Daddy, how many times did we build last year?"

"Do you build more than one nest a season?" asked Dotty.

"Oh, yes. When we get the building fever we build nest after nest," chuckled Daddy Marsh Wren. "I don't remember how many nests we built last year, but we won't get that many made this year if we sit around and talk." So, spreading his cinnamon-brown, wings Mr. Marsh Wren sailed away.

"I must get busy, too," declared Mrs. Marsh Wren. "You come back again and see the babies when they are hatched."

Mighty Motorcade To Mark Official Opening of Quebec To Gulf Highway

By Harvey Holleman

Early in the fall of 1926 a celebration will be held to commemorate the opening of the Appalachian Scenic Highway from Montreal to Atlanta, through Asheville. To attend this event a mighty motorcade will start southward from Montreal, adding recruits en route and proceed to Atlanta, for the occasion.

Stretching from Montreal to New Orleans, the Appalachian Scenic Highway is a road of wonderous scenery and never-ending delight according to Roscoe Marvel, who sponsored this route for many months before others came to his aid in getting it firmly established. Mr. Marvel is still president.

Following the ridge of the Appalachian range from Pennsylvania in Georgia this route not only gets its name, but affords some of the most gorgeous mountain scenery in America. Many experienced travelers claim it excels anything they saw in Switzerland. With practically all of the route hard-surfaced, and with all of the roadway in good shape for all-weather travel, motorists are using it twelve months in the year. Between Montreal and Asheville there are only 8½ miles yet to be hard-surfaced. Travelers have come to realize that construction of mountain highways has become so perfect that it is no more dangerous motoring than on level ground.

It was early in 1924, when Roscoe Marvel told a little group of good road enthusiasts gathered at the Kenilworth Inn, that it was time for the motoring tourist to be informed of a route of scenic grandeur unsurpassed on the American continent; that he had spent days, weeks and months, investigating and exploring the connecting links and laid before them a survey which he claimed was feasible all the way fro mCanada on the north to the Gulf of Mexico on the south. Charles E. Davis, president of the National Highway Association, after checking up on the proposed Appalachian Scenic Highway, is quoted as saying that it will eventually develop into the most popular route and best traveled highway in Eastern America. Two years have passed and the prediction is more than verified. Hundreds of motorists are using this route between the North and South now, whether their destination be directly on the A. S. H. or not. Last fall and winter hundreds of motorists en route to Florida found in using the A. S. H. a most delightful diversion from the beaten paths of previous journeys southward and northward.

By stopping over a few days in Asheville, the motorist is advised than he can make many little journeys and interesting side trips to nearby scenic points such as Mount Mitchell, Chimney Rock, Pisgah, and Rumbling Bald.

From Canada to the North Carolina line the entire route follows the mountain range mostly on the crest the same as it does through North Carolina. From Asheville south, the roads are now hard-surfaced to a point below Waynesville, N. C., and all roads between that point and Atlanta are now either hard-surfaced or under construction, with the assurance that they will be completed by this fall. South of Atlanta most of the roads are either paved, graveled, good sand-clay, or under construction. By the time the winter tourist travel begins to turn southward, it is hoped that the entire distance into New Orleans can be traversed in comfort and without danger of delay by reasons of bad roads. The few remaining stretches of questionable roads in Alabama are rapidly being eliminated.

The most remarkable feature of the Appalachian Scenic Highway, the feature which puts it in the markable scenic and historic interest of the route traversed: From the quaint old French city of Quebec, perched upon bluffs along the noble St. Lawrence, skirting the famed Adirondack region, along the shores of Lakes Champlain and George, through the mountains of Eastern Pennsylvania, traversing the wonderful Shenandoah Valley, over the Blue Ridge Mountains, along the wonderful Smokies, through the magnificent Nantahala Gorge, over the mountains of North Georgia, by Neal's Gap, past Stone Mountain, through the fruit and cotton regions of Georgia and Alabama, and into the Gulf Coast region, there is scarcely a mile of the route but what is rich in history, in romance and scenery, which can scarcely be duplicated. En route there are several caves and caverns, the Natural Bridge of Virginia, Stone Mountain and other world-famed attractions far too numerous to touch in an article of this length. At one point the road is paved with marble for many miles; at another it passes over a roadbed rich in gold. Two national parks, and not less than three unusually attractive national forests and game preserves are passed en route. The tourist traveling for pleasure could easily spend an entire summer on the Appalachian Highway and then not exhaust the outstanding points of interest.

Motorists generally will participate in the great Motorcade from Montreal to Atlanta. All along the route the number of auto-pilgrims over the ASH will be augmented. Local Chambers of Commerce and motor clubs are booking participants. It is expected that all cities, towns and communities touched by the ASH will, according to their population, send delegates to the Atlanta meeting. The meeting last year was held at the Kenilworth Inn, Asheville.

The itinerary of the trip, now under preparation will be ready for early distribution. It will show that the ASH is the longest continuous paved highway in the United States. The ASH is 200 miles shorter than older routes from Montreal to Tampa. An almost air line drawn across your map between these points will follow the Appalachian mountain range through Western North Carolina. It touches by far the greatest number of places of historic interest. The ASH is the direct connecting link between the two new National Parks—the Shenandoah and the Great Smoky. The Lakes to Florida Trail and the Susquehanna Trail have been affiliated with the ASH.

After a very careful inspection by Jack F. Letton and committee of the two Trails the consolidation was affected. They pronounced the ASH most scenic of highways and of easy grade the entire route. The convention will be held in Atlanta the second week in October. Present officials are President Roscoe A. Marvel, Asheville, N. C.; 1st V. P., E. M. Tierney, Binghamton, N. Y.; 2nd V. P., T. V. Orr, Villa Tasso, Fla.; Secretary, Eugene Branch, Asheville, N. C.; Recording Secretary, Fred Houser, Atlanta, supplemented by state vice-presidents as follows: Tennessee, John W. Ring, Johnson City; North Carolina, Ottis Greene, Asheville; Georgia, H. H. Estes, Gainesville; New York, Mary A. Caldwell, Oneonta; Pennsylvania, P. J. Casey, Scranton; Virginia, W. A. Dameron, Roanoke; Florida, Dr. L. A. Brieze, Tampa; Maryland, A. H. Gunnell, Hagerston, and Ontario, Leon Fraser, Toronto.

The Appalachian Scenic Highway Association does not contemplate any road building program. The roads from Canada to Atlanta are ready, or now under construction, and south of that point they are rapidly being whipped into good shape As soon as the routes south of Atlanta are definitely decided upon, however, the Association will do all in its power to stimulate the building and improvement of roads along the routes selected and will cooperate with local organizations to that end.

Since there is at present no other highway in Eastern America offering so direct a northeast-southwest route through the sections traversed, and none so rich in natural wonders, beautiful scenery, historic associations, and variety of experiences, the sponsors of this enterprise are firm in their belief that the Appalachian Scenic Highway is one of the greatest contributions ever made to tourist travel in America, and confidently believe that as it becomes known, it will rapidly take front rank among the most popular highways of the world

The benefits which will be derived by the towns and cities on the route of the Appalachian Scenic Highwa, are incalculable. The many thousands of tourists traversing such a highway spend immense sums of money for incidentals alone, such as hotel entertainment, theaters, gas and oil, supplies and repairs. Much more important than this, however, are the permanent investments made. Probably three out of every four tourists are potential citizens and investors. Florida and California both owe their tremendous development almost entirely to tourists. The live towns on the route of the Appalachian Scenic Highway will find this enterprise paying them enormous dividends as evidenced by the already large number of motorists and tourists using this route for long distance travel.

American Woman Conquers English Channel

GERTRUDE EDERLE SUCCEEDS IN SWIMMING ACROSS CHANNEL

First Woman To Accomplish Great Aquatic Feat of Endurance.

SIXTH CROSSING.

Five Men Were Formerly Successful in Swimming the Channel.

KINGSDOWN, England, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Gertrude Ederle landed here last night, successfully swimming the English Channel from Cape Gris-Nez, France.

Miss Ederle walked triumphantly up the beach between the little village of Kingsdown and Walmer Castle, Deal, quite strong and fresh. The last few hundred yards of the swim were watched from the shore by thousands of visitors from all parts of the country sojourning at the seaside resort of Deal, who collected all available material to build a bonfire on the beach to guide the plucky girl as she neared her goal.

The swimmer refused all offers of help in landing. Waving all aside, she walked out of the surf unaided, amid tremendous outbursts of cheering which completely drowned the tug boats sirens. She was so fresh she even wanted to plunge into the sea again to swim back to the boat lying some 200 yards out, But this was not allowed and she was rowed back to the boat and helped aboard for the return trip to Cape Gris Nez.

The latter part of the swim was accomplpished in bad conditons, a stiff breeze churning up heavy seas, and there was a slight rain.

The scene as Miss Ederlre finished the last few hundred yards was intensely thrilling. The blaze of light enabled the crowd which had gathered, to watch the swimmer's strokes ,and the enthusiasm among the women spectators over this triumph of one of their sex knew no bounds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (United Press).—Nearly $125,000 was wagered in Wall Street commission houses on Gertrude Ederle's Channel swim. The odds opened in the morning at 3 to 1 against, by 11 o'clock they had lowered to 8 to 5, and the last bets of yesterday were made at 6 to 5. There was considerable betting outside of the commission houses. It was reported that the swimmer's father, a retired butcher, had wagered $4,000 at odds of 3 1-2 to 1 on his daughter's chances.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. — Miss Gertrude Ederle's record breaking swim across the English Channel to-day is the sixth time this turbulent stretch of water has been conquered in something over a half century.

The record of the five previous triupmhs, all by men, follow:

August 24-25, 1875, by Captain Matthew Webb, of Eastborne, England. Dover Sands, England to Sandgatte Beach, France. Time 22 hours, 45 minutes. Estimated distance travelled, 39 miles (Second attempt).

September 5-6, 1911, by Thomas W. Burgess of London. England Dover, Admirality pier to Cape Griz Nez, France. Time 22 hours, 35 minutes. Estimated distance covered 39 miles. (19th attempt).

August 5-6, 1925, by Henry Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass. Dover Admiralty Pier to Cape Griz Nez Time 27 hours, 23 minutes Estimated distance travelled 45 miles. (Third attempt).

August 11-12 1923, by Sebastian Tiraboschi, of Buenos Aires, and Italian. Cape Gris Nez to Dover Sands, England. Time 16 hours, 23 minutes. Estimated distance traveled 27 miles. (Third attempt).

September 8-9 1925, by Charles Toth, of Boston, Cape Griz Nez to Dover Sands. Time 16 hours, 54 minutes. Estimated distance traveled 28 miles. (Twelfth attempt).

JOHN FARRELL LEADS FIELD GOLF TOURNEY

Shooting at 71 Which Gives an Aggregate of 40.

LEO DIEGEL THIRD.

Closely Followed By Sarazen Who Led the List Thursday.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press)—Johnny Farrell, the Quaker Ridge, N.Y., player, led the field at the end of the second round of the Canadian open golf championship tournament being staged over the course of the Royal Montreal Golf Club at Dixie. Yesterday he shot a 71, which give him an aggregate of 140. He was closely chased by Gene Sarazen, Fresh Meadow, L.I., who headed the list Thursday with Farrell at the end of the first 18 holes.

Yesterday Sarazen had to be satised with a 72 which gave him an aggregate of 141. Bracketed in third place were Leo Diegel, White Plains, N.Y., defending champion, who made a 70 for a total of 143, and Joe Turness, going round today in 68 as compared with his 73 yesterday. Others who may be conceded at chance at the championship at yesterday's play were: W. Creary, Bonnybriar, N.Y., who was second lowest score yesterday with a 69; MacDonald Smith, Lakeville, N.Y., whose aggregate is 144 (he got a par 73 this afternoon), and C. R. Murary, Royal Montreal, 145.

QUEEN'S BIG RED CAR.

DAMASCUS, Aug. 7.—(Associated Press).—Queen Marie of Rumania started something among the French officers of the garrison at Damascus when she sold that giant red automobile, in Paris last fall.

The Queen after an extended touring trip in France sold the car to the highest bidder. It proved to be the Ministry of War and in due course the auto was shipped to Damascus.

While awaiting for his modest car, the correspondent at headquarters here heard three telephone calls from officers desiring a car. "The big red car!" exclaimed the garage keeper, "the big red car, they all want the big red car. They think because the Queen of Rumania has sat in this automobile, that it confers a certain touch of royalty upon them to use it now." The fenders and the body of the car showed many traces of well aimed bullets, proving that Queen Marie's former car had been under fire many times.

SEVEN HOMERS.

Lou Koupal Wins Victory for the Bisons at Reading.

NEW YORK, August 7. Canadian Press. — The Maple Leafs defeated the Orioles yesterday after a couple of extra innings, 7-5. Visiting Baltimore, Toronto registered 15 hits off Parnham and Ogden to take the slugfest. The Leafs used three hurlers, Carroll, Hubbell and Sorrell. There were seven homers.

At Reading Lou Koupal, former Pirate, had the better of Jim Marquis in a hurling duel and the Bisons won 6-3.

Art Decatur worked on the Newark mound yesterday, and held Syracuse to 4 hits. The home team accordingly won, 6-1. Clark knocked his 27th homer.

By scoring two runs in the 9th innings, Rochester defeated the Skeeters at Jersey City yesterday by a score of 4-2.

HOYT SAVES GAME.

Five Errors Contributed To Washington's Victory Over the Tigers.

NEW YORK, August 7. Canadian Press. — The Yankees won the odd game of the series from Cleveland yesterday 8-7, and Cleveland fans were mollified by seeing Babe Ruth drive out his 35th homer of the season. Hoyt saved the game for New York, when with the tying run on second, he came in to fan McNulty, a pinch hitter. The Yanks bunched hits of Levsen in two innings and the Cleveland pitcher's infield support was poor.

Five Detroit errors contributed to Washington's 12 to 8 victory over the Tigers yesterday. Two of these misplays came in the 6th when the visitors scored five runs and knocked Wells out of the box. The Tigers filled the bases in the 8th with one out, but Marberry went to Morrell's relief and retired the side.

"Lefty" Groves pitched effectively and the Philadelphia Athletics won the final game of the series from the Browns at St. Louis yesterday 6-3. The Athletics bunched hits in the 5th inning for five runs, Hale trippling with three on. Pool hit a homer in the eighth.

Chicago made it three straight from Boston by piling up an early lead by bunching hits with the visitors' errors and defeating Boston 7 to 4.

The visitors used three pitchers, while Connally went the route for Chicago.

TWO WORCESTERS MEET AT SOCCER

Team From Massachusetts City To Visit Worcester, England.

LONDON, Aug. 6. — —(United Press).—America will shortly test her strength in association football against a crack English team here.

An Association team from Worcester, Mass., has been invited to visit Worcester, England, to play four matches. Plans to have two Worcester teams meet in several matches date back to the war, when a friendly association was inaugurated between the teams.

Included in the committee which is arranging the contest are Prime Minister Baldwin, three peers and several distinguished officials.

The four matches will be played at Worcester, Kidderminister, Evesham and Strourbridge. In the Worcester match professionals will play for the British team, but only amateurs will play in the later contests. In the following season the British team is expected to visit America for return matches.

Stoney Lake, Wed., Aug. 4.

Mister Sporting Editor:

The sad tidings of last Saturday's disaster to the Petes having filtered through this far, the only cheerful thing I can think of about the game is that I didn't stay over to see it, which I come near doing. It musta been 1 of them affairs that has helped to give me the odd gray hair, and my sympathies are with Mister Al. Heckman, whose unbeaten record was booted away.

The battle just goes to show how little difference they is after all between the hero and the goat of a ball game. As near as I can judge from reading the sad details here was Mister Goyer sent in as a last hope with nothing at all, not even a map showing where the plate was located. He had the ball game all wrapped up in tinfoil ready to present to the Petes, but the home talent simply refused to take it. No, sirree, Mister Hardill and Mister Rose weren't going to accept no gift like that. If they couldn't club in the runs, the lads needed they'd go down with the ship and all hands on board, and sunk they were, with Mister Goyer, who should have been the Patsy of the sketch, emerging as the village hero. I was surprised to read that Mister Hagerman, who usually hits against the Petes as often as Mister Mackenzie King admits that Lord Byng was right in refusing him dissolution, come through with a double with the bases loaded. Seems to me a Mister Walter Johnson once said that it was wise to bear down on weak hitters when they come up in the pinches, and I understand this bird knows something about the art of pitching.

The home lads handed themselves a mess of trouble when they refused to let Mister Goyer hand them the game, and the fight for the play-off serious will be a bitter 1 instead of a procession down the stretch.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, your chances of a fish dinner is looking brighter, though none too good. So far up to Wed. noon I'm hitting .333 in the 'lunge league—that is, I caught 1 and lost 2. You can't eat the 2 what got away, and as for the other, well you gotta admit they ain't much chance to cut a melon when they is only 7 lbs. of fish and a bunch of fish-hungry mouths waiting right here to get in on the dividend. If the 1 I hooked yesterday hadda dropped in the canoe when it fell off the hooks instead of over the side you'd have been all set. What was the fish's gain is your loss, and next time I'll try to have the boat under Mister Musky when he drops.

If Mister Meighen and Mister King thinks the whole country is stirred up over the election campaign I'd advise them to spend a day or 2 up here. I ain't heard nobody mention politics yet, and so far as the Stoney Lake colony is concerned, no 1 seems to care a hoot about the constitution or the customs neither. I met a bird coming out of a huckleberry marsh near the head of the lake the other day, and from the gleam in his eye when he hailed me I thought he was going to be the 1st to mention the election. But he crossed me up to ask how the ball team was doing. I hadn't the heart to tell him about Sat., so I said they was hanging on, and let it go at that.

Well, Mac, if you're to get that fish I just naturally got to go after him, so I'll hang up the poison pen and go and polish the double Buffalo ready for another try.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

GIANTS VICTORS OVER THE REDS FOR TENTH GAME

Cincinnati Scores Three in First, Knocking McQuillen From Box.

BRAVES DEFEATED.

Clever Fielding Paves Way For Pirate Victory Over Boston.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press)—The Boston Braves reached Yde for nine hits, but clever Pirate fielding stranded ten men on the sacks and the Pittsburghers defeated Boston at home 5-4. The champions lost the services, for some days at least, of Glenn Wright, when the shortstop injured his leg sliding into second.

At New York the Giants continued to ide roughshod over the Reds, winning their tenth straight from the visitors, 6-3. McQuillan was knocked out of the box in the first inning when the Reds scored their three runs, but Ring stopped Cincinnati in their tracks. Jackson hit a homer with two on.

Three Brooklyn hurlers failed to stop the visiting St. Louis Cardinals today, and the Robins dropped their fourth consecutive game, 7-3. Babe Herman accounted for three Robin tallies when he hit for the circuit with two on.

Chicago made the most of seven hits to win a ten inning game from Philadelphia today 2-1. Three hurlers worked for the visiting Cubs and the trio held the Phillies to 3 hits all of which were made off Blake.

OIL FROM COAL SAY SCIENTISTS

Quarrels Over Petroleum May Be Avoided, Says Professor.

SCHEME DERIDED.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug 5.—There is a possibility that future wars as the result of the international struggle for oil will be eliminated by chemical discoveries relating to the extraction of oil from coal, said R. T. Haslam, Professor of Chemical Engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, yesterday before the Institute of Politics.
By discovering methods whereby countries having large amounts of coal may obtain oil in adequate amounts, a few chemists, particularly several in Germany, declared Professor Haslam, have contributed to the peace of the world.

Synthetic Oil
Supporting the assertions of Mr. Haslam, Sir James Colquhoun Irvine, President of the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, and member of the Advisory Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, declared that Britain has made herself independent of foreign oil fields by perfecting a method of making synthetic oil. The sinking of oil tankers by submarine or aeroplanes would not stop the supply of oil for war purposes, he declared, but the oil produced was not sufficient for commercial purposes.
Sir James explained that the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research of Great Britain had scrutinized carefully the German processes for extracting oils from coal. In this connection he remarked that oils were being extracted from low-grade shales by a highly economical process.
"Without disclosing a secret," he added, 'we have p'retty well made up our minds what we are to do, and I think we can see our way out, and very comfortably."

Doherty is Skeptical
Henry L. Doherty of New York, capitalist, and oil and gas developer, scoffed at the possibility of extracting oil from coal in commercial quantities, asserting that he did not believe Britain had the secret of replacing ground petroleum. He declared that there was no substitute for petroleum. The men who were of the opinion that science would do everything, he said, were mistaken, and he derided those who, "with a wave of hand, promised to make petroleum out of clay, or something else."

IN POLICE COURT.

Fifteen days in jail was the sentence passed by Magistrate O. A. Langley in the Police Court yesterday afternoon on M. J. Hickey who had pleaded guilty to driving a motor car while in an intoxicated condition. Hickey was also fined $200 and costs for being in possession of liquor in a place other than his dwelling. Godfrey Villeneuve who had accompanied Hickey on a fishing trip which ended in disaster was also fined $25 and costs for being intoxicated in a public place.
The charges were laid by License Inspector Joseph Stewart. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., conducted the main case against Hickey and B. E. Park prosecuted on the minor charges. Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for the accused on all charges.
A curious feature of the case of "having" laid against Hickey on which charge he pleaded not lty was the fact that he again came face to face in court with Walter Baker of Lakefield under circumstances which, in several respects, were a repetition of those attending a former case in which the same two men were involved.
Last Saturday Baker, who is a mechanic and garage man in Lakefield received a call to go to the assistance of a car which was wrecked outside the boundary of the village. On reaching the spot he found that Hickey's car had fallen into the ditch almost at the spot where Baker had collided with a vehicle driven by Hickey last year —an accident that led to a civil action by Hickey in which he obtained judgement for $800 damages against Baker. Sam Baker, brother of the first witness, also testified in the case yesterday against Hickey, and Inspector Stewart related all the events in their proper sequence from the time he received information that led him to visit the scene of the accident until his arrival at the Police Station with Hickey and Villeneuve, whom he had placed under arrest. Mr. Stewart told of the finding of a bottle containing liquor which Sam Baker declared that he had seen thrown into the ditch by accused. Another bottle was produced in Court which, it was stated, was taken out of the pocket of Hickey's jacket after arrival at the Police Court.
The three cases were not without their lighter aspects. Hickey made no attempt to conceal the fact that he had been under the influence of liquor on the day in question, told the Court when questioned about the small bottle of whisky that if he really had purchased it, he did not remember the transaction. "You may not understand the feeling," he observed to the youthful counsel, Mr. Park, who was quesioning him, 'but you may probably understand all about it some day."
Later, Villeneuve, who gave evidence for the defence, explained that he had fallen from the car at one stage of the journey. Asked why Hickey did not return and pick him up witness replied, "He did not know I fell off."
When the Magistrate pronounced sentence, Hickey appealed for a lesser term of imprisonment but His Worship replied that in view of all the circumstances he felt it to be his duty to remain by his decision.

COBALT, Aug. 6.—Operations have started on the re-opening of the Peterson Lake property here. Mr. J. D. Russel, Engineer and Manager for the Company, received instructions from the President last week to proceed immediately with pumping out the shaft at the little Nipissing section, and to make all arrangements for large scale developments.
The recent re-organization by which the Peterson Cobalt Mines took over his property has been most succesful. The Company advises that the underwriters have substantially over paid their commitments to date and that the cash position of the Treasury is such as to permit the complete re-opening and operation of the mine.
The immediate objective of the Company is to extend the existing underground workings from the Keewatin, past the contact and into then diabase. In this connection it is more than encouraging to observe the favorable comments made by engineers and geologists, who, in one capacity or other have been connected with this enterprise. That values can confidently be expected to occur along the Diabase-Keewatin contact is freely predicted In past years the true significance of the Diabase has been only partially understood. This doubtless accounts for the fact that few of the Companies who leased the Peterson area drove their workings into the diabase. Results on the adjoining O'Brien mine have clearly shown that, under certain conditions, the Diabase is a heavy carrier of values. Accordingly, therefore, the land contact—North and South through the bed of the East branch of Peteson Lake—is a most promising area. The new Company are more than fortunate in having so long a contact in their holdings. It is doubtful if such a continuous contact exists on any other of the Cobalt properties. Certainly no contact of such length yet remains unexplored in this, the central portion of the Cobalt Silver Area. The Peterson Cobalt owns the second largest area of mining lands in Cobalt. Approximately less than half of these holdings have been explored and as the Company is completely equipped with mill and mining machinery, there is every likelihood of success being attained.

Brazilian Traction Strong Makes New High Record

TORONTO, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Brazilian Traction was easily the active leader in the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, with a turnover of more than five thousand shares and closing with a net gain of 1-2 at 109 1-2. The stock touched 111 1-2 during the session, a new record high for all time. The market was limited to a narrow list and prices were generally stronger.
International Petroleum, next in activity, gained 7-8 to 34 5-8. Smelters was up 1 3-4 to 234 1-2 and British Columbia Fishing 3-4 to 77.

Rails Make Advance General Motors Strong

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (Canadian Press).—Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which showed further broadening in activity as orders poured in from all sections of the country.
Rails took on a new lease of life when Atchison, Southern Railway and New York Central were lifted to the highest prices in a year or longer, bringing the general average of twenty leading rails to the highest since 1913. Tobacco shares moved up under the leadership of United Cigar Stores, which crossed 101 to a new high. General Motors made a spectacular spurt of more than 9 points at the close to record a high for all time at 217. Dupont scored a similar gain, also reaching a new peak price.

Trading In Wheat Is Slow On Market

CHICAGO Ills., Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press). — Wheat traders were apparently keeping close to the shore to-day. They disinclined to take new risks at the week-end with government crop reports just ahead. Business in wheat early was of moderate volume, and fluctuations of no special signficance. Opening at 1-8 cents off to 1-4 cents up, wheat had within fractional limits Corn and oats were easy and provisions firm, corn starting 1-8 cents to 5-8 down, but late rallying somewhat.

WATER TRIPS BY STEAMER STONE YLAKE

Trips by Boat are Becoming very Popular.

On Monday, Civic Holiday, teh Steamer Stoney Lake, will leave the George street wharf at eight o'clock sharp, and go direct to the Regatta at Juniper Island, taking on at Lakefield any passengers who might go up by bus or boat to that point. Everybody will be able to see the whole regatta as the steamer does not return until the regatta is over.

Lindsay on Tuesday.

Hundreds appreciate the trip by Water to Lindsay, returning by the C. N. R. On Tuesday the Steamer Stoney Lake leaves George street wharf at 7.30 a.m. for an all-water trip to Lindsay. There will likely be a nice crowd take in this trip again. Lots of room.

SPITZENBERGEN DISEASE-LESS

Spitzenbergen has been prominently in the public eye of late months due to the polar expeditions, but strangely enough it has been lost sight of as a health resort, in all of the publicity centering there. It is the one place in the world where human beings live in comfort without illness. Owing to the Arctic air it has been discovered that no disease germs can exist there for long.

pete here but as South America has tariffs which apply equally to all competitors, it is not impossible to meet this competition on such neutral grounds, he says.
Major McColl urges that Canadian manufacturers should not necessarily pay less attention to Europe, but rather that they should profit by their experience in Europe and look more than they do toward South America.

Commercial Morality High.

That the commercial morality of the continent is high may be concluded from huge British and United States capital investments and growing trade. Of the total imports into South America of merchandise valued at $1,700,000,000, and of which Canada supplied $27,500,000 during the last fiscal year, United States and Great Britain each contributed goods to the value of some $400,000,000.
"British capital invested in Latin America, including Mexico and Central America, listed on the London Stock Exchange, amounts to the equivalent of $5,500,000,000, probably exceeding all other foreign investments," said Mr. McColl. "This amount is an increase of nearly $700,000,000 over that of 1913.

U. S. Keenly Interested.

"Next to Great Britain the United States is predominant as a holder of Federal, State and municipal Government bonds, industrial securities and so on." He gave an estimate of British investments in the most important countries as follows:

Argentina	$2,000,000,000
Brazil	1,350,000,000
Chile	400,000,000
Uruguay	200,000,000
Peru	100,000,000

Advice to Exporters.

Mr. McColl warned Canadian manufacturers against considering South America a market of convenience, which they could enter when conditions were good, and from which they could withdraw when they were bad. "There is no doubt that business can be obtained at a profit in some lines, food products, especially, immediately an exporter goes after it, but all Canadian manufacturers are not producers of such commodities. The field for trade and profit will broaden however, if those manufacturers who cannot maintain a remunerative footing immediately are willing to forego profits for a year or even two years," he said.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mr. John Adamson, who passed away August 7, 1926:
He always had a cheerful word
His smiles we see them yet,
His tender love for everyone
We never shall forget.
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought his death so near.
And only those who have lost
Can tell the pain that parting cost.

Hon. E. M. MacDonald Suffering From Ill Health, Refuses Nomination.

HALIFAX, Aug. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—The Halifax Evening Echo received the following despatch today from Antigonish: "Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence in the Government of former Premier King, has advised the executive of the Liberal Association in Antigonish-Guysboro, that owing to impaired health, he cannot be a candidate in the forthcoming general elections. This decision, he stated, is irrevocable. It is generally supposed that the veteran Liberal, C. F. McIsaac, will be the party's choice at the convention to be held here next Wednesday."

J. J. Duffus Receives Unanimous Nomination

Gordon-Peck Controversy Is Revived In Speech Of Former Cabinet Minister To Liberals Assembled In Convention

Ex-Liberal Member Produces Letter From Clerk of House of Commons in Support of His Contention That the Conservative M.P. Voted Against Penny Postage and Tax Reductions.

NEW CANDIDATE DEFINES ATTITUDE TO MAJOR QUESTIONS BEFORE VOTERS

R. R. Hall Attacks Past Record of Meighen and Points to Canada's Favorable Trade Balance and Operating Surplus of Railways as Evidence of Beneficial Effects of King's Administration.

A new standard bearer in the person of Joseph J. Duffus was selected by the Liberal convention, which filled the auditorium of the Great War Veterans' Hall on Saturday night.

The name of last year's candidate, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., was put forward for nomination, as was that of R. R. Hall, K.C., also a former member, but both these gentlemen declined to allow their names to go before the meeting, and Mr. Gordon proposing and Mr. Hall seconding the name of Mr. Duffus, who was unanimously selected.

Another chapter in the Gordon-Peck controversy was recorded by the production of a letter from the Clerk of the House to the ex-Minister of Immigration, which stated that Mr. Peck voted for Dr. Manion's motion and against the Budget.

Hon. T. A. Low, who was billed to address the meeting, failed to turn up. Strong attacks on the present Government were made by Messrs. Gordon and Hall, Mr. Gordon making scathing references to several members of the Meighen Cabinet whose selection, he declared, to be an insult to the people of Canada. Mr. Duffus outlined very fully his attitude to the major questions before the electors.

J. J. Hartley, president of the Liberal Association, for the past twenty-two years occupied the chair. With him on the platform were, besides the speakers of the evening, John Dewart, M.C.; Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield; E. A. Tanner, president of Lakefield Liberal Association; Richard Walsh of Otonabee; Mrs. W. H. Graham; Miss Luella Jobbin, president of the Women's Liberal Association, and Miss Moloney.

Mr. Hartley, in a brief address, said the Conservatives in the last Parliament made desperate attacks on the Liberal Government and they put forth every effort to nag and defeat that Government, especially on the Budget. They did not succeed then, but a time came when Mr. King asked for a dissolution, but was refused it by the Governor-General. Mr. Meighen was called on to form a Government, and in a few days was beaten and, asking for a dissolution, was granted one.

J. J. Duffus.

J. J. Duffus called to the platform, said he found it somewhat difficult to express himself. He thanked the Convention for nominating him. The electors assembled there had agreed unanimously to do him the honor of being called upon to fight the constituency on behalf of the Liberay Party. He expressed his sincere appreciation to Messrs. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and R. R. Hall, K.C., for moving and seconding his nomination. He wished to state that it had been a complete surprise to him. He had never had any intention or inclination whatever to stand as a candidate in any Federal or political contest. But the time always came when someone was called upon to give service to the community in this respect. He was now the unanimous choice of the Liberal Convention a Convention in which he had been an active member for many years. Having been thus chosen, he felt it his duty to accept the nomination to become a candidate and take the consequences. He believed that if he did not accept the nomination thus tendered him, he would be a traitor to the great Liberal principles in which he believed.

He had always had a certain amount of sympathy for any political candidate. Many who considered their best interest would keep out. For himself, did he consult his nearest interests, he would have declined nomination. He fully realized that physically, mentally and financially it was not in his interest to run. He accepted, because he believed it to be his duty to do so, at this particular time.

Now that he was the choice of the Liberals, he was called upon to fight the party battles up and down the concessions and in the city. Now that they had selected their man, he asked the members of the convention that they should resolve that they would not go home and forget all about it. He wanted them to keep the issues before them, to work in the interest of the party and ensure the return to Parliament of the candidate on the election day. If each of them determined to vote and to bring out their friends, there need be no fear of the issue when the election day came round. He had no intention of delaying them very long but he wished to make a few observations.

No Mudslinging.

The first one was that for himself he had resolved that there should be no mudslinging either by himself or by anyone on his behalf. He wanted no personalities on trickery or dishonesty so that when the contest was over no one need have any regrets. Their opponent was a gentleman of the finest type. There was nothing to gain by adopting undesirable tactics and by refraining from them, whether they lost or not they would be all the happier at the close of the contest.

He was a supporter of the Liberal Party because of its great democratic principles. All the time it considered each and every man and woman irrespective of nationality or occupation.

He had followed in the papers the speeches of the two leaders and others. He had followed Mr. Meighen closely as reported in the Press. The leader of the Government seemed to have no argument other than that the Liberals had been turned out and that he should be retained in office. He gave every reason why the Liberals should kept out, but no constructive reason why he and his followers should be continued in power.

Alliance With Progressives.

At the last election Mr. King appealed to the voters to return him to power with a majority larger than that which he had previously. A great deal of capital had been made of the fact that after the election he was returned with a smaller group and still continued to form a Government. Mr. Duffus asked his hearers to remember that Mr. King was a student of politics and, believing in the principles of Liberalism knowing that Liberals and Progressives agreed on many points of policy he saw no reason why they should not combine and enable the Government to carry on, as it was well known that Mr. Meighen could never effect a union with the Progresives. Some people said that Mr. King should have resigned and let the Conservatives form a Govern ment. Was there anybody in the Hall, asked Mr. Duffus who wanted a General Election last year immediately after that of October 29? That was what would have happened if the Conservatives had been placed in power. For proof of that he pointed out the fact that when a Conservative Government was formed, it was turned out of office within two days and half.

Railways An Issue.

There were several matters that would come before the electors. One was railways. Some people said the C.N.R. was not an issue in this campaign. Personally he regarded it as a very serious issue. Who took over the C.N.R.? The Conservatives. When Mr. Meighen went out of office, the C.N.R. was losing over $70,000,000 annually of the peoples' money. When the Liberals took up the task, every effort they made to put the railway into shape was opposed by Meighen and his followers. By the persistent labors of Mr. King and the appointment of Sir Henry Thornton, the situation was improved until in 1925 instead of a loss there was an operating surplus of $32,280,000.

The situation had further improved until last month the operating surplus was seven times as high as it was on the same month a year ago. It was confidently anticipated that the revenue this year would not only meet the operating expenses, but also the interest on the investment which would make the C.N.R. no longer a burden on the people.

Further, they all knew that in Quebec there was a gentleman by the name of Mr. Patenaude who last year was in reality Mr. Meighen's opponent in that Province. He was what Mr. Hall would describe as a political chameleon who could turn his colors over night. This man was now in the Cabinet. It was black turning white. It was the sun setting in the East. A man consenting who had sworn that he would never consent. It was the hare running with the hounds. Mr. Patenaude had said he was opposed to Mr. Meighen and Meighen had then taken him into the Cabinet. It was turncoat politics. Mr. Patenaude was the Andy Gump of the last election. He wore no man's collar and no party's livery. Over and over again he said solemnly and publicly, "I am in every way free." His campaign slogan was country before party not portfolio before principles." He was one of the men who would sell the C.N.R. Despite the fact that transportation was the life blood of the nation, he had no railway pride whatever. And Mr. Meighen brought him into the Cabinet. What confidence could any people have in men who would change over night? This was the class of cabinet ministers with which Mr. Meighen proposed to give stable Government. As Mr. Duffus saw it, the question was a very serious issue. What could be expected of Mr. Meighen considering his attitude to Sir Henry Thornton and the Railway Board? The candidate said the position of Mr. King was that of no political interference with the management of the Railways which should be entirely in the hands of a non-political Railway Board. They had every reason to believe that such was not the policy of Mr. Meighen at the present time.

Mr. King had said that his policy was that there should be no interference with the Railways by any party. He had also said that he wished to see the C.P.R. prosper. The Dominion as a whole should prosper.

Customs Administration.

Another issue was the Customs. He did not wish to minimize the gravity of the problem. If there was anything of which he was formerly convinced it was that there should be no brookedness in high places. He stood for the policy of bringing to book every one, high or low, who had been guilty of corruption in the administration of the Customs Department. The thing had been going on to a greater or lesser extent for year. (A voice, "Under the Tories"). He believed that when all the facts had become known, it would be found that the Tories were implicated more than anyone else in the matter. It was a thing that happened under all Governments. There was a line three thousand miles long between the two countries and in many places only a road separated them, with Canada on one side of the road and the United States on the other. It was impossible to stop it entirely. In this connection, he pointed out that the higher the tariff the greater the ensuing corruption and the greater the profits from smuggling. He wished to illustrate the point in a simple manner. If the duty on a cigar was ten cents a gain to that extent was made by the successful smuggler. If the duty was twenty cents, the smuggler's prize was correspondingly greater.

While he did not advocate a too low tariff, he believed that a high tariff was not in the interest of the country as a whole. The tariff did not seem to be such a big issue in this election as in the last, nevertheless, he thought it was all important. Mr. Meighen and his candidates and associates had been preaching high tariff, that was high

TOURIST CAMP IS COMMENDED

Visitors to the Exhibition Grounds Write Opinions In Camp Register.

WELL PLEASED.

That the popularity of the tourist camp on the exhibition grounds is as high as ever is well attested by the increasing number of visitors who make use of it, and by the comments that are written in the record book.

Almost a dozen entries say: "Best we have found." One says, "Best in Ontario. Others say, "Camp ideal." The attendant comes in for his meed of praise in the commendation, "Courteous attendant." One tourist, obviously a repeater, comments "Have enjoyed it before," "Ideal place." "Very fine camp," "Hard to beat" and "Good camp and rest" are commendations that speak for themselves.

A U.S. visitor writes, "Pleased with the city." Another says, "Stayed four days and wished I could stay longer."

The camp has this year again received the certificate of approval from the Provincial Health Department. This certificate, which is issued bearing the signature of the Minister of Health, Hon. Forbes Godfrey, is valid for one year only, and is withdrawn immediately a camp fails to comply with the regulations of the department. Prominently displayed at the entrance is a notice stating the fact that the camp has secured the 1926 certificate.

The visitors at the camp during the past week include tourists from as far apart as Vancouver, Nova Scotia, and Dayton, Ohio.

Wood Alcohol Renamed To Stop Use As Beverage

WASHINGTON, August 10.—Canadian Press. — The liquor which killed more than a score of persons at Buffalo recently, was made of methyl or wood alcohol, a government chemist today reported to the prohibition officers here.

This product was described as a deadly poison. It is used in the manufacture of dyes and disinfectants, and the name has been changed by the trade to "Methanol," in an attempt to prevent its use as a beverage.

The alcohol, it was said, had been purchased in New York State, the investigation indicated, after it had been shipped into the country, probably from Germany, for commercial purposes.

MEMORIAL AT BALSAM LAKE

Many Attend Service and Contribute Generously For Monument.

TWO ADDRESSES.

COBOCONK, Ont., Aug. 10—More than an hour before the appointed time people from all parts gathered on Sunday at St. Thomas' Church for the memorial service held for the eleven boys of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, who lost their lives in Balsam Lake on July 20. It is estimated that by 3 p.m. some 500 people had gathered. The departed boys themselves were represented by some of the relatives, there being present, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. F. J. Brockwell, and Miss Rose Williams, of Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs. Shea and Mr. Burkitt, of Toronto. The church being too small, a platform was erected to represent a chancel with altar and desks. The altar was decorated with beautiful cut flowers including a large cross of blue and white flowers. The back of the altar was graced with the Union Jack.

The service was in charge of the rector, Rev. W. F. Wrixon, who was assisted by the Rev. Rural Dean Kidd, of Cannington; Rev. W. J. M. Swan, of Toronto; Dr. Davis, rector of Fenelon Falls; Rev. Wilkinson, United Chruch pastor at Victoria Road, and Mr. A. A. Macdonald, L. R., of Kirkfield. The choir of St. Paul's Church, Lindsay, rendered valuable assistance in the musical part of the service. The Rev. W. F. Wrixon read messages of regret and sympathy from the Lord Bishop of Toronto, Archdeacon Davidson, Canon Marsh, of Lindsay; Canon Plumptre and Canon Vernon. The hymns were: "O God Our Help in Ages Past," "The Strife is O'er, the Battle Done," "On the Resurrection

THROUGH STREET PLAN ADOPTED FOR PETERBORO'

George and Charlotte Street Crossings Will Be So Designated.

SIGNS PAINTED.

All Vehicles Must Come To Complete Stop Before Crossing.

Due to the increasing number of automobiles and other vehicles on the streets of the city, and also to the numerous collisions that have resulted of late at street intersections, it has been decided o designate George and Charlotte streets as through streets, and all traffic entering on them must come to a complete stop. The only exception is that of vehicles making a right hand turn and entering the flow of traffic. This traffic is permitted to do so without coming to a complete stop.

While the law is not yet in effect, Chief of Police Samuel Newhall assured The Examiner that it would become law after the next council meeting. The stop street zone, he said, extends from Smith to Romaine on George, and from Water street to the boundary on Charlotte street.

This means that any vehicle crossing either George street or Charlotte street at a right angle between the streets named must come to a complete stop, whether the street is marked or no. Some of the streets have already been marked.

Chief Newhall stated that he had heard nothing but the highest praise for the system wherever it had been put into operation.

Hamilton and Windsor, he said, had met with particularly good success since its enaction. All that was necessary, he declared, was for the people to work hand in hand with the police and the results would be beneficial.

Further particulars will be published before any prosecutions take place but Chief Newhall expressed the opinion that the people should get used to the idea, and practice the new law without delay.

J. J. HARTLEY,
President of the Liberal Association, who acted as chairman at the convention held in the G.W.V.A. Hall on Saturday.

CHURCH PARADE ENDS FIRST DAY

Knights March To St. John's Church To Hear Sermon.

VICAR SPEAKS.

One hundred and sixty Knights Templar paraded last night from the Empress Hotel to St. John's Church, where Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave preached a special sermon. Headed by the Salvation Army Band the Knights marched along George and up Hunter to the church, forming one of the finest parades seen in the city in recent years.

The church was comfortably filled by the Knights and by other worshippers. The Grand Chaplain, R. E. Knight, Rev. Fred. H. Fatt of Victoria, B.C., assisted Dr. Blagrave in the service.

Dr. Blagrave took as his text, John 20:21: "As my Father hath sent me so send I you." It so happened that the lesson which Dr. Blagrave had selected as appropriate for the occasion was the lesson for the week. This he thought was something more than a coincidence, It was, he believed, the leading of the Holy Spirit.

The words of the Lord were spoken to His disciples at the first tryst between them after His resurrection. The disciples had met in fear of the rulers, as the Christians were destined to meet often during the course of the next two and a half centuries. Christ was fully conscious when he made this statement of His commission from the Father. It was still a matter for scholarly inquiry to what extent Christ was conscious of His commission at the beginning of His ministry.

But at the time He uttered these words, He was definitely conscious that all He did was from God and that the things which He did and said were God's actions and God's words.

It was necessary to recognize that there was a definite distinction between Christ and other men. It was well to remember that in these days of uncertainty and questionings, Christ's claim to our lives was God's claim.

The words to the disciples were the beginning of that which Paul called the body of Christ—the Christian Church.

"As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you." These words were the greatest compliment God ever paid to human motives. Christ knew that man with all his prejudices and all his imperfections was worthy of the great trust reposed in him. Man became conscious not only of divine mission but of divine motives through this trust in him. "So I send you." Only by way of sacrifice could man fulfill this commission. We must feel the crown of thorns, service of all kinds service for God or man was by this way. From the day when the first martyrs offered themselves and through the Smithfield burnings to the sacrifice of Shea-Butcher leaving the upturned canoe that the fourteen clinging boys might have a better chance of being saved, it was all the same kind of sacrifice.

Dr. Blagrave traced the growth of the Knights Templar in the Middle Ages from the time of the Crusaders who sacrificed themselves that the holy places might be freed from the domination of the Saracen. The Knight Templars were formed to keep clear the lines of communication to the holy places. This was

CIVIC WELCOME OPENS SESSION OF ASSEMBLY

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Peterborough, through its acting Mayor, Nagle E. Phelan, and Alderman Roland Denne, extended a civic welcome to the Sovereign Great Priory, Knights Templar, on the occasion of the opening of the forty-third annual assembly held here for the first time. Over two hundred delegates were present, some of them coming from Prince Rupert, British Columbia, in the west, and Cape Breton, Nova Socia in the east, while numerous American cities are also represented.

The picturesque attire of the Knights lent a pleasing touch of color to the scene and carried the mind back to the ancient days of chivalry and crusaders.

Acting Mayor Phelan, in his address of welcome, said:

"To the Most Eminent the Supreme Grand Master of Sovereign Great Priory, Knights Templar, of the Dominion of Canada, and visiting Knights:

"As acting Mayor of the City of Peterborough the honor of offering you a welcome devolves upon me:

"In conjunction with the other members of the city council I have great pleasure in extending to you a hearty welcome to the City of Peterborough. The whole city joins in welcome to you, visiting Knights, whose benevolence and public spirit is so well known, and we, therefore, extend to you the freedom of the City of Peterborough.

"We trust that your stay among us will be pleasant and that your convention and proceedings will be most successful. We are honored to have among us so many men of prominence in your great Order and in the commercial and industrial life of Canada and we trust that Peterborough may have the honor of enjoying a visit from you at some future time.

"Consider the city as yours, and go about the duties of your convention feeling that you have the hearty good wishes and good will of the whole city."

M. E. Knight Lt. Col. B. McLeod, Grand Master, replied.

This afternoon the various delegates and their ladies were taken on a sight seeing tour, visiting the lift lock and points of interest in the city, also some of the principal factories.

NOBILITY GIVES ZITA FUNDS.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press).—Patriotic members of the old Hungarian nobility have created a fund to support former Queen Zita and her family of eight children, who are now living at San Sebastian, Spain.

Out of this fund the widow of former King Charles is assured an allowance of $60,000 a year, which, with the inomce she derives from her private properties in Hungary, nets her about $100,000 a year.

Hungary as a State is forbidden to pay any government funds to the former Queen. Hence, the wealthier members of the old Hungarian nobility, like Count Apponyi and Count Andrassy, have helped her out of their own funds.

J. J. DUFFUS LIMITED

Public notice is hereby given that under the First Part of Chapter 79 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, known as "The Companies Act," and amending Acts, letters patent have been issued under the Seal of the Secretary of State of Canada bearing date the 20th day of July, 1926, incorporating Joseph James Duffus, manager, Michael James Duffus, sales manager, Albert Roy Girven, secretary-treasurer, Gertrude Duffus, married woman, Egbert Lugora Duffus, Herbert John Duffus, and William Alexander Duffus, mechanics, all of the City of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, for the following purposes, viz.—

(a) To acquire by purchase and pay for either in funds of the company or by the issue of stock in the company, the business of J. J. Duffus, trading and carrying on business under the firm name and style of Duffus Motor Sales;

(b) To buy sell, exchange and otherwise howsoever deal in and with goods, wares, merchandise, as wholesale, retail and commission merchants and agents;

(c) To purchase, acquire, hold, sell, lease or rent or otherwise howsoever deal, with real estate;

(d) To conduct and engage in the business of conducting places of amusement, entertainment, recreation and instruction;

(e) To engage in the business of the manufacture of all kinds of goods, wares and merchandise;

(f) To pay out of the funds of the company all or any of the expenses incidental to the formation and organization thereof, and to employ, contract with and provide for the remuneration of brokers, commission agents and underwriters, upon any issue of shares, bonds, debentures, debenture stock or other securities of the company;

(g) To take or otherwise acquire and hold shares in any other company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of the company or carrying on any business capable of being conducted so as directly or indirectly to benefit the company.

The operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada, and elsewhere by the name of "J. J. Duffus Limited," with a capital stock of two hundred and fifty thousand ($250,000) dollars, divided into two thousand five hundred (2,500) shares of one hundred ($100) dollars each, and the chief place of business of the said company to be at the City of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario.

Thomas Mulvey,
Under Secretary of State.

Gasoline ¼c a Gal

Chicago Scientist Discovers Miracle That Gives 1,250 Gallons of Gas at ¼c a Gallon.

Try It Free

CHICAGO, ILL.—The automobile world is agog over the amazing results of the strange new gasoline discovery made by the Chicago scientist, L. Ferguson. It is an entirely new idea. Nothing ever like it. It is not a gasoline, combination, carburetor device or dope to put in gasoline. Its action is astonishing. Exhaustive tests prove and it is guaranteed to give 1,250 gallons of gasoline for only ¼c a gallon every 10,000 miles the car runs. It is named Motor-Mystery and is also guaranteed to instantly remove and permanently prevent carbon and to increase power, pep and speed of any car. One of its strangest features is the fact that it is used only once every 50,000 miles. It costs practically nothing and saves over $200 yearly.

A straight salary of $100 weekly with commission and a Free Dodge car are guaranteed to agents everywhere to introduce it quickly. A Free Trial and agent's new plan will be sent without obligation to anyone who writes quickly to L. Ferguson, Dayton, M-M Laboratories, 7000 N. Clark St., Dept. 623 Chicago, Ill.

NOBILITY GIVES ZITA FUNDS.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 10.—(Associated Press).—Patriotic members of the old Hungarian nobility have created a fund to support former Queen Zita and her family of eight children, who are now living at San Sebastian, Spain.

Out of this fund the widow of former King Charles is assured an allowance of $60,000 a year, which, with the inomce she derives from her private properties in Hungary, nets her about $100,000 a year.

Hungary as a State is forbidden to pay any government funds to the former Queen. Hence, the wealthier members of the old Hungarian nobility, like Count Apponyi and Count Andrassy, have helped her out of their own funds.

J. J. DUFFUS LIMITED

Public notice is hereby given that under the First Part of Chapter 79 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, known as "The Companies Act," and amending Acts, letters patent have been issued under the Seal of the Secretary of State of Canada bearing date the 20th day of July, 1926, incorporating Joseph James Duffus, manager, Michael James Duffus, sales manager, Albert Roy Girven, secretary-treasurer, Gertrude Duffus, married woman, Egbert Lugora Duffus, Herbert John Duffus, and William Alexander Duffus, mechanics, all of the City of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, for the following purposes, viz.—

(a) To acquire by purchase and pay for either in funds of the company or by the issue of stock in the company, the business of J. J. Duffus, trading and carrying on business under the firm name and style of Duffus Motor Sales;

(b) To buy sell, exchange and otherwise howsoever deal in and with goods, wares, merchandise, as wholesale, retail and commission merchants and agents;

(c) To purchase, acquire, hold, sell, lease or rent or otherwise howsoever deal, with real estate;

(d) To conduct and engage in the business of conducting places of amusement, entertainment, recreation and instruction;

(e) To engage in the business of the manufacture of all kinds of goods, wares and merchandise;

(f) To pay out of the funds of the company all or any of the expenses incidental to the formation and organization thereof, and to employ, contract with and provide for the remuneration of brokers, commission agents and underwriters, upon any issue of shares, bonds, debentures, debenture stock or other securities of the company;

(g) To take or otherwise acquire and hold shares in any other company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of the company or carrying on any business capable of being conducted so as directly or indirectly to benefit the company.

The operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada, and elsewhere by the name of "J. J. Duffus Limited," with a capital stock of two hundred and fifty thousand ($250,000) dollars, divided into two thousand five hundred (2,500) shares of one hundred ($100) dollars each, and the chief place of business of the said company to be at the City of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario.

Thomas Mulvey,
Under Secretary of State.

Gasoline 1/4c a Gal

Chicago Scientist Discovers Miracle That Gives 1,200 Gallons of Gas at 1/4c a Gallon.

Try It Free

CHICAGO, ILL.—The automobile world is agog over the amazing results of the strange new gasoline discovery made by the Chicago scientist, Mr. Overgaard. It is an entirely new idea. Nothing ever like it. It is not a mechanical contraption, carburetor device or dope to put in gasoline. Its action is astonishing. Extensive tests prove that it is guaranteed to give 1,200 gallons of gasoline for only 1/4c a gallon every 50,000 miles the car runs. It is named Motor-Mystery and is also guaranteed to instantly remove and permanently prevent carbon and to increase power, pep and speed of any car. One of its surprising features is the fact that it is used only once every 50,000 miles. It costs practically nothing and saves over $200 yearly.

A straight salary of $100 weekly with commission and a Free Dodge car are guaranteed to agents everywhere to introduce it quickly. A Free Trial and agent's new plan will be sent without obligation to anyone who writes quickly to L. Overgaard, Director, M-M Laboratories, 7000 N. Clark St., Dept. 623 Chicago, Ill.

IN POLICE COURT.

Mrs. May D. Henry, who recently attempted to carry away her children from a Brock street residence, appeared for sentence after previously having pleaded guilty to two charges of committing wilful damage and creating a disturbance. The accused was fined $10 and costs on each charge and also promised to make restitution for the damage that had been caused.

Joseph Wearing appeared for the accused and J. A. O'Brien appeared in the role of private prosecutor.

Mr. Wearing, addressing the court, stated that this was a pitiful case. The accused, he said, had had some money and at the present time an action was pending against the husband for the recovery of monies that he had obtained from the accused. Her husband, Mr. Wearing declared, had stolen the baby in Buffalo and being deprived of the baby was the cause of the accused coming to Peterborough. The trouble, he said, resulted from the maternal instinct in the woman. In conclusion said Mr. Wearing, "if there ever was a case for mercy this is one."

Magistrate O. A. Langley said that in view of the situation and the able pleading of Mr. Wearing, also the fact that full restitution had been promised he would consent to a fine. He therefore sentenced the accused to a $10 fine in each case or in default one month's imprisonment.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How To Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines extracted from the livers of the common codfish to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

So nowadays, medical men who keep up with times are ordering a tablet containing the vitamines that give to frail folks vigor, strength and weight—a tablet that is known as McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablet — and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after any severe illness.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Extract Tablet. McDermid & Jury, and Bond's Drug Store have a big demand for them and millions are sold monthly all over North and South America. They are sugar coated and as easy to take as candy. 60 Tablets—60 cents.

BATTLE OVER QUERY BY LLOYD-GEORGE

BY MILTON BRONNER.
NEA Service Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 10.—What if Christ came to London today?

When David Lloyd-George asked this somewhat old question the other Sunday at the Welsh Baptist Chapel here, he started another typical Lloyd-George storm.

The newspapers, people on the streets and even the serious members of parliament have taken up his remarks, answering the question and commenting on its author.

Lloyd George

Commander Carlyon Bellairs, a conservative, asked in the house of commons, whether a church should be exempt from taxation when used for such remarks as the former premier had made.

"If Christ had been here during the late strike I am perfectly certain that all His utterances would have been excluded from the columns of the British Gazette. The editorial blue pencil of Mr. Winston Churchill would certainly have cut right through the Sermon on the Mount. I rather think Sir William Joynson-Hicks would have had Him watched as a dangerous character preaching doctrines and principles which were subversive of our institutions. I am not sure that He would have been altogther acceptable under present conditions. The doctrine of this great revolutionary, if applied, would simply cleanse the land of the stain of the slums."

Bishop Weldon

Bishop Weldon of Durham in regard to this speech, said:

"I feel no doubt that Jesus Christ would syampathize with the cause of the people. His gospel is essentially Socialistic, but the Socialism is that of those who give, not of those who take. He would condemn the selfishness and luxury of the rick, but equally the violation of good faith and tyranny among trade unionists. His will would be for conciliation or arbitration."

Marjorie Bowen, the novelist, writes:

"It is surely obvious that if Christ came to London, He would find good and evil in some places and in the same places and in the same proportion as He found them in Jerusalem. What would amaze Him would be Christianity and the story of Christianity and what has been and still is said and done in His name."

Dr. S. M. Berry

Marjorie Brown

of the Congregational Union, says:

"The question is raised generally for purposes of condemnation. Probably that is the last use of His name that He Himself would approve. He was not nearly as prone to condemn as many of His followers seem to be. There is much of course that would not pass His test.

"But I believe that He would have some encouragement to give to all those who are taking a share in the great tasks of society. I believe He would speak more about our hospitals and healing agencies, our welfare work for children, our schools and colleges, our provision for old age, than about the darker facts."

Compton Mackenzie

The novelist, Compton Mackenzie, says:

"I consider the facile emotionalism of Mr. Lloyd George and the attribution of political opinion to Almighty God objectionable. Our Lord refused to discuss politics, saying 'Render unto Caesar.' Mr. Churchill might retort to Mr. Lloyd George that he showns no sign of being crucified willing even for his party, still less for mankind."

HER OWN WAY
by a Girl of Today

A QUIET INTERLUDE.

Jerry bowed stiffly as I introduced him to Joan, and helped us into the car. The drive out to the farmhouse was filled with small talk, although I could feel that Jerry, underneath his manner, was weighing our every word with quiet intensity.

Just as we drew up to the gate, Joan turned to me:

"Only a few days now and we'll be away from all this," she said. "How restful the crossing to Europe will seem."

I Smiled at her.

Jerry said nothing, but he looked as though he had received his death blow as he helped us out of the car with great formality.

He made some excuse about parking the roadster and Joan and I walked up the syringa lined path together.

I will never forget that even long as I shall live. The soft purp'ish twilight in which we had started from the city had deepened into darkness. The heavens above were studded with twinkling stars that seemed to have some communication with the tiny glittering earth's stars, as one might have called the fireflys, which flitted in and out among the low foliage, giving one the impression that they had just dropped from among their fellows in the sky.

Turning my head a little, I saw the moon's thin crescent just over my right shoulder and close down by its lower point a brilliant star seemed to punctuate with a period the sensational story I had lived the last few months. I took it for a good omen.

In silence Joan and I went up the walk. Jerry still lagged behind. Joan's hand stole into mine. I knew that she too was feeling that blessed peace which was filling my heart.

As though to emphasize the prosaic life of everyday we came upon the porch where the table with its white table cloth was set in homely fashion and lighted by four candles in heavy glass candlesticks.

There were pats of new made butter, and dishes of scented honey, crisp pickles, and colorful jams dotted about the table. These things I had not seen since I had left my father's house.

There was an odor of broiled chicken which mingling pleasantly with the scent of the syringas, told me I was hungry—I remembered I had eaten nothing since my coffee in the morning.

None of us spoke as we three were seated at the table. Jerry's face was inscrutable. I glanced at it furtively once or twice. He seemed to have shut me out of his mind entirely. It was as though I were not there.

QUAKER FOUNDER A WANDERER

George Fox, the founder of the Friend of Quakers religious sect, was, in his early life, an apprentice to a shoe maker, but he forsook his craft to wander from village to village in England, preaching. He proclaimed everywhere that he "was sent of the Lord into the world" and also that he was "forbidden to take off his hat to anyone." As his influence grew he travelled in Germany, Holland and America.

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC HELD AT COBOURG

Presbyterian Sunday School Held Annual Outing in Victoria Park.

COBOURG, Aug. 10.—On Thursday afternoon, August 5th, a very enjoyable event was held at Cobourg, when the Centreville and Millbrook Presbyterian Sunday Schools held their annual Sunday School picnic in Victoria Park, with an attendance of about two hundred and forty.

The children and a number of the adults spent the first part of the afternoon in the water, while others had a social time together in the park. At four o'clock the races were called for, and they were interesting to all.

Primary tots' race.

Girls, six years and under.—Mary Eakins, Phyllis Williamson, Mary Smith, Robena Tate, Lois Harper, — Armstrong.

Boys, six years and under—Arnold Hutchison, Gordon Larmer, Leonard Birchard.

Girls, 7 to 9 years.—Mary Armstrong, Gladys Coyte, Florence Williamson.

Boys, 10 to 12 years.—Garnett Russell, Thomas Reid, Gerald Larmer.

Girls, 13 to 15 years.—Shirley Deyell, Audrey Larmer, Maria Earle.

Married men's race.—H. Ball, E. E. Anderson, H. Tate.

Teachers' and officers' race.—Kathleen Lancashire and Willis Hall, E. M. Tate and Rev. J. Riddell, Mrs. T. Eakins and A. A. Birchard.

After the races were over, long tables were spread with picnic goodies and a happy social time was spent at supper.

Two games of softball were played in the evening. The first game was between the Centreville girls and the Millbrook boys. The score being 19 to 11 in favor of the boys.

The second game was between the Millbrook girls and the Centreville boys. The score being even, 8 to 8.

Eight o'clock brought the afternoon to a close and all left for home feeling that the picnic had been a real success in every way.

...DEFENDER OF CIVIL LIBERTY... STRENGTHENER OF LOYALTY ... PILLAR AND STAY OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT.

IT'S JUST WHAT YOU MAKE IT.

(By A. G. Reynolds, Manager, Canadian Bank of Commerce.)

A newcomer to Peterboro asked one of the older citizens, "What sort of people are they here?" "Well, what kind of people were they in the place you just came from?" said the old-timer. "Oh, not up to much; a bunch of dead ones and knockers." "Well," said the old-timer, "you'll find the people in Peterboro just the same."

Later on the old-timer met another newcomer, and as before, was asked, "What kind of people are they in Peterboro?" "Well," again queried the old-timer, "What sort of people lived in the place you came from?" "Oh, splendid folks," said the second newcomer, "just fine, full of friendliness and pep, best people I ever knew." "Well, my friend," said the old-timer with a cheery smile, "you'll find Peterboro people just the same."

The above story bears its own moral. If there are some here who are discontented, who knock instead of boosting, I frankly think it is their own fault, not the fault of Peterboro, and such people have an incurable malady that no place on this earth at least will permanently mend. Perhaps, as a comparative newcomer, I realize more than even those who have long lived here what a delightful city we have. Is there anything necessary for happiness and contentment anywhere else that is not right here? What troubles have we in Peterboro? No racial problems, no religious problems, no slums, no natural drawbacks? No! But on the contrary, one of the most congenial spots it is possible to live in, and if we have the dissatisfied citizen, let him search his own conduct for the cause—not Peterboro.

Above all from my own viewpoint, what a fine city this is for the family man, and the home-maker! What opportunities we have that others lack! Industrial, educational, natural and spiritual. A friend of mine visiting from a large city recently envied me considerably living here. He said, "This is a delightful place, not too small, nor too large, and what advantages you and your children have at your very door that I am debarred from! You are a lucky man to be able to raise your family in a place like this." And he spoke the truth.

Now the outsider takes us at our own valuation, and no city was ever built by its inhabitants running it down, and the first requisite of a bigger and better Peterboro seems to me a proper appreciation of its advantages by those who live here. Years ago wise old Solomon said, "A merry heart doeth good like medicine, but a doleful spirit drieth up the bones," and some other philosopher wisely observed, "A smile is worth a hundred groans in any market." My impression of Peterboro is summed up in the words, "It is good for us to be here."

THE LIBERAL NOMINATION.

In the nomination of J. J. Duffus to contest the West Peterborough riding in the interests of the Liberal party, the electors are offered the opportunity to vote for one of the city's best known business men. Mr. Duffus was born in Otonabee Township, and though his business is mainly in the city, he still retains an interest in the farm on which he was born. He has been prominent in many civic enterprises, serving as a member of the City Council for eight years, six as Alderman and two as Mayor. He was President of the Chamber of Commerce for two years, and is now Vice-President of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, and Vice-President of the Ontario Tourists' Association. That he has a very lively interest in the welfare of the country is indicated by his holding the office of President of the Ontario Plowmen's Association and Director of the Peterborough County Plowmen's Association, of which he is an ardent supporter. His interest in sport is evidenced by his being President of the Senior O. H. A. team in Peterborough.

Mr. Duffus has given good service to the Liberal association, having been on the Executive for many years, and being now also a member of the Management Committee of the Ontario Liberal Association.

It would be difficult anywhere to find opponents of the business ability and high personal qualities that mark E. A. Peck and J. J. Duffus. The electors can with assurance vote according to their political views and their consciences, knowing that whichever way the ballot is cast they are voting for a candidate who seeks the advancement of Peterborough and the Dominion.

PLAYGROUNDS AND HEALTH.

Peterborough made a sound investment in setting aside space for playgrounds. They do not return any dividends in cash—the standard by which the materialist judges nearly everything—but they are contributing abundantly to the health and physical vigor of our growing boys and girls. That is worth more than money. If there be any doubt on this point, let the aceptic make a round of the various recreation grounds any afternoon or evening, but preferably on Saturday afternoon. To see hundreds of our youth, ranging all the way from five to twenty years of age, engaged in vitalizing sports is a sight to justify hope in the manhood and womanhood of the future.

It is the spirit of these playgrounds that must be reckoned among the assets, as well as the recreative aspect. The boys and girls not only enter into competitive games, but they learn to practice good sportsmanship. That is to say, they learn to play fairly, and to be modest winners and graceful losers.

It would be quite impracticable to reckon the value of such a spirit. It runs through the whole gamut of life and makes for clean living.

And it's a good idea to hear both. Neither party has all the virtues or all the vices.

INTELLIGENT VOTING.

Certain civic and educational organizations of women in United States have started a nation-wide drive to bring qualified electors to the polls at future elections. Various ingenious devices are being employed to stimulate interest in elections and to remind citizens of their political duties and their stake in contests for public office.

The promoters of the drive should not be so simple-minded as to think that the addition of a few million perfunctory, unintelligent votes to those ordinarily cast would improve the morale of the office-holders and office-seekers as a class or would bring about better and cleaner government. The Examiner believes that the greatest good to be obtained through a campaign of that kind is the awakening of interest in political questions among those who do not read or hear or care about how they are governed. If people in that class can be led to read informing political literature and familiarize themselves with issues, laws, tendencies and ideas in the domain of government and administration, then a great good can be accomplished.

It can be readily seen that the apathetic citizen who does not register or vote has no incentive for study and discussion of political questions. But citizens who contemplate registering and voting are likely to seek light and thus become qualified to vote intelligently.

While this need might be applied with equal force to Canada, there is another phase of the political situation which deserves attention also. It is generally conceded that the party system is the best yet devised for bringing out an expression of opinion on questions of government, though there are those who look for a Utopia where parties shall be unknown and men will vote apart from the sometimes deadlocking influences of party. But in the parties that now exist, the voters do not assume the responsibility that they should. A few politicians should not be allowed to dictate nominations and platforms. Citizens should join the organizations they choose to support, and the active body of party members should take a hand in the entire process of politics, from the first stage to the last, not forgetting the extreme importance of honest and impartial election machinery.

The effort should be made in Canada to double the intelligent, conscientious, disinterested vote rather than merely to double the vote.

DOMINION DAY SPORT.

It seems early yet to be thinking about next Dominion Day, but plans are already being made in the city for a celebration that has been often urged by The Examiner. A committee has been appointed by the Orange Association to draft out a scheme in which other organizations are to be asked to co-operate.

Tentative plans are for a calithumpian parade, followed by sports and a field day, the Exhibition grounds have been promised for this purpose. Merchants and fraternal societies will be given an opportunity to join forces with the sponsors, and the affair is not to be particularly or peculiarly a field day of the Orange Order.

A CLEAN CAMPAIGN.

Every election year, immediately the parties have named their candidates, the newspapers of Canada issue appeals for a clean campaign. Usually, and in nearly all centres, the campaign is kept free from the mud-slinging tactics that mark elections in other countries.

Cannot one more step be taken this year? Offensive personalities, name-calling, poison gossip, scandal-mongering and underhand tactics almost invariably react on those who make use of such weapons, and their use, for that reason, is out of favor with far-seeing political speakers. That is a materialistic viewpoint, a matter of convenience. Carried a step farther, it must be admitted that the same human nature is to be found in both parties, and that no party has a monopoly of the political virtues or the political vices, and the party that is generous with its opponents is the more likely to appeal to modern enlightened thought.

Each of the opponents in Peterborough is admitted by the other to be a gentleman, and both are pledged to a clean campaign. The Examiner believes that in thus being generous and decent the candidates are serving the best interests of their parties. And the appeal made by one to his supporters to observe the same rule should be observed by all who take the platform or indulge in any campaign work. Peterborough and Canada will be the better for such restraint.

A GROWING MENACE.

People on both sides of the international boundary line have been greatly shocked by the number of recent deaths from poison alcohol, yet, according to the Chief Chemist of the American Internal Revenue Bureau, 700 people died in New York last year from the same cause, and the number of deaths is likely to increase because of the increasing use of redistilled denatured alcohol. When he became Chief Chemist of the bureau in 1921, he says, 75 per cent. of the samples of hard liquor received for analysis were really straight whiskey. By 1924 the pre-prohibition whiskey had disappeared, and now the samples of liquor containing denatured alcohol are constantly increasing.

New methods of denaturing alcohol, that is of rendering it poisonous, have been found necessary to meet the skill of the bootleggers in redistilling. Stills were devised which removed a good deal of the poison from alcohol denatured by the old method; but no bootlegger has yet been able to remove the poison from wood alcohol. That is one thing for the people who patronize bootleggers to keep in mind. Another thing is that there is always the danger that bootleg whiskey may contain wood alcohol.

Safety lies in leaving all the stuff alone.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is just a question whether reorganization is needed as much in the Customs Department as fumigation.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 10. — At the Union Stock Yards yesterday the cattle trade opened a bit stronger for good butcher cattle. For other grades the prices were comparatively steady. Heavy steers sold from $7.50 to $8 a cwt. One load brought $8.25. Good to choice butcher steers brought $7 to $7.75. Export men expect to complete their shipment with exception of a few head, which will be secured out of other loadings. A few store cattle were bought by exporters at a price of $7.75.

Baby beef trade was strong at $10 to $12 for choice.

The store cattle trade was inclined to be a little slow. For choice calves the price was steady at from $11 to $12, with the common variety down to $5 per cwt., with trade not so active.

Lambs—Choice, $14 to $14.50; medium, $12 to $13; cull, $11.

Sheep—Yearling, $9 to $10; choice, $6 to $7; medium, $5 to $6; heavy, $4 to $5; cull, $2 to $3.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the fact that foreign bids were again below local exporters' views, the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday continued inactive. There was some demand from local and country buyers for car lots of oats and a moderate amount of business was done.

The flour trade was without any new feature to note, business in spring and winter wheat grades being quiet but prices were steady.

The undertone to the millfeed market was firm under a fair inquiry from local sources. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was again small but values were unchanged.

The feature of the egg trade was the stronger feeling that developed and prices for extras scored an advance of three cents per dozen and the lower grades one to three cents. This was attributed to the falling off in the receipts of late and the inferior quality of the eggs coming forward.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the butter market and prices registered a fractional advance under a moderate local demand. The receipts were 2,208 packages.

A decidedly stronger tone prevailed in the cheese situation and prices advanced 1-2c to 1 5-8c per pound. The receipts were 8,872 boxes.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

HERE AND ON THE OTHER SIDE

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

Some difference between English as it is spoken here, and the English of England, are pointed out by a writer in the magazine "Vogue," who says:

"In England, persons are 'eminent,' and features in the landscape 'prominent,' although either might be conspicuous. In America, any gentleman may be as 'prominent' among his countrymen as his countrymen will let him—as his best built palace is prominent among country houses. In England, one walks 'in' a street, not 'on' it, as most of us do in America, for the street is supposed to be made by the houses on each side. But one would probably walk 'on' a road in either country, in spit of the wise old song which tells us to keep 'in' the middle of it. In England, one gets 'into' a train, and 'on' it in America."

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THINGS HAVE CHANGED

Things have changed since an early day,
When Robinson's horses ran away.
He took a girl for a buggy ride,
Young Henry did, and the horses shied
And came a-tearing right down the street
With Henry hanging to reins and seat
And Mary hanging to Henry's neck,
Her arms around him, her hat a wreck.

They caught the horses at Murphy's mill,
But the whole town talked, as a whole town will,
For the whole town saw, and the whole town then
Told the story all over again:
How the horses shied at the hemlock stump
That stood just west of the village pump
And ran full-tilt for a half a mile
And Mary hugged Henry all the while.

The whole town talked, and the scandal grew,
For the whole town saw and the whole town knew
How she threw her arms 'round the helpless youth
And hugged poor Henry, and that's the truth.
A maid, at least, should be more discreet
Than to hug like that on the public street,
Like Mary did when the horses ran,
And so they made her marry the man.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

ELBERT HUBBARD OF EAST AURORA

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

One of the most peculiar geniuses of America was Elbert Hubbard.

He was primarily a writer, but was also a lecturer, a master craftsman and a business man.

Hubbard has always been regarded by many people as a sort of "bad boy."

The man who knew him best, Felix Shay, has written a book about him called "Elbert Hubbard of East Aurora." He reveals him as a very human character, a man not without faults, and yet one with many excellent qualities.

He was personally abstemious and temperate. His habits were simple. He was a hard worker. Perhaps he was a bit of a poscur, for all men are, but he was more of a playboy, if you get the distinction.

He loved his work and transacted it in the spirit of play.

Hubbard was a man who could do many things and do them all well. He had a genius for success. He succeeded in his business and in his writing.

His success is all the more remarkable because he entered into it through the back door. When learned publications refused to publish his writings he printed them himself.

His works are still very widely read and contain much common sense philosophy.

It can be at least said of him that he was very highly esteemed by his fellow workmen and by those who worked for him.

He was a kindly man and had many friends. Most of his enemies consisted of those people who did not know him.

While we may differ from him in many of his opinions most of us have learned that we must not expect a forceful character to agree with us in everything. The best he can do for us is to stimulate our own thought.

As a stimulator Hubbard was a success.

People who knew Hubbard will revel in this book. People who did not know him will become acquainted with him through it.

It does not praise Hubbard. It depicts him as he was.

Whatever his faults, he generated health, happiness and a wholesome desire to work in nearly everyone who made contact with him. He did it just as naturally as a dynamo generates electricity. He was built that way.

Felix Shay manages to convey that current of joy and fun, foolishness and high purpose, idealism and practical common sense. He waited ten years after Hubbard's death before writing this book. Authors of biographies should take note of this man's performance.

Ten years is not too long to wait and reflect, if it enables you to write so fresh and simple and kindly a book as "Elbert Hubbard of East Aurora."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LIKE A HERMIT IN A HUT.

If you find it hard to work or associate with other people, they, in turn, probably find it hard to be with you. The solution to any situation such as this lies in your hands alone. It is up to you to make yourself one of the crew, and then they will accept you.

The hermit in social or business affairs becomes almost as crusted and woe-begone as the hermit in the hut on a remote hillside.

DOVER, England, Aug. 10. (A.P.)—Gertrude Ederle was in the water again off Dover Beach a short time after bouncing out of bed at 11.30 o'clock this morning. She explained that she never could face a day with out a swim.

"The great point in my swimming at all," she said, "was to show that a girl could do it, and that I was the American girl."

Miss Ederle and her party returned to Boulogne this afternoon. She had a great send-off. STEPS ARE BEING TAKEN FOR THE COMPLETE REORGANIZING OF THE CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT

Toronto Auditors To Make Careful Study of Customs Administration.

COMMITTEE CHOSEN.

Council Will Be Composed of the Different Government Officials.

OTTAWA, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—Announcement of the taking of steps towards a complete reorganization of the Department of Customs and Excise was made yesterday.

Sir Henry Drayton, Acting Prime Minister, in a statement issued, states that Messrs. Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, chartered accountants, Toronto, employed in the recent parliamentary customs probe, have been engaged under order-in-council to make a careful study of the administration of the customs department as a whole, including all its various branches, and to make recommendations with a view to a complete reorganization of the department as contemplated by Parliament last session.

The whole work, however, is to be carried on in conjunction with a special advisory and consultative committee, who wil act in conjunction with the accountants. This committee will be composed of Hon. W. J. Roche, chairman of the Civil Service Commission; Georges Gonthier, Auditor General, or a representative in either case of the Commission or Auditor General; George W. Taylor, acting Deputy Minister of Customs and Excise; R. W. Breadner, Commissioner of Taxation, and E. S. Busby, Chief Inspector of the Department of Customs and Excise.

"In order to give proper effect to the recommendations made by the special committee on smuggling for the reorganization of the Department of Customs, it has been found that very radical steps have to be taken which would apparently involve many changes and much careful study.

"An order-in-council has just been released under which Messrs. Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, the chartered accountants employed by the committee, are now engaged to make a careful study of the administration of the department as a whole, including all its various branches, and to make recommendations with a view to a complete reorganization as contemplated by Parliament. The whole of the work, however, is to be carried on in conjunction with a special advisory and consultative committee, who will act in conjunction with the accountants.

"The members of the committee are:

"Hon. Doctor Roche, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, or a representative of the Commission to be named by him;

"Mr. George Gonthier, Auditor General, or a representative of the audit office to be named by him;

"Mr. Georges W. Taylor, acting Deputy Minister of Customs and Excise;

"Mr. R. W. Breadner, Commission of Taxation.

"It will be noted that this committee covers all the different phases and activities requisite to a complete and satisfactory result.

"The Hon. W. J. Roche, Chairman of the Civil Service Commission, is well posted generally as to the needs of civil service; the proper sub-divisions of work, and its systemization.

"Mr. Gonthier, the Auditor General, has his special knowledge as Auditor General, having particular reference to the proper checking and safeguarding of the country's money.

"Mr. George W. Taylor, present Acting Deputy Minister of Customs, is an old public servant of much experience, particularly having regard to the excise branch of the department.

"Mr. R. W. Breadner, the present Commissioner of Taxation, has long been connected with customs work, has been for years on the customs appeal board and is extremely familiar with the administration of

PERCY TOWNSHIP TAX RAT LOWER

Township Rate 7 1 2 Mills —County Rate Requires 10 Mills.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Aug. 10.—Percy township's tax rate has been struck with a reduction of two mills from last year's rate. As adopted by the Council, the township rate is 7 1-2 mills, the county rate 10.1 mills and Public school rate 8.2 mills with school trustee rate according to requisition. The Council might have succeeded in presenting even a more favorable budget if several rather bulky items had not cropped up. One was a half mill levy for the roofing of the Warkworth town hall and the other was an expenditure of $500 on a hospital bill for an indigent.

Former Minister of Customs Will Be Buried on Wednesday.

AT GRANBY, QUE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—The funeral services of the Hon. George Boivin, former Federal Minister of Customs, whose death occurred in Philadelphia on Saturday, following an operation for appendicitis, will be held in the Catholic Church at Granby, Que., at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Interment will follow beside the bodies of Mr. Boivin's father and mother, who predeceased him when he was a child.

The body, accompanied by Mrs. Boivin and James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, and a number of the Supreme Directors, left Philadelphia yesterday, and arrived in Montreal at 8.05 this morning. The remains will be immediately transferred to the Central and Vermont line en route to Granby.

No services will be held here, but a large delegation of Mr. Boivin's friends will meet the body. A large Montreal delegation will attend the services at Granby on Wednesday along with delegations from other parts of Canada.

Feeling reference was made in city churches yesterday to the early and sudden death of Mr. Boivin.

WARKWORTH, Aug. 10.— Two political decisions next Thursday will materially affect the shaping of the federal campaign in Northumberland county. One decision will be made by Mayor Fraser, of Trenton, as to whether or not he will be the Liberal candidate against M. E. Maybee, Conservative nominee, and the other is the expected decision by the U.F.O. at their convention at Castleton on that day as to whether or not they will actively enter the fight.

Some observers see a direct connection between the two decisions. Although it is generally believed that the remnant of the Progressives will not put a man in the field, the convention announcement from the lake front last week is regarded as one of the factors deterring Mr. Fraser from immediate acceptance of the Liberal nomination. The remarks of Dr. Robertson, president of the Liberal Association, at their convention last Tuesday have been interpreted in some quarters as a clear appeal for the support of the farmers who are not definitely linked to the Conservative party. Dr. Robertson's reference to the need of co-operation with the farmers was phrased as an alternative to the co-operation of the farmers, if the U.F.O. were determined to nominate a candidate. The Liberals made no mention of the prospect of a three-cornered fight, but it was assumable from the words of both Dr. Robertson and Mayor Fraser that the Liberals would not be a third contestant. In this part of the riding they are hoping that the U.F.O. will keep out of this campaign and that if Mr. Fraser's is an affirmative decision that they will throw their support to him.

The post-convention calm continues, but this week should see the beginning of the second stage of the campaign.

OBITUARY.

JOHN WALLACE.

A very sad death occurred here on Monday night about 10.30 o'clock, when Mr. John Wallace passed to the Great Beyond.

Mr. Wallace was about 60 years of age, and had been enjoying the best of health. He was lying asleep on Monday night when his wife noticed him make some rather peculiar noise. he tried to rouse him but without success. He died almost instantly.

The late Mr. Wallace was a member of the Presbyterian church, the Loyal Orange Lodge and the Royal Black Preceptory. In politics he was a Conservative.

Left to mourn his loss are his loving wife and family of four daughters and four sons.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon under the direction of the Loyal Orange Lodge. Interment at Dunsford cemetery.

CAVAN PERSONALS

CAVAN, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Salter, Toronto, spent the holiday week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Paul. Her little daughter, Ruth, who had been down for some weeks, returned home with her.

Mrs. E. Syer, Herb Syer, Lily Syer and Mrs. Rowan motored to Port Perry on Wednesday and attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Willie Coulter, formerly a resident of Manvers.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin and two children, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Warden Brown, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs McIvor, Peterboro; Mr. and Mrs Kenneth Brown and Mr. Lawrence Kellott, Oshawa, and Mr. and Mrs. John Lotus were other week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul.

The domestic science class is being held in Cavan Community Hall. Mrs. Cook, Beamsville, is the demonstrator. There are about twenty taking the course.

Give Shower.

On Wednesday evening the young people of Cavan Centre met at the home of Mr. Wm. Pudsy to spend a social evening with and give a miscellaneous shower to his daughter, Miss Lily Pudsy, whose marriage is announced to take place very soon. There were over thirty young people present. The evening was pleasantly pent in games and dancing. During the evening Ralph Staples brought in the shower in a large box, which was prettily decorated. Gerald Staples read the following address:

"Dear Lily:

"We, the young people of Cavan Centre, who have known you from childhood, felt we could not allow you to go to your new home without expressing to you our good wishes. As a schoolmate you were kind and considerate to all, and in our community life we have found you the same, always ready to lend a helping hand when needed.

"You carry with you not only our best wishes for your future welfare, but those of the entire neighborhood.

"We wish that an abundance of happiness and prosperity may be your lot.

"Signed on behalf of the community."

A dainty lunch was then served.

CAVAN, Aug. 10.—Mr. A. E. Hunter, Mr. V. R. Hunter and Miss M. E. Hunter motored to Cobourg on Thursday and joined the crowd at the picnic of Millbrook and Centreville Presbyterian Churches held at Victoria Park.

Miss Winona Cathcart, Miss Audrey Cathcart and Mr. Mac Barker, of Cavan, motored to Toronto on Friday last.

The domestic science short course being held in Cavan Community Hall is proving interesting and is well attended.

FARM EFFICIENCY INCREASED

From 1910 to 1920 American farm labor increased in efficiency about 22.5 per cent. for although the number of farm workers decreased in that time 9 per cent. the crop production increased 11 per cent. Greater use of power and modern machinery is largely responsible, of course, and it is said that the average farmer used five times as much machinery as he did fifty years ago.

in some places and moderate in others. Personally the candidate did not believe that Mr. Meighen would increase the tariff to any great extent even if he were returned to power.

Mr. Duffus said his contention was that Canada being an agricultural country and agriculture being the most important industry, the tariff arrangement should be such as would not be a serious detriment to such interests. He believed that it should be so adjusted as not to be a detriment to the great mass of working people in connection with their necessities of life, that it should also be such as would best promote the manufacture of the instruments and implements of agriculture and aid in the development of the natural resources of the country, that it should be stable so as not to work hardship to industrial concerns and the workers therein.

Study Industrial Conditions.

If elected, it was his intention to make a study of all industrial conditions, part of which study he had already completed, and to recommend and work for an arrangement in tariff which would be the most advantageous to the Dominion of Canada. He believed that the whole matter could be well handled by an efficient Tariff Board and that it would be in the best interests of the country generally if this question were taken out of the realm of politics as much as possible. High tariff was by no means a cure-all for Canada's ills. There was no denying the fact that high tariff had a tendency to increase the cost of manufactured goods as well as the necessities of life.

To his mind it was a great pity that Parliament came to such an abrupt close, particularly in view of the amount of splendid legislation which was not put into effect on account of the Governor-General being deprived of an opportunity of giving the Royal assent much legislation which costing a great deal of money was not put on the Statute Books and many public work had to be abandoned being a serious detriment to the working people of Canada.

Old Age Pensions.

He wanted to refer particularly to the Old Age Pensions Act. He submitted that it was a great hardship and serious handicap to a large number of people in this country that this Bill did not get on to the Statute Books. These men and women who had faithfully and conscientiously assisted in the laying of the fonndations and building of this great country and had now reached the evening of their lifetime after raising large families and were through no fault of their own not so prosperous or so well blessed with this world's goods ought to have been given the advantage of this splendid Act. He thought it was a great pity that they were not now being benefitted by the bill that was passed in their favour. If elected it would be his great pleasure to do his utmost to have this Act passed and put into effect at the earliest possible moment in order to give these people the advantages they deserved.

Lauds Mackenzie King.

He had already stated he was a supporter of the Liberal party because of its democratic principles. He was also an ardent supporter of the RightHon. William MacKenzie King. He did not think there was a man in the Dominion of Canada who had a keener appreciation of the desires of all classes or a greater interest in the welfare of all section of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He believed that Mr. King was a student of political economy. The Robb Budget was the best Canada had had since Confederation. There had been in it more features advantageous to the country than any other. Mr. Meighen had said that the Budget was not in the interest of the whole country. He wanted to ask his audience if any of them had been putting three cent stamps on their letters recently, or if any of those who had tax money returned to them did not think that this was advantageous. The Budget with its relief for tariff and income tax was the best ever submitted to Parliament. The money that would otherwise have gone to the Treasury had been returned to industry and investment. It was a great boon to the man who had hitherto been paying income tax to be relieved from it entirely. Mr. Meighen said the reduction in auto tariff was a sham. The auto business was something, which the candidate claimed, he was familiar with. Who ever heard of a sham that reduced the amount of money that had to be paid in taxes? Mr. Meighen had said that the cars would enable people to get out of the country easier, and that in any case many had cars who should not have them. When did it become the right of the Premier to say who should have cars and who should not? Mr. Duffus said he had just sold two cars to the Post Office department. Would Mr. Meighen come and insist on paying $48 each more for them? The reduction in the cost of agricultural implements had been beneficial to the whole country. It was ridiculous for anyone to say this was not so and still more was it ridiculous for the Premier.

Mr. King by sheer ability to size up a situation had carried on with scarcely a majority in Parliament and had brought in a Budget in the interest of everyone in the Dominion of Canada. Taxes generally had been reduced by $25,000, 000. The general expense of living had become less and the railways were doing well.

Trade had grown to be more than two and a quarter billions of dollars, of which by far the greater portion namely $1,315,000,000 was attributed to its exports. The favorable trade balance was about $40,000,000 as compared with an adverse balance of $29,000,000 in 1921. The adverse balance of trade with U.S.A. had been reduced to $123,910,000 as compared with $295,000,000 in 1921.

If elected on September 14 he would consider that his duty would be to represent all classes in West Peterboro not any party or portion. He would be at the service of the electors at any time of the day or night and would welcome any suggestions that might be offered him.

R. R. Hall, K. C.

"It was somewhat unexpected to me to have an election so soon after the last general election. It is the first case in the history of Canada that a parliament had not lasted more than one session, this of course was due to the result of the election in October last," said Mr. Hall in commencing.

"Hon. Arthur Meighen on the occasion of the last election went from coast to coast preaching blue-ruin. But if we look back to 1921 it is not hard to see where Mr. Meighen got his blue ruin idea. In the year 1921, when Mr. Meighen was turned out of power, Canada had an adverse trade balance of $30,000,000, and the C.N.P an operating loss of $11,500,000, this alone was not the total loss of the C.N.R. for there were large bond issues to be met. The result was the Canadian dollar fell below par. If a Canadian went to the United States he had a pain in his pocket as well as in his heart for he was only allowed 92 cents worth of American goods for his dollar. There was lack of employment, whispers of death and hard times. Mr. Meighen in that election had a lot of cure-me-alls but at that time the people felt the blue ruin and as a resutl Mr. King was elected and Mr. Meighen became very despondent," said the speaker.

"Canada is a large country and it is difficult to inagurate a policy in four short years that will bring about any noteworthy results; but in these four years Canada's adverse trade balance of $30,000,000 in 1921 has been turned to a favorable trade balance of $401,000,000 in 1925; United States shipped gold into Canada to prevent their dollar from going below par on the Canadian market for the Canadian dollar was being sold at a premium on the New York market. Canadian securities steadily advanced in those four years till today it is possible to borrow money as low as 4 per cent instead of 7 and 8 per cent in 1921. The C.N.R. operating loss of $11,500,000 in 1921 was changed to an operating profit of $34,000,000 in 1925. Our markets have increased all over the world and Canada has been steadily going ahead in the last four years.

"Mr. Meighen last fall preached the same old doctrine of blue-ruin," said Mr. Hall, "for the books had not then been closed for the year 1925, but you do not hear him preaching so much blue-ruin today. We believe that while Mr. Meighen does not preach blue ruin if he gets into power we will feel the blue-ruin right down in our own pockets as we did in 1921. So the question today is not, Will I vote for Mr. Meighen or Mr. King but will I vote for myself and my own interests or the interests of the monopolist?"

Canada and International Trade

"A most remarkable advancement has been shown in Canadian trade since 1921. In fact an advancement that no other country in history can show. She, with 9,000,000 of people takes the unique position of first place for export trade among the nations of the world on a percapita basis, showing the Canadian people are workers and producers. Great Britain only does three times the foreign trade Canada does. Germany with her great population does $20 of foreign trade for every $12 that Canada does. Canada does $1 for every $3 of the United States and the United States has 13 times the population and the trade balance per head in Canada is 17 times as great. Canada's export trade in 1925 was $370,000,000 greater than Japan and $430,000,000 greater than Argentina. In 1913 she occupied 10th place in the export trade of the world and in 1925 she occupied 6th place," said the speaker.

Mr. Meighen and the Tariff.

Industries in 1921 came to a standstill under Mr. Meighen, but under Mr. King industry has increased, showing this most favorable trade balance of $401,000,000. The average ad valorem duty on dutiable imports in 1921 was 20.6 per cent, and on March 31st, 1926, it was 24.7 per cent., making an average of 40 per cent. more duty collected on the value of dutiable goods under Mr. King than under Mr. Meighen; $48,000,000 worth more of goods came in free of duty under Mr. Meighen in 1921 than under Mr. King in 1925.

Mr. Meighen can revise the tariff to help the great manufacturer who is prepared to pay his campaign funds. He can raise the tariff on small articles and suck the life blood out of the people. After the last budget was brought down, said Mr. Hall, one newspaper printed the glaring headline "3000 Men Thrown out of Employment in Oshawa," simply because one big hog thought he had been stuck, and the people were getting some of the fork. It was not a question to-day with Mr. Meighen of raising revenue but of putting a great monopoly in the hands of a few. Don't you think it is our duty, it is the duty of this city, and of this country, to see that Mr. King with his Liberal policy is returned to power on September 14th next?"

"In conclusion let me say, Ontario went Conservative in the last election but Mr. Meighen can not repeat it. He went to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and he and his provincial helpers made all kinds of promises, and let me tell you that to-day these promises are coming home to roost. In Quebec, Mr. Meighen has systematically tried in season and out of season to insult and doubt the people in accordance with his faith. In the West he has done nothing, for it is the policy of the Liberal party that commends itself to those farmers. I do not propose to prophecy, for I have not the gift of prophecy, but I am sure that Mr. King will have a majority over all the other parties on the night of September 14th, and you can help this majority by electing J. J. Duffus.

Hon. G. N. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon stated that he hoped all the Conservatives present would wait as he wished to tell something about the leadership of their party. He was glad the Convention had selected Mr. Duffus as candidate. Mr. Duffus was a clean man, an able man, one who could make a good speech, and one who knew what it was to rise from the farm, a self-made and successful business man. Mr. Gordon appealed to those who had helped him on his campaigns, asking them to stand by the new Candidate. By returning Mr. Duffus, they would perform a real service to the riding of West Peterborough.

Explaining his inability to allow his name to go forward for nomination, Mr. Gordon said he had fought three campaigns in five years which had greatly disrupted his business. He now felt that the mantle of West Peterborough should fall on some other shoulder. The choice of Mr. Duffus was fitting. Joseph Duffus reorganized the Chamber of Commerce when it was heading for bankruptcy. Peterborough never had a better Mayor than Joeph Duffus and never would. When Mr. Duffus was returned to Parliament he would acquit himself worthily.

Mr. Gordon said he had a sad announcement to make. The Hon. George Boivin, he said, had died that morning at Philadelphia. Mr. Boivin was his desk mate in Parliament. Their rooms adjoined one another in the hotel. Mr. Boivin was his closest friend and he felt the news very deeply. Mr. Boivin was hounded from one end of the country to the other. One of the cleanest men in political life, Mr. Boivin had been systematically pursued by all kinds of inpuendoes and calumnies. One of the latest had come from Mrs. Fallis. Mrs. Fallis, said Mr. Gordon was a paid organizer of the Tory party. One of his recollections of Mrs. Fallis was her acting on behalf of a gentleman who suffered a jail sentence for corrupt practices at an election.

Mr. Meighen got into power and formed his shadow Cabinet. He called as his Minister of Public Works a Mr. Ryckman who on one occasion went into a race-track gambling patnership with a man by the name of Pat Scully. Differences arose and Scully sued Ryckman in court. Scully declared that Ryckman had welshed and refused to pay his gambling debts. The case was tried before Mr. Justice Lennox, a former Tory politician. He listened to the evidence of the two men and declared that having heard what both had to say, he preferren to believe the word of the race track gambler rather than that of Ryckman. Mr. Ryckman's work was disbelieved by the Judge and this was the man whom Mr. Meighen had taken into the Cabinet.e

Appointment of Black.

Then for Minister of Railways he had chosen W. A. Black. Mr. Black would be eighty years of age next birthday. He was an enemy of public ownership and had given assurance time and again of his intention to wrench the Intercolonial from the C.N.R. system. In the Commons he presented the spectacle of a poor old man who had never made a speech and never could make one. When he got up in the House, he held a paper from which he read, so close to his nose that all that could be heard was an indistinct mumble. His appointment to the Cabinet was a joke, a burlesque and at the same time, a tragedy. He was one of the patriots who sailed his ships under the Swedish flag and not under the Canadian flag, in order to evade the Navigation laws of this country. He admitted in the Commons that ships chartered by his company sailed under the flag of Sweden.

The next man I want to introduce you to is "Potato Jones". Mr. Jones, said the exmember for West Peterboro, "was a former member of the New Brunswick Legislature. He became involved in a scandal arising from the purchase of seed potatoes by the Legislature. He was found guilty of conspiracy and graft and a resolution of the Legislature called on him to resign and become discredited. Now he was Minister of Labor. His appearance in the Cabinet, said Mr. Gordon, was an insult to the working men and the working women of the country. He never should have been placed there. Mr. Meighen had no right to put a man of the type of Mr. Jones to appoint the Concilliation Boards. How could he inspire confidence in the men and women that he would act justly in disputes between employer and employed? How could he assume the functions of a judge in these matters?

The next was R. B. Hanson of New Bunswick, a man who forged a judgment and was not allowed to practice law as a result. He was Meighen's right-hand man in New Brunswick.

Then there was R. B. Bennett, Minister of Finance, who said at one time that Mr. Meighen was the gramaphone of the Canadian Northern Railway which meant that Meighen had sold out to MacKenzie and Mann. And Mr. Meighen thought so much of Mr. Bennett's opinion of him that he made him Minister of Finance.

The Meighen Cabinet reminded him of an incident that happened in a Police Court. A prisoner was brought before the magistrate, who after looking at him remarked "This man looks as though he had been drugged." "Yes", replied the policeman, "I drug him four blocks." The Meighen Cabinet had been drug in a similar fashion. Hugh Guthrie was another member of the Cabinet. He was sent to Europe on a mission and was given $5,000 to cover his expenses. And strange to relate his expenses came exactly to $5,000, not a cent more and not a cent less. At any rate when he came back he did not turn in a copper. Mr. Gordon stated that he the customs side of the department; and Mr. Busby, the Chief Inspector of the Department of Customs and Excise, who was so well spoken of by everybody in the enquiry, has a very intimate knowledge of the manners in which trickery can be exposed and fraud stopped. He is the same inspector from whose control the Port of Montreal was taken when Mr. Bisaillon was placed in charge.

"The one endeavor of the government is to bring about such a reorganization that will be complete, workable and satisfactory from all standpoints."

GORDON-PECK

had asked Mr. Guthrie to give an account of the peoples' money that he had received, but had not received a vry satisfactory answer.

Question of Smuggling.

Mr. Gordon proceeded to discuss the question of smuggling. It was not a now offence. He referred to two men, Cooper and Smith, who gave evidence before the Customs committee. They were millionaire smugglers and made a great deal of money during the administration of Mr. Meighen. Smith made his money by means of high powered boats which were engaged in smuggling fom Canada to the United. Mr. Meighen did nothing to check this. The Liberals made it a jail offence. When the Bill came before the Senate, the Tory members of that body drew its teeth and robbed it of much of its effect.

An effort had been made to stop this business—a real honest effort. Mr. Stevens had criticized their efforts. When he became Minister of Customs the papers had front page stories of the things he was going to do. He was going to have a cordon of Mounted Police along the Border. A month after this, 13 people were killed in Tory Toronto and Hamilton through drinking bootleg liquor smuggled across the Border. He was not blaming Mr. Stevens for it. It merey showed how difficult it was to stop it. Peter White had said that the Customs ofifcers were bribed and allowed the liquor to pass. The men, Bisallion and the others, who were disclosed by the Customs investigations as having broken their oaths of office were all Conservatives and appointed by a Conservative government.

Mr. Peck's Budget Vote.

He now wanted to deal with a matter concerning Mr. Peck and his vote on the Budget. He wished them to understand that before any tax was passed an announcement was made by the Government to the effect that the money would be required. Later all the bills were passed as were embodied in the Budget. The House entered into Ways and Means on April 15. The Budget contained among other things the proposal to re-establish penny postage to reduce Income Tax, the Stamp Duties and reducing several other duties. "I said at a woman's gathering that Mr. Peck had voted against the Budget which contained these clauses. Mr. Peck said he did not vote against it and said that I ought to withdraw the statement and that I was cheap, because I had ofered to pay $500 to the Children's Aid Society and $500 to the St. Vincent Orphanage if he could produce a letter from the Clerk of the House saying he did not vote against the Budget. He said he dio not vote against it. I said he did. Mr. Peck said he could not get a letter from the clerk. The clerk was an inrepondent official and no one could get a letter in this way. Even Mr. Gordon could not get a letter from him.

"Well," said Mr. Gordon, drawing a missive from his pocket, "here is the letter. There are many things that M. Peck cannot do that other people can do." I wrote a letter to Mr. Beauchesne asking him to give me the information required.

Mr. Gordon then read out the letter he sent to the Clerk after which he read aloud the reply. The Clerk's letter said:

HOUSE OF COMMONS
CANADA
THE CLERK
ARTHUR BEAUCHESNE, K.C., F.R.S.C.

Ottawa, August 5th, 1926.

Honorable G. N. Gordon, K.C., P.C.
Peterboro, Ont.

Dear Mr. Gordon,

In reply to your letter of 31st ultimo, I beg to state that Mr. Peck voted for Mr. Manion's motion and against the Budget, as may be seen on pages 3683 and 3685 of Hansard dated May 18th.

Yours very truly,
ARTHUR BEAUCHESNE.

Mr. Gordon then said that Mr. Peck's statement that he did not vote against the Budget was not according to fact.

Reduction in Income Tax.

As a result of the reduction in Income Tax fully half of the men were wiped of the tax slate and would pay no more. In addition penny postage was restored, a boon to the business man. Every dollar saved from taxation was a dollar saved for trade. Then their was the reduction in the tax on automobiles. Mr. Duffus had spoken of that. Mr. Meighen said that 9 cars out of ten cars were luxuries. That showed all he knew about it. In the country districts especially the car was a necessity. Was it not an advantage to be able to buy a car for $65 less. Ford's plant at Ford City was now working 24 hours per day. Mr. Hall had spoken of Sam McLaughlin of Oshawa. He had made fifteen million dollars in twenty years. So he seemed to have done pretty well.

Mr. Meighen never was Premier by the choice of the people and he never would be. In 1920 he stole the reins of Government from the Union Government. They remembered what happened to him after the election, when if one excluded the Conservative members who were elected by minority votes in three-cornered contests, they found that Mr. Meighen had returned to Ottawa with less members than he had Cabinet minister before the election.

Constitutional Issue.

Touching on the constitutional issue, Mr. Gordon said that for a hundred years in Britain, no Premier had been refused dissolution. In Canada the Governor-General occupied the position and stood in the same relationship to the Premier that the King did in Great Britain. He ruled but did not govern. MacKenzie King when he found that certain Progressives who had formerly been Conservative in their affiliations were again inclining to support the Conservative leader, he went to the Governor-General and asked for a dissolution and advised that Parliament be prorogoed after the passing of the Bills that had been almost through the House. Baron Byng feeling that he was called upon to act as umpire declined to accept this advice. Mr. Meighen went to Baron Byng and deceived and misled him by telling the Governor-General that the Conservatives could carry on Government without an election. He formed his Government which lasted exactly, 65 hours. Baron Byng gave Mr. Meighen the right of dissolution.

Parliament Degraded.

Mr. Meighen had degraded Parliament by the selection of his Cabinet. His advice to the Governor-General had led to a situation that endangered responsible Government and tended to bring back the status of a Crown Colony.

Mr. Meighen had said the Treasury could not afford the reduction of 25 millions. Had they thought what the tax reduction meant to the city of Peterborough? It meant that one hundred thousand dollars was saved to the city in taxes by the Robb Budget, passed in spite of Mr. Peck's vote. Mr. Peck said he did not vote against the Budget and a letter in my pocket says he did, said Mr. Gordon. He thought M. Peck's inaction in Parliament did not recommend him. He did not want to say anything of Mr. Peck, who was a brother lawyer, but he was a public man and as such was open to criticism. In conclusion, he urged all present to vote for Mr. Duffus and predicted that when the result of the poll was declared on September 14 it would be found that the Liberal candidate would be elected as member for West Peterborough.

After a call for three cheers for the Candidate and three cheers for MacKenzie King the meeting closed with God Save the King.

CHURCH PARADE

their answer to this call of Christ—to vow to fight even three Saracens against one in that cause.

"You and I brethren," said Dr. Blagrave "are the lineal successors of these Templars. A different emphasis was placed on the method of answering the summons. They had to keep the line of communication to God's throne. The throne of God was the source of all power and of all light. They could keep open this line of communication by prayer and devotion. They could answer the summons by enthroning rghteousness and purity in their own lives. It was just the same battle they were called upon to wage and it was just as chivalrous as it ever was to cling to that which was true, honest, noble, pure and good. Let them all put on the whole armour of God."

The choir, under Companion F. G. Mann, organist and choirmaster, rendered an anthem, "Soldiers of Christ Arise," and Companion D. G. H. Melton sang a solo, "Arm Arm Ye Brave," from Handel's Judas Maccabeus.

After the service the Knights formed in procession and marched back to the Empress Hotel, lining up on Charlotte Street, where orders for to-day were given. Lt.-Col. J. T. Thompson was Captain-General of the procession.

Lt.-Col. G. B. McLeod of Edmonton, Grand Master, and Grand Chancellor W. H. A. Eckhardt of Montreal arrived in the city on Saturday.

This morning was spent in registering the Knights. In the afternoon a session of the Grand Council was held in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute.

HERE AT PRIORY HOME BLOWN UP

Grand Master of Knights Templar Receives Distressing News.

BOMB EXPLODED.

Lieut.-Col. G. B. McLeod of Edmonton, Alberta, Supreme Grand Master of the Sovereign Grand Priory Knights Templar, now in session in this city, has received a telegram which informs him that his house in Edmonton has been blown up by dynamite.

Col. McLeod is the Chief Magistrate in Edmonton, and it is thought that the would-be assassin, embittered as a result of justice meted out by Col. McLeod in the course of his duties, crept up to the rear of the Colonel's home an hour before midnight on Saturday and touched off a bomb against the north-west corner of the house. Mrs. McLeod and her 10-year-old son were in the home, entertaining a friend.

The bomb exploded with a terrific roar, tearing a gaping hole in the rear door of the house, shattering some of the supports of a porch, and also splintering some of the brickwork of a garage which adjoins this corner of the house at an angle.

The little boy was generally in bed at this hour, and his bed was covered by splinters of broken glass. It was directly against the outside wall of his bedroom that the bomb exploded, and it was only the fact that the child had been placed in another room that saved his life. Windows in the neighborhood were shattered by the force of the detonation.

It is admitted that Magistrate McLeod received some threatening letters some time ago. No clue was given of their sender.

Col. McLeod has received a second telegram from the Mayor of Edmonton, assuring him of the safety of his wife and son, and informing him that friends are guarding his home and family from further molestation.

OMEMEE MAN 96 YEARS OLD

Joseph Sandy is Still Active Despite His Advanced Age.

FOUR GENERATIONS

OMEMEE, Aug. 10.—A very unique event took place on Sunday, August 1, at the home of F. G. Sandy, a short distance west of Omemee, when his father, Joseph Sandy, celebrated his 96th birthday. About forty of the children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and immediate friends gathered from Toronto, New castle, Manvers, Demorestville, Cavan and other places in honor of the occasion.

Tables were spread on the spacious lawn adjoining their beautiful farm home, and after all had partaken of a sumptuous dinner, F. G. Sandy, who is the youngest son and resides on the homestead, took the chair and welcomed the guests on behalf of his father. He also outlined the family connection, with special reference to events in the life of the one in whose honor they were met.

Mr. Sandy said his father had "blew into" this country in 1854, it having taken him seven weeks to blow across. There were only four acres of the farm cleared on his arrival. It was interesting to note the great changes that had taken place in the world during the space of one life time.

The chairman called on a number of those present, who responded with well chosen remarks in reference to the long life of Mr. Sandy and the great esteem in which he is held. In spite of his years, Mr. Sandy is still quite active in mind and body and he was the receipient of many congratulations and gifts on attaining his 96th birthday.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the christening of a great-grandchild, Reta Virginia Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cooke of Newcastle, Rev. D. M. Stinson, of Demorestville, a grandson, performed the ceremony.

Among the various groups of snapshots taken of children, grandchildren, there was one of four generation. Mr. Joseph Sandy, Mr. Leon Sandy, Mr. Delore Sandy and Mister Alvin Sandy, the later of Toronto.

After further renewing of old times and forming of new acquaintances, the happy reunion broke up toward the close of the afternoon, with the hope that it will become an annual event.

WIRELESS FERTILIZER.

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (United Press.) — Garden vegtables grow more profusely under the influence of radio waves, according to the experience of William Boot, amateur gardener near here.

Boot claims the proximity of an aerial increased the fertility of his garden 30 per cent. Experiments are now under way here to determine the feasibility of "wireless fertilizer" not only for hot-houses but for field crops as well.

Ends the pain in one minute Corns

COMMON sense has taught, and experience has proved to millions of sensible people, that any corn remedy that does not stop the cause—friction and pressure of shoes—can never effect a cure.

Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, internationally famous Foot Specialist, has perfected a thin, medicated, antiseptic, protective pad that has revolutionized the treatment of corns. These pads are called Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads.

The pain ends the moment you apply one to a corn. The soothing medication in Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads does this, and at the same time heals the deeper tissues, removing all soreness. Then the real healing starts, because the cause—rubbing and pressure of the shoe—has been removed.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are made in three sizes for Corns, Callouses and Bunions. At all drug and shoe stores. Mail coupon below for free sample.

Gums Like Coral

Teeth with that dazzling whiteness you see

This new way brings them quickly. Send the coupon

DENTAL science has found a new way to lighten cloudy teeth. A way that often changes a person's whole appearance. Your teeth, it's learned, are not naturally off color—simply coated with a film that absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc.

You can feel that film now with your tongue; a slippery sort of coating. It is there largely because your present dentifrice is failing in its duty. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight film successfully and brushing won't do it.

Now a new-type dentifrice has been discovered. A film-removing paste called Pepsodent. Famous $100,000 movie stars use it before going on a scene. That's why movie smiles are so gleaming white.

Leading dentists urge it because it protects the teeth and firms the gums. Film breeds bacteria that invite tooth troubles and pyorrhea. It is there now imperiling your teeth, your gums; making your smile unattractive.

Clear it off. See the amazing difference made. Get Pepsodent at any drug store. Or send the coupon for test tube free.

CHURCH SOCIAL GREAT SUCCESS

Burnbrae Presbyterians Hold Annual Lawn Party With Good Attendance.

BURNBRAE NEWS

BURNBRAE, Aug. 10.—Splendid weather and a large crowd combined to make the annual lawn social of St. Andrew's Church held on Thursday evening a most decided success. All the refreshment booths did a flourishing business and the crowd at the lunch tables testified to the popularity of Burnbrae ladies' cooking. The Northumberland Regiment Band provided the musical entertainment for the evening and were in the usual good form. The proceeds from all sources were over $421.00. Some 250.00 of this was taken at the gate, showing that the crowd would number but little short of four figures. The ladies are to be congratulated on the splendid success of their annual event.

Before the social a very interesting and closely contested ball game took place between Mount Pleasant and Menie, the former team winning by a score of 13 to 12 in six innings. This is the first attempt of the Menie team at the softball game this year and they made a good showing. The regular baseball battery, Eagleson and Hume, showed to good advantage, while F. Little in the field played a wonderful game. He made catches with two hands that would with most players have required a basket. Craighead was the leading scorer with three runs and shared batting honors with Lew Little and W. Hume.

The Mt. Pleasant battery, Pierce and W. Jeffs, were working well together, and the outfield, Reid, F. Jeffs and Weaver, gave their pitcher splendid support, only one error occurring in the outer garden. While the visitors'infield was below usual form, they steadied in the pinches, with the exception of the fifth, when approaching darkness and a few errors let Menie get away with seven runs. Mount Pleasant won the game with four runs in the final inning, including a homer by F. Jeffs. The Menie players were not familiar with some of the softball rules and were called out for some breaches of the rule regarding stealing bases.

The teams were as follows:

Mount Pleasant—W. Jeffs, 3; B. Pierce, p; J. Coggins, 1b; A. McAdam, ss; F. Jeffs, cf; E. Jobbin, 2b; R. McConnell, 3b; A. Reid, lf; K. Weaver, rf.

Menie—D. Craighead, lf; L. Shillinglaw, 3b; B. Eagleson, p; W. Hume, c; C. Haig, 1b; L. Little, 2b; F. Little, rf; R. Walker, cf; A. Milne, ss.

Umpires—Carl Clancy and Thos. Chaplin.

News Briefs.

The Busy Bees Mission Circle held its annual picnic at Crow River on Thursday when a good crowd of girls turned out to enjoy the picnic dinner together and the various games of the afternoon.

Mr. William Rannie has completed the installation of a tile drainage system on his farm and the traction ditcher is now working on the farm of Mr. Ernest Eagleson, who intends laying some 15,000 tile. This will make a great improvement to the low-lying land on these farms.

Sleepy Song

By SHIRLEY RODMAN-WILLIAMS.

THERE comes to me from childhood a story of a little prince who was to be king. On starlight nights his wise master took him to the housetop, where he lay and, watching the stars, made them his companions. When in manhood he was king and important problems of state came crowding he would seek his friends the stars and from their steadfast, peaceful shining gain new courage and purpose.

WHEN Mother has turned my wee Lady Lamp out
And the Dusky Man night time is bringing,
There's a bright little star that comes winking at me,
Right through my window comes blinking at me,
With a nod and a smile it comes twinkling at me,
And a dear little song it is singing:

"Tired birdies rock-a-by,
Baby lambs hush-a-by,
Little dreams are floating nigh,
Hush-a-rock-a-by.

"Dear wee child go sleepy-by,
Little stars come pegging-by,
God His watch is keeping nigh,
Hush-a-rock-a-by."

In Peterborough Churches

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"By the grace of God I am what I am, and His grace in me hath not been made void," was the text, taken from the First Epistle to the Corinthians, 15th chapter, 1st to 10th verses, which formed the basis of Bishop O'Brien's remarks at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday last.

In this epistle, said His Lordship, St. Paul re-affirmed the faith of the early converts amongst the Corinthians. The seed of faith must be nourished and strengthened in the soul. It must be built up and fortified by daily virtuous actions and by resistance to the attempts of Satan to make us waver and doubt our faith and the goodness and mercy of God. We must daily pray to increase our faith. "I believe, O Lord, help Thou my unbelief." Every virtue in the soul is strengthened and fortified by acts pertaining to that virtue. So with faith. When called upon to make sacrifices for the faith that is in us, we should do so unhesitatingly, even though we cannot see the reason for such demands. Faith is the foundation of all spiritual life, and by strengthening that faith, we strengthen in our souls resistance to the assaults of the devil.

His Lordship announced, prior to the sermon, the holding of a pilgrimage to the Shrines of the Holy Canadian Martyrs at Fort Ste. Marie, on Sunday, August 22nd.

have been and will be found of the true-hearted followers of Christ those who find the events of their lives dovetail into one another in a wonderful way through the guidance of God. It was so in the story under consideration."

Archdeacon Dobbs here reviewed the story of Cornelius and proceeded: "One of the first things which strike one is the use Peter makes of the keys. How did Peter use the keys? He made an announcement of salvation. He opened the doors of the gospel to the Gentiles. He opened them to the Jews when three thousand were admitted in one day. He showed a free offer of salvation through Jesus Christ. He lifted up one object of worship. He himself refused to accept the worship of a man saying, 'Stand up! I also am a man.' Our Lord frequently accepted worship from man because He was divine. The greatest Apostles refused to accept worship. So do we find it with regard to angels. In the Book of Revelation we find that John was about to worship the angel, but was rebuked in these words, 'See that thou do it not. Worship God.' Our church ought to have learned the lesson and so should the whole of Christendom. Christ and Him alone should be lifted up. The church stands to be a witness to the one Lord. Nowhere else should we adore anything that is a representation of Him. Worship God. Let Him be the object of adoration. He alone reads the hearts and understands people. What should be the essential factor in church assemblies? That we are all present before God. "Where two or three are gathered together in My name there am I in the midst of them,' said our Lord. He is present with those who look for Him and who want Him. What is the use of our gathering if He is not present? Has He made our bodies His tabernacle? If He has, He is present there. God is not to be regarded as dwelling in any one place as thought of in the ritual of the Jewish church dwelling in the holy of holies from which the worshippers were debarred. That veil which barred admission was rent at the time of the Saviour's death because it was no longer necessary. The great High Priest had come to earth and offered up the one complete sacrifice. With the destruction of Jerusalem, the worship of the past ceased. Never again was there the temple worship."

Speaking further on "Worship," the preacher reminded his hearers of the words of the Psalmist, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits towards me? I will take the cup of salvation and will call upon the name of the Lord." The sermon ended with an outline of the responsibilities of pulpit and pew.

MANY CLAUSES IN NEW TREATY

Italian-Spanish Agreement Will Not Be Published Until Registered.

THREE SECTIONS.

ROME, Aug. 10. — (Canadian Press.)— The text of the Italian-Spanish treaty, signed at Madrid last week, will not be made public until it has been registered with the League of Nations.

It is stated semi-officially that the treaty, which is being hailed by the Fascist press as a splendid achievement, contains a preamble having three sections, devoted to political, jurisdicial and procedural matters.

The political articles, which are numerous, include a paragraph guaranteeing neutrality by the signatories in case of an unprovoked attack. The juridicial articles provide means for the conciliation of disputes.

JUNIOR REGATTA AT CHEMONG PARK

Although there was not so large a crowd of spectators in attendance at the Children's Regatta which took place in front of Mr. J. K. Hughes' cottages at Chemong Park on Saturday afternoon, as were present at the annual large regatta on Thursday last, the events were really more interesting on account of the enthusiasm which the youthful participants injected into their competitive trials of skill and the manner in which they entered into every event with interest and pleasure. The children ranged in ages from small tots of five and six years to fifteen years, and their parents and companions accorded them plenty of applause and interested attention during every stage of the proceedings.

A brisk shower delayed the commencement of proceedings for about an hour, but the sunny atmosphere of the later afternoon gave a real zest to the proceedings, which were in charge of a competent group of seniors. Mr. W. J. Thompson was the official chairman, with Messrs. J. Patte, R. A. Carman and R. C. Heiderman as judges, Messrs. G. H. Roper and J. K. Hughes as starters, Mr. "Duke" Broadhurst as announcer, and Dr. A. W. McPherson as clerk.

Every event on the programme was well contested and had a large number of entries, the children entering into the contests with zest and vigor, accepting their successes with modest pleasure and their defeats without grouching. The element of real sportsmanship which the small boys and girls displayed was one of the most entertaining portions of an interesting afternoon.

The events were run off in the following order:

Boys' skiff (10 years and under)—1 Billy McPherson; 2 Sam Patte.

Girls' and boys' single canoe (8 years and under)—1 Douglas McPherson; 2 Ross Pulkinghorn.

Girls' tandem skiff—1 Mary McFarlane and Genevieve Hamilton; 2 Lahring Parsons and Elspeth McElhiney.

Boys' swimming (15 years and under)—1 Bob White; 2 Jack White. (This was a good race between the two brothers and their opponents and had a close finish).

Boys' gunwale (10 years and under)—1 Douglas McPherson; 2 Bill McPherson.

Girls' tandem canoe (12 years and under)—1 Muriel Preston and Mary McFarlane; 2 Isabel Cragg and Frances Crawford of Marmora and Chemong.

Boys' skiff (15 years and under)—1 Jack Patte; 2 Allan Lewis.

Boys' and girls' swimming race (12 years and under)—1 Frank Jopling; 2 Jean McFarlane. (This was a very close contest, with six little boys and one small girl battling through choppy waves to the final point. Arthur Hunter came a very close third in this event).

The pillow fight which wound up the proceedings proved to be one of the jolliest events on the programme, with a number of valiant small boys and girls taking turns in standing on a slippery wet log, to battle with moist soft bags or "pillows." The finals were won by those possessing the most endurance, Eric Westbye coming first and Frank Jopling second. Little Sam Patte aroused much enthusiasm in this portion of the programme by disdaining to take the time to don a bathing suit for the event, wading out to the log and eventually taking several tumbles in the water while clad in his play suit of blue shirt and overalls.

The prizes, which were exceptionally good this year, equalling in value the awards given at the senior regatta on Thursday, were distributed later by Dr. McPherson, Messrs. Patte and Hughes, and included such worth-while things as large and small paddles, flashlights, knives, cushions, haversacks, fishing tackle, boxes of chocolate, mouth organs, fountain pens and Eversharp pencils.

MOSCOW (United Press).—The ex-president of an Armenian village Soviet, Galust Papikian, has been sentenced to serve two months in jail for fraudulently enticing his successors in the village soviet to shave of their abundant whiskers.

Jealously was believed the motive for Galust's action. When his fellow-villagers did not re-elect him as president of the soviet he announced an entirely fictitious order from the Central Soviet authorities to the effect that soviet memebers must be clean-shavn. His successors preferred their offices to their whiskers and eliminated their beards. But when the truth of the matter came out Galust drew a sixtyday sentence for his "hooliganism."

CHURCH SERVICE HELD AT MARMORA

Rev. Caiger-Watson Officiated at Order of Morning Prayer.

MARMORA, Aug. 10.—A good congregation was seen at St. Paul's on Sunday morning, the order of morning prayer being taken by the rector, Rev. P. Caiger-Watson. The lessons were read by the venerable Ogilvie G. Dobbs, M.A., Archdeacon, of Kingston, who also was the preacher.

The Archdeacon, who is a very earnest preacher, chose as his text, "Now are we all here present before God to hear all things that are commanded thee of God," Acts 10-32.

"I think you will all acknowledge," he remarked, "that there

Morning" and "Peace, Perfect Peace."

There were two addresses, Rev. Swan spoke very feelingly from the words, "The Lord opened the eyes of the young man and he saw that those with him were more than they against him." The other address was given by Rev. Rural Dean Kidd, who spoke from the words, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Mrs. R. E. English, of Lindsay, rendered an appropriate solo, "My Task." Following the addresses the rector read amid perfect silence the names of the eleven departed and Rural Dean Kidd brought this memorable service to a close with the Benediction. The offertory which was generous, is to be devoted to some proper memorial within the walls of the Little Church by the Lake. After the service the little procession of surpliced choir and clergy wended its way back to the church. Later in the day the large cross of blue and white was taken out on the lake and deposited in the waters near the scene of the tragedy.

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

TUESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1926.

(Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Again the stars appear to be inclined to contrary influences upon human destiny, according to astrology. Benefic and adverse aspects contend.

Mercury is in a place most favorable to all forms of writing and should stimulate advertising.

Authors of books and plays again are to benefit, for there is to be a return to excessive reading. Novelists will profit greatly.

The rule is advantageously for aviators and for inventors. Immense strides are to be made in the improvement of automobiles as well as airplanes, the seers foretell.

Men should benefit today from new acquaintances of opposite sex, for there is a sign making for real friendship which is lasting.

Psychic investigations now will occupy attention and if the astrologers are correct science is to seek the solution of problems of the ocult world.

Education is subject to the best possible influences and summer schools are in some way to become of international moment.

Political rivalries are to be bitter and there may be sensational incidents in many of the fall campaigns, particularly in the east, astrologers foretell.

Warning has been given of possible mining disasters and it is said to be imperative that all forms of prote tion for workers be installed.

Uranus is in an aspect which increases the better forms of curiosity, causing taxpayers to be interested in the use of public funds.

Forceful tendencies on the part of the people may be looked for, inasmuch as there are indications of a nation-wide awakening to civic delinquencies.

Drug-taking will cause renewed efforts to stamp out the evil, it is prophesied, for there will be little abatement of the traffic.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful in safeguarding business and financial interests. However, there is a likelihood of success in speculation.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely fond of sports and successful in them. Success in employment is augured. Girls may be unlucky in marriage and should be prevented from wedding inharmonious husbands.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The agate is today's talismanic gem. It brings good fortune to those who travel on this date, protecting them from danger and assuring them of reaching a safe destination and attaining success on their errand. The ancients believed that it was especially potent in protecting its wearer from lightning.

Today's natal gem is the pearl, symbolic of youth and happiness. The ancients attributed to it the power to dispel sorrow and protect its wearer from useless worry.

The yellow tea rose is today's flower. Its presence is believed to dispel treachery and false friends.

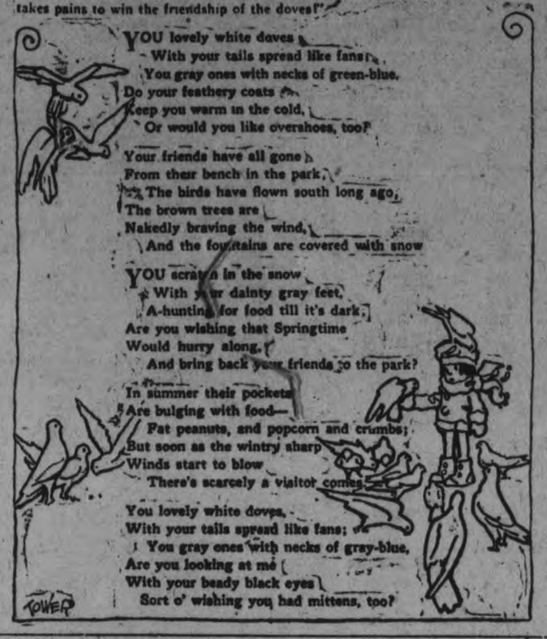
The Doves in the Park

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

I SAT in the park watching the people and the doves. A young man came shambling up the walk, dissipated, shifty looking. "What a shame," I thought, "You're just naturally weak and the type police watch for trouble." He walked slowly into the midst of the feeding doves, leaned carelessly against a tree, took a bag of nuts from his pocket and waited. Cautiously the doves came to him. They fed from his hand, perched on his shoulder and worn cap. They took nuts from his lips! After a half hour I went away thinking, "Surely no one is ALL bad who takes pains to win the friendship of the doves!"



YOU lovely white doves
With your tails spread like fans
You gray ones with necks of green-blue.
Do your feathery coats
Keep you warm in the cold,
Or would you like overshoes, too?

Your friends have all gone
From their bench in the park,
The birds have flown south long ago,
The brown trees are
Nakedly braving the wind,
And the fountains are covered with snow

YOU scratch in the snow
With your dainty gray feet,
A-hunting for food till it's dark;
Are you wishing that Springtime
Would hurry along,
And bring back your friends to the park?

In summer their pockets
Are bulging with food—
Fat peanuts, and popcorn and crumbs;
But soon as the wintry sharp
Winds start to blow
There's scarcely a visitor comes

You lovely white doves,
With your tails spread like fans;
You gray ones with necks of gray-blue,
Are you looking at me
With your beady black eyes
Sort o' wishing you had mittens, too?

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

DIDEROT AND SOPHIE VOLAND

One of that group of writers and political leaders who were responsible for the French Revolution was Denys Diderot, a man who had been trained for the priesthood and developed into a bitter enemy of Catholicism.

Diderot married unhappily; his wife was a devout Catholic and this, added to other differences, made home-life so unpleasant for him that he sought amusement elsewhere. He started with a woman writer of little talent who was his mistress for some time and then he met Sophie Voland, the woman who was to be his inspiration for twenty years, until his death. The following is one of Diderot's letters to Sophie, among the finest examples of love letters in the entire literature of this class:

"I am at a friend's; and I write to her I love. Do you know, my dear girl, how happy you render me! Do you know by what ties I am attached to you! Do you doubt that my feelings for you will last as long as my life? I was full of the tenderness with which you inspired me when I was in the company of my friends. It shone in my eyes; it spoke in my tongue; it governed every motion; it showed itself in everything. I must have appeared very strange to them; extraordinarily inspired; divine! Grimm has not eyes enough wherewith to see me nor ears enough to hear me—they were all astonished. I experienced an eternal satisfaction which I am unable to express to you. It was as if a fire burned at the bottom of my heart, swelling my bosom which shone upon and warmed them. We passed a night of enthusiasm of which I was the focus. It is not without regret that I leave so charming a position. Yet I must. Duty calls me and I obey. Upon leaving Grandval I could not help returning to Montamy who said, 'Ah, my dear sir, what pleasure you have given me!' And I replied in a whisper, 'It is not I but she who has inspired me!' Adieu, my dear girl! I am impatient to see you again; and yet I have just been parted from you. Tomorrow at nine I shall be with the Baron. I had much rather be with you. Adieu! Adieu!"

WHO WROTE THIS?

FRANCES

(The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

Freedom is the significance of Franes, the name which is used interchangeabo with only one letter's difference as a masculine and feminine proper name. It is derived from the Teutonic 'frei,' but, curiously enough, made its first appearance in a near approach to its present form in Italy, where a son of an Italian merchant became so fluent as a French scholar that his baptismal name of Giovanni was lost to sight and he went by the term of "il Francesco" (the Frenchman). I was this same youth who later was canonized and founded the order of the Francescan Brotherhood.

The first feminine form of the name was the title of the unhappy lady whose doom was so exquisitely told by Dante in his romance of "Paolo and Francesca," which is one of the great love stories of literature. San Francesca de Roma was a devout housewife of great popularity in Italy, and in 1300 there was a Francoise of fame at Cambria.

Frances came into being through Mary Tudor, who, in honor of Francois I, king of France, and in memory of her own brief rule in France, christened her first child Frances. She was the Lady Frances Brandon who established the name in the Tudor court and made it forever popular in England. Francis and Frances were both used as feminine names without distinction in those days, and Frank was the diminutive bestowed exclusively on English maids. The wife of the Duke of Richmond was so called and history recalls that the Duke would subdue her haughty pride on occasion by saying: "Frank, Frank, how long is it since thou wast married to Prannel?" thus reminding her of an early elopement with a vintner. Lady Fanny Shirley was a famous English beauty whose baptismal name was undoubtedly Frances.

The sapphire is Frances' talismanic stone. It assures her successful accomplishment of any undertaking, preservation from evil, and faithful friends. Friday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number. The morning glory of contentment is her flower.

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 — (United Press).—It doesn't look as though anything could put a nick in knickers! Everyone, regardless of size, is wearing them. Very few women look well in them—still they wear them. Father's are a bit fuller and are longer over the shins than Grandma's and the girls. Perhaps he assumes this modesty because he doesn't wish to appear too feminine in his sporting attire.

But—regardless of how they look, knickers are the only sensible clothing for outing wear. Certainly they are a bit out of place on city streets or at Coney Island, but on the golf links, on country roads and for general hiking or outing purposes they can't be beat.

The windbreaker jacket is the ideal one to wear with outing knickers. They are made of real suede or of suede cloth and are belted in at a low waistline. Sweaters often replace them although the sweater has a tendency to cling to the figure and when one wears knickers one should not attempt to hew the line. The straight, boyish figure is the ideal we attempt to attain in knickers. And, lest we forget, we must be manishly attired from head to foot when knickered. High heels and silken hosiery do not conform with the knicker idea. One should wear good, stout sport shoes or tennis shoes and the hosiery trousers unless you are certain of neutral colored felt hat on boyish lines is better than a colorful sports hat.

Knickers are designed for hard sports wear and we only look well in them when the occasion demands them. We disapprove of them for semi-sports wear. The girl who wears them as her Sabbath outfit as many girls do, is ridiculous. In other words, whenever a skirt may be comfortably worn, wear a skirt. Never commit the fatal mistake of wearing the blouse tucked into the trousers unless you are certain your boyish silhouette. Jackets, blouses, sweaters, etc., should extend to the top of the hips or below them.

SCORE WAS 7-4

Petes Get More Hits, But Leave Twelve Runners on Bases.

(By C. J. B.)

For the second Saturday in succession Peterborough fans saw a visiting team come from behind to beat the Petes when on Saturday Kingston defeated the homesters 7-4 in a C.O.B.L. game. As a result the Petes must take the remaining game from Belleville on Wednesday to avoid replaying the famous nineteen-innings tie game.

Lack of consecutive hitting beat the Peterborough team. In the first they stated like a house on fire, getting four hits for three runs. Then they wasted two hits in the next two innings, but combined three in the fourth for a run. They made one hit in the fifth, the seventh the eighth, and ninth, the sixth being the only hitless inning, but all these odd singles brought no result, men being left stranded in every case.

The Ponies made every hit but one count. They went hitless in the first but combined a single with an error and a sacrifice for a run in the second. The third and fourth were hitless while Teepel singled and was stranded in the fifth. Six hits were crowded into the sixth and brought in five runs. Two more hits counted into the sixth and brought in five runs. Two more hits counted a run in the seventh and then the Ponies kept off the bases for the rest of the game.

The Petes got a raw deal from the weatherman. Just when they had a nice lead in the third he halted the game for a few minutes and made it look as if the prospective victory was going to be rained out. Then, when five innings were over and rain would have saved the game for the Petes he forgot all about it, and sent sunshine instead, and the Pony bats rang with the hits that meant the game.

Laying them in there too nice, as Al Heckman himself expressed it, brought his second loss of the season to the Petes' senior hurler. The one bad innings cost him the game For the rest of the game he was practically unbeatable. The Ponies couldn't get men on in five innings, let alone have them left on the bases. Grounders which the infield handled quickly and surely and flies which found outfielders waiting, with an occasional strike out, were all that the Ponies could collect.

The Kingston pitcher was often in trouble but was at his best with men on the sacks, halting the Petes' good start with two strikeouts in the first inning and forcing easy outs at other times. His control was not very good, although only twice did he serve more than three balls to one batsman. He was well supported by Tetro, who like his junior rival behind the bat for the Petes, played good ball.

Thompson pulled the feature play of the game when he pulled down Jim Hall's drive near the left field fence, taking it over his shoulder. He made a good catch while running across the field at full speed to rob Holyman of a line drive to the creek. Fly balls to the Petes' outfielders were sure outs but Jim Hall appeared shaky on grounders. They handled eight out of nine chances.

In the infield Harry Batstone drew some sarcastic comment of the fans when two liners whistled by him. On one it looked as if he didn't see the ball until it was going by. He made one error, fumbling a slow roller. Helson made some good pickups, taking fast and slow balls alike. The other infielders made no slips.

The Petes had no blanks in the hit column. Every man who started the game secured at least one safe blow, with Heckman leading with three. Jim Hall and Helson had two singles each while Holyman had the only extra base drive. Cherry had three hits, two of them doubles, while Teepel had two singles. Purvis and Britton went hitless.

Play By Innings.

Thompson was out on a slow roller to Helson. Halbert and Batstone flied to Jack Hall.

For the Petes Jim Hall led off with a single on a clean drive over second. Rose dropped another hit behind short. Ash advanced two with a sacrifice to Cairns. Batstone fumbled Heckman's roller, filling the bases. Jack Hall dropped a Texas Leaguer back of first, scoring his brother and Rose. Harrison struck out. Helson singled, sending Heckman home and Hall to third, taking second on the throw to the plate. Collins struck out.

Cherry singled. He was forced on Purvis' tap to the box but Heckman threw wide to second, giving the runners an extra base and making it possible for Cherry to score on Tetro's long fly to centre after Britton had struck out. Teepel fanned to end the inning.

Cairns and Thompson went out on grounders to Heckman and Holyman, and Halbert lifted to Jim Hall.

The Petes had two men stranded in their half of the third. Heckman cut a hot single past Batstone. Jack Hall struck out and Harrison walked. Tetro took Helson's high foul and Collins struck out.

The Ponies again went out, one, two, three in the fourth. Batstone and Purvis struck out and Cherry flied to Jim Hall.

Another For the Petes.

The Petes added one to their lead in the fourth. Holyman, first up, doubled. He went to third on Jim Hall's bunt to the box and scored on Rose's fly to Thompson in deep left. Ash and Heckman followed with singles but were left when Jack Hall hit to Halbert.

The Ponies did little in the fifth. Britton struck out and Tetro lifted to Holyman. Teepel drove past Helson for a base but Heckman threw out Cairns.

A hit, but no run, was the Petes' portion to. Harrison rolled to Hilbert. Helson singled, but Collins and Holyman sent flies to Cherry and Teepel.

The Ponies Forge Ahead.

Thompson started the fatal sixth with a single over second. Halbert moved him up with a single to right. Batstone poped to Helson. Thompson and Halbert scored on Cherry's double to the fence near the creek. Purvis flied to Jim Hall and Britton was hit. Tetro stole second and scored with Britton on Teepel's single. Cairns singled over short and when Jim Hall let the ball get away Teepel tried to go all the way in. A quickly relayed throw, Jack Hall to Holyman to Collins, cut him off at the plate.

For the first and last time in the game the Petes were unable to get a man to first. Thompson pulled in Jim Hall's fly to deep left while running with his back to the plate. Rose flied to Teepel and Ash struck out.

The Ponies ended the scoring in the seventh. Thompson struck out and Halbert hit to Rose. Batstone singled and scored on Cherry's double. Purvis struck out.

Grounders by Heckman and Jack Hall to Halbert and Batstone started the Pete's half. Harrison singled but was forced on Helson's roller to Halbert.

The Ponies did nothing in the eighth. Britton flied to Ash and Tetro lifted to Harrison. George Helson drew the applause of the crowd by a wonderful stop and throw on Teepel's drive over third.

The Petes wasted another single Collins led off with a hit. He stayed on first while Thompson made a fine running catch of Holyman's drive which looked as if bound for the creek. Jim Hall struck out and then Rose forced Collins, Britton to Halbert.

The winners didn't move a wheel in the ninth. Cairns was a strikeout victim, Thompson rolled to Rose, and Halbert to Harrison.

The Petes staged a great fight in their half but got nowhere. Ash rolled to Britton. Heckman singled but Lennox, batting for Jack Hall forced him on a tap to the box. Harrison walked but Cairns stopped Helson's drive and threw him out to end the game.

YANKS RETAIN THEIR LEAD BY NARROW MARGIN

FOUR IN NINTH

NEW YORK, August 10. — The Yanks retained the margin at the top of the American League yesterday by defeating Ty. Cobb's Tigers at Detroit 9 to 8. A terrific four run rally by the Cobb in the 9th fell short by one run of tying the count. Detroit used up four twirlers in an effort to check the leaders while the Yanks used three. Jones worked for the Hugmen for eight and two-thirds innings, was relieved by Braxton who was yanked after pitching to only one batter and relieved by Sharkey who retired the side. Features of the game were home runs by Ruth and Lazerri. It was the Babe's 36th circuit blow.

Two big innings which netted seven runs gave the Indians a 7 to 5 victory over Washington at Cleveland Walter Johnson pitched for the Senators and only allowed nine hits, five less than the number made by Washington, but he permitted bunching.

Rippey's triple brought in two runs which spelt defeat for the Browns at St. Louis at the hands of the Boston Red Sox. The score was 7 to 5.

DON'T LOVE FARMER GIRLS

MOLD, Flintshire, Wales (A.P.) —"What's the use of talking about 'back to the land' in this age when boys love polished nails and girls must all have powderpuffs?" Mrs. J. Evans of Mannerch, demanded in a speech before the Flintshire Liberals in opposition to the Lloyd George land scheme.

But in spite of the bitter opposition offered by Mrs. Evans and a group of her loyal supporters, the Flintshire Liberals endorsed the Liberal land plan.

If the Clerks win both games they will tie for first place with the Mill, and a sudden death game the first of the following week will decide who gets the bye in the play off.

SIXTH LINE SOFTBALL TEAM WINS TOURNEY ON FIELD DAY

TRENT RIVER WINS.

Good Pitching by Christie, Who Shuts Out Local Aggregation.

Four ladies' softball games and one men's game provided a real full afternoon's entertainment for Peterborough lovers of that sport at the War Veterans' second annual Civic Holiday field day yesterday. Three of the ladies' games were in a tournament entered by the Sports of Peterborough, Bethany, Sixth Line, and Keene, and won by the Sixth Line girls. The other was the game between the C.G.E. Ladies and Dunlops of Toronto, postponed from the morning because of the late arrival of the Toronto team. The men's game, between a team epresentative of various teams of the Peterborough Softball league, and the Trent River team, which consists mainly of Toronto boys spending their vacation at that resort, was won by the visitors.

Bethany won the fist game of the ladies' tournament, beating the Sports team 7-5 after an extra innings. The heavier hitting of the Bethany girls won for them, both teams being about even in fielding.

Both teams got runners on in the first but were unable to score. In the first half of the second inning Bethany nscored one on a triple by Marion McKinnon and a single by V. Lee.

The Sports went ahead in their half. Miss Connors was safe on an error and scored on R. Jay's double. The latter counted when L. Naish hit a grounder which M. Davis fumbled.

Bethany tied it up in the third. Muriel McKinnon singled and went to second on a wild throw by G. Foster. After Miss Sisson had grounded out Miss McKinnon scored on an error by H. Fowler.

The winners scored another in the fourth. V. Lee singled and moved aound on W. Dawe's infield out and G. McKinnon's single. The Sports also counted once. H. Fowler singled, advanced on an error by shortstop, and scored on M. Connors' single.

Each team scored another in the fifth, which was supposed to be the last inning. For Bethany, D. Sisson was safe on an error, I. Davis struck out. B. Fallis was safe on an error. Marion McKinnon hit to the pitcher, forcing Miss Sisson and M. Evans missed Miss Lee's roller, allowing Miss Fallis to score. Miss Dawe struck out, leaving two runners stranded. For the Sports, F. Andrews singled to right and took second when the fielder missed the ball. She scored when W. Dawe dropped a fly from Miss Foster's bat. The latter was doubled off first when D. Goodwin hit a pop fly to the box.

Two easy outs didn't start the sixth inning auspiciously for Bethany, but four singles in a row, by Marion McKinnon, D. Sisson, I. Davis and B. Fallis resulted in three runs before Murial McKinnon lifted to right. Miss Muir led off for the Sports with a home run, which seemed a good omen, but Miss Connors flied to left, Miss Jay grounded to second, Miss Naish was safe on an error, and Miss Andrews hit to Miss Sisson for the final out.

The teams:

Sixth Line 16; Keene 13

Excitement and neighborly rivalry ran high as the Sixth Line ladies defeated Keene in the second game of the girls' tourney. A rally by Keene in the last inning, which resulted in five runs being scored, proved the most exciting part of the game. The losers had more hits, but they also had more erorrs and were often guilty of slow playing or useless throws.

The winners made a good start, taking the lead in the first inning and holding it throughout. Three hits, one a double, and two errors, were good for four runs. The losers were able to get only half this number of runs, but did it without any hits in their half, errors and a walk being responsible.

The second inning made the Keene girls' task seem almost hopeless but they continued their game fight. In this inning the Sixth Line team scored six runs, five singles, a walk and some errors being responsible. Miss Jean Nelson featured the inning with a splendid throw from centre field to catch Miss Elliott at the plate in an attempt to score. In their half the losers hit three singles and these, with an infield out, brought them two more runs.

One hit and one run was the Sixth line portion in the third, making their total eleven. Keene took advantage of some wild and useless thowing, with other errors, to bat right around and score three runs on only one hit. All their runs were scored with two out and three runners were left stranded.

The fourth was another big inning for Sixth Line. They batted right around and scored four runs on two hits, some errors and a walk Miss Donaldson's long single with the bases loaded was a feature. Keene made four hits, all singles, but they followed two outs and an attempt to score from second on the last one caused an easy out at the plate.

One single, followed by two infield outs and a fly, brought Sixth eight runs down, Keene started a Line one run in the fifth, and then, eight runs down, Keene started a thrilling rally that was not stopped until five runs had been scored. Six hits, two of them doubles, were secured off Miss Hall's delivery and errors aided the runners in getting around, none of those who reached first base being stranded when the final out was made.

Sixth Line 10; Bethany 9

The lead changed hands several times in the final game of the girls' tournament, but after Bethany had tied it up in the fourth Sixth Line scored one in their half of the fifth and held their opponents scoreless winning out 10 to 9. Bunched hits counted in this game, while towards the end Miss Hall reached the top of her form, being almost invincible. Extra base hits were frequent, Hiss Hall leading with a triple and a home run, while Miss Chapman had a double and a triple.

Each team scored two in the first inning. Miss Hall opened the game with a triple, which was followed by two singles. Successive errors by Miss Elliott put two runners on for Bethany and I. Davis sent them home with a single.

Sixth Line went out in order in the second, while Bethany took the lead by scoring two runs. Miss Dawe singled but was out for leaving the base too soon. G. McKinnon was safe on an error and M. Davis singled. Both came in when Muriel McKinnon singled.

Eleven batters faced Miss McKinnon in the third and six runs were scored. Miss Hall started the frame with a homer. Mises E. and L. Donaldson were safe and then Miss Chapman hit for three bases. Miss Bowie was the first out on a fly to shortstop and Miss Reid followed when, after reaching third on errors, she tried to score on Miss Wood's tap to the box. Singled by J. Donaldson and M. Hall sent home two more runs before E. Donaldson grounded to the box.

Bethany scored four in the second half and evened matters again. A walk to Miss Fallis was followed by two singles. Miss Dawe flied out to second and then G. McKinnon singled. M. Davis lifted to the pitcher. Muriel McKinnon doubled to clear the bases and then D. Sisson lifted to third.

Each team scored on in the fourth L. Donaldson singled and D. Chapman doubled to score for Sixth Line. I. Davis reached second on two errors and scored after the catch on Marion McKinnon's long fly to right.

J. Wood scored in the fifth for the Sixth Line team. She started with a single and was advanced around the score the winning run. The first two batters for Bethany were easy outs and then Marion McKinnon was safe on an error. She reached third by stealing but was stranded when D. Sisson struck out. The line-ups were the same for the two teams as in their first games, except that J. Wood replaced H. Weir for Sixth Line.

Sixth Line	2	0	6	1	1	—	10	11	8
Bethany	2	2	4	1	0	—	9	7	5

Trent River 4; Peterborough 1

J. Christie had too much speed for a Peterborough team and as a result Trent River continued the string of victories of softball tournaments with a shut out win here in which he allowed only one hit. The Trent River team consists of Toronto boys who are spending their vacation at that summer resort and is very fast. The hurler was given airtight support and only sixteen men faced him in five innings. After the first inning the visitors could do little with the offerings of Harold Dormer, who yielded only six hits in the entire game.

The visitors won the game in the first inning. C. Christie started with a double and McNichol singled him home, going to second on an error by Hope. Hellowell was safe on Gimblett's error, McNicholl scoring and singles by Midgely and Trelford scored him, Turnbull forced Midgely at third, Trelford was nipped off second, and Christie rolled to Westbrooke.

The visitors secured neither hits nor runs in the second or third, while Christie struck out seven of the nine batsmen who faced him in the first three innings. The two who didn't fan went out, one on a pop fly and the other on a roleir to the same place.

Trent River scored one in the fourth when J. Christie doubled and advanced to the counting station on loose play. They secured one hit in the fifth but the batter, McNicholl, went out stealing. McNeeley secured the only Peterborough hits in the fourth, but was stranded, while three pop flies in the fifth ended the game.

Score by innings:

LARGE CROWD ATTEND CIVIC HOLIDAY FEAT

Programme by G.W.V.A. Larger Than That of Last Year.

RACING MEETS

R. Elmhurst's of Keene, Jusk Jack Captures First Money.

Thousands of citizens of this city and the surrounding districts celebrated civic holiday by going to the sports at the exhibition grounds which were held under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. The crowd was much larger than the one last year and the different events were contested more closely. The horse racing was especially good, but not as fast as was expected, as the track after the previous rains was very heavy. Jusk Jack, owned by R. Elmhurst, of Keene, won first money in the 2.40 class, and Daisy Mackenzie, owned by E. Jones, of Peterborough, won first money in the 2.25 class.

Twenty-seven boys 16 and under lined up in the 100 yard dash. The oldest man on the grounds was David Conroy, of 33 Hunter street, who was 85 on August 4, and the youngest on the grounds was Elden Downer, who was 1 month old, being born on the 8th of July.

The result of the heats were:

REDS DIVIDE DOUBLE GAME WITH PHILLIES

Five Errors on the Part of Brooklyn Aids Pittsburgh.

INCREASES LEAD

Braves Take Third Straight Shutout From the Cards.

NEW YORK, August 10 (Canadian Press).—The Pirates increased their National League leadership over the St. Louis Cardinals by defeating Brooklyn 9 to 3 at Ebbett's Field yesterday. Five errors on the part of the Robins aided the Pittsburgh cause. The winners gathered in ten hits and knocked Petty out of the box into the bargain. Kremer allowed the opposition nine hits but the lead given him was never endangered.

The Cards lost to the Braves at Boston yesterday, 5 to 0. It was the Braves' third straight shut-out victory.

Cincinnati split a double-header with the Phillies at Philadelphia the home team winning the first, 7 to 4, and the Reds, the second, 10 to 5. Seven runs in the first innings of the initial fray were enough to subdue Hendrick's men. The Reds outhit Philadelphia 12 to 6 in the first game, but Carlson managed to keep them scattered. Four errors by Cincinnati did not harm the Phillies. In the second game, the Reds came from behind when a terrific assault in the sixth and seventh innings scored nine runs and mauled a couple of Phillie twirlers.

The Giants won another game at the Polo Grounds by taking a 4 to 3 verdict from the Chicago Cubs. Effective batting by Jackson and Lindstrom, especially the former, who had a homer, two doubles and a single, helped the McGraw men climb into a tie for fourth place with the Cubs.

BEARS WINNERS OVER SYRACUSE

Brings Victory to Within Three Percentage Points of Orioles.

RALLY IN SEVENTH

NEW YORK, N. Y., August 10.—Canadian Press. — Only one game was carded in the International League yesterday, the Newark Bears downing Syracuse 7 to 4 at Newark to climb to within three percentage points of the league-leading Baltimore Orioles. Four runs in the 7th inning brought the winners from behind and settled the issue.

OMEMEE DID NOT PLAY SOCCER GAME

Intimated on Friday Evening That They Would Not Play.

All local soccer fans were disappointed on Saturday through Omemee failing to play the semi-final of the Gordon Soccer Trophy.

It was not until Friday evening, after all arrangements had been made that the Omemee representative intimated that he could not fulfill the engagement owing to a number of the players being away.

The action of Omemee necessitated an amount of unnecessary work to the secretary, who had to notify all the officials and the opposing team—the Thistles.

This is the second time that the same club has 'broken faith' in local circles and it is time that the Association should make a definite stand in regard to such farces on behalf of the soccer fan.

SPORTING LADIES WIN.

Defeat Gilmour Team 20-10 in Game at Chemong Park.

The Sporters came back with a win on Thursday, when they defeated the hard-hitting Gilmour Ladies by 20 to 10 at Chemong Park. The game was well played, and for the first four innings was an even battle but the Sporters, playing good ball, outhit their opponents for the rest of the game. For the losers, Anderson and Blewett starred, while for the Sporters Foster and Naish turned in a fine game. All the Sporting Girls played fine ball after their setback of Tuesday night.

The line-up:

Gilmour Ladies—H. Milburn, 2b; L. McGregor, ss; G. Blewett, 1b; L. Sanderson, 3b; B. McGregor, c; P. Jopling, rf; L. Anderson, p; V. Stalker, cf; C. Grant, lf.

HOW TO SWIM

by Lillian Cannon

The frog kick is associated usually with the breast stroke, but it is much better to learn the scissors kick and stick to it if possible.

It fits in with almost every stroke and is more efficient than the frog kick in every way.

However, to keep the record straight, here is the frog kick.

The first position is with the legs straight out with ankles touching. Second, the feet are drawn up toward the body, the feet in line with the legs to give the least water resistance, as the knees spread out.

Third, the flats of the feet are opposed to the water and the legs are kicked straight back until ankles touch again and the movements are repeated.

DE LAVAL WON THE FIVE-ASIDE SOCCER

Smart Tactics of the Youths Won Shield and Prizes.

The fast- moving DeLaval five-aside soccer team won the five-aside competition at the G. W. V. A. Sports Carnival, yesterday afternoon when they outscored their opponents by two goals to nothing in the final game.

DeLaval vs. Masseys.

In the opening stages, the Masseys set a fast pace in close combination against the DeLaval five who replied with long swinging passes from wing to wing which culminated in them winning the game by two goals against one corner. On two occasions, MsPhate of the Masseys carried the sphere close into the goal but Jones anticipation of play frustrated his movement to divert the ball skywards.

Quakers vs. Executive.

The stalwarts of the soccer in the city, viz.: Tommy Stewart, J. C. Russell, and three understudies put up an excellent brand of five-aside tactics that had the Quakers in a quandary when they were in the act of scoring. The heavyweights used their avoirdupois when necessary. Young Coleman in goal for the Executive made some brilliant stops and could not be blamed for the one goal to two corners against them.

Final Game.

From the kick-off, the DeLaval youths travelled with the ball from wing to wing and close-checking near goal. It was two minutes from the start that Cross opened the scoring from a long punt by Cravell. The Quakers replied with many desparate raids that Fowler concentrated in close checking to allow his team-mates to aid in near goal. A break-away by Maker was stopped by Jones who slipped the ball forward to Fowler who punted up the right wing to Cross who never stopped until he had registered number two. Just before half-time, they repeated the same performance but this time Cross parting shot rattled the cross-bar. After the change of ends, both fives set up a rapid visitation on goal and it was only after two minutes play that the game ended when Walkins went through the Quakers on the road for goal, Carmichael tackled to intercept the play but it ended with the later being injured and a "burst ball." They repaired the ball again but the Quakers conceded the issue to the DeLaval who were two goals ahead when the game was stopped.

Goal-scorer—Cross. 2.

C.G.E. GIRLS WIN SHUTOUT GAME

Defeat Dunlops of Toronto 10-0 in Exhibition Game on Holiday.

HEAVY HITTING

A shutout, a rare feat in girls' softball, was administered by the C.G.E. Ladies to Dunlops in a twilight exhibition fixture, which concluded the athletic events at the G.W.V.A. Field Day at the Exhibition Grounds yesterday. The home team was far from being shut out, scoring ten runs in six innings by combining their hits with walks by Miss Kingan, the visitors' hurler, and errors by her team mates.

The visitors were completely baffled by Babe Vincent's delivery. They were able to get only four hits, while her team mates played errorless ball to back up the wonderful showing of their hurler. In only one inning (the 1st) did two runners get on the bases, and on that occasion the next batter was fanned for the third out of the inning.

Miss Vincent struck out seven of the visitors, including three in the first innings, and walked three. Her opponent, Miss Kingan, walked six, three of them in the third inning, and fanned only three. She was helped out of several difficult situations by her support, which was better at critical moments than when there were no runners on the sacks.

Two snappy double plays were executed, one by each team. Miss Muniche took a grounder over second, touched the bag to retire Miss Janeway and tossed to first ahead of Miss Langton. Miss Plunkett took a fly back of first and raced to second ahead of Miss McGill, who had been nearly at third when the ball was caught.

No C.G.E. player got more than one hit, Babe Vincent being the one to go without any hits. Those secured by Misses Langton, Taylor, Logan, and Mortimer were triples. Miss Kingan, the Toronto pitcher, secured two of the teams four hits.

A large portion of the crowd sat patiently until the end of the game, which didn't start until after 6.30. Most of the spectators had been in the field since about 2 p.m., so that their session was was a long one as the final out was made about 7.45. The game was originally scheduled for 10.00 a.m., but the vistiors didn't arrive in the city until just after 12, by which time the gathering of over 500 fans had dispersed, many of them cashing their tickets instead of holding them for tomorrow night's game with Lindsay, when they will be honored.

The Toronto girls travelled in a commercial truck and explained their late arrival by saying that they had not started soon enough and had been lost on a detour. The crowd sat patiently for over an hour, but at 11.30 was practically all out of the park.

J. Christie and Turnbull, the battery of the Trent River team, acted as umpires and give perfect satisfaction. The box score:

FIRST GAME IS WON BY KEENE

Play Snappy Game Behind Robertson To Defeat Cogs By 3 To 2.

PLAY HERE FRIDAY.

Keene won the first game in the county finals of the East Peterborough League by defeating Cognawagas at Keene last evening, the score being 3 to 2. The homesters secured a brace of runs in the first and protected the lead by some nice defensive work behind Max Robertson's effective pitching. Harvey Smith twirled for the Cogs. Umpires Kay and LeBarr handled the game.

The second contest will be played at Exhibition Park next Friday evening, and if a third game is necessary, it will be played at Lakefield next Monday evening.

THE REGATTA AT STONEY LAKE GREAT SUCCESS

Record Attendance and Greater Number of Entries Than Ever.

CLOSE CONTESTS.

Most Events Bring Out Keen Competitions Before Being Decided.

STONEY LAKE, Aug. 10—With ideal weather conditions and a record crowd, even for Juniper, the Stoney Lake regatta made a new record for success on Monday. This year an especialy attractive programme had been drafted and was run off expeditiously by the committee who were "on the job" all the time. A noticeable feature was the remarkably large entry list in nearly all the double and group events. The "Stoney Lake" brought a very large crowd from Peterboro and the "Lintonia" brought a large contingent from Sturgeon Point, the "Empress" and "Islanda" contributed their quota to the crowd and there was an exceptionally large turn out of cottagers and from the resorts. Motor craft of all kinds were loaded to capacity bringing in spectators and contestants for the "big show." The programmes which were attractively gotten up had a footnote in large capitals: "Please remember success depends on you—turn out" and the cottagers remembered the advice and never was the spirit of co-operation better displayed. Fewer motor boats made themselves objectionable by using the course as a thoroughfare during races and a spirit of friendliness prevailed in a greater degree than ever before. The committee who planed and carried out the regatta deserve heartiest congratulations on the success of their efforts. J. M. Gouinlock, the energetic secretary of the Association was recorder and clerk of the course; J. R. Dodworth, W. G. Morrow and S. Henderson were judges; F. W. Jones was started and Gordon K. Fraser the announcer; J. H. Renwick and H. F. Foote were referees and W. Clink was in charge of the numbers.

Major N. C. Wotherspoon and G. L. Guillett also assisted in various ways combining with the others to make a strong working committee.

A string of bright hued streamers running from the eastern canoe dock to the pavilion gave a festive touch, and added not a little to the appearance.

The mens single skiff was won by Don FitzGerald with Major N. C. Wotherspoon second. The first prize was a silver cup and the second prize a silver knife.

Miss Helen Edmison won the ladies' single skiff (a pair of silver candlesticks being the prize) and Miss Gladys Heward took second place and won a vanity case.

Eight entered in the men's tandem canoe which was run in two heats, the first two in each heat going into the finals. The Ridpath brothers won the finals with its award of a pair of silver cups. George Wadds and Bob Beal were second, the prize being a can and bottle opener each.

The ladies' tandem canoe was won by Misses Dorothy Langley and Joan Hedley after a neck and neck race with Misses Helen Edmison and Florence Adams, who came second. The first prize was a pair of silver vases and the second a pair of cuff links each.

The men's single canoe race, paddled over a long course for the Kawartha Lakes championship, with the Major Oxley cup as the trophy brought six entries, and was a very close race to the very last inch. Clayton Ridpath was first and Don FitzGerald was second. Besides the Oxley Cup the winner received a miniature cup; the second prize was a cigarette box.

The girls' single canoe for girls 16 years and under was won by Billy Mackenzie with Gladys Heward second. The first prize was a silver vase and the second a pair of curling tongs.

Fourteen entries in the gunwale race necessitated two heats and this was a closely contested race and one which kept the spectators on the qui vive all through. Roy Dixon won first prize in the finals and D. Reeves second. The first prize was a Dutch silver cigarette box and the second a pair of cuff links.

Miss Florence Adams won the ladies' single canoe race, winning the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association Cup. Miss Joan Hedley, who was scond was awarded a pair of Dutch silver candlesticks.

Thirteen entered the crab race, which was as usual one of the most amusing of all the races. It was a keen contest to the very last and was won by P. H. Dunford with Eric Fawcett second. The first prize was a brass bowl and the second a Dutch silver ash tray.

The mixed fours in canoes paddled by pie plates brought out eleven entries and was run in three heats amid the laughter of contestants and spectators alike. This race was an innovation this season and one which will certainly hold a place on the programme again. This original idea was suggested by Mr. Foote, and was taken up with enthusiasm by the committee and the young people.

Misses Anne Van Natta and Gladys Heward and John Watson and C. R. May won first prize in the finals, a paddle each was the award.

The second prize, which consisted of four pies, was won by Misses Clara and Ada Adams and H. J. Rogers and Sam Sherin. Mr. Goodfellow won the 6 h.p. motor boat race with a good lead on his two rivals.

Take 2 Annual regatta

The mixed tandem canoe race brought out 10 entries and was won by Miss Helen Edmison and Don Fitzgerald, Miss Dorothy Langley and Clayton Ridpath were second. The first prize was a silver bowl and cigarette box, and the second prize a brass candle stick and a brass ash tray and match box.

Terry Hall won the single canoe for boys 16 years and under and Gordon Strickland was second. Each boy received a medal and a paddle.

The ladies' canoe fours was won by Misses Clare, Ada and Florence Adams and Miss Helen Edmison of Kawartha Park, with Misses Billy Mackenzie, Isabel Buell, Betty Bunting and Dorothy Langley, of Lower Stoney Lake, second. Bobbed hair sets for each were the first prizes and housewives were second prizes.

Miss Helen Edmison and Don Fitzgerald won the mixed tandem skiff, with Miss Dorothy Jory and George Wadds second. The first prize was a Dutch silver candlestick and a brass cigarette box and the second prize was a bar pin and a cork screw.

The Ridpath brothers, Don Fitzgerald and Sam Sherin, representing Lakefield, won the medals and paddles awarded for the men's fours, with George Wadds, Terry Hall, A. Robertson and Bob Beal second, each winning a medal and a cushion. Nine entered this race, but two boats tipped before they were half over the course, and another went over near the finishing line.

The second special event was the ladies' crab race, which brought only two entries and was won by Miss Joan Hedley, with Miss Betty Fairbairn second. The latter tipped over part way over the course, but proceeded to right the boat very coolly, showing no fear. Mr. Guillett reached her and towed in her canoe, but the young lady preferred to swim ashore. The first prize was a handsome box of note paper and the second prize a box of correspondence cards.

Six boats entered the "seven in a skiff," paddled. The winners were Stan Dodworth's crew, with Jack and Clayton Ridpath, Don Fitzgerald, Donglas Hall and Gerald and Sam Sherin, Heber Rogers' crew took second place with Roslyn Russell, Messrs. Stuart, McGivern, Allen, Richie, Stubbs and P. H. Dunford. The first prize was a cork screw for the skipper and a pocket comb set for each of the others. The second prize was an ash tray for the skipper and a china saucer for each of the crew.

Nine boats entered the mixed fours, but two tipped part way up the course, but apparently no one minded a ducking on such a warm day and at no time was there the slightest danger. The race was won by Misses Florence Adams, Helen Edmison, Terry Hall and Don Fitzgerald who were awarded cups and Peter Pan brushes. Miss Anna Bremin and Ruth Hitchens, with J. Guillet and Merton Buell won second place with scent bottles for the girls and brass ash trays for the boys.

Miss Violet Myers won the brass hot water kettle, the first prize for the ladies' swimming race, Miss Betty Bunting who was second, was awarded a brilliant ornament.

The last event of the afternoon was the tug of war, which brought out six entries and a most exciting contest. The Ridpath brothers and Sam Sherin won first place, with Doug. Hall, Stan Dodworth and Braden Blewett the runners up. The first prize was a small leather flask to each and a tobacco pouch to each of the runners-up.

At the dance, which was held in the evening, the prizes were awarded by Mrs. J. M. Fairbairn and also the awards to the winners of the special events held on Saturday afternoon.

Pennants were given the winners of the sailing races and the Gordon K. Fraser cup to winner of the dinghy race, Reg. Dixon

The first prize accompanying the Gordon Graham cup for the paddle round Juniper (won by Don Fitzgerald) was a pewter cup, and to the second (George Wadds) a nest of four ash trays.

For the two cylinder outboard race the first prize, won by Mr. Hendrick, was a focused flashlight and the second prize, won by Mr. Morgan, was a pocket book.

Mr. Gordon K. Fraser donated prizes for the swiming race from Lech's island to Juniper. The first prize was Mrs. Fraser's handsome cup, won by Tom Van Natta.

The "grab bag" motor boat race had as first price an electric lantern. The winning ticket was drawn by Charles MacLeon, who finished fourth, and Fred Porter who finished seventh, won the consolation ticket entitling him to a match box. There were nine entries.

During the afternoon a bevy of young ladies sold badges and programmes for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund, with results highly gratifying. Little Miss Ruth Gouinlock, who paddled her own canoe like a veteran, made the rounds of the motor craft anchored near the judges' stand and collected more than $18 for the good cause. The generous response to the appeal was indicative of the good spirit prevailing at all the events of this season.

SECOND VICTORY IN BICYCLE RACE

H. Tamblin Retains Possession of Cup For Lakefield-Peterborough Event.

MAKES GOOD TIME.

H. Tamblin of 56 Victoria Avenue won the ten-mile bicycle race from Lakefield to Peterborough yesterday in record time, making the trip in 27 minutes 6 seconds. The winner retains possession of the cup for another year as he won this same race last year. Four men started the race, but only three reached the city. Ray Derrick of 479 King Street was second, making the trip in 31 minutes 15 seconds, or 4 minutes 9 seconds behind the winner. H. Wiman of 500 Aylmer Street was third, being 2 minutes and 45 seconds behind Derrick. A very poor crowd of citizens turned out on the market to see the winner come in, preceded by a man all decorated up on one of those old-fashioned high bicycles.

PILES DISAPPEAR

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation — send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leondhardt, M.D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at McDermid & Jury, who will glady refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

THEATRE

"THE WILDERNESS WOMAN."

A dramatization of one of Arthur Stringer's popular stories is the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week, and yesterday saw good crowds at both opening performances. "The Wilderness Woman" sees many variations of the action of the story as written, notably in the conduct of the final scene, in which the great fight climax of the tale is deleted, probably through deference to the hero, whose picturization subordinates him entirely to the militant heroine, but the picture is nevertheless very interesting, and there is one outstanding bit in the safe scene where the strong-armed lady knocks out her admirer in pugilistic fashion with one swift uppercut, followed by a crafty tap on the solar plexus. "Junie" MacLean, as played by Aileen Pringle, is a fine example of the fashion in which a real actress of the silver sheet gets some very good effects. As the daughter of Kadiak MacLean, another exceptionally good characterization by Lowell Sherman, the lady dresses and acts the part of a dweller of the great open spaces. When she comes later to New York City, with the bank roll of her suddenly wealthy father itching to be burnt up, she dresses as a newly rich young person, with ideas imbibed from a mail-order catalogue, might dress, but it is a real butterfly that emerges from the embarassing cocoon later, when Junie puts herself in the hands of expert modistes and hair-dressers. Chester Conklin has the role of Allan Burkett, a minor affair, which leaves the lady in the foreground from start to finish.

Two confidence men get hold of the befuddled Kadiak MacLean from Alaska, and aim to relieve him of his bank roll, by selling him the New York Subway. The manner in which the gentleman drinks their hard liquor and then outwits their schemes, is very entertaining.

A good comedy, with plenty of fun in its unfolding, accompanies the feature, in a Lupino Lane diversion entitled "His Private Life," and the short reels are also very good. — Jeanette.

ANCIENT STATUE DISCOVERED

During the excavations of the Street of Abundance at Pompeii recently, Dr. Maiuri found a bronze statue of a Greek youth, five feet high and in a perfect state of preservation. It was still standing on its ancient pedestal. It was originally gilded but most of the gilding had disappeared. Dr. Maiuri declared it to be one of the finest masterpieces of Greek art and to have belonged to the school of Phidias.

5 corns removed by Radox

The stabbing, throbbing pain of a corn will always continue until you remove the cause of the trouble—the root of the corn. Plastering or cutting will not get rid of them. But a few Radox foot-baths will enable any corn to be lifted out root and all. A Radox user writes:

"I can say from experience that Radox is far superior to any other Bath Salts on the market. I have had bad feet ever since I can remember, and have tried dozens of preparations without success About a week ago I decided to give Radox a test. The result was wonderful. After 15 minutes' immersion, I was able to remove my corn, root and all."

When you put your feet into a footbath containing Radox, the salts soften the hard outer layers of the corn and the dead skin (of the corn) combines with the Radox Bath Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This dissolves in the water and so loosens the corn that it can be lifted out bodily.

On your way home tonight, buy a package at the druggist's.

BRITISH SUB SINKS.

LONDON, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press)—The British submarine H29 sank at its moorings in the Devonport dockyard, near Plymouth, late yesterday. Five men lost their lives, the Admiralty having listed their names as missing.

Various reasons are given for the accident. One is that the submarine was inclined at too sharp an angle by the drawing of the hawsers as it was being moored; another is that it went over too far in a tilting test, permiting the water to flow in the open hatches.

Six men on deck at the time of the accident were able to jump clear of the craft and were rescued.

The H29 sank in 25 feet of water. Salvaging operations were immediately begun.

WEDDING BELLS

GILDERS—GATFIELD

A very pretty wedding took place at high noon on Saturday last, at All Saints' Church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns for the occasion, when Ella Gladys, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gatfield, Rubidge Street, became the bride of Charles Alfred Gilders, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilders, Crescent Street. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. J. D. Paterson. The Wedding March was played by Miss Margaret Flowers, with violin obligato by Mrs. J. Foster, the latter also playing a violin solo, "Adoration" during the signing of the register.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white georgette over white satin, with white satin shoes and stockings and white veil, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to about eighty guests, at the home of the bride's parents, where the rooms were profusely decorated with pretty flowers, white bells and white ribbon streamers. Mrs. Gatfield, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Gilders, the bridegroom's mother, assisted in receiving the guests, the former wearing black satin, the latter shot silk. During the progress of the breakfast Rev. J. D. Paterson, one of the guests, presented the bride and bridegroom with a handsome Bible. They also received many telegrams from friends in the United States, Florida and Toronto, the occasion of their marriage also marking the twenty-third anniversary of the wedding of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilders, who left later by motor for Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, will reside, on their return, at the Goheen Apartments, corner of Dalhousie and Rubidge Streets. The bride travelled in a stylish outfit of blue and sand, with dress of blue silk crepe, hat and coat of sand shade, and blonde shoes and stockings.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilders were recipients of many handsome and useful gifts from a large circle of friends in the city, in other Canadian points, and in the United States.

FIELD—McILWAIN

The marriage was solemnized by Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church of Greta L. McIlwain and Leslie J. Field, both of Peterboro. The young couple will reside in the city.

RICHMOND—McGOVARIN

On Saturday, August 7th, the marriage was solemnized at 438 Park St. by the Rev. B. Greatrix, of Lily McGovarin and William Arthur Richmond, both of this city. Attendants were Mr. W. J. Bolton and Miss Rose McGovarin, sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Richmond will live in Peterborough.

BIRTH.

BREADMAN.—On August 3rd, to Mr. and Mrs. L. Breadman, Dalhousie Street, a daughter.

THE STOCK MARKET

Smelters Show Weakness Trading On Wide List

TORONTO, Aug. 10 (Canadian Press).—Brazilian Traction, again the active leader in the trading on the Stock Exchange today, eased off 2 points to close at 108 1-2, its low for the session. More than a thousand shares changed hands. Trading was conducted over a fairly broad list prices on the whole were inclined to weakness.

International Petroleum exhibited considerable activity, but eased 3-8 to 35, while Gooderham and Worts new was stronger 1-2 up to 29. Brompton lost 1-4 to 33 3-4, while Barcelona gained 1 point to 36. Imperial Oil was off 1-2 to 36 1-4. The weakness of Smelters was a feature, a decline of 3 points to 234 being registered. Canners preferred eased 1-4 to 65, and Imperial Bank lost 1 to 203.

Wheat Price Advances Corn Makes Gains

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. Canadian Press. Assertions in some quarters that the United States government crop report to-day would show that wheat yield estimates by leading private experts have been too large tended to give an early upward slant to the wheat market to-day. Opening at ¼c off to ½c, wheat prices soon scored moderate general advance. Corn and oats were also firmer, corn starting unchanged to 3-8c higher and subsequently making gains all around. Provisions went lower.

Market Recuperates After Collapse of Bearish Raids

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—Stock market developed strong recuperative powers to-day after sharp collapse caused by bear raid on the high priced industrial stocks. In an apparent effort to test the market's structure, professional traders poured a deluge of selling orders into the market at the opening, touching off number of stop loss orders and bringing about extreme declines of five to 15 1-2 points in about a dozen issues, with smaller declines in scores of others. Offerings were well absorbed and the market was headed upward again by early afternoon, recoveries of 2 to 6 points being quite common with several specialties in new high ground.

Except for increase of over $86,000,000 in brokers' loans reported by the New York Federal Reserve Bank, which was followed by marking up of the call money rate to five per cent, little uneasiness over the Mexican economic situation and renewed heaviness of French francs, there was nothing in the days' news to account for the sudden decline, which was generally described as a bear manoeuvre. July unfilled tonnage statement of United States' Steel Corporation, which showed a gain of 123,880 tons in unfilled orders, was somewhat less than Wall street had expected, but regarded as favorable in view of the fact that business ordinarily falls off during July. Sloss Sheffield Steel rallied over six points to a new record top at 142.

Gold Stocks Show Strength On Market

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 10 (Canadian Press). — Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day exhibited a slightly stronger tendency with sales dispersed over a fairly broad list.

Strength was shown in the gold stocks, including Argo, which was two higher to 22, Barry Holly 1 3-4 up to 53 3-4; Dome 30 cents higher at 11.50; Kirkland Lake four up to 1.08; Laval-Quebec one-half higher to 40; Wright Hargreaves gained 15 cents to 8.25, and Lake Shore 20 to 12.45, while McIntyre and Hollinger both lost ten cents to 25.30 and 19.40 respectively. In the silvers, Beaver gained two to 80, Kelly three to 1.68, and Bourlamaque two to 1.06. Amulet and Noranda were unchanged at 1.35 and 17.30 respectively.

LONDON, Aug. 10. —(Canadian Press Cable). — Emigration in the future must be regarded more than ever as a matter to interest educated people W. Ormsby-Gore, under-Secretary for the Dominions, told the British Association for the advancement of science. The sooner the idea that emigration was only for the surplus proletariat was abolished the better.

MINERS REJECT PEACE PLANS PROPOSED BY ENGLISH BISHOPS

At General Vote Church Leaders Lose By Slight Majority.

FOURTEENTH WEEK.

State That It Suggested Compulsory Arbitration of Wage Question.

LONDON, Aug. 11 (Canadian Pess)—The miners, in the fourteenth week of their strike, have rejected the peace plans put forward by the church leaders a few weeks ago. Thus, the miners, much to the general surprise, ignored the advice of their accredited leaders, who recommended adoption of the plan.

The miners' vote as announced yesterday was:

The result was made known after a meeting of the National Executive of the Miners' Federation which considered the returns from the mine districts which voted on the question in accordance with a decision of the miners' delegate conference on July 30; to refer the proposals to the miners themselves.

It is declared that the only possible objection the men could have had to the plan was that it suggested compulsory arbitration on the wages question.

Thus the situation is still at a deadlock, and it seems to promise an indefinite continuance of the strike. The leaders and the executive of the Miners' Federation are in somewhat of a quandary as to what course to pursue. The strike leaders met the bishops and church authorities responsible for the plan after the vote was announced, but no decision was taken as to the next move. The miners executive has called a delegate conference for next Monday to consider the new state of affairs.

The decision of the miners undoubtedly will come as a great relief to the government, which has let it be known that it never liked the interference of the bishops.

RADICALS FIGHT LABOR UNIONISTS

Serious Street Fighting With 200 Casualtiee in Hong Kong.

HONG KONG, Aug. 11.—(United Press).—Serious street fighting between armed bands of radicals and opposing labor union groups has been going on in Canton for more than a week according to advices received here.

Two hunderd casualties are reported.

The radical groups, it is said, plan to present an ultimatum to the government demanding that leaders of the labor union groups be put to death and threaten a general strike if the government does not comply with the ultimatum.

KING HAS REASONS.

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press.) — "Ex-Premier King has two reasons for dragging constitutional aspect into the present campaign," declared Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, in opening his British Columbia campaign here last night. "One is to draw the people away from the record that brings a blush of shame, even to his followers, and second and more pernicious is to try to raise the spirit which actuated his old grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie, that of rebellion.

The problem of "squaring the circle" was discussed in the oldest mathematical document known, a papyrus dating back to about 2000 B. C.

SCHOOLS TO HOLD ANNUAL FIELD DAY

Nicholls Oval To See Playoff For Playgrounds Championship.

The annual field day of the local Board of Education playgrounds will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Nicholls Oval. All parents of the children are invited to attend as there will be an exhibition of the fancy sewing that has been done by the girls during the season; also two baseball games that will decide the champions of the boys' and girls' playgrounds league.

The three playgrounds, Central, King Edward, and Queen Alexandra have had a most successful season, over one hundred and fifty boys and girls attending each ground daily, which means that there was in the neighborhood of a daily attendance of four hundred and fifty for the three grounds.

Swimming parties, twice a week, have proved an even more popular feature than ever this year, all the parades being largely attended. Competent instructors were on hand on each occasion and many of the of the children were initiated into the mysteries of the useful art.

The following is the standing of the teams in the different leagues:

AUTO OVERTURNS INJURING WOMEN

Car Badly Smashed Near Harper's Woods This Morning.

When an automobile, driven by Russell Evans, of Buffalo, overturned on the road through Harper's woods this morning, Mrs. Russell Evans, wife of the driver, and Mrs. J. Tremain, of Peterborough, had her back injured.

Mr. Evans had just previously attended the wedding of his cousin, Miss Marjorie Evans in Peterborough, and was following the party when the accident occurred. He cut through Harper's woods, he said, in an attempt to catch up with the main party and something went wrong with the steering gear, causing the car to overturn.

The car was badly smashed as a result of the accident, but the two ladies are not considered to be seriously injured.

The bridal couple proceeded serenely upon their honeymoon totally unaware of the accident that had occurred.

Escaped Leopard Adds To Golf Course Hazards

RED BANK, N.J., Aug. 11 New Jersey's escaped Indian leopard remained at large today, having evaded hunters since Thursday last. Heavily armed men in automobiles and small parties of other hunters are seeking the 75-pound cat. So far only two grown persons have sighted the beast, but many children have reported seeing it and hearing wild cries from the woods. Early Sunday the leopard was reported seen at the Beacon Hill golf links at Atlantic Highlands, six miles northeast of Midletown. Eight employees of the private zoo from which it escaped made a thorough search of the vicinity aided by police, but no tracks were found.

FIRE DESTROYS GASOLINE TANKS WAREHOUSES

Residents Ordered From Homes When Flames Get Beyond Control.

AT BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Md., August 11. — Canadian Press. — Residents were ordered to flee their homes in the Hanover street section of South Baltimore late yesterday when a fire sweeping the huge storage plant of the American Oil Co. got beyond the control of the firemen. Four explosions got beyond control of the firemen. Four explosions shook the sections and scattered the flames to nearby buildings. Two firemen injured in one of the blasts, were taken to a hospital.

Fifteen tanks, each holding 40,000 gallons of gasoline, were reported to be burning. Six tank cars each of 20,000 gallons capacity, were within the burning region, which is but 200 feet from the plant of the Consolidated Gas Company, where a large quantity of oil and gasoline is stored.

Although several homes are burning in the Wells and Winder streets section, the firemen believe there was no loss of life due to the bursting of the oil tanks shortly after the fire started. This permitted the oil to run down the streets. The firemen devoted their efforts to preventing the spread of the flames.

BALCONY IS ADDED TO DANCE PAVILION

New Exits Are Provided To Relieve Congestion.

Carpenters are busy adding a new 60 feet by 12 feet balcony to the Rye Pavilion. To relieve the congestion that has been experienced of late, two exits are being made, one from the south and the other from the north leading from the dancing floor to the covered balcony.

Entrance to the ball room will be through an opening from the side of the pavilion facing the river. Both exits will converge to this entrance, thus doing away with all blocking of the passage-ways.

NO THREE-CORNERED CONTESTS IN WESTERN CANADA UNLESS DEFINITE CHANGES ARE MADE

In Most Rural Constituencies of Prairie Provinces Up To Date the Candidates Have Accepted as "Fusion Candidates."

FIGURED HEAVILY IN 1925 ELECTION.

Winnipeg Remains Open as the Liberals and Labor Have Yet to State Their Choice for the Forthcoming Election.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 11 (Canadian Press)—Unless there are outstanding changes before September 7, official nomination day, three-cornered contests in the rural constituencies of Western Canada will be few in the forthcoming federal election. Three cornered contests in all three prairie provinces featured the 1925 elections, but this year throughout the west many candidates, in the nominations to date, have been accepted as "fusion candidates,"—Liberals with Progressive acceptance, or Progressives whose nomination proved acceptable to the Liberals of the constituency.

In Manitoba, no three cornered contests are indicated at the present time, except in Winnipeg city, where Liberals and Labor have yet to nominate. In eight of Manitoba's rural constituencies Progressive-Liberals or Liberal - Progressives have accepted nomination. In Brandon, Robert Forke, former leader of the Progressive party in the House of Commons, is running as a Progressive, endorsed by the Liberal party. In Selkirk, where a three-cornered contest was staged last year, L. A. Bancroft, is the unanimous choice of the Progressive, Liberal and Ind.-Labor parties Col. H. M. Hanneson, Conservative, represented Selkirk in the last parliament. Last year he was successful over Mr. Bancroft, who ran as a straight Progressive, and Dr. W. H. Gibbs, Liberal. The vote was: Dr. Gibbs, 2,524; Col. Hanneson, 3,831; Mr. Bancroft, 3,319. Col. Hannesson has been nominated as Conservative candidate again this year.

In Marquette J. Allison Glen, is a fusion candidate, a Progressive-Liberal opposing Col. H. A. Mullins Conservative, who represented the constituency in the last house. This was a three-cornered constituency last year, the vote being: Col. Mullins, Cons., 4,219; C. S. Stevenson, Progressive, 4,084; W. Iverach, Liberal, 1,665.

Dr. E. Bissett has been nominated a Liberal-Progressive in the constituency of Springfield, opposing Thomas Hay, Conservative member in the last parliament, following a three-cornered contest. In the 1925 election Dr. Bissett, running as a straight Liberal nominee, polled a total of 1,724 votes, while Mr. May had 2,259, and John Holland, Progressive, 1,665.

In the constituency of Nelson, covering The Pas and northern Manitoba territory, T. W. Bird is the Progresisve candidate, and Joseph Myers, the Conservative, representatives of the Liberal party attended Mr. Bird's nomination convention, he was, however, selected as a straight Progressive candidate, but no announcement has been made whether he will be opposed by the Liberals. A Liberal convention has not been called for the constituency.

It Saskatchewan four three-cornered contests are assured at the present time, including Assiniboia, Kindersley, Moose Jaw and Swift Current,, where Conservative, Liberal and Progressive candidate are running. In three of these, Assiniboia, Kindersley, and Moose Jaw—three cornered battles were fought last year. Saskatoon, which was a three-cornered constituency last year, will have a straight fight in the forthcoming election between F. R. McMillan, Conservative, and Dr. A. M. Young, Liberal, the Progressive party having decided not to run a candidate. Last year Dr. Young was elected with a total of 5,303 votes. F. R. McMillan, the Liberal nominee, had 5,144, and W. L. Kirkpatrick, Progressive, 1,417. In Rosetown, John Evans, is the Progressive-Liberal candidate. In 1925 he was elected, having 2,974 votes as against 2,450 polled by A. W. Mooney, Liberal; 1,926 by W. W. Miller, Conservative, and 136 by E. B. Gifford Ind.-Progressive. J. Fred Johnston is a Liberal-Progresisve candidate in Long Lake, the constituency which he represented in the house last year as a Progressive.

In Qu'Appelle, John Millar, who was Progressive member in the last house, this year is a Progressive-Liberal, having received the endorsation of the Liberals.

While nominations have yet to be made in several Alberta constituencies, interesting three-cornered contests are considered a possibility in various ridings of the Province. Already three such contests are assured, in Medicine Hat, Wetaskiwin and Peace River. Last year there were twelve.

S. C. Tobin, Liberal, who was elected in Wetaskiwin in 1925, this year is oposed by William Irvine, a former Labor representative in the Commons, now running as a U.F.A. nominee, and Charles H. Russell, Conservative. The vote in the 1925 election was: Tobin, 3,429; Russell, 2,121; and D. W. Warner, Progressive, 3,201.

In Peace River, which produced election court cases following last year's contest, a triangular contest is assured again this election. D. M. Kennedy is again U.F.A. condidate, opposed by Jas. A. Collins, Conservative and Joseph A. Clark, Liberal. The vote in 1925 gave Mr. Kennedy a slight majority, on a recount, over Mr. Collins.

Medicine Hat again has a triangular contest. Dr. F. W. Gershaw, who was elected last year, is opposed by G. E. Blackstock, and Carl Abelson, U.F.A.

CITY PREPARES FOR CENTENNIAL

OPEN SATURDAY.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The capital of Canada is getting into its most attractive regalia in preparation for holding its two weeks' centennial celebration, commencing Saturday next. Already the buildings are being decorated with flags and buntings and special illumination schemes are being devised. The Government buildings are vying with each other in their decorations. Parliament buildings, including the Victory Tower, will be flooded with light. Illuminated and decorated arches are being placed at different points on the streets in Ottawa and in Hull.

The main events of the centennial celebrations include a monster church parade on Sunday by the massed Ottawa and Hull regiments.

FISHING BOAT TOTAL WRECK

HAD 26 MEN.

HALIFAX, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Indications that another sea tragedy may be marked up against the hurricane that swept the North Atlantic on Saturday night were contained in a wireless message from Sable Island yesterday, stating that the Lunenburg schooner Sylvia Mosher was a total wreck on the outer bar, the north side of Sable Island, near number 4 station, with no sign of the crew.

Grave fears are expressed among local mariners that the craft's crew of 26 men has been lost. The Sylvia Mosher was a Hand liner and was in command of Captain John Mosher and a crew of Lunenburg County men. She sailed from Lunenburg July 12. It is believed she was fishing when caught by the storm.

Canadian Dollar Higher; United States Ships Gold

NEW YORK, August 11. — (Canadian Press).—The shipment of $1,000,000 of gold to Canada was announced yesterday by the Bank of Montreal, a continuation of the movement which started about two weeks ago in response to the strong premium on Canadian exchange. The Canadian dollar was quoted yesterday at a premium of five-thirty-five seconds of one per cent., which is about the level at which the bulk of the recent shipments were made. A total of $6,500,000 of gold has been shipped to Canada since the beginning of the present movement.

ROBBER BAND KILLED MANY; TEN MUST DIE

Woman Said To Have Slain Her Victims With Axe.

POWERFUL GANG.

Terrorized Ural District For Two Years, Wiping Out Families.

TYAMEN, Siberia, August 11.—(Canadian Press).—Ten desperadoes were sentenced to death here to-day for the murder of more than a hundred victims. Chief among the condemned was the notorious woman bandit, Ekaterina Pishia Nova, wife of the leader of the gang who himself was known to intimidate peasantry as "the Jack the Ripper of the Ural Mountains". The woman was accused of killing her victims with an axe.

The robbers had been organized into a strong band of several score with rigid rules, the slightest infraction of which was punishable with death. For two years the district had been terrorized by the criminals who are accused of killing whole families. They attacked Government warehouses, strangling the guards, and seizing stores of vodka and textiles which they sold to great profit.

BILL ENDOWS FRANCE WITH SINKING FUND

National Assembly Passes Article To Aid Country's Financial Difficulties.

HAS SOUND BASIS.

Must Be Incorporated With the Organic Laws of the Country.

VERSAILLES, France, Aug. 11.—Canadian Press. — Amid the most tumultuous scenes ever witnessed in the National Assembly, that body made up of the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate, in joint session late last night endowed France with a sinking fund having a sound constitutional basis.

This sinking fund had to be incorporated into the organic law of the land and therefore the vote of the National Assembly was necessary. The fund will be used to effect a mortization of the country's floating debt and is one of the schemes with which the government hopes to relieve the tangled financial situation.

The triumph of the Poincare government by a vote of 671 to 144 came after three suspensions of the Assembly because of the obstreperous tactics of the Communists. At one time there were fist fights between the extreme right and extreme left members. The one-armed general Pelletier, acting as sergeant-at-arms, mounted the rostrum to drag down the Communist Deputy Doriot, while other Communists sang the Internationale.

After Deputy Doriot's expulsion and the subsequent resumption of the sitting, the Communists banged the desks and shouted insulting remarks to M. De Selves, president of the National Assembly. Thanks to the vociferous applause of the non-Communistic members, De Selves finally succeeded in having the government's sinking fund measure voted upon. The Communisst by singing and then stuffing the ballot boxes with extra votes slips caused a third suspension of the sitting.

Pigs Like Music Is Hint To Illinois Hog Callers

MOUNT VERNON, Ill, Aug. 11 (A.P.)—Hogs like musical noises. This tip has been sent to farmers the state over by the Illinois Agricultural Association, which is planning for its annual picnic here August 12, at which time a champion hog caller will be selected.

Calling upon county farm bureaus to produce their most effective and musical hog raisers, the association promises them not only a lively contest here, but holds out the prospect of a national contest for the champion hog caller at the International Live Stock exposition in Chicago.

A score of 100 is possible for the champion, divided as follows: 1. Appeal to the hog. The voice must be earnest and sincere. This counts 20 points. 2. Volume, loudness or carrying capacity. This is important and tallies 40 points. 3. Variety. A varied call is more interesting and penetrating than a monotonous one and counts 20 points. 4. Originality. The hog should know "his master's voice." This gives 10 points. 5. Clearness and musical quality. A clear, musical call is much more enticing and appealing than a throaty one lacking music and gives one 10 points.

COMPLAINT ABOUT POWER SHUTDOWN

Deputation Lays Case Before Utilities Commission—Accountant Resigns.

A deputation consisting of James Dutton, G. A. Gillespie and R. H. Turner appeared before the Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon, at their special meeting. The object of the delegation was to complain about the power being shut off so frequently lately, causing much damage to their plants and serious financial losses to themselves, before Stanley Iler, engineer in charge of the Central Ontario System, who was present at the meeting. The men were very emphatic in their demands that something be done. Mr. Dutton claimed that this city ought to be independent in regard to power instead of having to get in touch with Belleville when something goes wrong. Mr. Turner said that they came to demand a better service and he spoke quite favorably about this city controlling its own power instead of having to rely upon Hydro. Mr. Mason, in reply, said that the Commission was going to demand a better service from Hydro, for they knew that Hydro was able to give it to them.

Mr. Iler said that Belleville was the centre of this district and it was necessary to have a central operator who had control of the whole system. The switch at the Auburn had been rebuilt and was thought to be in perfect working order until last Friday night. Three of the seven shut-downs this year have been caused by lightning and the rest by the switch at Auburn.

A tie line was suggested from the hydraulic to the Auburn and Mr. Iler stated that he would take this matter up with the Commission in Toronto. This line would cost between $5,000 and $6,000, and would mean about 50 cents a horse power. Mr. Iler also stated that the power rate in this city is among the lowest in the province and the local rate the lowest in the Central Ontario System. He promised every consideration of the matter, and that it would be rectified immediately.

George Henderson, the accountant, tendered his resignation, but it was left over for further consideration.

Sovereign Great Priory Entertained By Local Preceptory Last Night.

PRAISE PETERBORO.

Visitors Laud Beauty of City and Hospitality of Citizens.

An event unique in the history of the city of Peterborough took place last night at the Empress Hotel, on the occasion of the get-acquainted banquet staged by the local Preceptory of the Knights Templar in honor of the members of the Sovereign Great Priory Knights Templar who are assembled in the city in connection with the forty-third annual assembly. Seldom, if ever, has the large dining-rooms of the Empress Hotel housed such an enthusiastic and congenial gathering as was present. A spirit of good feeling seemed to prevail among all, and the result was very gratifying to the local members who were responsible for the entertainment of the distinguished visitors. Many tributes were paid by the visiting members regarding the beauty of the city, and the hospitality of the citizens was commented on in no uncertain manner by the delegates from the different provinces extending from the east to the west.

Acting Mayor Nagle E. Phelan, who was humorously referred to as the only visitor who was not a Knights Templar, but who was a Knights of Columbus, expressed his appreciation at being asked to attend the banquet. "We as citizens of Peterborough," he declared, "feel proud and justly proud to have such distinguished gentlemen present. It is a great honor to the city and I am glad to have heard the nice things you say about us. We appreciate them and we want you to enjoy yourselves, and at some future time we hope to see you here again."

Eminent Knight Dr. J. Malcolm McCulloch acted as chairman for the occasion. Eminent Knight E. B. Fowler proposed the toast to the Sovereign Great Priory of Canada, expressing the appreciation of Moore Preecptory in being honored by the officers of the Sovereign Great Priory in their choosing the city of Peterborough for their annual assembly. The toast was replied to by the Supreme Grand Master, Most Eminent Knight Colonel B. McLeod of Edmonton, Alberta, who in a stirring speech said he would indeed be lacking feeling if his heart was not touched with the greeting that had been tendered to him by the gathering. "I take it," he said, "as an expression of the love you bear toward this great order of ours." It was appropriate, he declared, for the brother from the West to fraternize with the brother from the East. "Notwithstanding newspaper reports or political propaganda," he declared, "we all love Canada, we love our flag, our country and the great Empire to which we belong." Some of those present, he said, had given expression to that love in the years not so far gone, and would be ready to do so again if the occasion ever demanded it. "We are only renewing to-night the bonds which bound us together then," he declared. "In conclusion," he said, "I bring you greetings from your brothers in the West—we want you to have the same feeling for us that we have for you; that you will understand us and we will understand you. I appreciate your enthusiasm and your songs but let us remember the great thing for which we stand, a cause that binds all Canadians of the Christian faith, irrespective of religion, in the duty that we owe to this great Dominion in which we live."

The Visitors.

Eminent Knight S. T. Medd of the local preceptory proposed the toast to "Our Visitors." "You come from one end of Canada to the other," he said, "and we bid you welcome to our city." The toast was replied to by Most Eminent Knight Charles H. Collins of Toronto, who said, "I have a great many friends here and know Peterborough well, but I have never before seen or experienced such a real honest to goodness welcome as had been tendered at the hands of the Peterborough brethren."

LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE.

Take notice that—

1—The Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to construct as a local improvement a sewer on Rutherford Avenue, from Paterson Street to Wolfe Street, and intends to assess the cost of the work upon the land abutting on the said work.

2—The estimated cost of the work is $735.35. The portion of the cost payable by the Corporation is $141.40. The estimated special rate per foot frontage is $1.01. The special assessment is to be paid in thirty annual instalments.

3—A petition to the said Council will not avail to prevent the construction of the work, but a petition against the work or the manner in which it has been undertaken may be made pursuant to Section 9 of the Local Improvement Act to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board by a majority of the owners representing at least one-half of the value of the lots which are to be specially assessed therefor.

Dated Peterborough, August 11, 1926.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS THE BANKRUPTCY ACT

In the matter of George Essa Salome, of the Town of Norwood, in the Province of Ontario, Bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that George Essa Salome, of the Town of Norwood, in the Province of Ontario, was adjudged bankrupt and a Receiving Order made on the 5th day of August, 1926, and that the Court has appointed me to be Custodian of the Estate of the debtor until the first meeting of creditors is held.

Notice is further given that the first meeting of creditors in the above matter will be held at the office of George J. Sherry, Official Receiver, at the Court House, Peterboro, Ontario, on the 18th day of August, 1926, at the hour of 2.00 o'clock in the afternoon.

To entitle you to vote thereat, proof of your claim must be lodged with me before the meeting is held.

Proxies to be used at such meeting must be lodged with me prior thereto.

And further take notice that at such meeting the creditors will elect a permanent Trustee.

And further take notice that if you have any claim against the debtor for which you are entitled to rank, proof of such claim must be filed within thirty days from the date of the expiration of the time fixed by subsection 8 of section 37 of the said Act, the proceeds of the debtor's estate shall be distributed among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice has then been given.

Dated at Toronto, in the Province of Ontario, this 10th day of August, 1926.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE.

Take notice that—

1—The Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to construct as a local improvement a sewer on Rutherford Avenue, from Paterson Street to Wolfe Street, and intends to assess the cost of the work upon the land abutting on the said work.

2—The estimated cost of the work is $735.35. The portion of the cost payable by the Corporation is $141.40. The estimated special rate per foot frontage is $1.01. The special assessment is to be paid in thirty annual instalments.

3—A petition to the said Council will not avail to prevent the construction of the work, but a petition against the work or the manner in which it has been undertaken may be made pursuant to Section 9 of the Local Improvement Act to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board by a majority of the owners representing at least one-half of the value of the lots which are to be specially assessed therefor.

Dated Peterborough, August 11, 1926.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS THE BANKRUPTCY ACT

In the matter of George Essa Salome, of the Town of Norwood, in the Province of Ontario, Bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that George Essa Salome, of the Town of Norwood, in the Province of Ontario, was adjudged bankrupt and a Receiving Order made on the 5th day of August, 1926, and that the Court has appointed me to be Custodian of the Estate of the debtor until the first meeting of creditors is held.

Notice is further given that the first meeting of creditors in the above matter will be held at the office of George J. Sherry, Official Receiver, at the Court House, Peterboro, Ontario, on the 18th day of August, 1926, at the hour of 2.00 o'clock in the afternoon.

To entitle you to vote thereat, proof of your claim must be lodged with me before the meeting is held.

Proxies to be used at such meeting must be lodged with me prior thereto.

And further take notice that at such meeting the creditors will elect a permanent Trustee.

And further take notice that if you have any claim against the debtor for which you are entitled to rank, proof of such claim must be filed within thirty days from the date of this notice, for, from and after the expiration of the time fixed by subsection 8 of section 37 of the said Act, the proceeds of the debtor's estate shall be distributed among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which notice has then been given.

Dated at Toronto, in the Province of Ontario, this 10th day of August, 1926.

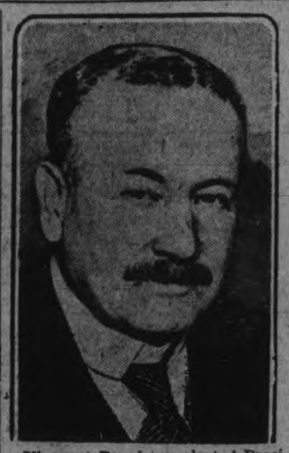
Clarence E. Maguire, basketball star of Toronto University, who has received a Rockefeller Foundation appointment to Peking Union Medical College. Mr. Maguire is a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan.



Viscount Burnham, elected President of the Ninth International Labor Conference, convened to discuss international labor legislation, desired in behalf of seamen, sailors and sea workers in general.

Reg. P. Sparkes, of Toronto, well known all over the continent as a dog-breeder and a judge, who has been elected president of the Bulldog Breeders Association of Canada.

Harry and Evelyn Thaw recently surprised Atlantic City by appearing together in public soon after Thaw had dined with his son, Russell. Speculation is now rife, and there are reports that the family, father, mother and son, will be reunited.

Zaghloul Pasha, who for the most part of his 70 years has fought for Egyptian independence, won again in the elections held recently for Premier of Egypt. However, he prefers to stay out of office and assume the role of dictator.

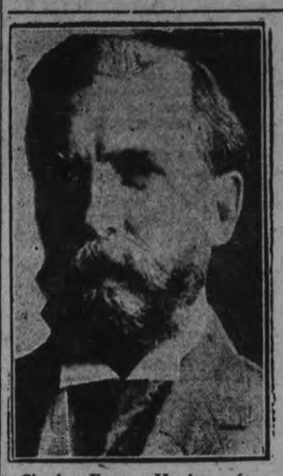
General Ludendorff, 61-year-old German general, is fighting a different kind of a battle. His wife has petitioned for divorce on the ground that he is engaged too intensely in political affairs and that she has been neglected and ill-treated.

Sir George Higginson, oldest living British general and Eton graduate, celebrated his 100th birthday recently. He is known as "the Father of the Guards," and is visited annually by the King.

General Weyler, of Cuban fame (the Duke of Rubi), who is alleged to have signed a manifesto aiming at the overthrow of the de Rivera Government. Many persons have been arrested.

Milton Carlson, widely known American expert on forgeries and finger prints, who while in Toronto recently declared that the finger print system of identification is no longer infallible.

General P. Paraskevopoulos, former commander-in-chief of the Greek army in Saloniki, who has been appointed Prime Minister by Pangalos, the Greek dictator.



Charles Evans Hughes, former chief justice and secretary of state of the United States, who has indicated that he will act as special master in the lake water diversion controversy and will begin the taking of evidence next September.

Zaghloul Pasha, who for the most part of his 70 years has fought for Egyptian independence, won again in the elections held recently for Premier of Egypt. However, he prefers to stay out of office and assume the role of dictator.

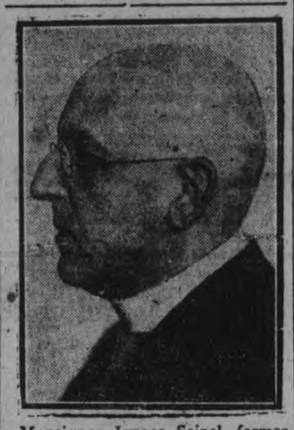
Marquise de Bretteville, sister of Prince Wisnowieski who has been residing in Montreal, where she sheltered her brother, Prince Winowieski. She is the widow of a Polish officer whose title has descended from the days when the Bourbons ruled France.

The Privy Council in September will be called upon to decide where Quebec ends to the east and Labrador, Newfoundland territory begins. The above map shows the territory claimed by Newfoundland while Canada and Quebec would limit the Labrador territory to a few miles from the ocean's shore. The territory in dispute includes McLean's Falls on the Hamilton River and valuable timber tracts.

Lady Charles Walpole, who is again a widow. Sir Charles Lovery apparently ended his life with a pistol in his 78th year. Before her marriage to Sir Charles in 1922 she was the widow of Major Henry Seton.

Professor W. Lash-Miller, University of Toronto, who has been elected President of the Canadian Institute of Chemistry.

H. A. Davis, senior under-officer, Royal Military College, Kingston, of this year's graduating class, who has been awarded an Imperial army commission in the Royal Engineers.



Monsignor Ignace Seipel, former chancellor of Austria, who was among the speakers at the eucharistic Congress in Chicago.

Prof. A. Main, one of His Majesty's chaplains, who is visiting in Canada with his wife, also shown above. Prof. Main was padre to the 52nd Scottish division, and is to deliver a summer lecture course at Chicago University. He comes from Glasgow University.

Marchioness Curzon, one of the principals in a legal action now proceeding in England over the disposal of the residue of the estate of her husband, the late Marquis Curzon, of Kedelstone.

Abby Scott Baker, United States secretary of the International Suffrage Alliance, who is in Paris for the congress. "It is time women had a share in internationalism," she declared recently.

Mr. Justice L. P. Duff, of the supreme court of Canada, has been appointed chairman of the federal commission which will hear property disputes between the Presbyterian and United churches.

Colonel E. M. House, one of the very few pictures of Woodrow Wilson's silent partner, and of unique interest in view of the recent publication of his memoirs.

. . . VOICE OF THE LOWLY AND OPPRESSED . . . ADVOCATE OF THE FRIENDLESS . . . RIGHTER OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE WRONGS.

IT ISN'T THE COUNCIL—IT'S YOU.

(By Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor.)

It is to be hoped that all readers of this paper read the first editorial, contributed by request of the editor. Speaking from the experience of a long life devoted to the highest interests of this city, Mr. Harry Rush, a former Mayor, urges Peterborough citizens to "encourage and assist" those whom we have elected to carry on the city's business.

Last Monday night the writer was leaving the Council Chamber when a spectator was heard to remark to a friend, "Those fellows are going to get more sympathy from me after this. I had no idea they had so much business to do." Having taken the trouble to attend a meeting of the Council, he realized for the first time that it is something more than child's play to carry on the affairs of a city the size of ours. This man having seen things from the outside, is now of the same opinion as Mr. Rush, who knows from experience what it means to serve the public without getting either "thanks or ha'pence."

To those who read the editorial in question and who feel that it might be worth while giving some thought to the men who now have charge of our civic affairs, a study of the personnel of the present Council should be of great interest. It will be seen that we have as representative a body of men as could be got together. Here they are. They are given in the order that they sit, beginning at left facing the Mayor's chair.

Alderman N. E. Phalen entered the Council in May, 1920, to take the seat left vacant by the death of his father and was then a very youthful member of the Council, although now he is possibly the veteran. His banking experience has proved valuable, and he has generally been considered the financial expert of the Council apart from his general knowledge of civic affairs. He is now Acting Mayor, owing to the illness of Mayor Holloway, and has lately gone into the insurance business.

Alderman R. S. Cotton is a new member of the Council, but a man who has long studied Peterborough's needs, and his position at the C.G.E. gives him an opportunity to represent a large body of taxpayers.

Alderman E. M. Turner, a well-known furnace salesman, although one of the youngest members of the Council, is one of the oldest in point of service and is familiar with all phases of business in connection with the city. He is a particularly keen business man himself and never allows anything to slip through the Council without explanation and consideration. He is now Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, which is one of the committees with a good deal of work attached to it.

Alderman J. O. Fife, a realty broker, came into the Council in 1923, and has been Chairman of the Board of Works for the last couple of years. He stands for progressive street building in the city, while keeping economy and efficiency ever in mind. "J. O." is a real seryant of the people, and his recent illness is regretted by all who know him.

Alderman J. W. Meyers, of the Peterborough Cereal Co., has also been in the Council since 1923, and is so well known in the city that comment would be superfluous. He is Chairman of the Manufacturers committee.

Alderman W. J. Hancock, the popular auctioneer, came into the Council in the place of Alderman Stocker in April, 1925. He has his eye open to the needs of the common people, and is always on the watch to see that they get a square deal. He is Chairman of the Property Committee and a member of the Board of Health.

Alderman G. A. Macdonald, of the De Laval Co., was elected at the beginning of this year with Alderman Cotton and is the type of man who enters the Council as a matter of duty, with the idea of service in his mind. He also represents a large body of taxpayers.

Alderman C. H. Ackerman, whose war record is well known, and who has been singularly successful as an insurance and mining broker, is also on his first year, and owing to the illness of Alderman Fife, has taken up the onerous duties of the chairmanship of the Board of Works. It is rarely that a man of his type is willing to sacrifice the time required for the work of an Alderman.

Alderman J. M. Greene, of the Greene Music Co., having first made a success of his own business, became a member of the School Board, and his ability there both as an ordinary member and as Chairman was recognized by a bumper vote when he entered the Council in 1925. He is the "watch dog of the treasury," and so long as he is in the Council there won't be much moneywasted. At present he is Acting Chairman of the Finance Committee and Chairman of the Railway and Parks Committee.

Alderman R. Denne, the George street grain merchant, also came in last year as the result of heading the polls after serving for a number of years on the School Board, of which he is also a former Chairman. "Rollie" is perhaps the best informed man on the Council with respect to civic matters generally and knows every nook and corner of the city and all its needs. Most Aldermen miss an odd meeting; Alderman Denne misses none. He is always on the job and generally has a common sense solution for most difficulties which crop up. He is Chairman of the Legal Committee.

Last, but really first, His Worship Mayor W. T. Holloway is a veteran of the Council, and having retired from the dental profession, was devoting practically his entire time to civic affairs until his recent illness. His work as Mayor so far has been marked by conspicuous success, and all hands are hoping to see him back in the chair at the next meeting.

After scanning the above list let it sink in deep [illegible] with the exception of a small honorarium paid to the Mayor, mainly to cover expenses, all these men are serving the city without one cent of remuneration. A conservative estimate would show at least two eight-hour days each month that these men sacrifice for the taxpayers of the city, and Peterborough is today a monument to the labours of those who have preceded them.

"If you want to have a real live Council
Like the sort of a Council you like best,
You needn't slip for a long, long trip—
In fact, right here you can rest.
For you'll find there less than you left back here
And you'll learn there is little that's new.
When you roast your Council, you are roasting yourself,
For it isn't your Council—it's you."

ROADS AND REVENUE.

A report recently issued by the Department of Customs shows that Ontario last year received more tourists than all the rest of Canada, and more than twice the number that entered the Province of Quebec. It is estimated that the tourist outlay for 1925 in the Province was in the neighbourhood of $98,000,000.

These figures show that good roads have a definite commercial value. Without good roads the annual increase in tourist traffic that in recent years has gratified everybody concerned will not be maintained. Tourists who come here to spend a vacation in the wilds around the lakes are generally prepared to forego many of the conveniences on which they would insist when at home, but, as a rule, they demand that they reach their destination with a minimum of delay and trouble.

When one considers that the overwhelming majority of the visitors who come here from the other side of the border travel in their own cars, it is easy to realize that the importance of good roads cannot be over-estimated.

It is an unfortunate truth that the condition of many of the roads in the neighbourhood of the lakes leaves much to be desired. Recently a party of Americans journeying to Jack Lake encountered such a rough passageway that the differential of the car was damaged.

At the present moment there are no less than thirty families encamped alongside Jack Lake. An accident such as we have described makes a poor advertisement for the district.

It is said that tourists to Jack Lake often go no further in their car than Apsley, where they frequently leave their own vehicles and complete the journey in trucks that are more fitted for the rough road.

This is a condition that calls for amendment. There is something big at stake.

PICNIC LITTER.

South Beach is a beautiful place to spend a day on a picnic. There is everything the itinerant tourist desires—solitdue, a pretty lake, shade trees, and the conveniences of a hotel where boiling water for tea can be obtained.

The shores of the lake were visited on Civic Holiday by three parties. One party ate lunch by the side of the road, the children had a good time by the water's edge, and when the group turned the car around and started homeward there was no sign to mark the place where they halted. Another family party picnic was held under the trees. Two meals were eaten, and when these five persons departed they took with them all the papers and boxes that had held the lunches. But the third group—grown-ups and children—left a wide area strewn with papers and remnants of bread and other edibles. The people comprising it used another man's grounds for their pleasure, and repaid him by littering it with rubbish.

They must be proud of themselves as their neighbours read this.

IT'S UP TO THE CITIZENS.

Peterborough is just what its citizens make it, and if there is anything wrong with the citizens the city is wrong. Cities are judged in a great way by the public spirit of its citizens; more cities die for lack of public spirit than for any other reason.

Public spirit means progressiveness; a spirit of progressiveness makes citizens feel better, look better, and makes them better fit to do their share of city building. There you have the circle. A boosting spirit makes citizens co-operate to build a bigger and better city, and the better the city the better the citizens.

Prejudice against the home city is like a bad case of indigestion, it spreads poison throughout the system, warps the judgment, sours the disposition and destroys the kind of action that builds and prospers.

If its citizens get together in a spirit of public good Peterborough can be made the finest city in the world in which to live.

AGATE LINES AND CLIMATE.

Ontario's plan of using paid advertising to bring tourists can only be commended. Ontario has precedent for the campaign. Florida's success in establishing itself as a winter home was due to a combination of climate and advertising. Vancouver is growing because of azure skies and agate lines.

Maine has been successful in building tourist traffic by paid publicity. Testimony of Harrie B. Coe, manager, Maine Publicity Bureau, is to the effect:

"Twenty-five thousand dollars appropriated by the Maine Legislature in 1925 for advertising the State resulted in 30 per cent. increase in resort and tourist business over any previous year.

"Each person vacationing in Maine that year averaged to spend $90.53, thus the tourist business brought into the State of Maine last year nearly $100,000,000. One summer hotel alone had receipts of over $500,000, chiefly from out of State people.

"What has all this brought to the State of Maine? In addition to the $100,000,000 left by the tourists, which seeps through all the channels of business life, the records of the register of deeds offices throughout the State show more than 2,000 sales of land and buildings to non-residents during the past year.

"Industrial and recreational projects under way are estimated at $175,000,000.

"That is the story of Maine in a nut-shell. It shows merely a start of what has been done to back industrial and agricultural development, for the best way to bring such opportunities before the people is to bring them to Maine to play and our slogan has been 'Bring them to play, persuade them to stay.'" —Financial Post.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—With receipts at the Union Stock Yards totaling 877 cattle, 225 calves, 904 hogs and 839 sheep and lambs, the market at the opening was slow, but steady prices were maintained. Exporters who report, business slow completed their shipment of roughly 600 head of cattle. A few choice butcher steers sold up to $7.75 a cwt.

Quite a number of western stockers and feeders are coming on the market and these are being picked up at satisfactory prices of from $4 to $6 per cwt. About a dozen baby beeves were sold at prices ranging from $10 to $12. Cows are rather slow sellers just at present.

A few of the best bulls held over have been taken by exporters to complete their loadings.

At the present time there is quite a good demand for good backward springers.

Calves are holding firm at from $11 to $12 for choice vealers. Grass calves sold today from $4.50 to $6 per cwt. The market is pretty well cleaned on calves.

Hogs hold steady at $12 f.o.b., $13 of cars, for thick, smooth, and $14.26 for selects.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The only business transacted for export account on the Montreal market yesterday was a few odd loads of coarse grains. There was some demand for Canadian spring wheat but as the prices bid were below local exporters' views, no business resulted. The car lot market for Canadian western oats was firm but the trade was quiet.

While a stronger feeling prevailed in the spring wheat flour market, there was no actual change in prices. The export and local trade was quiet. The winter wheat situation was inactive but prices were steady.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet but prices were unchanged.

The undertone to the egg market continued firm at the recent advances noted and dealers expect a further upward revision in the near future. The receipts were 2,687 cases.

Extreme dullness marked the butter trade but prices ruled steady. The receipts were 1,094 packages.

The cheese market was quite and values were about steady. The receipts were 12,839 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Wheat prices climbed yesterday, influenced by incorrect general belief that the crop from Washington would indicate a smaller yield than private experts had predicted. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1 1-4 to 1 5-8 net higher corn 5-8 to 1 3-8 up, oats 5-8 to 7-8 advance and provisions unchanged to 17 1-2 down.

It was evident almost from the start yesterday that many traders short of wheat had become anxious about their market position and determined to even up their accounts ahead of the issuance of the government report.

Corn advanced to a new high price record for the season with hot, dry weather, southwest, chiefly responsible. Besides a bullish crop report was rightly expected. Oats sympathized with corn.

Provisions reflected weakness of hog values.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

Sterling cables $4.85 1-2.

MOSCOW, Aug. 11.—(United Press).—A Catholic priest named Jelinzky was sentenced to death and three others to various terms in Prison at Korostan, near Kieff, yesterday, after their trial on a charge of spying in behalf of the Polish Intelligence Service. Two priests were acquitted.

GO TO AUSTRALIA VIA PANAMA CANAL

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press). — Official announcement yesterday shows that the Duke and Duchess of York will not pass through Canada on their visit to Australia for the opening of the new Commonwealth Parliament at Canberra next spring.

Their Highnesses will travel via the Panama Canal and return to England through the Suez Canal, therefore not touching Canada. They will visit New Zealand as well as Australia.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"IS" OR "ARE"

The question is often asked:

"Should one use 'is' or 'are' in the following sentence, after the word 'who?' John is one of the boys who is (or are) going to the ball game next week?"

The answer is that it is proper to use, in such cases, the plural verb "are," not the singular verb "is." The rule that governs such cases reads thus: "When the nominative is a relative pronoun, the verb must agree with it in person and number, according to the pronoun's agreement with its true antedecent."

Since the antecedent of the pronoun in this case is the plural noun "boys," and not the singular noun "one," the rule requires that the verb take the plural form "are," instead of the singular form "is."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A HUMBLE PETITION.

Grant me the power to be more cheery when conditions look dreary and give me the sense to be a little blinder and a lot kinder.

Annoy me with a few enemies that my own personal faults may be constantly before me.

Pity my ignorance.

Should I become ambitious for fraternal position or power, save me from my well-meaning supporters.

Surround me with genuine friends who know my faults and do not forgive or forget them.

Bless me with the strength to work hard and send me sickness when I need the lesson that health is a great gift.

Make me worry some so that my happy hours will be more thoroughly appreciated.

Loan me life as long as I can be useful in some worthy work.

When the end comes, let me pass on with my boots on.

FIRE IN WAREHOUSE.

Damage of $100,000 To Buildings on Portland Docks.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press).—Breaking out in the New England Grain Company's plant early yesterday morning, the flames swept through the large three-storey frame structure, jumped to another wooden building, and also set fire to the steamer Baccarat, a Shipping Board vessel. The fire is believed to have done damage totalling $100,000.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MOTHER'S THINGS.

They thought that Mother did not know
True beauty in the long ago,
Because "artistic" was a word
She never used and seldom heard.
Yet Mother spent her happiest hours
Of summertime among her flow'rs,
Arranged them in a china bowl
And felt their fragrance in her soul.

They smiled at things on Mother's shelf,
The things that Mother made herself,
So Mother hid them with a sigh,
For so much better you can buy.
Yet into ev'rything she wove
She put a little of her love,
For so a mother rocks and sings,
And knows the joy of making things.

But yesterday a stranger came,
Yet not a stranger, for his name
Is known to many for his art,
And Mother's things he took to heart,
Caressed them gently, bowed his head,
And "Oh, how beautiful!" he said.
And then he named a price, but they Wondered, and looked, and told him nay.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

TRAVEL.

By Dr. Frank Crane.

The Crown Prince of Sweden, who lately visited this country, said:

"Personal intercourse between the individuals of two different nations I believe to be one of the best means of promoting individual understanding and to remove every possible cause for distrust or dissension."

"What could be a more praiseworthy purpose than to send young men and women from one country to another to study various sides of human activity?"

The Crown Prince struck the nail on the head. Travel is one of the best means of producing international solidarity.

It was proposed some time ago, by Mr. Filene I believe, that the United States take all of its unused boats and make a very low rate for tourist excursions to Europe.

Steamship lines have seen the light in this matter and are making very low rates for students and others of that kind who would like to go to Europe.

Nothing can more expand the mind and allay national vanity so well as going to see other countries. Whatever promotes travel is good for a nation and whatever hinders intercourse is harmful.

The whole passport and visa business is a nuisance and should be done away with. It discourages travel instead of encouraging it.

America has plenty of money and recognizes its cultural debt to Europe. It is willing to spend much in sending its citizens to visit other countries.

This will make them not less, but more American than they ever were. It is a good thing and ought to be fostered and not hindered.

SEWER CONTRACT AWARDED IN CAMPBELLFORD TO JOHN HALL

Work on Booth Street To Cost $433.10—Farmer Injured.

HORSE BOLTED.

To Write C. N. R. For Quit Claim of Right of Way.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 11. — John Hall's tender of $433.10 for the construction of a sewer on Booth Street to the intersection of Second Street was accepted by the Council at a special session on Monday evening on Councillor O'Sullivan's motion, seconded by Councillor Abernethy. Mr. Hall agrees to supply the materials.

A petition for this sewer was received from W. D. Wood and five other ratepayers, and was found to be sufficiently signed. Deputy-Reeve Palliser moved, seconded by Councillor McDonald, that the request be granted, and the Council proceeded to let the contract on Mr. Hall's tender. On Reeve Davidson's motion, seconded by Mr. McDonald, Booth Street property owners are to pay the same rate as for the Second Street sewer, but each ratepayer is to receive an abatement of $15 to cover the cost of the waer main already laid.

Town Clerk McGregor was instructed to write the C.N.R. again, asking for a quit claim deed of the right of way across the market property.

R. S. Southworth asked the council to provide drainage of the surface water from his lot at Bridge and Rear Streets. This work was previously authorized, and will be carried out at once.

Payment of $300 to J. D. Cummings, part of his salary as tax collector, was approved.

Injured in Runaway

Mr. A. Robinson, Havelock Road, suffered a broken collar bone and severe shock in a runaway accident at the corner of Queen Street and Havelock Road yesterday morning. Mr. Robinson was driving his horse attached to a wagon down the church hill, when the breeching broke, sending the wagon against the horse's heels, and causing it to runaway. The horse came to an abrupt stop when it struck the railing at the corner of Queen Street, and Mr. Robinson was picked up from under the overturned wagon.

SUBSTATION HIT ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Lakefield Plunged Into Darkness During Severe Electrical Storm.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 11.—One of the worst storms of the summer visited the village on Friday evening, breaking about half past eight and continuing in successive storms till after midnight. It was accompanied by unusually sharp lightning and thunder and with torrents of rain. The storm threatened practically all week and when it broke it fulfilled amply the old prophecy which says that a storm which threatens long is long in passing. About 10 o'clock the sub station was struck and the fire brigade called out but little could be done. The damage was by no means as great as was feared and the greater part of the village had light again in the course of an hour or two. Some of the transformers were blown out and some homes were minus light or power till Saturday morning.

On Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock the siren summoned the fire brigade to a grass fire between the Cement plant and the company's terrace. The blaze was making rapid headway in the dry grass and unchecked would have caused serious damage. The brigade was, as usual, prompt and efficient and in a very short time effective measures had put the fire out.

The Royal Black Knights Preceptory turned out in large numbers on Sunday evening for the church parade to the Baptist church where Rev. William Spencer preached an eloquent and inspiring sermon appropriate to the occasion. Headed by the Citizen's Band in their attractive uniforms, the procession marched with full regalia from the Lodge room on Caroline street to the church. Returning they marched up Regent street to the Y and down Queen street. The streets were thronged with people to see the parade.

A large crowd attended the Thursday evening band concert, showing their appreciation of the splendid music rendered during the evening. Organizations like individuals appreciate encouragement whether shown in word or deed and the Citizens' Band is no exception to this rule. It is a village institution of which Lakefield is justly proud and one which is giving pleasure to many people by well selected programmes at the weekly concerts.

Motor cars of all descriptions are passing through the village with license plates of many states, in many cases accompanied by the name of the city where the owner lives. Some of these cars are the last word in luxury and comfort and and are obviously this season's models while others show that the owners have a greater regard for utility than appearance. Cars with their running boards filled with the extra camp kit, cars with many picnic parties and tourists who prefer a real bed to even the downiest nest of boughs, these pass through the village every day. All the tourists are not from the States as by far the greater number of cars bear the Ontario license plate.

A car of obvious antiquity and posessed of no running boards at all created a mild sensation on Thursday afternon. Only the half holiday prevented a large audience being in attendance.

SEVERAL VISITS.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Liberal headquarters here announced yesterday morning that the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King would open his Maritime tour in Nova Scotia on Aug. 25. On that date the Liberal leader will speak in Annapolis Royal. On Aug. 26 he will be in Yarmouth, and on Aug. 27 in Bridgewater. He may come to Halifax, according to the announcement, but further dates are still to be arranged.

CAVAN FARMER LOSES BARNS

Fire Destroys Buildings on Farm of Arthur Armstrong.

HOUSE SAVED.

CAVAN, August 11. — A fire which broke out yesterday afternoon destroyed the barn, stable, and sheds of Arthur Armstrong on the 10th line and middle road.

Many neighbors rallied to help and managed to save the house though it caught fire several times. The entire store of hay was burned, and it is believed that the fire started in the hay.

SEVEN SOCIETIES ENTER LEGION

Major Organizations of War Veterans Respond To Haig's Appeal.

ALL UNITING.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Seven major veteran organizations here have decided to amalgamate with the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League which the National Veterans' Organization launched last year. Practically all the veteran associations in the Province of Ontario are now stated to have taken similar action with respect to unity, as advocated by Field Marshall Earl Haig in the course of his visit to Canada in 1925.

GRAIN DAMAGED BY HEAVY STORM

Most Of It Is Straightening Up Again Now—Warsaw News.

WARSAW, Aug. 11.—Friday night's electric storm was one of the worst that has been experienced in this vicinity for some years. The first one, and the severest, lasted about two hours, and another came up about 1 a.m. on Saturday. A great deal of corn and grain was laid down. Much of it is straightening up again. Most people were thankful that with such a terrific storm more damage was not done. West of Warsaw there was some hail, in Warsaw none.

What Fall wheat was not winter killed, is nearly all cut, and some in the barns. The yield is generally considered good. While there is some good oats, and good barley, much of it is short and light and on the whole the grain crop is not expected to come up to last years. Corn looks health. Gordon Payne has an exceptionally fine looking field of corn. The root crop is considered promising.

Potatoes seem to be doing well. but there is more trouble than usual with bugs. Paris Green, arsenate of lead, and arsenate of lime, are hardly to be had in the village, as much has been needed.

Milk receipts at the factories have fallen off very greatly. Many farmers complain that their cows are going dry in spite of the fact that they have plenty of pasture, good water, and are sprayed, so that they are neither hungry, thirsty nor tormented by flies.

Last week every one who could get away to pick berries was after either huckleberries or raspberries, and pickers were well paid for their pains.

Mrs. Robert Gunn is visiting relatives in and near Warsaw.

Miss Winnie Batten is visiting Mrs. Verne Selkirk in Peterboro.

Rev. H. B. and Mrs. Herrington were away over Sunday, and Rev. Mr. Brown took Mr. Herrington's work.

The United church Sunday school plan to hold an ice-cream social on the church lawn on Tuesday, August 17.

The Ladies' Aids of Carmel, Zion, Bethel and Warsaw plan to hold a bazaar in Warsaw early in December.

Mrs. Thomas Cooper entertained the United church Missionary Society at her home last Thursday afternoon. A large number of the ladies turned out. After the regular business "C" group, led by Mrs. John Sargent gave the program. The subject was "China" and Mrs. Sargent read a splendid paper on "Conditions in China" Others read selections about "joss houses or temples in Western Canada, and other kindred subjects. There were some sacred songs by gramaphone.

The entertainment at Carmel on Wednesday was a success in every way.

A splendid supper was served in the church sheds which were prettily decosated. Those in charge of tables wore colors to harmonize with the decorations of their tables. The little church could not hold the crowd, so the programme was given outside. Part of it was given by local talent, and part by some of the artists who are camping near by at the lake.

The gate rereipts were nearly one hundred and eighty dollars. There was a booth as well and the cakes, and other supper supplies which were unused were sold.

NO OPPOSITION FOR MR. TUMMON

Member of Last Parliament Will Get Nomination Without Contest.

NO LIBERAL YET.

TWEED, Aug. 11.—Mayor R. J. Graham, Belleville, who was a strong contender with W. E. Tummon last fall for the Conservative nomination of South Hastings, states he will not seek a nomination at present and will not be an independent candidate at the approaching election. Mr. Tummon will not be opposed at the convention of August 18th, and the Liberals have not yet any candidate in sight.

STEWART FAMILY HOLDS RE-UNION

About Ninety People Assemble at Wallace Point For Occasion.

WALLACE POINT, August 11. — A most pleasing event took place on the afternoon of Tuesday, August 3, when the members of the Stewart family re-united on the spacious grounds of Wallace Point.

Of the original Stewart family of six girls and four boys (one dead), there were seven present at the picnic, namely Mrs. Breese and Mrs. Parker, Macedon, New York; Mrs. Jack Tate, Centreville; Mrs. John Moncrief, Bailieboro; Mrs. Robert Deyell, Peterboro; Mrs. John Savigny and Mr. George Stewart of Otonabee. The other two brothers, Mr. Jack Stewart of Denver, Col., and Mr. Henry Stewart of Vancouver, B.C., were unable to be present.

After a pleasant social time had been spent the crowd of 85 or 90 set down to a sumptuous repast of chicken, salad, cake, pie, jelly, eth.

In the evening a short time was spent in the pavilion after which the happy people dispersed to their homes.

Those present were: Mr. William Action and Miss G. Widmeyer, of Washington, D.C.; Mrs. Stewart Breese, Macedon, N.Y.; Mr. C. Matchett, Lethbridge, Alta.; Mr A Needler, Miss N Finnemore, Mr and Mrs William Deyell and Miss Ada Stewart of Millbrook; Mr C Howson of Keene; Mr and Mrs William Taylor, Mrs Jim Chambers, Mrs Bruce Woods, Mrs William Hambridge, Mr George Savigny and Miss Gladys Chambers of Peterborough; Mrs Frank Morrison, Mrs. D Morrison, Mr and Mrs K Moncrief and family, Mr and Mrs R Moncrief and family, Miss Emma Tate, Mr William Moncrief, Mr and Mrs John Moncrief, Mr. and Mrs Jack Tate of South Monaghan.

Mrs Thorne, Mr and Mrs D Hutchison, Miss Edith Thorne, Mrs J Hutchison, Mr Willan Hutchison, Mr and Mrs Frank Savigny and family, Mr and Mrs Bruce Savigny, Mr and Mrs Gordon Savigny and family, Mr Ronald Savigny, Mr and Mrs George Stewart, Mr and Mrs O Stewart and family, Miss Grace Stewart, Mr Richard Stewart, Mr and Mrs William Dawson of Otonabee, and others.

WELCOME, Aug. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martyn and children, of London, and Mrs. Orr, of Brantford, are visiting Mrs. George Martyn.

Miss Jean Thomson, of Marmora, returned home on Saturday.

Mr. James Brownson, of Midland, spent the past week with his sister, Mrs. George Martyn.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Bush and Mrs. Carleton, of Toronto, visited their cousin, Rev. D. R. Clare, on Saturday.

Rev. W. J. M. Smyth, of Wellington, was a guest at the parsonage on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Baskerville, of Newcastle, spent the week-end with Mrs. Lewis.

The services in the Welcome Church were taken by Mr. R. Sneyde, of Port Hope.

The Welcome Sunday School picnic was held at Sylvan Glen on Thursday afternoon. Owing to the weather conditions looking unfavorable, the attendance was not as large as usual. Two games of ball and other games for the children was the programme before supper. Afterwards races were participated in.

USE AEROPLANE TO CATCH ELEPHANTS

CRANBROOK, B.C., Aug. 11 (Canadian Press).—Word was received here yesterday that an airplane is being sent from Withita, Kansas, carrying trainers and helpers to assist in rounding up two elephants roaming at large in the bush near here since last Friday, when six of the animals escaped from a circus. Three were captured and a fourth located in the bush, but no trace has been found of the remaining two.

The airplane is expected to reach here late today and will cover the country where the animals have taken cover.

FARMERS BUSY AT ROSENEATH

Crops Are Fairly Good in That District This Year.

ROSENEATH NEWS.

ROSENEATH, August 11. — The farmers are very busy these days with their harvest. Haying is about over. The crop has been well saved and is an average crop. Fall wheat cutting is general. The crop is a fairly good aberage. Spring wheat, barley and oats will be good average crops. Corn has improved with the warm weather and recent rains. Roots are making good progress. All small fruit are plentiful in this district, also garden vegetables. Pastures are in fair condition, and have been benefited with the recent rains.

The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Thomas Sandercock on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 5th, with a good attendance of members, and many visitors being present. The president, Mrs. Lily Turner, conducted the meeting, which opened with the Women's Institute Ode. The minutes were read and adopted. The business was then discussed, but nothing definite materialized. The programme consisted of a reading given by Mrs. Orra Varcoe, entitled "The Weather." Mrs. George Mouncey read a selection on "Daily Thoughts," and Mrs. A. Halstead read a piece of poetry, entitled "When I was Sweet Sixteen." The presentation to the Public School pupils then took place.

The president, Mrs. Turner, spoke a few moments on behalf of the Women's Institute and congratulated the teacher and his pupils in their work. Mrs. M. Davey then presented to Flex McMillan a five dollar gold piece, given by the Women's Institute of Roseneath. Mary Mouncey was second, and received $3; Valda Brown, $2, given by their teacher, Mr. Marcena Davey. Mr. Davey responded on behalf of his pupils and thanked the Womens' Institute for the interest they had taken in the scholars. It was evident that the teacher was very proud of his pupils and also the pupils' appreciation in receiving their prizes and the hard work rendered by their teacher.

The meeting then closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess and the singing of the National Anthem, after which luncheon was served by the young ladies.

The King Workers' Mission Band was held in the United Church on Saturday afternoon, August 7th. Owing to the very busy season, the attendance was not as large as usual. The meeting opened with singing a hymn, "God sees the little sparrow fall." Mrs. (Rev.) Lovelace presided at the organ. Miss Johnston read the Scripture lesson, Psalm 96. Mrs. Lovelace then led in prayer. The president, Miss Evelyn Turner, being absent, Mrs. Lovelace conducted the meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. "When He Cometh" was then sung. A story about China was read by Jessie Mouncey and Joy Morrison. Berenece Dainard gave a recitation, "Nothing to Do." A short talk was given by Miss Johnston on missionary work among the Chinese in Western Canada.

The meeting then closed by repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Mrs. George Chisholme of Port Hope spent the week-end with her friend, Mrs. Marcena Davey.

Mr. George Montgomery and family of Oshawa were in the village on Saturday, renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Elinor and little Marian of Oshawa visited his father, Mr. Edward Elinor, who is in very poor health.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dawe and family of Bethany motored down to the village and spent the day with his brother, Mr. George A. Dawe.

Mrs. Brough has returned to her home in Toronto, after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Hershey.

The many friends of little Shirley Brisbin are pleased to see her out again after her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Leach, Mr. and Mrs. C. Leach and Lenore of Fenella spent Sunday with Mrs. Lottie Nichol.

NEW TREATMENT FOR PNEUMONIA

Most Favorable Results Have Been Reported—Substance Known as Antigen.

OTHER DISEASES.

DETROIT, Aug. 11.—A new treatment for pneumonia and other infectious diseases is announced this week in an article written by Sir Thomas Horder, M.D., London, England, and M. S. Ferry, M.D., of the Parke Davis Co., Detroit, published in the British Medical Journal. The new substance, known as Antigen, is extracted from bacterial cells and is found in a watery solution. While the experimental work was completed three years ago in Detroit laboratories, the clinical work on human beings by Sir Thomas Horder has occupied the time up to the present. Sir Thomas reported the most favorable results.

MINERS REJECT CHURCH'S PROJECT

Majority of 34,000 Against Peace Plan of Church Leaders.

LONDON, August 11 (Associated Press). — The miners, in the fourteenth week of their strike, have rejected the peace plans put forward by the Church leaders a few weeks ago. Thus, the miners, much to the general surprise, ignored the advice of their accredited leaders, who recommended adoption of the plan.

The miners' vote, as announced yesterday, was: For the Church plan, 333,036; against the plan, 367,650. The result was made known after a meeting of the National Executive of the Miners' Federation, which considered the returns from the mine districts which voted on the question in accordance with a decision of the miners' delegate conference on July 30, to refer the proposals to the miners themselves.

It is declared that the only possible objection the men could have had to the plan was that it suggested compulsory arbitration on the wages question.

Thus the situation is still at a deadlock, and it seems to promise an indefinite continuance of the strike. The leaders and the executive of the Miners' Federation are in somewhat of a quandary as to what course to pursue.

The strike leaders met the Bishops and Church authorities responsible for the plan after the vote was announced, but no decision was taken as to the next move. The miners' executive has called a delegate conference for next Monday to consider the new state of affairs.

The decision of the miners undoubtedly will come as a great relief to the Government, which has let it be known that it never liked the interference of the Bishops.

JURY FINDS MOTHER DROWNED BABY BOY

Mother Makes Signed Confession of Throwing Child Into Pond.

PORT HOPE, August 11.—That Donald Jackson came to his death in the Township of Hope, on the 29th day of July, 1926, by being drowned by his mother, Evelyn Jackson, in the waters known as Corbetts Pond," was the verdict brought in by the jury after three quarters of an hours deliberation here last night, at the inquest held in the town hall to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of the 2-year-old lad.

Startling information was divulged at to-night's hearing, which was attended by an exceptionally large crowd.

Perhaps the most important factor of to-night's inquest was the presenting of a signed confession by Mrs Evelyn Jackson to the effect that on July 29 she cast her son Donald into the waters of the pond. The confession was made to Provincial Constable J. H. Fewtrell, and was signed by the prisoner just prior to the preliminary inquest but the contents of the statement were not made known till to-night. Mrs. Vera Darling in her evidence, stated that she saw Mrs. Jackson on the Thursday afternoon wheeling her baby in the vicinity of the Children's Shelter. Miss Helen Johns testified that about 6.30 p.m. the same day she had seen Mrs. Jackson returning from the pond with an empty baby carriage and on asking where the baby was she replied: "Oh, up where you saw me before."

Any physician will tell you that.

You'll like to take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—they are sugar coated and as easy to take as candy and they do help old people.

Why not try being years younger again, why not grow stronger in body, in mind, in vitality? Why not take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets and drop years from your age in 30 days? We do not believe that a 30 days treatment will make you feel years younger—but at any rate try them for 30 days and if you are not satisfied get your money back — 60 tablets — 60 cents at Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co., or any other druggist. Be sure and get McCoy's—the original and genuine.

KING REVIEWS FINAL STAGES OF PARLIAMENT

Present Campaign is of Unusual Education Value Says Liberal Leader.

STEWART SPEAKS.

EDMONTON, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press).—Speaking in the riding of Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of Immigration, Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, last night, reviewed the events of the last Parliament and explained why he had been forced to ask for dissolution.

Mr. King pointed out the unusual educational value of the existing situation. It was bringing before people problems of self government as nothing had done in a lifetime. Early last session when Mr. King had not a seat in the Commons, Mr. Meighen had said that the Government was without a head and had no right to carry on. But at the end of the session, when Mr. Meighen was Premier without a seat in the House he did not maintain the same position.

The Liberal leader told of the last days of his government when, from day to day, no one could tell what was going to happen.

Hon. Charles Stewart and Mayor Blatchford attacked the Conservative Senators for having rejected the Old Age Pensions Bill, which would have been a great relief to municipalities of Western Canada during the winter months.

OBITUARY.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 11.—The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock of Alice L. Fitzgerald from the family residence, Bridge street and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives. Rev. T. Robinson of Stratford, formerly of the Lakefield Presbyterian church was in charge of the service assited by Rev. T. M. Wesley and Rev. Mr. Bell.

At two thirty the funeral cortege left the house and proceeded to the Lakefield Cemetery where interment was made in the family plot. The pall bearers were Messrs. Gordon Fitzgerald, Bruce Fitzgerald, Clarke Garbutt, W. H. Stabler, Lorne Webster and J. Elmer Milburn.

Miss Fitzgerald's life had been one filled with usefulness and until her poor health rendered it impossible to carry on. She lived and practiced the Christian virtues of service and sacrifice.

She graduated from the General Hospital, Rochester, N.Y., in 1915 and for a time engaged in private nursing, afterwards spending a few years in the Memorial Hospital of Canandaigua N.Y. in surgical work. Later she spent several useful and beneficial years in the Fitch Orthopedic Hospital for Crippled Children in Rochester. She went overseas with the Base Hospital No. 19 with the Armenian Expedtionary Force and saw service at the front, being there when the Armistice was signed. After leaving the army service she engaged in Public Health and School nursing in Rochester, for a time. When the Rotary Club started a crippled children's hospital she was appointed to take charge and continued to do so until, owing to poor health, she was given a year's leave of absence which terminated at her death on Saturday morning, August 7th, at her home in Lakefield after a long and trying illness.

FRENCH ASSEMBLY MOST TURBULENT

Communists Stage Fist Fights Which Result in Three Snspensions.

VERSAILLES, France, Aug. 11. —Amid the most turbulent scenes ever witnessed in the National Assembly, that body, made up of the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate in joint session, late last evening endowed France with a sinking fund having a sound constitutional basis.

This sinknig fund had to be incorporated into the organic law of the land and therefore the vote of the National Assembly was necessary. The fund will be used to effect amortization of the country's floating debt, and is one of the schemes with which the Government hopes to relieve the tangled financial situation.

The triumph of the Poincare Government by a vote of 671 to 144 came after three suspensions of the assembly because of the obstreperous tactics of the Communists. At one time there were fist fights between the extreme Right and extreme Left members. The one-armed General Pelletier, acting as sergeant-at-arms, mounted the rostrum to drag down the Communist Deputy Doriot, while other Communists sang the Internationale.

After Deputy Doriot's expulsion and the subsequent resumption of the sitting, the Communists banged the desks and shouted insulting remarks at M. de Selves, president of the National Assembly. Thanks to the vociferous applause of the non-Communist members, M. de Selves finally succeeded in having the Government's sinking fund measure voted upon.

The Communists by singing, and then stuffing the ballot boxes with extra vote slips, caused a third suspension of the sitting.

After the obstruction of the Communists was quelled, one fact stood out—that France's supreme legislative body had decided that the commission which will have at its disposal the income from the tobacco monopoly and part of the proceeds of the inheritance tax, shall be removed from all political conflict. It made it a part of the constitution, thus guaranteeing it against the changing fortunes of parliamentary politics. The Government and the majority which voted for the measure say it assures the sinking fund against leakage, against going astray.

Opponents of the measure, led by Leon Blum, the Socialist leader, before the Communists intervened, took a different view. They declared that an amendment to the constitution was a useless effort to apply constraint on the Chamber and Senate.

Mr. H. Lord has received word that his son, Mr. Albert Lord, whose serious illness necessitated his mother leaving for Winnipeg last week, is somewhat improved in health. An operation was necessary for an attack of acute appendicitis, with complications of an unusual nature. The patient is not yet out of danger.

Miss Ethel Hatherly, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hatherly, is now the guest of her sister, Mrs. Stanley Jones, of Newtonville.

Mr. F. W. Bowen attended a committee meeting of the local Conservative Association here last Friday evening.

Mr. Vincent Nattrass, of Toronto, is spending a two weeks' holiday with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Eakins and daughter, Mary, motored to Woodville for the holiday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hill.

Mr. H. Grassett, manager of the Bank of Toronto, is holidaying at Barrie and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith have returned from holidaying at Gore's Landing.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt. Todd wish to heartily thank the members of the fire company and the many friends and neighbors who gave willing and effective assistance during the fire which destroyed their garage and barn on Sunday night week, the house being saved from the flames through the ready help thus given.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Edmunds and family, Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham and family motored to Chemong and attended the regatta on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Thomas and little daughter, of Peterborough, are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lord.

Miss Rose Macnamara is spending a week with friends in Orillia.

Rev. Mr. Purchase, who assisted Rev. Canon Allen during the month of July, is assistant clergyman at St. Jude's Church, Toronto, for the month of August. Rev. E. R. Howard has been permanently engaged as curate for the parish of Millbrook and Cavan, and with Mrs. Howard will take up immediate residence in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mulligan, of Cleveland, Ohio, are holidaying with her mother, Mrs. S. Eakins, Sr.

MOTHERS' ALLOWANCES BOARD REPORT FOR UNITED COUNTIES

Nearly $2,000 Paid Out During July To 63 Families.

MILLBROOK NEWS.

Presentation To Bride—Sunday Schools Hold Picnic.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 11.—The Mothers' Allowances Commission, through its secretary, J. M. McCullough, Toronto, makes the following report for the month of July:

Durham County.

Amount paid—$8.25.00.
Number of mothers—26.
Number of children—75.

Families:

Northumberland County.

Amount paid—$1,200.00.
Number of mothers—37.
Number of children—113.

Families:

17 with 2 children, 34; 9 with 3 children, 27; 4 with 4 children, 16; 6 with 5 children, 30; 1 with 6 children, 6.

Miss J. M. Burry, with headquarters at Port Hope, is the official investigator for Durham and Northumberland Counties, including also in her district Peterboro County, Peterboro City, and Prince Edward County. Mrs. A. L. Nichols, of Bowmanville, is the Secretary for Durham County, and Mr. Edmund Quinn, of Colborne, for Northumberland. Messrs. F. W. Galbraith, of Port Hope, and Nelson Stone, of Campbellford, are the chairmen of the Boards for the respective counties.

Missionary Magazines.

Miss Viola Cardwell, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Cardwell, Wallace's Point, Otonabee River, who is a nurse in the Ham Heung Hospital, Korea, and whose work and welfare in that far eastern field have been chosen as the subject of special prayer by the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the United church, Millbrook, has sent a number of copies of "Korean Echoes", a little magazine publisher by the missionairies, home for reading an inspection.

The magazine is full of information put in a very readable form and giving a clear and concise knowledge of the activities at the various mission stations in this land which is said "to hang like an ear-drop from the coast of Northern China"; it was first published free of charge, but the cut in the grant for the Korean work which the mission board has felt compelled to make this year means that the workers on the field will have difficulty in making ends meet, and some small sum will in future have to be asked towards its maintenance if publication is to be continued.

Friends who are interested may see the "Echoes" at Mrs. Cardwell's and should they so desire may stipulate that a definite part of their regular missionary contributions go toward the Korean work.

Presentation Made.

A pleasant surprise was planned for Mrs. Ivan Gray (nee Theo McBride) when a number of the members of the choir and the A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas' church gathered at her home, on Tuesday evening, and presented her with a handsomely-upholstered wicker rocking-chair.

Mrs. R. Stone, president of the District A.Y.P.A. and Mr. F. Wells made the presentation, and Mrs. W. Hilton read the address.

Ms. Ivan Gray, Millbrook.

Dear Mrs. Gray,

We have gathered together this evening to express our appreciation of the services you have rendered in our A.Y.P.A., and in the choir of St. Thomas' church; to recall the many pleasant associations we have mutually shared in; and to convey to you our very best wishes for your future happiness.

We feel assured that your generosity and kindliness will in the future bring you many new friends. In your new home and its environments and we sincerely hope that you may find much happiness and prosperity in your married life.

As a slight token of our high esteem we ask you to accept this gift, and our best wishes that the best the future can hold will ever accompany Mr. Gray and yourself.

Signed on behalf of the Choir and the A.Y.P.A.—Gertrude Hilton, Secretary of the A.Y.P.A. and the Choir Members.

Mrs. Gray, who has been an active member of both organizations for some years, was deeply touched by the spirit of kindliness and good comradeship which was so tangibly expressed, and her reply showed her genuine appreciation of the gift, and the sentiments which accompanied it.

The main feature of the gathering having been carried succesfully through, the guests were warmly welcomed for the social good time which followed, music and other entertainment making the time pass pleasantly. The commitete in charge looked after the serving of the dainty lunch provided, and it was before a most enjoyable evening was finally brought to a close.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray, who were quietly married in St. Thomas' church on Thursday, July 15, are remaining in Millbrook for the present, and have received from friends living out of town a number of beautiful gifts, including fine china, cheques, cut glass, embroidered luncheon sets, etc, in addition to the many given them before the ceremony took place.

Sunday School Picnic.

The Sunday schools of Centreville and Grace Presbyterian churches united for their annual picnic which was held on Thursday at Victoria Park, Cobourg.

In spite of rain at the hour of starting over two hundred motored to the lakeside and a thoroughly enjoyable outing gave pleasure to both old and young.

Bathing evidently attracted a goodly number of the picnickers, and an excellent sports programme with races for all ages, entertained participants and onlookers throughout the afternoon. All prizes this year were given in money, and this apparently was quite satisfactory to the winners.

Picknickers from Grafton were also at the Park, and carried out a fine programme of races, to the added enjoyment of the local party who shared in the pleasure of looking on during the competition for the various events.

Over one hundred were seated at a time when the picnic tea was served, the teachers and officers from the two schools waiting on the guests until appetites were fully satisfied.

Mr. J. H. McGill, and Mr. L. C. Russell are the respective superintendents of the Centreville and Grace church school, and with the pastor, Rev. John Riddle, were active in their efforts to make the outing a genuine success.

Both Sunday schools are fully supplied with an efficient staff of teachers and officers, and with up-to-date lesson helps, papers, and other literature, and from the standpoint of attendance, interest and finances are in a satisfactory condition.

There was only one mishap in connection with Thursday's outing and this occurred on the way home when Mr. C. Thorndyke, blinded by the glare of headlights in an approaching car, drove against the cement side of the narrow railway tunnel near Canton. The occupants were uninjured, but the car was badly damaged.

ABANDONS PLAN TO HAVE DEBT PACTS RATIFIED

Determined Opposition of Cabinet and House Cause Poincare's Decision.

CLEMENCEAU LETTER.

American Editor Cables To Say Millions Agree With "Tiger."

PARIS, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Poincare has definitely abandoned getting the Franco-British and the Franco-American debt pacts ratified in the near future, as the Financial Experts Committee had urged, in view of determined opposition both in his own Cabinet and a large section of the Chamber of Deputies. This opposition has been crystalized by the open letter of former Premier Clemenceau to President Coolidge on the question of France's debt to the United States.

Agree With Clemenceau.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press).—Richard H. Edmonds, editor of The Manufacturers' Record, in a cablegram to Georges Clemenceau Monday told the "Tiger" that "millions of Americans agree with every word of your letter to President Coolidge."

"Millions of Americans regret," he added, "that for its own honor, this country has not cancelled the alleged indebtedness of France and the other Allies for the money it advanced with which to carry on the war to ensure national safety."

44 MILL RATE FOR MILLBROOK

Council Fixes Tax Rate For 1926 at August Meeting.

COLLECTOR NAMED.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 11. — The August meeting of the Millbrook council was held on Tuesday, August 3, Reeve W. T. Wood in the chair, and the members all present.

G. F. Harrington addressed the council suggesting action in preventing the lighting of fires to burn rubbish in the rear of W. H. Coombe's store, on account of danger to adjoining property. Constable H. Nattrass was instructed to look over the situation and enforce by-law which prohibits starting fires nearer any building than 100 feet.

Sayles-Stinson: That the parking by-law be left over for one month in order to give the matter further consideration.

Eakins-Lang: That N. Gilmour's request for permission to install gas tank on King street be granted.

Moved in amendment by Stinson-Sayles: That such permission be not granted. The amendment carried, Reeve Wood voting for it.

Lang-Eakins: That the following accounts be paid:

Hydro-Electric, Town Hall lighting, $1.80; W. Budd, labor, $9.30; H. Nattrass, salary $20, labor 75c, $20.75; A. H. Jeffrey, account re drawing coal for fire engine, $2.50; Millbrook Rural Telephone, account, $3.70.

A communication was read from the Deputy Minister of Public Works, Ottawa, in reply to the council asking permission to erect a bandstand on the government lot, granting the request, and informing the council that the bill board now on the ground was put there without permission from the Department and might be removed if they saw fit.

Stinson-Eakins: That communication be received and filed.

A communication from the Bickle Fire Engines, Ltd., Woodstock, in reference to fire equipment was also received and filed, Reeve Wood giving result of a communication by telephone with the Company concerned.

List of prices from the Municipal World for municipal supplies was laid aside for later reference.

Taking up the matter of insurance on the Town Hall, which had been discussed at previous meetings, Stinson-Lang moved that the council cancel present policies, and authorize the Reeve to sign applications for two new policies of $2,500 each, one with the Gore Mutual, and the second with the Economical Mutual, at the rate of 2 per cent for three years.

Council went into committee of the whole for the reading of by-laws to appoint a Collector, and levy rates and taxes.

Stinson-Eakins: That by-laws be read a third time, signed, sealed, and numbered.

A general village and school rate of 44 mills on the dollar was struck, and C. W. Richards appointed Collector of Rates at a salary of $75.00 per annum.

ARCHBISHOP TELLS OF MEXICAN LAWS

Says Attempt To Get Them Changed Is Not Going Against Sovereignty.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press).—In a copyrighted statement by Archbishop Jose Moray Del Rio in The New York World yesterday, the Mexico City prelate declared requests to mediate its differences with the Roman Catholic Church have been received by the Mexican Government from "highly qualified personages," but have not been published or brought results.

The Archbishop denies that the church is attempting to set up a state within a state, but he said the "beliefs of the Mexican people do not harmonize with the Mexican laws and constitution.

"To ask and to try for abrogation of their laws," he said, "is not going against the sovereignity of the nation."

He said priests have no right to vote in an election and cannot be elected to office; tney cannot give their opinions and cannot own, inherit or direct a school, and they cannot wear their ecclesiastical robes in the street.

"The naming of a school for Jesus or a saint is forbidden," the Archbishop declared, "and they forbid faithful public manifestation of their worship, even the carrying of badges and banners of a religious character through the streets."

Replying to President Calles' statement that Protestant ministers were doing their work tranquilly, he said:

"If it is true, it is one more proof that his idea is to attack the Catholic religion—the religion of the majority of the nation—or that Protestant ministers do not mind the intervention of the civil power in their purely religious matters and submit voluntarily to it, things which Catholics cannot do in accord with the divine constitution of the church."

BUSINESS BAD.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. — (United Press).—Retail business depression in Mexico has been accentuated by the Catholic boycott, though wholesale foodstuff sales have increased, according to a report from acting commercial attache Wythe, in Mexico City, received by the Department of Commerce.

"The situation is quiet," Wythe reported. "Depression in the retail business which extended for several months is accentuated by the economic boycott. Wholesale orders for foodstuffs, however, are better because merchants who have been waiting on account of the uncertainty are now buying."

80 DEATHS IN JALISCO.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11. — (United Press).—The newspaper Grafico quotes Senor E. Diaz and Leon A. Guidilajara, a lawyer now in Mexico City, as stating that there were 80 deaths as a result of political and religious controversies in the State of Jalisco last week, Guadilajara is the capitol of Jalisco and it was in this city that a United News correspondent touring the interior last week found greatest reports of disorder.

While elections in Mexico are still three weeks off, the religious controversy already has been injected into what promised to be a heated political campaign. Observers here express the belief that minor disorders will continue.

President Calles has denied to the United News that he had any communication with President Coolidge Saturday as was reported in the American press.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if ah article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of hte people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

LOCKWORKS PICNIC

(By FRANK RUSSELL)

On Saturday last there occurred that, which is probably the most-looked-for industrial excursion of the entire summer season; I mean the annual excursion of the employees of the Peterborough Lock Works.

Usually this outing—to which I have been invited for many consecutive years—has had its objective to Hastings, via the pretty river Otonabee, and the sturdy little steamer, the "Stoney Lake." On two occasions only with this year, do I remember a variation, one being to South Beach and, on the other occasion, to Hiawatha.

On the occasion of the previous trip to South Beach the visitors received such a hearty welcome from the genial proprietor, Mr. Brooks, who threw open the whole of his hotel and spacious grounds for the free use of the Lock Works folk, that the committee in charge of this year's outing decided to pay another visit to this pleasant resort, and the again hearty welcome given to the visitors by Mr. Brooks was a pleasure to all concerned.

The Start

Accordingly on Saturday last that staunch little screw steamer, viz., the Stoney Lake, was alongside the George Street Wharf ready at 7.30 a.m. to begin to receive her passengers. In due course these all arrived, and a very comfortable complement of men, women and children had assembled and all was ready for the start. There were not too many to make it crowded and uncomfortable, but just enough to show the interest taken in the affair.

Accordingly at 8.15 a.m. the final whistle was blown and the vessel was cast off from the wharf.

Of course there was a dance orchestra and within a few minutes many couples were tripping it and showing that they had made up their minds to thoroughly enjoy their day's outing.

The weather looked favorable for a good day's outing. It was a cool, but not too cool, morning just a pleasant northwesterly breeze blowing to make the air deliciously fresh. There was soon a bright sunshine, while the sky had a sufficiency of clouds here and there to prevent it from being too hot. And so it remained all day with the exception of two small showers, not exceeding five minutes' duration on each occasion, which are scarcely worth recording.

Up the Canal

The passage of the lift lock was soon and speedily accomplished. The passage up the Trent Canal appeared to be unusually short, probably due to the fact that the microbe known as "the grouch" was evidently not on board. The storm on Friday night had probably washed it off.

Personally, I can almost see many beauty spots up this canal and although I have traversed it many a time, I have not grown weary of it. There are always pretty little spots of scenery to be seen by an observant eye. In a comparatively short time we had negotiated the half dozen locks and were off Lakefield. Then we entered the lakes, steaming up to Young's Point, where a halt was called for a few minutes, which enabled the voyagers to note the extensive works carried out in connection with the new lock and road bridge. Thence through another lake until at 12.30 p.m. we moored to the landing place at South Beach. On our way we passed the Government steamer, the Bessie Butler, and my memory went back to a very pleasant trip I had some years past on this craft. That was in an unregenerate epoch, for we had plenty of cigars and a sufficnecy of real Scotch whisky. You see I am referring to almost prehistoric times before we had any liberty-destroying O.T.A.

Dinners had mostly been begun shortly after eleven by those who had brought their picnic hampers. At mid-day a joyful sound was heard; it was the dinenr bell announcing that meal was ready in the boat's saloon. Some old hymn has it, "Salvation! 'tis a joyful sound," but what can be a more joyous sound to a hungry man than the music of the dinner bell. I was quite ready for mine and right heartily I enjoyed it. I am not ashamed but, on the contrary, thanful to own. That good-natured stewardess, Mrs. Godfrey, had put up a most appetising meal, and her pies—things to which I am free to confess I am very partial, when I can get them, were "a dream"!

At various intervals, both on the outward and homeward voyages, Mr. Tom Cockerell afforded much amusement to numbers by his rendering of a considerable collection of comic songs, and there was a good deal of community singing, chiefly of those sweet, old Southern States' melodies, so popular ever since the times of the Civil War.

At South Beach

On our arrival at this well-known resort we received a very hearty welcome from the genial Mr. Brooks and were invited to make ourselves thoroughly at home. Accordingly our dance orchestra established itself in the dancing pavilion and quickly gathered a small crowd of active and willing dancers. Any number of chairs were provided for lounging about on the spacious verandah and before long the various sporting events came off.

The Sports and Results

Then came off this important part of the programme. There were scratch softball games, races for young and old, male and female, thin or otherwise, quoits, horse-shoe matches, etc., and here are the particulars:

Flat race—boys, 6 and under—C. Hand; M. Nokes.

Girls, 6 and under—M. Symons, J. Whaley.

Boys, 10 and under—J. Whaley, P. Larone.

Girls, 10 and under—J. Collins, 2, M. Moher.

Boys, 14 and under—G. Seabrook, O. Harran.

Girls, 14 and under—M. Moher, K. Kent.

Single men—A. Daniel, A. Murphy.

Single women—K. O'Rourke, V. Nokes.

Married men — F. Neary, H. Nokes.

Married women — Mrs. Hewett, Mrs. Jenkinson.

Plump ladies—Mrs. Whaley, Mrs. Jenkinson.

Horseshoe contest—F. Neary and W. MacCullough.

Softball games—Scratch teams.

The prizes were well worth while and appeared to give general satisfaction to the recipients.

And here came the two little showers I have alluded to, but they were really not worth while recording. Just two litle summer showers not a quarter of an hour; and nobody seemed to care for all were too happy to bother about trifles.

The Return Home

At 4 o'clock the warning whistle was sounded and we all found our places on board and very soon were "homeward bound." No sooner had we staretd than tea or supper baskets—call them what ye will—were the order of the day. Everybody was happy; everyone had come out to enjoy him or herself and fun and good humour were the order of the day. After a pleasant but uneventful trip we were soon again on the Trent Waterway and, apparently in less than no time we were descending the lift-lock, and before long the dancing ending and we all joined, I am pleased to say, as loyal subjects, in singing "God Save the King."

The George Street wharf had again been reached, and at 7.30 p.m. we were safely berthed, said our various farewells to our sweethearts and began to look forward to just such another enjoyable outing in the year of grace, A.D. 1927, should we all be spared to see it.

The Committee

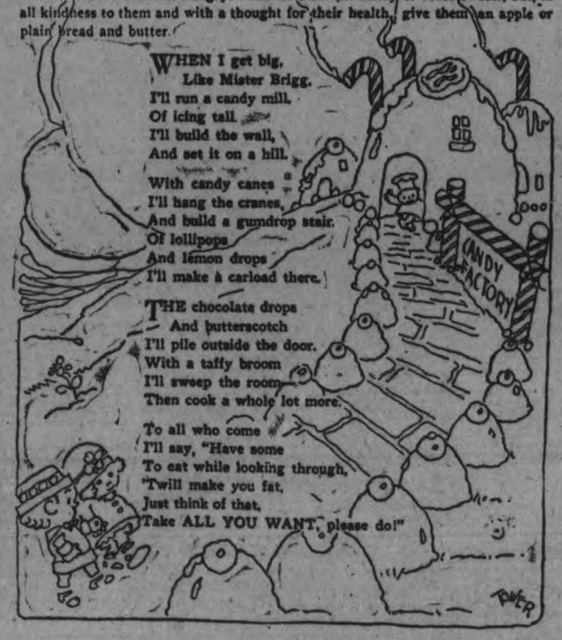
The committee, who had so admirably managed this highly successful outing was composed of D. Burke (chairman)), Messrs. P. O'Toole, Fred Whaley, H. Hill, W. Whaley, H. Black, J. Clancy, M. Whaley, F. Guerin and F. Jobbitt (treasurer), and to these gentlemen many thanks are due. They were indefatigable in their efforts to give all and everyone a happy day, and right well they succeeded.

Of course it goes without saying that the veteran Captain Scollard and his obliging crew did everything in their power to enhance the comfort, safety and happiness of all on board.

The Candy Mill

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

THE very first tooth a baby cuts is his sweet tooth, I'm sure, for then, and ever after, he loves candy. Candy has its legitimate place on the list of what a child should eat, but you will find that authorities recommend it after a meal, never before, or in between. Quite naturally, children ask and tease for it, so it's up to the grown-up to govern how much the child gets. When Marie and Junior come home from school hungry, don't let them eat candy or other sweets, but, in all kindness to them and with a thought for their health, give them an apple or plain bread and butter.



WHEN I get big,
Like Mister Brigg,
I'll run a candy mill,
Of icing tall,
I'll build the wall,
And set it on a hill.

With candy canes
I'll hang the cranes,
And build a gumdrop stair.
Of lollipops
And lemon drops
I'll make a carload there.

THE chocolate drops
And butterscotch
I'll pile outside the door.
With a taffy broom
I'll sweep the room—
Then cook a whole lot more.

To all who come
I'll say, "Have some
To eat while looking through,
'Twill make you fat,
Just think of that,
Take ALL YOU WANT, please do!"

Daily Short Story

FOUR IN A COACH

(By Dorothy Douglas.)

Joyce was having one of her final shopping trips into London before sailing for America and home. It was a trifle late for business men, so the coach of the suburban train on which she traveled had only three other people and they were all men. Joyce never liked the trains in which you sat facing one another. It always seemed such an intimate closeness, as if you were sitting at a table and should naturally be chatting.

Joyce absorbed herself in her Saturday paper and tried very hard not to glance up too often for she was bound to encounter at least one pair of masculine eyes.

She reached the back page of her paper and became interested in the two coupons that gave one entrance into the big football competition that weekly held England in thrall. Fifteen hundred pounds for guessing correctly twelve matches. The prize being cumulative and not having been won for two weeks there was now the sum of four thousand five hundred at stake.

"Hmph!" thought Joyce, "not a bad sum. I don't know any more about football than I know in what exact words Disraeli proposed to his wife but I can at least have a shot at this prize. Roughly speaking, that is something over twenty-two thousand dollars, in real money."

Joyce proceeded to cut out the coupon. Naturally the three men opposite were amused and exchanged glances with one another each did the same. Two of the men handed theirs to Cyril Matthews and with a grin he handed them to Joyce.

"Have these also," he said, "they might bring you luck."

Joyce colored and laughed. "That is certainly kind of you all. I'll divide —if there's any success."

In the evening Joyce sat down with the eight coupons to worry out conditions. Tottenham Hotspurs, Bury, Manchester United and all the rest of the teams were just so much Greek to her but she took her lucky little fountain pen and scored out some and left others. She had to take a copy then of all her entries, and if the twelve were correct she must send in half a crown and claim the prize.

"My goodness! I sail for home the very day after the claim must be in," she meditated. "I shall have to put the address of the steamer at Liverpool on these."

On the following Saturday Joyce bought the final edition of the paper and worried her brain with finding out results and checking off her lists. After a most laborious half hour she almost passed away.

She had cast the twelve correctly!

The reporter who was sent down on the boat train with the prize money had considerable difficulty in weeding Joyce from among the hundreds of other passengers booked on the big liner. Having found her he was keener than ever to get a snapshot. Joyce steadily refused until in a moment of brilliance she consented.

"If you will insert a personal in all the daily papers for me you may snap away," she laughed.

It was the lovely photograph of Joyce looking back at him from his morning paper that sent a sudden joy through the heart of Cyrill Mathews. "Football competition. Four in coach. Please communicate. J. B." J. B., of course, meant Joyce Barber. Cyril went straight to work to discuss events with the two other men who had been in the coach. Cyril joyfully took the responsibility of writing to Joyce.

He had a very nice little note in return some few weeks later and in it was a check for three thousand pounds. Joyce explained that she had given the extra five hundred to charity and this made each of the four the richer by one thousand pounds.

Several months later Joyce, sitting in the living-room of her parents' home in East Orange, jumped up to answer the door bell.

She looked up at the big man standing there with his hat in his hand and the sun shining on his crisp golden hair and suddenly the bright color flamed her cheeks.

"Miss Barber," began Cyril, "you must have thought us a lot of sponges to accept a part of your prize money, but as a matter of fact we took it to invest for you. I happen to be in a position to pick up a good thing occasionally and have more than trebled your three thousand pounds." He took from his pocket a leather case and opening it drew forth a paper which Joyce mechanically took.

"But it is your money," she stammered, trying not to be too stupidly affected with the warmth in Cyril's eyes. There was love in them—as if it had been piling up during all the seven months since he had seen her. Also guarded by glass, the newspaper photograph of herself.

They knew there was little use discussing the money. It didn't matter whom it belonged to and as Cyril said no man but cad would even think of taking a part of her prize. They all had heaps and now Joyce too had a nice little fortune of her own.

"Clarke and Boley are both married," said Cyril. "I'm not."

"Oh!" said Joyce, then swiftly, "How long are you to be in America?"

"Depends entirely on how long it will take you to fall very much in love with me. I have fallen already—seven months ago."

FASHIONS

By HEDDA HOYT

(Written for the United Press).

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (United Press).—Painted handkerchiefs are among the summer evening novelties. Crepe de chene squares in light pastel shades are painted in geometrical designs in pastel colors and in gold. Many girls have taken up this painting-on-silk art. Handkerchiefs are scalloped and outlined about the edge with gilt or illuminated oil paints. It is said that laundering does not remove the paint.

Organdy dance frocks are almost as popular as chiffons among the younger girls these warm evenings. Blond organdy which is a light pinkish tan shade, is exceedingly youthful and cool in effect. As with the chiffon frock, the bodice of the organdy model is long and slender and fulness is introduced at the headline by means of circular inserts or flounces. Organdy flowers act as shoulder corsages, being matching or contrasting in color. Embroidered organdies in pastel shades are a trifle more dressy than the plain organdies.

Short sleeves appear on the streets of New York during the warm spell. Women have discarded long-sleeved frocks for cooler days and appear with sleeves which merely extend over shoulder. More light colored dresses, both in silk and wash material, are worn this summer than we have noticed in some years. Hats are invariably straw and are usually large turn-down brimmed affairs simply trimmed with ribbon. Black hats are worn with colored dresses unless there is a pastel harmony between dress and hat.

Flowered chiffon frocks and light shades of plain chiffon are worn by almost everyone for dressy afternoon wear this summer. Sleeves of these sheer materials are usually long, gathering in at the wrists. Scarf effects and rear capes add a semi-tailored effect which makes these dresses suitable for street wear. The same type of dress, minus sleeves, scarf and cape-back, is the popular one for evening wear at smart restaurants.

Lace frocks of dressy type have never been more popular than they are at present. Black, bois de rose, ecru and Lanvin green are the desired colors for the lace frock.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliff

SHE DESCRIBES AN EXTREMELY SMART FOULARD.

Madame seems to have made a specialty this Summer of wardrobes for people who were planning to travel.

"Certainly girl's who want to look their best while they are on their vacation could do no better than consult Madame," Gaby remarked today.

"Madame is a specialist on what will crush when packed and what won't, the kind of frocks for day and evening one needs on an ocean liner and such things," I agreed.

"She ought to know all about ocean liners," Gaby replied. "Anyone who goes to Europe twice a year should never be at a loss to know what to wear and where to wear it."

I smiled at Gaby's recommendation of Madame's fitness for her special line of work, and then expounded my theory as follows:

"I have always thought that Madame excelled in planning smart, cool-looking frocks to wear on especially warm days. If you don't believe me, wait till Haides comes in from showing a costume in the salon, and see if you don't think it's cool and crisp enough to simply eat up on a warm day."

Presently Haidee came tripping in, and she did look adorable, from the tips of her dull black leather colonial pumps to the top of her piquant little hat with its thin straw brim.

"This is the newest frock down from the work-room," she explained. "Madame designed it for that pretty young actress who is going abroad"

The frock in question was adorable. It was of navy and tan foulard, the background navy, with oval-shaped figures of tan over the surface.

There were four circular frills cut on the bias around the skirt. The long surplice waist portion had a collar made of a bias fold of plain tan, and the dress tied at one side.

"Don't you think the hat is cunning, too?" Haidee asked. "Cunning" is her favorite adjective for everything, from a pretty baby to a lovely frock.

She removed the tan hat, so I could see the thin straw brim and the pretty soft silk crown. There were tiny pink flowers at the side.

This Navy and Tan Foulard Frock Is Made with a Ruffled and Tiered Skirt.

INDIANS ARE TO GET PROTECTION AGAINST WHITES

Federal Agent Has Won Hatred of Schemes for His Zeal.

KEEPS DRUNK LIST.

Booze Victims Can't Draw Money. Cannot Be Victimized.

BY BRUCE CATTON.
NEA Service Writer.

PAWHUSKA, Okla.—The white men charged with responsibility for the murder of nearly a score of Osage Indians may or may not be punished but whatever their fate, the long battle to protect the uddenly wealthy tribesmen from the designs of scheming whites has apparently come to a successful conclusion.

Pawhuska will always reap the benefit of the fabulous wealth of the Osage nation, but the grafting parasites who waxed fat through unscrupulous methods seem to have shot their bolt.

This is due largely to the activity of J. George Wright, federal agent in charge of the Osage reservation, who has earned the bitter hatred of a certain element of the white citizenry by his unwavering fight to protect his dusky-skinned harges

For many years there were two ways to acquire wealth speedily in Oklahoma—three, if you count bank robbery to strike an oil "gusher" or to become a guardian for an "incompetent" Indian.

Justice at Last.

The tale of Indians who were mulcted and defrauded by their white guardians is a sordid one. But, fortunately, it is a tale that is just about told. Mr. Wright, aided by new and wise legislation from Congress, has seen to that.

Here was the way the thing used to work. A white man, with the connivance, perhaps, of some careless court, would have a rich Indian declared incompetent and would get appointed his guardian. Then the fun would begin.

First there would be a good-sized fee for the guardian, paid out of the Indian's estate. Then the guardian would need an attorney to represent his own and his ward's interests; and this attorney, too, would benefit by a good fee. And best—or worst—of all, the control of the Indian's estate would be in the hands of the guardian.

The result is easily guessed at. More and more Indians were declared "incompetent" and the guardians rode about in costly autos and built lovely houses. Everything was splendid—for the lawyers.

But Mr. Wright was on the job. Largely as a result of his protests, Congress passed a law setting the guardian's fee for handling the affairs of an incompetent at $250 a year and limiting the amount that could be paid an incompetent Indian to $1000 per quarter. All money over that went into trust for the Indian and could be spent only under the approval of Mr. Wright.

This is where Mr. Wright earned the hatred of certain citizens. He has proved an uncommonly hard man to hookwink. Such bills as an Indian incurs that appear just he orders paid; the rest he will not approve. Consequently, such Indians as are now on the "incompetent" list are people who are genuinely unable to take care of themselves; the rest have no guardians.

Wright, in this manner, probably has control over more money annually than any other man in the United States.

Another thing Wright has done has brought him more unpopularity. His powers, under the law, are enormous; and he has established a "drunk list" on which goes the name of every Indian who is a confirmed drunkard.

Can't Draw Money.

Such Indians are not allowed to draw a cent of their money. The bills they incur are paid, provided Wright thinks they should be; otherwise not. The gay old practice of getting an Indian drunk and then selling him everything from a four-tube radio set to building lots in Florida has become passe.

One Indian, a Carlisle graduate and a man of intelligence, became a victim of the drink habit some time ago. As a result he has not had a cent in his pocket for over a year, although nearly $15,000 a year is piling up in his name on the books at Washington. All of his bills, even down to the barber's and bootblacks,' are paid by Wright. Many a man has tried to take advantage of him in his drunken moments, but none has succeeded.

As a matter of fact, there are now outstanding several hundred thousand dollars' worth of bills which Indians have run up and which Wright will not approve. This, at least, is the charge of his enemies.

But Wright is unmoved by any complaints. This is fortunate for the Osage nation. The old days of oppression and high-handed swindles are just about over. The red man has found real protection at last.

The Jumper Costume Still Plays a Winning Game

The sun never sets on the activities of the insatiable two-piece mode. Here we see it in its smartest and most approved version—straight simple overblouse, and softly flaring skirt, so charmingly youthful for the slender figure, and equally flattering to more mature lines. The blouse opens at the neck under a flat plait and chooses a collar of the boyish type. There are gathers at each shoulder where the back joins the front, and two set-in pockets furnish the only trimming note. The long sleeves are set in at the armhole and finished with linked cuffs. The blouse NO. 1044, is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards 36-inch plain material; ¾ yard contrasting color. The flared skirt, NO. 1298, is joined to a body lining, and is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 2¼ yards 36-inch material; bodice top ⅞ yard 36-inch lining. YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

Today's talismanic gem, the amethyst is likely to make its wearers headstrong and move them to make rash promises. This tendency is somewhat discounted by its power to endow them with keen intelligence and unusual ability in business.

The natal gem for this day is the aquamarine beryl. Its clear green hue is said to banish laziness and fear, and endow the stone's wearer with physical and mental strength.

Green is today's color. Although symbolic of joy and hope it is believed to be destructive to friendship.

The mignonette is the flower advocated for decoration in the home ont his day.

THE CRESCENT MOON

Joan however had apparently gotten rid of most of her troubles and she exclaimed that she was very hungry as the chicken with its mound of fluffy mashed potatoes and dishes filled with peas were brought in.

Jerry in the fitful candlelight as he answered politely that he was very glad seemed cold and stern.

I who had looked forward to this evening meal with pleasure could not eat.

I sealized that the world in which I had been living the last few months was not a real world peopled by normal men and women but a queer little corner of that world which was filled with the kind of people which one sometimes read about in books.

The thought came to me that maybe fate had allowed me to mingle with this kind of people to show me how foolish and futile were their lives.

"There must be some other kinds of people" I said to myself and immediately I knew that there were other kinds —people like Mamie who could not only resist temptation in the person of the man she loved devotedly but resist something much harder the pleading of her own heart.

I raised my head. Over Jerry's shoulder this time I saw that crescent moon with its lone star almost clinging to its lowest point and I knew that the real world the world in which most people live was now about me and that it was full of such human beings as the motherly woman who with a starchd apron tied around her ample waist was waiting on us. Her faded eyes were full of kindly curiosity. She did not seem to be able to quite make out whether it was Joan or I in whom the handsome young man was interested.

Joan was eating her dinner contentedly. She was so interested in herself and her own affairs that she got no inkling of how things stood between Jerry and me.

In her care for Lela she seemed to have merged all that love she had had for Barry. She had forgotten that Lela had tried to hurt her and she told minutely of Lela's condition and how he was so comfortably fixed at the hospital. She rejoiced that within a few days her property would be turned to her and she would be able to make Lela and her baby comfortable for life.

"I think" she said "that we had better tell Mr. Hathaway all about my affair with Barry. He can advise us what I had better do about the twenty thousand dollars. I feel sure that in some way Jem Smith is mixed up in it but we must have no scandal until after my estate is turned over to me."

For the first time Jerry seemed interested.

"Has Mr. Robinson said anything to you about when he was going to do this Miss Meredith?" he asked.

"No" she answered. "But surely he must remember the date."

(Copyright 1926 by NEA Service.)

JOAN'S MYSTERIOUS BROTHER

"Who is your attorney?" Jerry asked Joan.

"Mr. Josiah Elkins."

Jerry nodded his head in approval as he repeated the name of one of the oldest and most respected lawyers.

"He was my mother's attorney" she further explained. "After mother died it was decided that he should take care of my interests as well as my brother's while my step-father Mr. Robinson took his affairs to another attorney."

Jerry looked rather surprised at Joan's mention of her brother and he remarked that he had never heard of him.

I too looked up with interest because Joan had never told me anything about her brother except to mention him in the most casual way the first night I met her. From this I had gathered some way that no one knew him that he was never seen in the home.

However I had supposed he was away at school.

I knew that there was some mystery connected with him and I was not particularly surprised when I found Joan telling Jerry her brother was a hopeless cripple.

"My brother and I are twins" she said. "I am about an hour older I have been told and everybody was delighted when I was born because I was what you would call "a splendid baby." John—we were named Joan and John by my mother—is a cripple. He lives the year around in his camp."

"Yes" interrupted Jerry "I have heard about your million-dollar camp up there but I had no idea that it was a home for your brother."

"My mother was very sensitive about my brother's infirmities and she started to build the camp just after he was born. She spared nothing that money could but to make it a most luxurious home for her son to whom she had imparted the same sensitiveness about himself that she had had about him. He never wants to see anyone especially a woman."

"I have tried many times to make him come out into the world and I have always spent two months of every year with him. Treally I have seen many people who were worse cripples than he who seemed unconscious that they were objects of pity and were very yhappy.

"John has a wonderful mind and of course he has had the best tutors and companions that money could buy for him but they have all been men with the exception of his old nurse who adores him. Besides she and myself not another woman has ever been at the camp. He has had all sorts of athletic training and with the exception of one leg which is shorter than the other and a withered arm he is perhaps the most splendid looking boy I have ever seen."

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE AND FRERON.

Napoleon Bonaparte had three sisters and when the future emperor of France was a penniless captain waiting in Marseilles for something to turn up these sisters were romping about the city in a giddy freedom, unrestricted by any parental authority and engaging in any madcap adventure that me them halfway. The three girls were brilliantly pretty and charming and was their beauty, as well as the powerful influence of their brother, that brought them to the high levels in the social scales which were theirs in the years to come. Eliza became the Grand Duchess of Tuscany; Pauline, the Princess Borghese; and Caroline, Queen of Naples.

But it is Pauline's name that goes down in romantic history. She was the most beautiful of the trio: in fact she wa said to be the most beautiful woman in France of her time. She had a divine form, a much admired Grecian profile and dazzling black hair that reached to her knees when she chose to let it cascade in freedom. But of character, she showed little. She was always energetically gay and extravagantly giddy, though gifted with natural wit, and it was not until the close of her career, when the dark days came over the Bonapartes, that she awoke to a sense of responsibility.

Pauline's first affair was with the handsome young revolutionary, Freron. She was fifteen at the time but the passion Freron aroused in her breast was of mature proportions. She wrote him: "... I swear, dear Stanislas, never to love any other but thee; my heart knows no divided allegiance. It is thine alone. Who could oppose the union of two souls who seek no other happ ness than in mutual love? ... Thou knowest how I worship thee. It is not possible for Paulette to live apart from her adored Stanislas. I love thee for ever, most passionately, my beautiful god, my adorable one—I love thee, I love thee, I love thee!"

The one who opposed the union of the two souls was Napoleon, who had other plans for his sisters and he ruthle sly tore Pauline away from her lover. Later there was a young soldier who filled Freron's place in Pauline's heart to some extent. To him, Napoleon enunciated these words of wisdom, when the former came to him for Pauline's hand: "She has nothing, you have nothing. What is twice nothing?"

When Napoleon became a power in France he decided the time was ripe to marry off Pauline advantageously but her adventures had made her too celebrated. Napoleon's offe of her to two high officials was respectfully declined by each in turn. They thought more of domestic peace than enchanting boldness and unbridled impetuosity. She at length married. General Leclere who loved her madly enough to be patient with her whims and tolerant of her flirtations.

The general was not Pauline's happy possessor for long. He died within a convenient time at San Domingo and Pauline sailed home with his body embalmed and her hair, which she had cut off, wrapped around his head. This last may have been a bizarre caprice or an offering to her deliverance.

Back in her Paris circle she quickly married again, this time to a prince. Prince Borghese was rich as well as handsome and indulged Pauline in every caprice. It is related of her that she once appeared at a ball clad in classic draperies of muslin ornamented with gold leaves, and so diaphanous was this costume that a gasp ran through the guests in the salon; they stopped dancing and even climbed on chairs to get a better view of the daring beauty. But this occasion gave an opportunity to a vexed and jealous rival. In the stillness which followed Pauline's entrance Mme. de Contades was heard to murmur in a sympathetic voice: "How lovely she would be if it were not for her ears! If I had such ears I would not show them." Pauline's general undress had directed attention to one faint blemish.

Another episode of Pauline's hectica life brought with it a "bon mot" which is laughed at to this day. She had posed for Canova's "Venus" in a costume that was true to nature than to convention and after the work was shown, some of her disturbed friends asked her if she did not feel uncomfortable posing thus. "Not at all," replied the princess, "there was a fire."

With the defeat of Napoleon and his banishment to Elba, Pauline was one of the few who remained steadfast to the fallen emperor. She threw off her mantle of careless gaity and worked in the interests of her brother until the last hope was gone. She survived Napoleon by two years. When she felt the end coming she seized a mirror and gazed into it anxiously. "Thank God I still have my beauty," she said, and it was with the glass still clasped in her hand that she died.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By Mildred Marshall.)

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

MILDRED.

Mildred is something of a holy name, since it has a heritage closely associated with religious orders. Though said to be of Teuton origin, it was exclusively Saxon in its early use; indeed it may be said to be almost Mercian, since its first appearance was in the family of King Merowald.

Mild was a Saxon word meaning 'mild,' and by the addition of 'thryth,' another Saxon term signifying 'command,' the feminine name Mildthryth was formed. Because it was translated to mean 'mild speech' it was much used as a name for gentle damsels with religious inclinations.

King Merowald had three daughters whom he named Mildgyth, Milburgh, and Mildthryth—thus employing all versions of the name then in use. All three became nuns of a holy order. The two latter were later abbesses, one in Shropshire, the other in the Isle of Thanet. They were finally canonized in recognition of their saintly lives, as Mildburgh and Mildreda.

Thus Mildred, Mildrid, or Mildreda (as you prefer) came into existence, and straightway won great popularity in Shropshire and later throughout all England. Germany adopted Mildred but it has never had definite vogue there in spite of its Teutonic origin. The consonants were too harsh for France and Spain though the latter occasionally employs Mildreda accenting only the vowels in the soft Latin manner.

Mildred was the name given to the famous daughter of Burleigh and through her its place among English maids was forever assured. Recently it was revived to even greater vogue: in England and America and etymologists claim that the record of babies christened by that name in the last ten years of the nineteenth century would be astounding and unbelievable.

The emerald is Mildred's talismanic gem. It is said to promise her a keen intellect charm and success in the affairs of the heart. The hawthorne signifying hope is her flower. Wednesday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number.

HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 11 1926.

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as rather an unimportant day in planetary direction. It is a time for gathering up loose ends in business and preparing for big coups.

Neptune is in a place believed to be most auspicious for many interests for there should be wise judgment and far vision on business problems.

Shipping comes under a sway that appears to promise great increase of commerce, especially from western ports.

Much travel by land as well as sea will mark the autumn season when there will be an extraordinary movement of population, it is foretold.

This is not an auspicious day for financial transactions and may be marked by an international misunderstanding.

Extravagance and unwise spending may be widespread as the summer closes and many forms of robbery will be common.

Forgeries may increase, for there will be crimes transacted in writing, the seers forecast.

Saturn is in an aspect affecting the central states in which much fraud will be uncovered.

While there may be apparently a rule of evil, the reverse is true, according to astrologers who read abundant promise for the rising generation which is to excel all that have preceded it in mentality and big achievements.

Russia is to become aggressive and warning is given that her secret machinations may bring about results in more than one nation where evil propaganda has been disseminated.

The United States is to come under a sway that apparently encourages secret and mysterious plots in which the Soviet government is interested. This prophesy was made months ago and now appears to be near realization.

While this configuration prevails it is well to pursue a frank open course, for intrigue fortunately is subject to failure today.

For the autumn the stars portend an infectious epidemic which will sweep India, Russia and certain eastern states, astrologers predict.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a peaceful year in which many friends will have a pleasant part.

Children born on this day probably will be gentle and kindly in nature. These subjects of Leo usually like to devote themselves to the patient service of others.

VELVET TAM COMING.

Hat crowns grow higher as the season advances, and the number of folds and creases also multiplies. It is said that the velvet tam will have its inning very soon.

Women's Danger

Of offending under the oldest hygienic handicap is ended this way

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

SPECIAL EVENT REGATTA HELD

Motor Boat and Sailing Races at Juniper Island on Saturday.

MANY ENTRIES

The first event was the dinghy race, open to 14-foot boats. The Gordon K. Fraser cup is the trophy for this event, and is a handsome piece of silverware offered this season for the first time, and when won three years in succession by the same person, it becomes his property. Four boats entered, and the race was close to the finish. Reg. Dixon won the race, with Otto Gliddon second. The latter won second place by the barest margin from James Bartlett, who held second place nearly all the way.

The canoe sailing race brought 5 entries, and was won by Bob Beal, with Roslyn Russell second and H. Wotherspoon third.

The open sailing had four entries and was won by Mr. Flavelle's boat "Alameda" from Sturgeon Point, Tom Van Natta's "Resolute" taking second place. Gordon Matthew's boat, "S. Ridly," sailed by Graham Eastwood and R. J. Breyfogle, did not finish.

One of the most talked of races was the paddle round Juniper for the Gordon Graham cup. This race shared the honors with the long distance swim with creating the most interest. There were six entries in the race: James Currier, P. H. Dunford (who had cycled from Peterboro for the event), Donald FitzGerald, J. Guillett, Clayton Ridpath and George Wadds. The contestants made a good start, going west on the long paddle, which tests skill and endurance. The finish was very close, Don. FitzGerald winning first place from George Wadds by less than half a boat length. It was a finish which drew loud applause from the crowd, which had been silent with the excitement of the last few seconds. Clayton Ridpath (last year's winner) and P. H. Dunford were neck and neck for third place, which was won by Ridpath within half a boat length of the winning post. Don. FitzGerald's time was 23 minutes.

No entries appeared for the one-cylinder outboard race, but four appeared for the two-cylinder outboard which was won by Mr. Hendrick, with Mr. Morgan second. A misunderstanding about the method of turning the flag pole off Barrie's Island drew excited yells and gestures of instruction from the judges' stand, in which interested spectators joined. The noise of the motors made even Mr. Jones' loud voiced weapon ineffective, and finally the race was concluded amid much applause.

Twelve entries for the swim from Lech's Island made it a race well worth while. Four of the entries were girls, who pluckily entered for the long swim. They were Misses J. Breuin, Mary Hewitt, Eleanor Hyland and Anne Van Natta. The start was made from the water, which gave all an equally fair chance, and every precaution was taken to prevent accident, as each swimmer had a boat to follow. There were several motor craft who kept near-by in case of need. The swimmers were handicapped by a stiff breeze which for part of the course made swimming rather difficult, but every contestant finished and finished well. Tom Van Natta was first, making the trip in 20 minutes 25 seconds, and Don. FitzGerald (last year's winner) was second and Ross Thompson third. Miss Anne Van Natta was the first of the girls to finish, and Miss Eleanor Hyland followed close behind. They finished eighth and ninth respectively.

The dinghy race for the Trent Valley Cup was a close one, with the three boats entered who took the first three places for the Gordon K. Fraser cup. They finished in different order, all three contestants winning plaudits from the crowd for their ability in managing their craft. Otto Gliddon was first, Jim Bartlett second, and Reg. Dixon third.

Mr. J. H. F. Swain's boat, which has been winning awards at several of the regattas, was first in the six-cylinder outboard race.

The last race was the special event for motor craft of all descriptions, and in the order they finished their owners drew numbers for the prizes. It was evidently a race which appealed to the crowd, as in spite of the hour being rather late, nine boats entered, at least two being canoes with outboards attached. This was most amusing, and won loud applause. The trophy is one of the handsomest in the Kawartha Lakes district, and was presented last year by Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser.

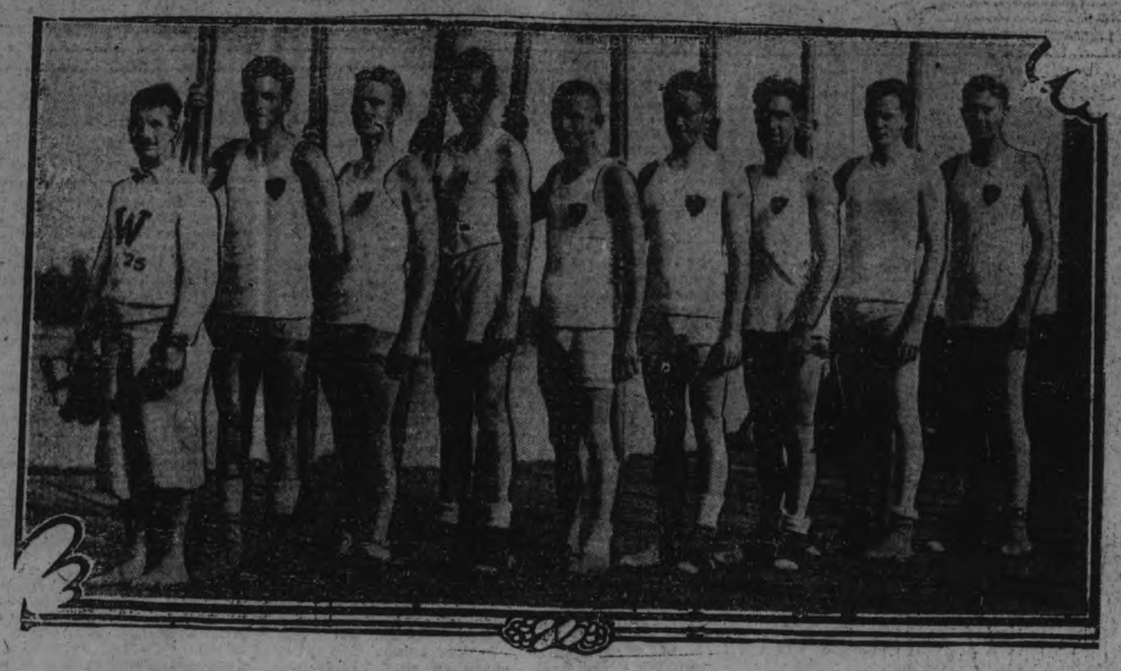
The afternoon was very successful and cleared the way for Monday's big event.

Fishing has been splendid this season, and some record catches have been made. There are a very large number of fishermen on the lake this season, and the catches have been excellent.

ABANDON ATTEMPT.

Georges Michel and Isak Helmy Quit Channel Swim.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Georges Michel of France and Isak Helmy of Egypt yesterday abandoned their attempt to cross the English Channel after swimming for thirteen hours. They started from Cape Gris Nez, France, Monday night.



The Winnipeg Rowing Club at the Canadian Henley this year sent one of the best crews east that has been seen in many a year. They were not successful in winning the senior eight championship but made an excellent impression just the same. The crew, as shown above, are, left to right: R. Swan, cox; N. Connacher stroke; S. Ormand, K. Gordon, Don Rowland, H. Moody, R. Watson, R. Peabody and D. Dyson.

ROBINS' ERRORS GAIN PIRATES EASY VICTORY

Brooklyn Lost Their Ninth Straight Game To Pittsburgh Yesterday.

CINCINNATI LOST.

Reds Tie Score Once and Were in the Lead .. Twice.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Disgusted Brooklyn fans saw the Robins make eight errors and lose their ninth straight to the Pitsburgh Pirates yesterday, 10-2. Babe Herman stuck out of the Brooklyn mess by making four hits off Lee Meadows and circuiting to bring in two Robin runs in the first.

Cincinnati lost a see-saw game at Philadelphia, 10 to 8. The Reds tied the score once and were in the lead on two occasions but neither Donohue nor his rescuer, Luque, could check the Phillies. Walker hit a homer with two on base in the fifth.

Rhem held Boston to six hits yesterday while the visiting St. Louis team vanquished the Braves, 3 to 1, in an errorless contest. The score was knotted when the teams started the ninth but Hornsby's single off Goldsmith and three more hits off relief Mogridge accounted for two runs.

At New York Virgil Barnes was in fine form allowing the Cubs but four hits for a 2 to 0 victory. This put the Giants in undisputed possession of fourth place in the pennant ace. Frisch's homer in the sixth and singles by Tyson, Terry and Mueller in the seventh accounted for the only runs of the game.

DETROIT TAKES THREE GAMES FROM YANKS

Wins Last of the Series By Five to Three Victory.

VICTORS RALLY.

Manuss' Homer Ties Score and Brings in Winning Runs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Detroit won its series with the Yanks yesterday, making it three out of four, with a 5 to 3 victory. Trailing the visitors all the way to the seventh, Detroit rallied after Manuss' homer had tied the score and brought in two runs off Shawkey who relieved Shocker. Ty Cobb drove in the tying run.

At Cleveland Reuther was a complete puzzle to the Indians yesterday and Washington won 4 to 1. Levsen also pitched effectively until the ninth when Washington bunched three hits with a pass and an error to score three runs.

Ray Morehart's fumble and Grabowski's throw to second in an attempt to get Hale who was stealing after two were out in the eleventh, was followed by a single by Cochrane which gave Philadelphia a 4 to 3 victory over Chicago, at Chicago. Mostil's home run smash in the ninth inning tied the count and forced the game into extra innings.

Browns were out-hit yesterday but Ken Williams' home run in the eighth innings, his sixteenth of the season, gave them a victory over the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 4, in the final game of the series at St. Louis. Williams scored behind Sisler.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY MEETING IN DOUBT

License Board Will Meet Today To Consider New York Permit.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—The meeting of the New York State Athletic Committee ended this morning after an hour's session without throwing any additional light on the Dempsey-Tunney situation.

George H. Brower, who, with William Muldoon, voted in favor of the bout being held in New York State, said he would take no further action in regard to the match in the event that the license committee, which meets this afternoon, rejected the application of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, or Gene Tunney, challenger for the title, for a license.

Robert H. Gunnis a Philadelphia boxing promoter, appeared to assure Tex Rickard that the fight would be welcomed in Philadelphia provided it was barred in New York through the action of the licence committee in refusing to issue the necessary papers.

The Texas League, which for several years has been the most prominent of the baseball organizations to split the season, will not follow the practice this year.

READING LOSES TWELFTH GAME TO THE LEAFS

Marquis' Wildness Proves His Undoing in the Third Inning.

WALKED NINE.

Toronto Scores First Two Runs Without Aid of a Hit.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Canadian Press).—Toronto was outhit at Reading yesterday but the Leafs won 5 to 3 and Reading lost its twelfth straight. Jim Marquis, wildness proved his underdoing. He walked nine and Toronto scored its first two runs in the third without the aid of a hit.

The Orioles downed the Bisons at Baltimore, 9 to 4. Kelley, Herd first sacker hit his thirty-fifth homer of the season.

Newark was at home to Rochester and lost the first game of the series 11 to 8. The Chiefs rallied in the eighth and ninth to tie Newark's lead and carry the game to 14 innings.

At Jersey City, Syracuse won 3 to 2. The Stars scored two of their runs on Malone's error.

VERY CLOSE GAME IS WON BY KEENE

Cogs Lose First Game, of Play-off By 3-2 Score.

KEENE, Aug. 11.—Keene won the first game of the play off for the Wright trophy on Monday night when they beat Cognawagas three to two in a fast game of ball.

Keene scored two in the first on singles by C. Roberston, Whalen and A. Fletcher. Robertson pitching a strong game for Keene shut the Cogs out until the fifth inning when they scored one run followed by another in the sixth. Up until the fifth inning they had made only two hits off his delivery and would have had a shut-out with a little faster work on the infield. He was in rare form with men on bases and Cogs could not produce a hit when a hit would have won the game. On the other hand the Keene infield backed him up with some snappy playing, cutting off several promising rallies.

Smith pitched well for the Cogs but he was not as strong as Robertson in the pinches.

I. Fletcher and F. Whalen made some nice catches in the outfield for Keene while Crary for Cogs starred at second base.

The teams play the second game at Exhibition Park, Peterboro, on Friday evening at five thirty.

The line up:

Keene—C. Robertson c; F. Whalen, cf; A. Fletcher, 2b; M. Robertson, p; M. McCarthy, 3b; I. Fletcher, lf; J. McCarthy, ss; F. Hall, rf; E. McCarthy, 1b.

MASQUERADE AT JUNIPER ISLAND

Many People Attend and Costumes Are Especially Well Planned.

ANNUAL EVENT.

The Masque of 1926 at Juniper Island will go down into Stoney Lake history as being the best in the history of the lake. The costumes were wonderfully good, and the number of those in costume far outnumbered any other event of the same order. To Mr. J. W. Gouinlock, the energetic and genial secretary of the Stoney Lake Cottagers' Association, much praise is due, as it is owing to his untiring efforts, and to those of the committee that the annual masquerade is one of the most-looked-forward-to events of the season. One suggestion might be in order which is, that all in costume should wear masks, otherwise it is not a proper masquerade, but a fancy dress party. Only those who are masked should be eligible for the prizes.

The judges were Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Tarbox, and Mrs. Sym, and Messrs. McLeod, Budreo and Swain.

First price, ladies, Miss Whitly, an Early Victorian Belle.

Second—Mrs. Cook, a Rainbow.

Original—Miss Pond, Newsprint.

First, gentleman.—Mr. Gordon Fraser, Pirate.

Second—Mr. Norton Buell, Polar Pete.

Original—Mr. Rosslyn Russell, Loud Speaker.

Best Pair—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collins as Cannibals.

Best Team—The Meyers' Camp as Characters from Uncle Tom's Cabin, the personnel of which was: Little Eva, Miss Happy Meyers; Topsy, Miss Mary Ruddy; Eliza, Lorne Massie; Don Legree, Don Meyers; Uncle Tom, Dean Andrews; Bear, Ian Wotherspoon.

Another team was that of the Wotherspoon and Mackenzie Camps as Peter Pan; Miss Dorothy Langley being Peter Pan; Mrs. Wotherspoon and her son, Dick, Indians; Mr. Wotherspoon, Captain Hook; and the Misses Florence and Billie Mackenzie, Jean Hedley and Margaret, Lumbers taking the other characters.

Some of those in costume were Mrs. Calvin Sloan and Mrs. W. R. Patterson, Anti-Prohibition Fishermen; Mrs. Gordon Fraser and Mrs. Fawcett, Britannias; Mrs. Grainger, Night; Mrs. Meyers, Old Fashioned Woman; Mrs. Rowell, Sis Hopkins; Mrs. Loftus Amys, Mah Jong; Mrs. Elmsley, Ballet Girl; Nancy Satterbee and Lilunia Beecroft, Lord and Lady of the Bath; Frances Warner, Italian; Mrs. Fairbairn, Spirit of the French Revolution; Miss Woodcock, "Permanent Wave"; Mrs. May, Stop and Go Traffic Sign; Jean Fairbairn; State Express Cigarette; Spud Andreds, Bag of Spuds; Loftus Amys, Thief of Bagdad; Jim Currier, Lord Helpus; Bradly Rowell, Prince of Mah Jong; Mr. J. Tickets for the recent tennis championships at Wimbledon, which originally cost $20, were resold by speculators for as much as $150 each.

CRICKET NEWS

The Peterborough Cricket Club played their return match on Civic Holiday with the Rosedale Cricket Club of Toronto, at Toronto. A good game resulted in a win for Rosedale by 58 runs. Unfortunately for the Peterborough club two of their best bowlers were unable to play, otherwise there is no doubt that the result might have been different. Winning the toss, Peterborough went to bat first, but opened disastrously, four good wickets being down for 11 runs, but on Garbutt and Coutts being associated, the score rose rapidly to 45 before Garbutt was caught, having batted excellently for 30 runs. Coutts continued to play steady cricket and he got able support from Manning, Massey Cooke and Roberts (a substitute for Peterborough), the score finally reaching the respectable total of 113 runs. G. Percival of Rosedale took 5 wickets for 16 runs, Buckle 2 for 16, and Shenton 2 for 1 run.

Rosedale commenced their innings with G. Percival and Morris, and these two batsmen took the score to 34 before being separated; the third wicket fell at 52, and the fourth at 59, and then commenced a big partnership between Hancock and T. Percival (the latter only a boy of 13 years, but quite a promising batsman), these two took the score to 126 before Thorpe bowled Hancock, the score eventually reached 171 runs. Dyer, who bowled throughout the innings, took 4 wickets for 50 runs; Thorpe 4 for 62 runs, and Manning 1 for 22 runs. Dyer and Thorpe bowled practically throughout the innings and did well, considering the regular relief bowlers were absent as stated above. Monkman and Coutts did good work in the field, the latter making two good catches, and the former doing good ground fielding, and his throwing to the wicket keeping the Rosedale batsmen on the alert.

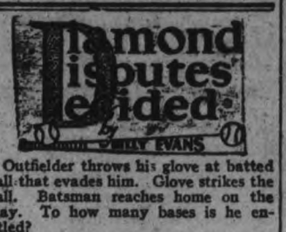
"THE WILDERNESS WOMAN"

By ARTHUR STRINGER

With

AILEEN PRINGLE
LOWELL SHERMAN, & CHESTER CONKLIN

She has a punch like dynamite—a figure like a queen—a temper like a tornado—the soul of a baby girl—and the heart of a woman. Her father made a million with a pick. She helped him spend it with a shovel. And when love comes into her life—why, you'd better be there to see the fun.



Outfielder throws his glove at batted ball that evades him. Glove strikes the ball. Batsman reaches home on the play. To how many bases is he entitled?

Until this year, the batsmen on such a play would have been entitled to only three bases. The original rule gave him that many when a thrown glove came into contact with a batted ball. The ball became dead.

Under the new rule of this year, the batsman is entitled to not only three bases but the extra base if he can make it.

Therefore, in the play cited, the batsman who reached home on a play in which the fielder's glove was thrown at the ball and came into contact with it, is entitled to score.

G.W.V.A. WORKERS.

Success of Field Day Brought By Able Committees.

Great credit is due to the officers and members of the Great War Veterans Association for the success of the Civic Holiday sports on Monday last, including the commander of the branch, J. SOMETHING NEW FOR BALL FANS

C. G. E. Ladies and Kiwanis Club To Play on Saturday.

FOR CHILDREN.

A unique game is scheduled for Saturday at James Stevenson Park (Riverside), when the C. G. E. girls are to meet Kiwanis Club, the proceeds to go to Kiwanis underprivileged child fund.

The C.G.E. ladies have had such wonderful success in their last two games with members of their own sex, allowing neither team to score, that they have decided to take on something harder and show the Kiwanians how the old game of softball should be played.

The game is sure to be full of feature plays as both teams are working hard to get into shape. The ladies expect a walk over but the other team is just as resolved that they shall not have one.

There are many things about this game which can not be announced now so if the people want to see men play with ladies in a real game of soft ball they must be on hand Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

(By Harry Heilmann, Champion Batsman, American League.)

Don't let the pitcher get you in the hole. Taking too many good balls brings about such a condition.

All great batsmen agree that the proper system is to hit every good ball that comes over, except with the count three balls and no strikes.

While I have seen Babe Ruth hit several home runs by taking a cut at the next pitch, with the count three balls and no strikes, I would not advise such a procedure.

Having the pitcher in the hole to the extent of three balls and no strikes, good baseball demands that you look over the next one. If the pitcher gets it over, be prepared to swing at every offering that looks good enough to be called a strike.

I like to hit with the count two balls and no strikes. At such a stage the batsman has a decided edge on the pitcher. You can definitely figure that he is going to try to come over with the next pitch.

Such a pitch is known in the parlance of the game as the "cripple." This is because the pitcher, in an effort to make sure that the ball will be over, as a rule cuts down on his stuff.

I certainly like to hit the "cripple." If you watch the work of the .300 or better hitters in the majors, you will note that most of them have a fondness for the two and nothing ball.

When you go to the plate, have a fixed purpose in mind and try your best to carry it out. Always shun individual effort for team play in batting.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

ABE MITCHELL — WETHERED'S LONG BALL

Mr. Wethered hits the ball very cleanly, and not often does he hit it into the sky, a point which is due to his clubhead traveling well after the ball before the head begins to come up. Put another way, here is a long, flat bit in the swing which is seen immediately before the clubhead reaches the ball, and also just after the ball has gone.

This is just as it should be, and the onlooker, who is out to see those things, will notice that his left arm comes well forward on the line of flight.

We cannot drive well if we pull the arms in as the clubhead meets the ball, and here Mr. Wethered is an example to us all, for at the finish his hands are well out and away from the body.

He is, to my idea, one of the modern school who hit the ball first and let the follow-through take care of itself, and his length off the tee, and with his iron clubs, is rtuly remarkable, for he does not appear to be physically strong, but he has all the art of good timing, without which even the strongest cannot drive the ball far.

JUVENILE FINALS.

Kiwanis and Rotary Meet in Riverside Park Tomorrow Night.

Fans anxious to see a good game of baseball cannot do better than visit Riverside Park tomorrow night at 6 o'clock. The Kiwanis and Rotary Juveniles are staged to meet in the finals of the City League and, judging from past performances of these teams, the battle promises to be a memorable one. There is the utmost confidence in both camps that their team can win a victory. All members of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs are invited to attend the game.

HOW TO SWIM

by Lillian Cannon

THE BACK STROKE IS A RESTING STROKE.

The back stroke, in my opinion, is largely a resting stroke and should be used often as such.

Because the whole face is out of the water all the time, one has opportunity to breathe more fully than while swimming forward.

Also, one floats a large portion of the time and there are moments when no effort is being made at all.

Care should be taken to drill oneself thoroughly in the resting idea while doing the back stroke so that a long swim can be frequently broken with intervals of rest.

It is also tremendously useful if one has to rescue someone from drowning. By swimming on the back, a person can be dragged along with a minimum of effort.

BILLY EVANS Says

French Fastest.

Speed is once more becoming a prominent factor in baseball.

With the slugging type game that has been popular for some years, speed lost much of its value.

Now that the teams are resorting to strategy, bringing back some of the inside stuff that has been stored away for many seasons, speed once more comes to the front.

In this connection I might add that I regard Walter French of the Philadelphia Athletics, the fastest man in the American League.

There are better base runners because French has yet to master the art of getting a big lead. However, no player in the American, I doubt in the majors, can step to first or circle the bases as fast as French.

The former West Point star athlete runs close to the ground and travels much faster than his style would make you believe.

Display Fails.

The failure of Display, winner of the Preakness, to finish better than tenth in the Kentucky Derby, was a distinct disappointment to turf followers in the east.

The manner in which Display won the historic Preakness, made it seem that he had an excellent chance to beat such great horses as Bubbling Over, Baggenbaggage, Pompey and the rest of the classy field.

Only once in turf history has the same horse won both the Derby and Preakness. Back in 1919, Sir Barton turned the trick. It stands as one of the greatest achievements in turfdom.

When two of Bradley's horses, Bubbling Over and Baggenbaggage finished, one, two, it marked the second time the Bradley thoroughbreds finished that way in the Derby. Back in 1921 Behave Yourself and Black Servant came under to win and place.

Collins Best.

"Kid" Gleason, who has been identified with the big leagues more than two score years, pronounces Eddie Collins as the greatest secondbaseman of all time.

"Lajoie was a marvel," says Gleason, "Hornsby is a wonder, but for all-round ability I pick Collins.

"There never was a greater batsman than Lajoie. There is no telling what he would have hit had he batted against the lively ball.

"But while Hornsby and Lajoie might be regarded as harder hitters than Collins, I don't believe either could be classed as more valuable batsmen.

"Collins, as I see him, hasn't a weakness in the field, at the bat or on the bases, in addition he has the keenest mind of any ball player I have ever known, past or present.

Direct Contrast.

The two leading southpaws of the American League at the present time, Herb Pennock and "Lefty" Grove, present a direct contrast in style.

Grove has perhaps twice the natural ability of Pennock, curve ball excepted, yet the Yankee southpaw would probably be rated the more effective because of his poise and experience under fire.

Grove has blinding speed literally, he throws his fast ball by the batter. His curve is sharp. He wins because of those two outstanding assets.

Pennock, on the other hand, mixes 'em up. He has no blinding speed but he has a great curve ball and a remarkable change of pace. On every pitch he tries to cater to the weakness of the batter.

If Grove ever develops a slow ball that he can control and deliver with the same motion as his fast ball, he is going to be almost unbeatable.

ST. PETER'S PARISH HOLD LAWN SOCIAL

Ground Illuminated and Rangers Band Supplies Music.

There was a very good attendance on the grounds of St. Peter's High School last evening, for the social held under the auspices of the parish of St. Peter's Cathedral. Patronage for supper, although the home-made dainties and the service provided by the ladies of the parish were all that could be desired, was somewhat lessened by the threat of rain in the early evening, but the after-supper crowd was splendid, and the country store, in particular, as well as the various booths where refreshments were sold, did a rushing business until a late hour. The grounds were illuminated for the occasion, and the band of the Peterborough Rangers added to the general pleasant atmosphere by playing popular music during the evening.

The supper tables, decorated with flowers, were in charge of an energetic committee of ladies from the parish, assisted by junior waitresses. Mrs. M. Connors and Miss M. Croft were appointed as convenors, with a staff of ladies that included Mrs. J. Lynch, Mrs. W. J. Geary, Mrs. S. Coffey, Mrs. L. McCoy, Mrs. L. Boland, Mrs. J. Begley, Mrs. W. J. Hoolihan, Mrs. F. Fairen, Mrs. F. Eano, Mrs. P. Collins, Mrs. M. Daly, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. J. White, Mrs. Jas. Guiry, Mrs. B. Law, Mrs. W. J. Young, Miss M. Nevin and Miss Clara Fontaine.

The Bishop's Bible Study Class had a large booth, prettily arranged with black and yellow standards and vases of flowers, where "hot dogs," ice cream and soft drinks were sold. Miss Margaret O'Brien was in charge, assisted by the Misses Florence Murray, Clothilde Collins, Gertrude Doyle, Mamie McCarthy, Mareta Collins and Geraldine Collins.

Another dainty booth, done in yellow and white, where fruit and home-made candy were sold, was in charge of Mrs. F. Daley and Miss Eileen McCabe, assisted by the Misses Olive Cowie and Mary Hoolihan.

Mr. T. Cronin had a stand dispensing "hot dogs," cigars and lemonade, and was assisted by Messrs. Flynn, Pepe and Hines.

The country store, where fancy work and aluminum ware and staple groceries were sold, was an active centre, the sale in the evening being in charge of Messrs. T. Turcotte, G. McFadden and W. Whaley. Ladies assisting in this booth, which was decorated in pink and green, were Mesdames W. C. Cooke, W. Gallagher, W. O'Brien, H. Gainey, T. Turcotte, and the Misses Anne Hurley and Brennan.

Joe Morency had charge of the popular "Kill the Cat" game, and a dart game was supervised by Hughie ("Peewee") LeBarr and Lawrence McCarthy.

Miss Annie Simons was in charge of the fish pond, which proved a magnet for the children all evening, and had her usual fine assortment of excellent articles for a nickel and dime "fish," with several interesting novelties in the way of Alaska dolls and singing birds. Assisting Miss Simons were the Misses Hannah Fraser, Josie Lynch, and Mary McDonough, with small Freddie White and Noreen McDonough as energetic helpers.

Assisting at the gate and at the supper table entrance were Messrs. W. J. Young, W. MacPherson and Charles Begley.

BOOTLEGGING TOLL.

Three Known Dead and Two Reported Killed in Battles.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 11 (Canadian Press). — Three known dead, two reported killed, two men critically injured and one man reported missing was the toll from two encounters between rum-runners, hijackers, booteggers, coast-guardsmen and Federal agents in Florida in the past five days.

The three known dead were killed in a pitched battle with Federal agents. Two hijackers were said to have been killed when they attacked the British rum-runner Hazel Herman of Nova Scotia at sea.

Mount Whitney, 14,501 feet above the sea level will soon be accessible. An aerial tramway of cables will support cars carrying passengers up and down the mountain.

FORTY-SEVEN SILVER CUPS FOR DOG SHOW

Premium List Expected To Be Ready in Ten Days.

MANY INQUIRIES.

Ninety Per Cent. of Breeds of Dogs Represented in City.

Forty-seven silver cups in addition to many other special prizes will be offered for competition at the Dog Show in connection with the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. The "Dog days" this year will be September 16, 17 and 18. The first date conflicts with the last day of the London Dog Show, but it is hoped that the Canadian Kennel Club may be prevailed upon to make arrangements for the release of the London dogs in time for the Peterborough Show.

The premium list is expected to be ready in about ten days. It is pointed out that it is not absolutely necessary that owners have pedigree papers for their animals in order to show them. Such dogs can be entered on payment of a fee of 25 cents which is the charge for listing imposed by the Canadian Kennel Club. Many inquiries have already been received, but the promoters appeal to every local fancier to come forward and enter his animal in the Show. It is confidently affirmed that over 90 p.c. of the breeds recognized by the Kennel Club are represented in the city and that there are sufficient animals of class among them to form a three point show. It will be remembered that last year, the Exhibition enjoyed the distinction of having a three point show at the second attempt.

The show has already justified its existence in the improvement that is evident in the various breeds of dogs in the city.

C.G.E. TAKE GAME FROM BELMONTS

Winners Make Up a Six Run Lead After Second.

SCORE 9 TO 8.

Last night the C. G. E. defeated the Belmonts, 9 to 8, in a very close struggle. The Belmonts got away to a flying start, but were unable to hold their lead when the C.G.E. replaced Nicholls by Powell in the box. At the end of the third innings the score stood 6 to 0 for the Belmonts, but they were shut out to the sixth, when they scored their two final runs. The game had to be called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness. The C.G.E. scored three in the fourth, one in the fifth and five in the sixth. The winners played the better game after they got the first two innings over, in which they made all their errors. The Belmonts fell down bad at third base, and Lowe in the field was very slow. The C.G.E. did not show up very strong at short. The winners made their hits count, and had three nice sacrifices which made runs every time. The Belmonts tried a new stunt to them in bunting the ball; they did this thing very successfully in the first two innings but fell down after that.

The arguments were many, and this had a lot to do with the holding up of the game. Three times this season the Belmonts have scored eight runs against the C.G.E., to lose the game either by one or two runs.

J. Jones was the star hitter of the game, getting four hits in five times to bat, and getting on the other time through an error.

TARIFF REVISION IS PROMISED BY MR. MEIGHEN

Characterizes Manitoba Progressives as Servile Annex of Liberal Party.

MODERATE TARIFF.

Promises Bill Revaluating Soldier Settlers' Lands If Given Mandate.

DELORAINE, Man., Aug. 11 (Canadian Press).—"We shall revise our tariff through and through. It has never been revised in twenty years," In such words Premier Meighen yesterday announced his intentions to the electors of Manitoba divisions of Souris and Macdonald.

Mr. Meighen had bitter criticism for the Manitoba Progressives, whom he characterized as "servile annex" of the Liberal party.

Mr. Meighen, in his references to tariff revision, voiced previous declarations, that he had no intention of creating a hangman's gallows tariff.

"Never thought of it," he declared. "No need of it, it is not height of tariff that is of importance, it is the principle which underlies it, the permanency of it, the stability of it. We will give every industry in Canada a chance. Give it an opportunity in our own market which every Canadian industry has a right to have. Competition, he said at Glenboro, would take care of prices, "but if it does not," he added, warningly, "We will do it with the hand of the Government."

There had been talk, Mr. Meighen said, that he would say little of Protection in the West. "The Conservative party," he asserted, "stands where it has always stood, for moderate tariff, tariff definitely protective on all production, agricultural, and everything else."

Mr. Meighen promised that, if given a mandate, he would bring down a bill revaluing soldiers settlers' lands.

3 PROSPECTORS RACE AGAINST TIME

Beat Rival Party in Staking Claims For Gold and Antimony.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press).—Battling their way through flaming forests and harassed night and day by fear lest the rival party should beat them to the scene, a small party of Manitoba prospectors won through to rich stakings and possible fortune in a desperate race against time. This is the story brought out of the north by J. Burton O'Sullivan, who with his companions, A. J. Demers, and Geo. and Frank McClatchey reached Winnipeg yesterday.

The prize at stake, according to M. O'Sullivan, was a fine out-cropping of gold and antimony on an island in Oxford Lake, 150 miles northeast of The Pas. A large party of Minneapolis men had got away to a three-day start by catching a boat for Norway House. Mr. O'Sullivan and his friends determined to beat their rivals to the scene of the strike.

Travelling by rail and gas car, they left Mile 239 on Hundson Bay Railway July 21, and plunged into the forests of their 175 mile journey southward to Oxford Lake.

Their course was mainly over the lakes and the rivers of the region.

DOCTOR GRAFTS CANCER IN THIGH TO TEST THEORY

Finds Evidence To Support Belief in Predisposition To Disease.

GROWTH DIES.

Another Doctor Deliberately Drinks Cholera Germs For Same Purpose.

LONDON, Aug. 4—On the eve of the world conference on cancer which is to be held in the United States in September, attention has been focused in scientific and non-technical circles to the heroic efforts taken by physicians in their efforts to find cures for disease.

Two men in particular, are now being paid tribute for their bravery. One is the famous D. Kurtzahn of Konigsberg, who has actually grafted on his thigh a cancerous growth. The other is Prof. Pettengofer, of Munich University, who innoculated himself with cholera germs.

Both men conduced their experiments in support of the theory that both diseases depend to a certain extent upon predisposition. They argued that unless there were a tendency toward the disease it could not be contracted, no matter how great the provocation. The faith in their scientific knowledge was justified. Neither scientist suffered ill effects.

Puzzled at First.

Dr. Kurtzahn decided some years ago to experiment on cancer. At first he worked along established lines. He did not derive much satisfaction. Then on a new track he began to experiment on animals. He grafted cancerous tumors into one animal after another and was puzzled to find that some contracted the disease while others did not.

That results should be so uncertain in two animals in whom there was seemingly little difference led him into a new train of thought.

What of Predisposition

How could predisposition, if it existed, be determined. Was it a specific condition, due to certain pathological states; was it a temporary condition into which any one might fall; was it of a nature that would permit the disease to be guarded against even while there were no actual sign of cancer? To these questions, it is believed Dr. Kurtzahn has worked out a scientific answer, although he is not yet ready to publish in detail his discoveries.

But an intensely human answer has already been given by his very startling act—the deliberate grafting of the deadly cancer removed from a patient and thrust into his own living flesh.

With the coolness that is a necessary quality of all explorers and pioneers his brain alert and his emotions well under control, the brave medico himself performed the operation, using only a local anaesthetic of course, that he might observe with the more precision than had he allowed some one else to do the dangerous deed!

For days, the doctor, who had diagnosed that he himself was not predisposed to the dread disease watched with impersonal interest the effect of the living cancer in his leg.

He already had come to the conclusion that the predisposing factor is stronger than any corrective so far devised, and so had deduced that researches would become valuable only when it had discovered the hidden factor upon which, in his opinion both prevention and possible cure must rest.

Theory Strengthened.

Nevertheless, to find out whether he was correct or not, he took some of his own blood and made a serum with which to innoculate patients suffering from the disease. But this proved useless—strengthening his theory.

The facts, which have been formally presented to the German Surgical Society it is thought, will be of vital moment and will direct medical researches into new channels.

Although Dr. Krutzahn has refused so far, to disclose the axact nature of what he has learned and of his methods of discovery, can it be attributed to sheer coincidence that the noted Doctor H. McCormick Mitchell, senior medical officer of the Liverpool Cancer Hospital, announces that "an eminent German scientist" whose name he is "not at liberty" at present, to reveal" has given private demonstrations at which Dr. Mitchell was present showing an ingenious apparatus that detects cancer?

This detector, which, according to Dr. Mitchell, makes possible the most delicate color-tests of blood, can show, in the hands of its inventor, not only whether a pre-cancerous condition exists (Dr. Mitchell evidently accepts that a pre-cancerous state has become recognizable for purposes of diagnosis) but can indicate a particular organ affected. Properly applied, it will also test the blood of a patient six month after an operation and demonstrate whether or no the cure is complete.

Despite Dr. Mitchell's secrecy concerning the German scientist, it is tacitly understood that Dr. Kurtzahn is the man. Should another have experimented along these lines and forstalled him, this will come as a great surprise to the British who have quite made up their minds that the grafting of the cancer after the discovery of the detector is consistent and is, in fact, the only logical explanation.

Drinks Cholera Germs.

Prof. Pettenkofer risked a ghastly and terrible end by an act as deliberate as that of his confrere. For some time he had been trying to learn more about the curse of the East from which millions have perished and hundreds of thousands die each year—cholera! After prolonged investigations he had come to the conclusion, like Kurtzahn, that to be infected predisposition is necessary.

Like his colleague, the professor reached a point where he believed he could tell whether a person was predisposed to the disease or not. And his diagnosis assured him that he, personally, was immune. To prove his theory a scientific truth he called a special meeting and in the presence of his confreres and the students whom he taught—he raised a glass of water in which he introduced millions of cholera germs, and putting it to his lips drained the last drop!

There was almost a riot at this dramatic climax to what had promised to be just an ordinary lecture! At this instant he lifted the glass, doctors and students alike horrified, rushed to dash it from his grasp. The hall re-echoed with gasps and cries of terror.

The scientist remained calm throughout the excitement. Quietly he assuered every one present that he vouched as a doctor, that he would feel no ill effects. Prof. Pettenkfoer has been perfectly well since that moment. No disturbing symptoms have manifested themselves.

Both men are very fortunate. The cancer after a few days days of life, has died in Kurazahn's leg and is as though it had never been. Blood tests show Prof. Pettenkofer's blood stream to be as pure as before he had drunk from the germ-swarming glass.

The cancer conference will open at Lake Mohawk, New York, Sept. 24th.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL.

"SIBERIA" IS REPLETE WITH HIGH DRAMA OF DARK RUSSIA

Victor Schertzinger Brings to Silver Sheet Most Poignant Epic of All Time.

Bringing to the silver sheet the most faithful transcript of Russian life ever presented by a motion picture producer, "Siberia," a Victor Schertzinger production, will be the Fox Films headliner at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow. Alma Rubens and Edmund Lowe, two of the most sincere screen players in America, are starred. They are supported by one of the best casts ever assembled.

"Siberia," which is a stupendous film version of Bartley Campbell's thrilling play of the barren prisons of Russia, was produced at tremendous cost and represents the most painstaking effort upon the part of Mr. Schertzinger and his assistant directors. The story is compellingly dramatic.

Miss Rubens, cast as Sonia Vronsky, is seen as the daughter of a mighty overlord who feasts upon the fat of the land while the humble peasants starve.

This condition, highly repugnant to the sensitive daughter and her delicate brother, reaches the first of several crises when Sonia rebels and tells her father her heart is with the people and not with the Russian overlords.

Edmund Lowe, Tom Santschi, Lou Tellegen, Paul Panzer and others who figure in these sequences bring to their respective tasks a dramatic finesse seldom seen in motion picture productions.

The story ranges from Petrograd, in the luxurious quarters of a handsome lieutenant of the Czar's Guard, to the misery of the forwarding prisons and the ultimate agony of dread Siberia.

Miss Rubens, especially chosen for this striking role, invests the part with an understanding which is overwhelmingly impressive.

Tom Santschi immortalizes the Cossack lieutenant.

Tellegen, as the fiery revolutionist, does the best work of his career.

COUNTESS BECOMES A PATIENT IN WARD OF NEW YORK HOSPITAL WHICH ATTENDS NEEDS OF POOR

Suffering From Arthritis, Countess Del Garcia Could Not Pay High Rates.

20 YEARS IN U. S.

Brought Fourteen Pieces of Baggage Withr Her and 2 Canary Cages.

NEW YORK, August 11. United News. — Bellevue Hospital ,which ministers to the medical needs of the poor, has opened its wards to one of the most distinguished patients of its history: the Countess Armin Del Garcia. The Countess broughts 14 pieces of baggage to the hospital, including suit cases bearing continental tags,and two canary cages. Her possessions also include $100 in cash, an amazingly large sum compared with the cash holdings of the majority of the Bellevue's city patients.

While the attendants appraised the value of the Countess' holdings, she explained that she had intended to enter another institution, her ailment having been diagnosed as arthritis, but that the rates had been too high.

The Countess had been assigned to a ward and will receive no special attention. The hospital records show she is the daughter of Count Bominico Del Garcia and Baroness Felice Du Barry of France, and has lived in the United States for twenty years.

A Paris Frock Runs Its Full Skirt in Two Sections

DURING the first weeks of early Summer Paris takes to the woods for luncheon and tea, dinner and late supper, creating a sort of country life within the city limits. At polo at Bagatelle a very smart Parisienne wore recently a frock in the chic Summer combination of Georgette and taffeta. Both were in the same cloudy shade of Watteau blue, but the transparency of the Georgette gave the body and upper part of the straight skirt a lighter tone. Fulness shirred at the shoulder and at the top of the sleeve added to the soft impression of the frock. For midsummer it would be charming copied in printed batiste with the lower part of the skirt in a plain color.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

WEDDING BELLS.

LEES—EVANS.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at half-past ten o'clock this morning at St. Andrew's Church, when Marjorie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Evans, 56 George Street, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Robert Bruce Lees, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lees, 514 Gilmour Street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. David Wren, M.A., B.D., pastor of Trinity United Church. The Wedding March was played by Miss Muriel Bridge, and Mr. Walter Evans of Toronto, brother of the bride, sang "Until," during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a charming gown of poudre blue georgette, with bands of black on the tunic, topped by heavy embroidery of black, touched with silver. Her hat was of blue and black velvet, trimmed with silver, and she wore black shoes and silver stockings, and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and gypsophila.

Mr. and Mrs. Lees, who were unattended, left immediately by motor for a trip through the States, to be followed later by a stay at Stoney Lake, before going to Owen Sound, where they will reside after the first of September, and where Mr. Lees will take a position on the teaching staff of the Technical School. The bride's travelling coat was of blue charmeen, made with barrel sleeves and squirrel collar and trimmed with blue silk.

SCOUT NEWS

Peterboro Salvation Army Life Saving Scouts.

The Scout troop 28 strong, under our Scout Leader and his assistants, four days under canvas, from the 6th of August until the 9th August.

The Scouts left the Temple at 6.30 p.m. Friday evening, with the trek cart loaded with kits, etc, while a truck with the tents, tables, etc., went on ahead.

We arrived at our destination at 8.30 p.m. and started in to pitch our tents, and none too soon as we encountered a severe thunderstorm, with heavy rain. However the tents stood the test, and everyone came through safely.

Sleep was very rare on Friday night resulting in the Scouts being early on the spot for breakfast next morning.

This was followed by morning prayer, and the raising of the Union Jack, then a good splash in the swimming pool. The latter part of the morning was taken up in dam building and berry picking, after which a hearty dinner was eaten.

After dinner a rest was enjoyed, followed by a game of flag raiding, which was participated in by all.

After supper several games were played, followed by a camp fire, our radio concert, then lights out at 10 s.m.

Sunday was a quiet day. A Sunday sdhool service was held in the morning led by Chaplain Clark; also an enrollment service in the evening.

The sun broke through in wonderful style on Monday morning, invigorating everyone.

After breakfast a number of Scouts went berry picking, bringing back a goodly number of same, which were heartily enjoyed.

After dinner we had a practice game of softball followed by a game between the Temple bandsmen and the Scouts, the Scouts being the losers. A large crowd of visitors was welcomed in the afternoon. The weather was ideal making the day very profitable.

The Scouts returned home at 6.30 p.m., all red with the sun, and eagerly anticipating the next outing.

Only one mishap occurred in the four days, that was when Chaplain Clark slipped and fell into the creek, but was none the worse for his slip.

This was our first camp, and it was a very successful one.

The ladies having by this time returned from the theatre party at the Capitol, at which 106 of them attended, a dinner dance was staged. The spirit that had prevailed at the men's banquet again manifested itself at the dance, everyone participating in a manner that left no doubt as to the success of the plan.

THE STOCK MARKET

Smelters Make Move On Very Firm Market

TORONTO, Aug. 11. — (Canadian Press.)—Consolidated Smelters was the active leader in the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. The stock recovered 2 1-2 points after yesterday's heavy decline and closed at 232 1-2. The market was confined to narrow limits with prices firm.

The oils were in the limelight with British American leading the way in activity with a seven-eighths gain to 54. International Petroleum was off one-eighth to 36 1-8, while Imperial was up a like amount to 34 7-8. Brazilian advanced five-eights to 108 7-8, while Twin City lost three-eights to 69 5-8. International Nickle gained three-eights to 37 3-8. Noranda led the mines with an advance of 35 cents to its high of 17.75.

McIntyre was active and strong with a 50 cent gain to 26.00. Imperial Bank closed one cent higher at 204.

Wheat Turns Downward; Corn Touches New High

CHICAGO, August 11 (Canadian Press).—Wheat values turned downward to-day after a wavering start, whereas corn touched a new high price record for the season. In each case using crop figures were the dominating influence.

Opening at a quarter cent decline to 5-8 cent gain, the wheat market underwent a material setback all around. Corn opened unchanged to 1 5-8 cents higher, but later receded from the initial top figures. Oats held about steady. The provision market sagged.

Gold Stocks Remain Strong Lake Shore Up 40 Cents

TORONTO, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press).—Features of a strong and active session of the Standard Mining Exchange todaly were the advances of Lakeshore, McIntyre and Noranda, and the general strength of all the gold stocks.

Lakeshore jumped 40 cents to 13.00, its highest for the session. McIntyre 70 cents to 26.00 after touching 26.10, and Noranda 35 cents to 17.75, its high for the market. Hollinger also gained 20 cents to 3.99. Other gains in the gold stocks were Kirkland Lake 5 to 1.14; Tough Oakes 1-2; West Dome 1-4 to 15 1-2; Barry Holly 1 1-4 to 56 1-4. Amulet was up 3 to 1.35. In the silvers Beaver, Keeley and Borlamaque each gained 1 to 82, 1.70 and 1.06 respectively; while Mining Corporation was off 4 to 3.93, and Castle Trethewey 1 to 1.52.

Position of Market Improves As Speculators Get Control

NEW YORK, August 11 (Canadian Press).—Speculators for advance regained control of the price movement in to-day's stock market. With the technical position of the market obviously improved by yesterday's sharp re-action and no appreciable over-night accumulation of selling orders, operators working for higher prices found little difficulty in bidding up their favorites, being aided by an abundance of loanable funds at 4½ per cent.

Steel shares, which were heavy yesterday on selling, reflecting speculative disappointment over a relatively small increase in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, regained part of their lost ground on buying influenced by the optimistic tenor of the weekly trade reviews. Iron Age reported that new business in the first third of August equalled that of the corresponding period last month.

Rails responded to the publication of another record-breaking freight traffic statement, with demand centering largely in the investment issues. Norfolk and Western touched a new peak price for all time.

Trading in General Motors quieted down considerably after the drastic decline of yesterday, but it was selling five points above yesterday's final quotation in the early afternoon. Mack Truck was again active and strong on reports of large current earnings. Recent run-up in Ward Baking B, and the establishment of new peak prices for the year by R. H. Macy, Butterick Publishing and Yellow Truck and Coach Preferred also attracted widespread speculative interest. Rumors that the Foundation Company would cut its dividend proved to be unfounded, a regular quarterly rate of $2 being declared.

Renewed selling of U.S. Steel in the afternoon caused the rest of the market to ease off, although several specialties continued to attract substantia buying orders.

BRITISH AVIATOR COMMENCES RETURN JOURNEY OF ROUND TRIP FROM ENGLAND TO AUSTRALIA

Cobham Reaches Sydney After Encountering Delaying Winds.

SAW KANGAROO.

Women Settlers Come Hundreds of Miles To See Plane.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 11 (United Press).—Alan Cobham, the British aviator, who is making a round trip flight from England to Australia, has arrived here on the outward swing of his circuit. Cobham left Port Darwin on Sunday and encountered delaying head winds, falling considerably behind his schedule. He made up time on Monday and Tuesday, flying 825 miles from Camooweal to Charlesville. Today he completed the 700 mile hop to Sydney, where he was greeted by a large and enthusiastic crowd.

Yesterday, Cobham saw his first kangaroo. He startled hundreds of people in the interior with his airplane. The airman reported that eight horses hitched to a wagon bolted while he was passing over and that on his last glimpse of them they were galloping toward the horizon.

Several women settlers came hundreds of miles to Camooweal to see the plane. One of them held up a baby and exclaimed "He came, too," which delighted the flyer. Cobham is en route to Melbourne.

UNEQUAL TREATIES WITH POWERS WILL NOT BE RENEWED BY CHINA

Other Signatories Will Be Asked For More Equitable Terms.

LAPSE OTHERWISE.

Delegate Says Chinese Will No Longer Tolerate Interference.

By HENRY WOOD.

GENEVA, Aug. 6—(United Press).—China will never renew any of the unequal treaties that have made her virtually a slave to the other powers.

As fast as these treaties expire, the power concerned will be asked to renew them on a basis of equality and reciprocity.

If the other signatory refuses to revise them, then they will simply not be renewed and will be allowed to elapse.

In pursuance of this policy, China has already notified the Belgian Government of the expiration of the existing treaty that was entered into by both countries in the old days.

These are statements in reply to questions raised in an exclusive interview given the United Press by Dr. Chao-Hsin-Chu, Chinese Minister in Rome and Chief Chinese delegate to the League of Nations.

It was Chao-Hsin-Chu, who, in response to an attack by the British delegate at the public meetings of the league's Opium Commission last June, said that China no longer would tolerate foreign interference and that eventually she may be compelled to tear up the unequal treaties.

"It is worth recalling," said Dr. Chu, "that Dr. Alfred Sze, former Chinese Minister at Washington, and who has since been appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs at Peking, declared recently in a remarkable speech at Brooklyn, N. Y., that China has the perfect right under international law to denounce all of the unequal treaties.

"As regards the opium question, we are now working in conformity with the 1912 Hague convention and we refuse absolutely to permit any further foreign interference in our internal affairs. Foreign interference has been responsible for the bitter anti-foreign feeling that is growing up throughout China. The only remedy for this is either to have the existing treaties revised or to make entirely new treaties on the basis of quality and reciprocity.

"In the meantime we have already signed with Germany, Austria and Russia treaties on a basis of absolute equality in the place of those that existed before the war.

"We hope that the other powers which were China's allies in the World War will see their way clear to relinquish the extra-territorial rights and to grant China tariff autonomy.

"Without the right to our own import duties, it is not possible to raise enough money to establish a stable central government. The present tariff rate of five per cent. fixed under the unequal treaties, if allowed to continue, would make China's financial position more and more difficult. I dare say that present political chaos in China has been largely due to her financial handicap resulting from the existing treaties.

"Unless the central government has sufficient means to maintain its domain and dignity, it simply means that China will be broken up into a number of separate, provincial governments, with whom it will be impossible for the foreign powers to deal in enforcing their treaty rights. Public opinion runs very high in China nowadays, particularly against the unequal treaties.

"If the foreigners continue to enjoy their extraordinary political and economic privileges and immunities, the Chinese opposition thereto will reach a degree where it will gradually render the situation impossible for such 'super aliens' to carry on their business in the country, with the result that the unequal treaties will be of no use whatsoever."

When asked whether China would expect to become a great military power, Chao-Hsin-Chu declared that China is already quite a military power.

"We have already a million and a half soldiers under modern arms," he added. "They have been engaged in civil wars to date, and we Chinese think there is not much disadvantage in such fighting as it really constitutes only a sort of manoeuvre of inexperienced soldiers who are thus being trained for national defense in the near future. Confucious taught that brothers might fight each other within their own borders, yet should be united for defense against any menace from the outside. The Chinese nowadays are very patriotic and they are united whenever facing outsiders."

MEN FINED.

Supplied Liquor To Two Girls Under Eighteen Years.

TORONTO, August 11 (Canadian Press).—Charged with supplying liquor to two girls under the age of 18 years, Roy Wolfrom, Oshawa, was fined $300 and costs, or two months in jail in police court to-day. Ephriam Lindsay, Toronto, similarly charged, was fined $50 and costs or one month in jail. The case was the outcome of a party at the home of Gladys Guerin here, when she and Nora Connolly became violently ill and had to be removed to the hospital.

AIRPLANE CRASHES.

Passenger Suffers Severe Injuries When On Air Tour.

BROCKVILLE, August 11 (Canadian Press).—When an airplane in which he was riding struck a tree and crashed to the ground at Alexandria Bay, N.Y., yesterday, George Jarvis, 74, who lives five miles west of Brockville, at Lyn, Leeds County, was seriously injured. He passed a good night, however, and his condition is much more favorable to-day. The airplane, the name of the pilot of which has not been learned, was making a tour of the Thousand Island with Jarvis and a small boy as passengers. The lad escaped with slight bruises.

MA FERGUSON REMAINS IN RACE

Says Attorney General Never Accepted Her Offer To Resign.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 11 Canadian Press).—Governor "Ma" Ferguson today declared she was in the race for Governor of Texas "with all my heart." In a statement she said her chief opponent, Attorney-General Dan Moody, never had accepted her offer to resign.

LONDON (United Press).—The tactics of Abraham Lincoln, who, more than 70 years ago, brought an almanac to court to disprove evidence given against his client, were recently used in the Law Courts here in modern form.

While Lincoln proved by the almanac that the moon was not shining on the night that the crime was committed, as was contended by one witness, a lawyer in a divorce proceeding here called one of the Astronomers Royal of the Greenwich Observatory to prove that the moon on a particular night had not risen at the hour stated.

His testimony that there was not sufficient light at the time to distinguish objects was accepted by the court.

A good newspaper contains plenty of two kinds of news: one variety tells about the day's happenings to people near and far; the other deals with news about things to wear, eat and enjoy. Read the advertisements.

DID NOT DISCUSS VOTE OF CENSURE

Liberal Leader Says Resignation Had Nothing To Do With Censure.

EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 11 (Canadian Press)—"My resignation had nothing to do with censure," declared Right Hon. Mackenzie King here last night. "The question of a posisble vote of censure was never mentioned in conversations between His Excellency and 'my self," he added emphasizing this phase of his speech in reply to repeated questions from large audience. At Westaskiwin, south of here earlier in the evening, Mr. King appealed for truce on personalities in party warfare.

Referring to change in government Mr. King said every single man who supported Prime Minister who usurped office by trying to put over fake government, does not deserve to be returned. I say a man who will do that will do anything.

HON. GEORGE BOIVIN BURIED TO-DAY

Rests Beside the Bodies of His Parents at Granby.

GRANBY, Que., Aug. 11 (Canadian Press)—Attended by the sorrowing relatives and representatives of the Governor General, late Parliament, political colleagues and the Quebec bar the remains of the late Hon. George P. Boivin, ex-Minister of Customs, were brought to his birth place this morning and after the mass at the parish church were committed to the grave, where the body will rest beside those of Mr. Boivin's mother and father.

BAILIEBORO WINS.

In Close Game Defeats Garden Hill 7 To 6.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 11. — On Saturday evening the Bailieboro baseball team motored to Garden Hill and played a game of hard ball against the Garden Hill nine. The game was a most interesting one throughout featured by good playing on both sides, both pitchers getting fine support from the fielders.

The line-up for Bailieboro was as follows: A. Deyell, p; F. Barnard, 1b; B. H. Barnard, rf; A. Dawson, 2b; C. Barnard, 3b; B. V. Jewison, ss; K. Barnard, cf; D. Lang, lf; H. Dean, c; G. Harper and K. Lang, subs.

Garden Hill.—F. Banister, 1b; S. Dunbar, c; D. Munroe, lf; J. Cantril, cf; S. Mercer, p; W. Brynes, 2b; C. Cantril, 3b; S. Cruthers, rf; A. Mercer, ss; J. Wardell, sub.

Score by innings:
Bailieboro.... ....000250—7
Garden Hill.... ....003201—6

S. Mercer walloped a home run in the last inning; unfortunately for Garden Hill there were no men on bases, while in the second last inning, D. Long for Bailieboro put a fine fly out over the centre fielder's head, scoring two men and reaching third base himself.

Umpires were Campbell at plate, and Grey in the field.

LITTLE HOPE REMAINS OF SAFETY OF CREW OF FISHING SCHOONER WRECKED ON SABLE ISLAND BAR

Belief Strengthened That 25 Men on "Sylvia Mosher" Lost Their Lives.

NO TRACE FOUND.

Another Vessel Reaches Port Badly Damaged in Same Storm.

HALIFAX, August 12. — Canadian Press. — Radio messages flashing in from the waste of waters around Sable Island this morning, failed to bring the hoped for tidings that 25 Nova Scotia fishermen, members of the Lunenburg Hand mer Sylvia Mosher, had been found.

But on the contrary all the information available from those in a position to know something of what happened in that storm ridden section of the Atlantic last Saturday and Sunday strengthens the belief that the piling up of the schooner on the North Bar last Tuesday night was the culmination of one of the worst tragedies in the recent history of the Nova Scotia fishing fleet.

Yesterday the Lunenburg fishing schooner, Mary Ruth, limped into her home port with nine of her crew requiring medical attention, and all her deck gear gone, reporting a miraculous escape from Saturday night's storm at almost the same spot on Sable Island on which the Sylvia Mosher found her last resting place. Members of the crew saw nothing of the Sylvia Mosher or had they heard of her fate until they reached their home port.

EDERLE OFFERED MANY POSITIONS

Won't Accept Anything Out of Her Real Character, Says Attorney.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (United Press).—Although Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English Channel, has received movie and commercial offers worth a fortune, she will not accept any offers "out of her real character," according to Dudley Field Malone, her attorney, who has returned from Europe.

"Gertrude was forced to turn professional," Malone said. "She tried to raise funds to pay her expenses and when she failed I advanced her $5,000, which she insisted should be a loan."

Monument Planned.

BOULOGNE, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Gertrude Ederle is to be honored as the first woman to swim the English Channel by the erection of a monument at Cape Gris-Nez. The proprietor of the Gris-Nez Hotel has given a site for the monument.

Only Cave Railway In Europe Now Runs In Swiss Grottoes

GENEVA, Aug. 12.—A strange little underground railway has just been opened at the village of Postumia, near Trieste, by an Italian company. It is an underground narrow-gauge line, seven miles long, with a miniature locomotive and small cars capable of transporting 250 tourists at a time to visit the famous ancient grottoes which abound around the new railway.

For many years tourists visiting this spot have complained that they could not visit the grottoes in one day, and have expressed fears that they might be lost in the labyrinths. Now visitors will be safe, because eight trains daily will take them through the grottoes and guides are provided for them if they wish to go off the main line and continue their explorations.

It is the only cave railway in Europe and it is largely patronized.

REPORT MADE ON LIQUOR CASE

Officials of Ontario Government Confer With Attorney General.

NO STATEMENT.

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press.—Frank P. Brennan, solicitor to the Attorney-General's Department, who has been investigating at Border points, to-day submitted a voluminous report to the Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General of Ontario, in connection with the Crown's activities in tracing the shipment of poison alcohol which caused more than a score of deaths in the province. With Mr. Brennan were General V. A. S. Williams, Commissioner of the Provincial Police, and Alfred Cuddy, Deputy Commissioner. The contents of the report were not made public by the Attorney-General.

The officials of the department had a protracted conference with Hon. Mr. Nickle, at which the Crown's case was subjected to review and additional reports were submitted by police officers. Following the conference Attorney-General Nickle refused to make any statement as to what had transpired.

In Police Court to-day R. H. Greer, K.C., counsel for Max Wurtzman, one of the Toronto men held in custody without bail on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of William Maybee and Mrs. Olive Guertin here, made a plea for bail, but his request was refused by Magistrate Browne.

The Crown Attorney and Coroner from North Bay and Provincial Constable Knight of Parry Sound are in Loring Township, in the Muskoka district, to-day in connection with deaths reports from there from drinking poison liquor.

Pennsylvania has more hunters than any other State, judging by the number of licenses.

Cowboys Visit Chicago Wish They Had Their Guns

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (United Press)—Real cowboys from the western plains and a few Indians in war-paint have been in Chicago this week to take part in a rodeo.

Here is a list of entertainment supplied these rugged visitors by the drug store cowboys of the "Loop" district:

1—Three murders.
2—One street battle on Michigan Boulevard.
3—One taxicab race with guns popping.
4—A renewal of beer gang feuds.
5—Two saloons "shot up."

"Maybe we should have brought our irons with us," commented E. D. Jackson, Wyoming broncho buster.

FRENCH CABINET ADJOURNS AFTER EVENTFUL YEAR

CLOSED TILL FALL.

Appointed Committee To Examine Question of Inter-Allied Debts.

PARIS, August 12 (Canadian Press).—After having decided the fate of seven Premiers and eight Finance Ministers in the course of a year, Parliament adjourned last evening with Premier Poincare "the cock of the walk."

The adjournment will continue probably until the middle of October and leaves the question of the inter-allied debts to examination by specially appointed sub-committees of the Chamber's Finance and Foreign Affairs Committee during the two months' recess.

M. Dariac, chairman of the Chamber's financial sub-committee studying the debts, has been promised by Premier Poincare the complete documents of the London and Washington debt accords, as well as all details regarding the original circumstances of the contracting of those engagements. These documents, at the same time, will be communicated to M. Franklin Boullion, chairman of the sub-committee of the Foreign Affairs Committee.

M. Dariac who was a Minister in the short-lived government of M. Ribot, in 1914, and M. Herriot, this year, declared last night that he hoped to convoke his committeemen by the middle of September. The other sub-committee wil be convoked soon after.

Premier Poincare, reading the decree of closure in the Chamber last evening, replied: "That is a secret of the future," when a deputy from the Left asked when Parliament would be re-assembled. He was equally non-committal regarding a rumor that he had made an incognito visit to Alsace Lorraine in order to combat an autonomous movement there and to work out beneficent changes in the regime under which the restored provinces are now governed.

Refreshed by Tuesday's victory in the National Assembly, at Versailles on the sinking fund amendment, Premier Poincare let it be known that the senators and deputies will have plenty of work when they reconvene in the fall. He expects then to "jump through the hoop" and to ratify all the economic decrees the government may decide upon.

The Communists, who were vociferously inclined at the National Assembly Tuesday, were given short treatment by the Chamber yesterday. M. Doriot's protest against the Moroccan campaign, M. Cachin's interpellation on inter-allied debts and M. Berthon's interpellation on the Syrian situation, were summarily squelched.

The Senate has elected Senator Milan as its representative on the newly constituted sinking fund board, while the Chamber has named Deputy Landry, former Minister of Marine, its representative.

THOUSANDS PAY HOMAGE TO FORMER CABINET MEMBER

Many of His Former Colleagues Attend Funeral at Granby.

OFFICIALS PRESENT

Industries Close as Last Tribute To Their Fellow Citizen.

GRANBY, Que., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Through the sunlit streets through which he had roamed as a child, and from the home—a fine old-fashioned cottage set back from the street—in which he had been born, the body of the late Hon. George H. Boivin was borne yesterday to the church, and from there he was laid in the cemetery of his ancestors, his brilliant political and social career at an end except for those memories of him which will remain with those with whom he had been associated in the 44 years of an active life.

The main city of the County of Shefford showed appreciation of the fact that he had been one of its most faithful sons, for greater still than the homage paid by men who had sat with him in high seats, greater than the tribute of those with whom he had been associated in the Knights of Columbus, was the tribute of his own, neighbors of Granby. This town of some 7,000 souls had but one thought this morning, and that was the funeral of an old friend gone long before his time, and their closed shops and offices, factories and mills. His neighbors honored him at death in manner more striking than the most stately ceremonies could have done.

From Montreal there was a special train bearing some 200 friends, and en route other delegations joined. Many others from Montreal and from various other parts of the province came by motor and train, or by other means.

The body was at the family home, situated along the chief street of Granby, opposite to City Hall Square. The crowds gathered along the street before the house, filled the square, and waited for the commencement of the procession. It was much the same only a few months ago, last fall, when friends gathered from various parts of the province at the same places to greet the member for Shefford, then called into the Mackenzie King Government, and when during the evening there was a public demonstration in the square.

His Excellency the Governor-General, Baron Byng of Vimy, was represented by Colonel Henri Chasse, D.S.O., M.C., A.A. and G.M.G. Military District No. 4.

The Prime Minister of Canada was represented by L. J. Gauthier, in addition to the personal telegram of sympathy sent; the Leader of the Opposition by William H. Measures, Private Secretary to the Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, and the Province of Quebec was represented by Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer.

The Knights of Columbus came from his own lodge of Granby, from various parts of the Eastern Townships, from Montreal, and to add the final touches the Supreme Council, headed by James A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight, and other members of the Supreme Council were present.

When the long procession had wended its way from the Boivin home to the church, the body was received by Mgr. Deschamps, Auxiliary Bishop of Montreal. Mgr. Decelles, Bishop of St. Hyacinthe, was unable to be present, being in Europe, and to represent him was the Rev. Canon Duranleau, of the Cathedral, and Mgr. Choquette, also of St. Hyacinthe.

Mass was chanted by the Rev. Father L. P. Tanguay, Parish Priest of Malboro, Mass., a classmate of the dead man, while the Rev. Father O. Bousquet, Vicar of Berlin, New Hampshire, acted as deacon, and Father Langevin, S.J., as sub-deacon. The Mass was that of Perosi, with full choir. At the lateral altars, Masses were said by Father Eugene Moreau, of Montreal, a cousin of the deceased, and the Rev. Father Marcellin.

The honorary pall-bearers were the Hon. Jas. A. Robb, the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. P. L. A. Cardin, Hon. E. M. McDonald, and Hon. Jacob Nichol, while the pall-bearers were Paul Mercier, ex-M.P. for St. Henry, Montreal; Theo. Rheamue, ex-M.P. for Jacques Cartier; Dr. C. A. Bernard, M.L.A. for Rouville; W. S. Bullock, M.L.A. for Shefford; E. W. Tobin, ex-M.P. for Richmond-Wolfe, and C. B. Howard, ex-M.P. for Sherbrooke.

BURIED YESTERDAY

Bootleggers Find Publicity An Aid To Their Business And Pay To Keep Stories of Liquor Thefts In Circulation

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (United News).—"Advertising agents for bootleggers." This sign doesn't appear in any American office building, but the bootleggers pay good money for effective publicity just the same, according to General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who has returned from Europe.

"A raid on a government warehouse is the greatest boom the bootleg industry can enjoy," he says. "Newspapers tell of the theft of 1,000 cases of well-known pre-war brands. The same afternoon, 1,000 business men go a little higher than the usual market price to get the best pre-war product. If they get a smell of the booze which was stolen from the warehouse, they are lucky. Meanwhile the bootlegger pays to keep the story of the raid alive."

ENTOMBED MEN RESCUED ALIVE

Five Men Trapped By Cave-in Last Thursday Are Brought Out.

ONE DELIRIOUS.

SALEM, Ky., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—All five miners who were imprisoned by a cave-in at Sudson Mine last Thursday were brought to the surface alive this morning.

Randolph Cobb was the first man to reach the top of the shaft. He called to the crowd which awaited anxiously: "Hello there, boys, I'm not sick."

Roy James, for whom little hope had been held, as he had been separated from the other miners when the cave-in occurred, was the next to appear.

George Castiller was third. He was delirious and is in a critical condition as the result of pneumonia.

U. B. Wilson was the fourth man, and Harry Watson, the last man to appear. Watson was in a hilarious mood. He called: "Where's my horse? I want to ride him home."

WRIT DENIED.

Whittemore's Attorney Fails in Appeal To Supreme Court Judge.

BEVERLEY FARMS, Mass., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—United States Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Homes to-day denied the application for a writ of error made by Attorney G. L. Pendleton in behalf of Richard Reese Whittemore, under sentence to hang tonight in Baltimore.

Pendleton's petition was for a writ of error on the denial of a writ of habeas corpus by Baltimore courts.

Movies and Novelties Suffer From Boycott

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — (United Press).—Effects of the Catholic boycott in Mexico are still being felt, Acting Commercial Attache George Wythe reported to the Department of Commerce from Mexico City.

Motion picture theatres, department and novelty stores are feeling the brunt of the strike, he said, although there is more effect in the interior than in the capital. He reported that practically all commodities are affected, particularly in the smaller towns. Automotive sales continue slight.

LACK OF SPACE ONLY HANDICAP OF EXHIBITION

Expansion Year Finds Out-of-Town Manufacturers Seeking Room.

BUILDING NEEDED

Amusements Arranged to Keep Face With Extensions Elsewhere.

This is expansion year for the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, and will be the first year that the Exhibition has stepped into the full week. Indications are for bigger and better things in all Departments, judging from the numerous inquiries and requests for prize lists to Secretary Fred Hall. This will be the third year for the Dog Show, and already, judging from the number of entries, extra accomodation will have to be provided.

Unfortunately, the Management is considerably handicapped owing to lack of available space in the Buildings, and many manufacturers from outside points, who have heard favorably of the growing local Exhibition, have had to be refused space on this account. However, it is to be hoped that this difficulty will soon be overcome by the erection of a fine new Building to augument those now located on the Grounds, which have become quite inadequate.

To keep pace with the general expansion in other Departments of the Exhibition, the Amusement end of the program is, this year, receiving special attention. The Chairman of the Amusement Committee having visited Toronto last week to take up the question of lighting the performance stand with Mr. H. D. May, Electrical Superintendent Canadian National Exhibition, and Mr. William Cahill, of Cahill Brothers of New York, whose firm makes a specialty of flood lighting, an order was placed with the New York firm for two of their monster flood lights, which should almost turn night into day for Exhibition week.

In front of the Grand Stand, Lamphams Red Hussar Band of Chicago will give afternoon and evening concerts during the entire week of the Exhibition, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Roderick. Lamphams Band is classed as one of the greatest novelty bands in existence today, and Miss Roderick is termed the girl with the golden voice. In addition to Miss Roderick other soloists are carried with the Band, so that local music lovers may look forward to something extraordinary in the way of entertainment. All the Acts in front of the Grand Stand this year will be of a very fine order, and the Board has gone to considerable extra expense to keep pace with the general expansion.

All that is required to make this Peterboro's Biggest Exhibition is fine weather, the President and Directors having taken every precaution to provide an attractive program for the entire week.

PISTOL BATTLE IN DETROIT CAFE

Two Men, Killed and Three People Are Wounded.

EARLY TO-DAY.

DETROIT, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Joe Gustella, 30, and an unidentified Italian were killed, and Miss Marian Lebes, 22, Lois Rosa, 40, and Marian Milito, 32, were seriously wounded in a pistol fight in a downtown cafe here early to-day.

Two automobile loads of men drove up to the cafe, opened fire on four men seated at the table, and then fled.

SESSIONS OF PRIORY CONCLUDE WITH GRANDMASTER'S ADDRESS AND ELECTION OF NEW OFFICERS

Burns' First Edition Is Found In Wall Of a Scotch Cottage

LONDON, Aug. 12.—On his return from sheep shearing several days ago a tenant on Auchencairn Farm, near Lamlash, Scotland, discovered what is believed to be a copy of the Kilmarnock edition of Burns when he put away his tools in a hole high in the wall of his cottage. The book was covered with dust and cobwebs.

Robert Burns' first volume of poems was published at Kilmarnock in 1786 and brought him a profit of $100. One copy of this edition in good shape today brings as much as $8,000. On the flyleaf of the copy just found was the name John McIntyre, who was the occupant of the house fifty years ago. The book was restored to his daughter, who remembered it and said its loss had often been lamented in her family.

ONTARIO VOTES END OF OCTOBER

Toronto Report Says Ferguson May Go To Province Then.

FEDERAL RESULT.

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—The voters of Ontario will go to the polls to elect a legislature on October 28 or November 4, with the latter date the odds-on favorite, a Toronto report states today.

"From a very reliable source it was learned this morning that a provincial election is inevitable, providing the Dominion election shows that Ontario is still strongly Conservative. The posibility of a reduction in the number of Conservative seats in the next House of Commons will result in bye-elections in the local house and another session before the plunge is taken."

"Prevented from going to the country in June when he so desired by reason of the turmoil in Dominion politics," the paper continues, "Premier Ferguson is now ready to take the jump as soon as the smoke has cleared away from the vicinity of Ottawa. Favorable results in Ontario from a Conservative standpoint will be the signal for an immediate general election in Ontario," it is stated.

CONSTABLE INJURED

Suffers Injury as a Result of a Boyish Prank.

KINGSTON, Aug. 12.—Last Hallowe'en several young men as a prank removed a cannon from one of the city parks and put it on the roadway. Constable William McKee, who was summoned, undertook with the help of some other officers, to put the cannon back in place. He suffered a rupture as a result, but remained on duty until yesterday, when he was forced to go into hospital for an operation.

McLEOD RE-ELECTED

A high note was struck in the closing session of the forty-third annual assembly of the Sovereign Great Priory Knights Templar of Canada yesterday in the appeal of Supreme Grand Master Lieut.-Col. George B. McLeod for understanding between all sections of Canada making "a united people, with a common heritage, a common ideal, and a desire for common help, and support."

Previous to the Grand Master's address, twenty-eight knights from St. Simon of Cyrene Preceptory No. 37, of Sarnia, paraded in Central Park in full regalia and performed marching manoeuvres which gave pleasure to a large crowd of spectators who had assembled to witness the colorful spectacle. The exercises were carried out with military precision, the entire body moving in mass formation with pleasing accuracy.

When the ballots were counted naming the officers that were chosen to guide the destinies of the Sovereign Great Priority for the year 1925-1927 it was found that a Peterboro man, J. G. M. Wilson of Moore Preceptory, had been elected to fill the position of Grand Constable.

Most of the members who had been in attendance left for their homes last night. Many of them were loud in their praises of the City of Peterboro, its citizens, and the manner in which they had been treated by the members of the local Preceptory. Ross Dobbin, who was general chairman of the arrangements committee, was warmly commended for his indefatigable efforts to minister to the comfort and convenience of the honored guests.

The text of Col. McLeod's address was:

To the Members of the Sovereign Great Priory of Canada:

My Dear Eminent Knights: It is with the greatest pleasure that I welcome you to this the Forty-third Annual Assembly of this Sovereign Great Priory. It is most gratifying to find so many of our members in attendance, proving that the interest in our Order continues to flourish in the hearts of the Sir Knights.

It is with feelings of pleasure mingled with disappointment that I submit to your consideration my report of stewardship for the past year. Pleasure, that I have been privileged to preside over this great body during that period, disappointment that I have not been able to accomplish many of the things that I had set as an objective. I desire to thank you for the great compliment paid me one year ago in electing me to the high office of Supreme Grand Master, than which there is no higher honor in this country of ours.

I desire to thank the preceptories and the Knights generally for the many courtesies extended to me during this year of office, while on my official visits, through Christmas messages, and in many other ways. In many cases I have not been able to reply as I would like to have done, but I desire at this time to give expression to my very deep appreciation.

I desire to thank the Past Supreme Grand Masters, the Grand Chancellor and other officers of Great Priory, for the kindly assistance, and advice tendered me at all times, making the work of this important office more pleasant, and more satisfactory.

I desire to thank the Knights of Moore Preceptory No. 13 of Peterboro for the gracious entertainment they are extending to us. It was left in my hands at Victoria to arrange a place of meeting. I am sure you will all join with me in appreciating the invitation from Moore Preceptory, bringing us as it does to the very heart of our Templar World in Canada. It is a pleasure to visit this lovely city, with all its industrial activity and beauty. Moore Preceptory derives its name from our first Right are Anton and Edwin, the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Chung, who did not accompany their parents.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE CAMERA

Miss Estelle Kerr, prominent Canadian artist and sculptress, who has just returned from a visit to France and Spain. Miss Kerr has brought back with her a number of sketches which she painted in the Basque country.

The lawn tennis champions of the last fifty years lined up before the King and Queen at the courts at Wimbledon a few days ago, and received their jubilee commemoration silver medals. This photo shows the French star, Suzanne Lenglen, receiving her medal from Queen Mary at the awarding ceremonies at Wimbledon. Mlle. Lenglen's name has been blazoned across the world as being one of the very few who have kept her majesty waiting. The Queen waited two hours to see her play.

The crypt of Canterbury cathedral, England, where in 1547 the Huguenots who fled to England to escape persecution, were allowed to set up their homes and looms. Here this month is being held the 397th anniversary of the founding of the congregation which still worships in the chapel, and a representative of the United Church of Canada was asked to preach on this occasion. Pictured also above is Rev. Jean R. Barnabas, formerly a Canadian pastor, who is "presbyter" of the congregation now worshipping in the cathedral crypt.

J. G. O'Donoghue, well-known counsel for Canadian Labor, who is going to the United States to join a law firm. He has long practised law in Toronto.

Charles Ponzi, said to be wanted in Florida and Massachusetts, who was arrested in New Orleans. "The financial wizard" was taken off the Italian steamer Sic non Vobis on which he had been serving as a seaman under the name of Luciani Andrea since June 8th, it was said.

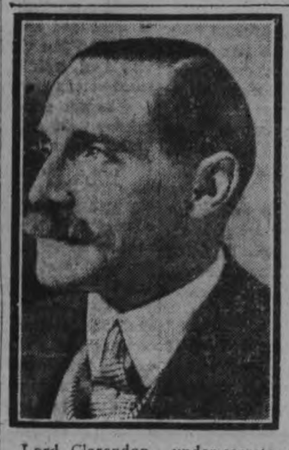
J. R. MacLaren, editor of the Barrie Examiner, Barrie, Ontario, who was elected president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at the recent convention in Quebec, and who won the Mason Trophy awarded to the most enterprising weekly paper in Canada.

Levi J. Clarke, well-known Canadian educationalist and former Toronto principal, who died recently. He received part of his early education in Ottawa.

Bishop Henson, of Durham, England, who is opposing a proposal to give Anglican bishops supreme power over the doctrine, discipline and usage of the church.

Rev. K. Y. Tang, Cantonese clergyman, who has come from China to take charge of the Cantonese mission at Montreal. He states that no attempt is being made to exclude the foreigner from China.

Captain Roald Amundsen, who, in Seattle, Wash., the other day on his way home from Alaska, declared he was through with polar flying. "I am tired and I want to go home," said the Arctic explorer. "I have been to the south pole, so why try to fly there?"



Lord Clarendon, under-secretary of state for the dominion in the Baldwin government, who is coming to Canada soon to study the conditions which immigrants encounter here. His Lordship is well known in Canada, having owned and operated a farm near Pickering, Ont., for some years.

Lieut.-Col. W. C. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., great Canadian war-time pilot, who after spending the last two years in Great Britain has returned to Canada to live, and will take up his residence in Toronto, where his wife is now residing.

THE ROYAL LIFE-SAVING SOCIETY.

(By Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, All Saints' Church, Official Examiner R.L.S.S.)

The weekly, almost daily, loss of human life in the summer months of each year at holiday resorts makes one wonder that no training is ever provided to make people not only safe in the water but also capable of rendering assistance to others who may be in difficulty.

The Royal Life-Saving Society, of which His Majesty the King is Patron, was founded in 1891, and their handbook of instruction had already reached fifteen editions by 1924.

The society aims at giving the very best instruction to swimmers, not only through its handbook, but also by encouraging classes for practical teaching and demonstration of life-saving methods. Seven grades of certificates and awards are offered each calling for a practical knowledge of the art and the requirements are by no means elementary.

For example, the bronze medallion, which is a suitable standard for average classes, age 14 and over, requires the candidate to swim 100 yards breast stroke and fifty yards back stroke without using hands. He or she must also carry another person in the water a distance of at least 20 yards each by four different methods, and must demonstrate ability to break loose from the grip of a supposedly drowning person, who will hold the rescuer first by the wrists, then round the neck and then round the body, pinning the arms to the body.

The candidate must also demonstrate ability to work under water at least five feet from the surface. In addition, a written examination on the theory of life-saving and resuscitation is required with demonstrations on land.

For the award of merit much more exacting work is required, including a swim of 600 yards fully clothed and high diving.

The society has had enthusiastic supporters both in England and throughout the Empire, and the distinguished physiologist professor, Sir E. Sharpey Schafer, F.R.S., of Edinburgh University, devised the method of resuscitation, which bears his name, now in general use, as a member of the R.L.S.S. committee, on which he served as an enthusiastic working member till the time of his death. George H. Corsan, Sr., the outstanding swimming instructor, teaches this system in his classes each year.

In Peterborough Miss Littlefield is an enthusiastic supporter of the society's work, and each year at the Y.W.C.A. she presents a large class to the official examiner. Unfortunately, nothing has been done among men and boys, and it would seem that among Scout troops and other boys' and men's organizations a useful work might be done. For a man or boy with average ability as a swimmer, little is needed to make one safe in the water. For the poor swimmer a little real knowledge may make all the difference between holding on till rescue comes and dropping off without a chance. The summer is passing, but before another swimming season comes round there is no reason why something could not be done.

GET THE IDEA.

The proposed bylaw calling on traffic to come to a complete stop before entering George or Charlotte from any of the other streets is one to be commended as being in the best interests of the community. It will protect the reckless driver who swings round the intersection trusting to luck that nothing untoward will happen; it will supplement the efforts of the careful motorist; and it will tend to promote the safety of the pedestrian.

The proposal is the outcome of much cogitation on ways and means of lessening the numerous collisions that have occurred at intersections on the streets of the city. Other municipalities, confronted with the same problem, have found a way out in this plan. Chief Newhall declares that he has heard nothing but the highest praise for the system in every town or city where it has been put into operation.

The success or failure of the new system will depend largely on the extent to which the motoring public co-operates with the authorities. It is impossible to have a policeman stationed at the corner all day, and drivers will often be placed on their honor to observe the letter and the spirit of the new regulation. If they resent the restriction and seek to evade it when they think it possible to do so and yet escape a fine, the good results expected will be tardy in appearing.

No doubt the regulation may be enforced to a certain degree by the strong arm of the law, but a sweet reasonableness and spirit of ready compliance on the part of the citizens will be much more effective in making the measure a success.

It is well to remember that the purpose is to lessen the risk of every motorist who uses our streets. The convenience and safety of the public is the underlying idea.

Chief Newhall's suggestion that the public put the proposal into practice right away before it is actually passed by the Council is a good one. By doing so the public could become used to the new method.

Get the idea.

ANOTHER BIG GATHERING.

Yesterday saw the close of the assembly here of the Great Priory, Knights Templar, and hundreds of people gathered in the park to witness the splendid exhibition of drill that closed the public displays. Peterborough was glad to welcome the Knights Templar, who came from all over the Dominion, and hopes that they carry away as pleasant memories of their visit as Peterborough retains.

The next gathering of importance in the social calendar for this year is the inter-club picnic of Kiwanis Clubs, sponsored by the Peterborough club, which is entertaining representatives from Kingston, Belleville, Barrie, Orillia, Toronto, West Toronto, Ottawa, Riverdale and Lindsay. The gathering is to be graced by the presence of the Governor of the Ontario-Quebec district, H. Stanley Higman, of Ottawa, and other officers high in the organization are also to be present.

To this organization, too, Peterborough extends a twofold welcome, first because of what the organization accomplishes, and second, because it includes the leading business men in the centres from which the representation is to be drawn. The work of Kiwanis Club in Peterborough is well known; many families have found life easier because of kindnesses of this organization; many an underprivileged child is now on the high road to success and worth-while living because Kiwanis took a hand in his need. And the goodwill to be built up through the visit of executives of many influential firms is inestimable.

Peterborough merchants should show that they appreciate the worth of these visits by displaying their flags on Wednesday next. It is a nice courtesy.

VOTER! THINK OF THE FUTURE!

"The time was never so opportune as the present for the assertion of a citizenship which thinks more of the future of our country than of the past of political parties, however ancient or powerful they may have been." This is a quotation from a pamphlet sent out by the Ontario Prohibition Union. It is as the extract may be applied to politics generally that The Examiner quotes it, and, indeed, there is no particularly temperance application made in the leaflet.

No matter how great or how powerful a party may have been in the past; no matter how successful its policies have been; no matter how well its administrations suited the needs of other days, what the electors of today must look to is the future of Canada. What is the ultimate end of the plans of this party or that? If followed to their logical conclusion, shall these projects lead Canada to her place in the forefront of the countries of the world, or shall they lead to stagnation and decay?

All parties have made mistakes, or they have been very weak, ineffective organizations indeed, and some of the mud which each throws should hit itself. If this fact could be realized by excited electioneers they could then begin to discuss real issues with better temper and more light, and proceed to elect representatives who will devote themselves to the national service on national lines.

In Ontario alone there are more than a million voters who have not been enfranchised ten years. Of these 850,000 are women and 200,000 are men under thirty years of age—altogether more than two-thirds of the electorate. These decisive elements in every constituency have no responsibility for political conditions which all parties regret. They have no cause to carry on political quarrels for the reasons, or by any of the methods, which have too much discredited the dead past.

Canada's destiny is in the future. Her people should forget mistakes of the past and look to the promise of the years to come. They should overlook errors in judgment made by parties, and vote for the upbuilding of Canada. Vote intelligently after carefully thinking over Canada's problems.

THE PEOPLE'S EXHIBITION.

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is this year aspiring to new heights, and will, for the first time, cover a full week. As is reported in another column, there are many more inquiries regarding exhibits than ever before, doubtless attracted by the record-making attendance of last year.

One of the unfortunate things in connection with the Exhibition is the fact that manufacturers in other centres have been refused show space because of inadequate accomodation. Having learned of the expansion in Peterborough Exhibition, they approached the management without invitation or cajolery, only to be turned away.

Peterborough City and Peterborough merchants and manufacturers spend a large sum yearly in advertising this city and its wares. They go to great trouble and expense just to bring the word "Peterborough" to the attention of people in other parts of the Dominion. And then, when prominent manufacturers are attracted, they find the cupboard bare. We are unable to give them what they want.

Peterborough Exhibition is the people's exhibition. It is run by a citizens' board composed of men who receive no remuneration for difficult services. Its profits, if any, go into a fund for expansion. It brings into the city farmers from the county and from adjoining counties, to see the benefits Peterborough City offers. It brings exhibits of what other cities are doing. The Exhibition is made by the people, for the people.

And now, when money is needed for expansion so that it can be made bigger and more useful, it is up to the people to see that the money is supplied—by joining up at a cost of two dollars a person.

DOWN ON EDUCATION.

A polish landowner's will prohibits education to his heirs. He had a son, who became a student revolutionary, and in consequence he conceived a bitter prejudice against literacy. Under the will, the grandson must learn neither reading nor writing in order to inherit the fortune devised to him.

It is not so long ago that education was generally opposed on the ground that it unfitted men and women for the employments of life, and that opposition is by no means at an end today. On the other hand, the theory that education improves either the character or the industry of its beneficiaries has not worked out to anything like 100 per cent. valid. The question whether a college course betters the chances of livelihood and success is still debated, and there are not a few thoughtful people who believe that intellectual training merely sharpens the talents for more competent cussedness.

It was a favorite prod with Mr. Bryan that the prisons were full of college graduates. When Robert Raikes opened his kitchen schools in Gloucester, England, in 1780, there was a rumble of hostile comment all over the country; and it is a singular fact that his principal support at first came from the landowners in the neighborhood, who thought that the schools might lessen the number of youthful marauders who went out from the town in parties to steal the farmers' apples and pillage their property.

The idea that every boy and girl must learn to read and write is, perhaps, the latest arrival among the urges of civilized society. It is so recent, in fact, that it is still far from a practical adjustment to the other and more practical aims of life. In other words, we don't yet know exactly how to make education gear in with the business of making a living. That education plants revolutionary impulses in the student mind, as the Polish landowner believed, is not theory. It is fact, as student revolutionary movements all over Europe have repeatedly shown. But in free countries the tendency has been just the other way, until now it is the policy of most States to educate for good citizenship and political stability.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for wheat on the Montreal market yesterday showed no improvement, but the inquiry for oats and barley continued steady and a moderate amount of business was worked. The domestic market for car lots of Canadian Western oats was weaker in sympathy with Winnipeg and prices were reduced 1-2 cent per bushel.

The flour trade was featured by the stronger feeling that developed in winter wheat grades and prices were advanced 10 cents per barrel. This was attributed to the scarcity of supplies and the improved demand.

On the other hand, spring wheat grades of flour were inclined to be easier, but values showed no change. The trade volume was small.

Prices for all grades of millfeed were well maintained under a good demand. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was firm, but the volume of business was small.

A moderate amount of business was worked in eggs and the undertone to the market was firm owing to the scarcity of supplies. The receipts were 1,904 cases.

The export and local trade in butter was again inactive and prices were inclined to be easier. The receipts were 489 packages.

The cheese market was dull and featureless and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 6,049 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAINS

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Wheat suffered a big drop in prices yesterday, chiefly owing to 71,000,000 bushels enlargement of the government estimate of domestic wheat production. Closing quotations for wheat were unsettled, 2 7-8 cents to 3 1-2 cents net lower, corn 1-2 to 1 1-8 down, oats 1 to 1 1-8 off and provisions showing 5 cents to 32 cents decline.

Assertions that the Canadian government crop estimate is far too low, added to the market weakness engendered by the latest United States official figures on the total wheat yield in this country.

Announcement that the world exportable surplus of wheat had been estimated by a British authority yesterday at 768,000,000 against 752,000,000 a year ago, tended further to reduce buying power and to depress that market. Besides, exporters' bids for American wheat were stated as being at 1 cent lower basis, with Europeans giving attentions mainly wheat already afloat. Vessel room was chartered here, however, for 660,000 bushels of wheat to go to Montreal, 320,000 bushels to go to Buffalo.

Heavy profit taking sales weakened the corn market, but not until after both December and May corn had both touched a new high price record for the session. The temporary upturn was due to the government's corn harvest forecast having been reduced 84,000,000 bushels from last month's estimate. Oats were weak on account of the government report as to oats being less bullish than was looked for.

Provisions went lower, in line with hog values.

STERLING EXCHANGE

Sterling demand $4.84 7-8.
Sterling cables $4.85 3-8.

It was necessary to call out a strong force of police before order was restored.

DR FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

THE DEMON FLOWER

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Sara Graham-Mulhall, formerly director of New York's state narcotic drug control, calls the opium poppy the "demon flower." She is engaged in the movement to educate the country respecting drug addition.

This plant may well be called by this name. It is one of the most deadly menaces to humanity in existence, and like all deadly menaces it may be of use.

Opium is like fire. When it is properly controlled it is a valuable servant for the people. Fire in stoves and in furnaces supplies the motive power and comfort of the people. Fire uncontrolled devastates woodlands and cities.

So it is with opium. When it was discovered it was thought to be one of the greatest boons to humanity. It could render a person insensible to pain in certain crises.

It was found, however, that its real value was offset by its danger. Opium strikes at the thing most necessary in the human being. It saps the will and blunts the moral sense.

A person who has come under the influence of this drug is no longer responsible. Often you cannot restrain him, for the law will not permit it. He really is a dangerous man and needs looking after.

A recent writer in public service says that he remembers "a boyhood principal who was an addict, a physician addict, two reporter addicts, a mother addict, and a pastor addict whose tragic descent was the kind of thing it is easy to prove impossible."

The approaches to this subserviency are very subtle and a man's power over himself is gone before he know it. His downfall is very difficult to stop.

Some plan ought to be adopted to control the supply of opium in the world and limit it to strictly medical purposes. It probably is the outstanding menace to the human race.

"CONTEMPTIBLE."

"Do you know that fellow Jones?"

"Yes, and I have a very contemptible opinion of him."

The second speaker should have said, "I have a very low opinion of him," or, In my opinion, he is beneath contempt." When he said, "I have a very contemptible opinion of him," he declared that his, the speaker's, opinion was contemptible, or beneath contempt. An old story says that a man once said to Dr. Parr, "Sir, I have a contemptible opinion of you." "That does not surprise me," returned the doctor: all your opinions are contemptible."

Alfred Ayres, who tells the foregoing story in "The Verbalist," declares that what is worthless or weak is contemptible, and that that word is used sometimes for contemptuous, "Despicable" is a word that expresses a still more intense degree of the word contemptible. A traitor is a despicable character, while a poltroon is only contemptible.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

GIVE ME THIS.

Give me this, and much I'll miss
And never miss at all:
Give me just a friend to trust,
Whatever fates befall.
Winds will blow and bring the snow,
And summer's at an end:
But each hour has still a flow'r
To him who has a friend.

Give me that and where I'm at
Won't matter very much.
Folks don't care for silk to wear
Who have a hand to touch.
Learned men may scorn me then,
The rich may pass me by:
But wiser than the wisest man,
And richer far, am I.

Give me this and gold I'll miss
And never call it loss;
By the gold that hearts can hold
All the rest is dross.
Fame is frail, and gold will fail,
And fortune prove untrue;
I'll be glad if I have had
Just one such friend as you.

Give me that when life is flat
And none need give me wine;
Naught can fill the miser's till
One half as full as mine.
Give me fame or give me blame,
Or give me woe or bliss,
Give me fair or poor to wear,
But, Heaven, give me this!

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

WHAT THE PUBLIC DEMANDS

Here is a quotation that, to the unthinking mind, is the dream of the dreamer. To the thoughtless it is the most impractical idea or ideal ever traced on paper. It sounds like a silly and worthless rule to some, but it is the most far-seeing sentence in all salesmanship.

"If any would be first among you, let him be your servant."

The whole world waited nearly two thousand years before business and profession got the full text of this thought.

True, we have twisted and turned this thought over and over again and written it in a thousand ways, but the secret of business or professional success is all there in that one sentence.

Just modernize the word "servant" and you have Service, and "Service" is exactly what the public demands.

SEAPLANE DESCENDS CAUSES EXCITEMENT

MARMORA, Aug. 12.—The descent of a seaplane into Bonter's Cove on Monday afternoon excited much interest in the neighbourhood. The machine proved to be one owned by the Fairchild Aerial Surveys of Canada, Limited, whose aerodrome is situated at Grand Mere, Quebec. Kenneth F. Saunders, pilot, is accompanied on his photographic survey by W. Kahre, photographer. Overnight these gentlemen stayed at the Royal Hotel, expecting to continue their flight early on Tuesday. This is their third flight over this district. The Cove was visited Monday evening by a large number of residents. The mechanism of the machine was viewed with great interest.

TO HOLD CONVENTION

W. M. S. to Hold Sectional Meeting in Omemee This Fall.

OMEMEE, Aug. 12.—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United church was held at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon. There were about thirty ladies present, including visitors and members. Mrs. E. W. Rowland presided. The Scripture lesson found in Proverbs 23, was read by Mrs. J. Shields, followed by prayer by Mrs. R. Poast.

The secretary read a communication from Miss Duncon, president of the Lindsay Presbyterial, with reference to the sectional convention which is being planned to be held in Omemee during the month of September. A letter from Mr. W. Reesor, of Lindsay, regarding the banquet spoken of at an earlier date to be given to the Lindsay and Peterborough Rotarians, was received and if convenient to both societies, may be held in the early fall.

A communication from Mrs. MacGillvary, secretary of the missionary monthly, was read regarding the appointment of a secretary for same in this society and accordingly Mrs. J. Widdis accepted the appointment.

A letter from Mrs. H. B. Feir, of Haliburton, the superintendent of the Christian Stewardship department, was read by the corresponding secretary, which stated that in order to maintain the work already undertaken, an increase of 8 p.c. over last year's givings would be necessary for the Omemee society. This was afterwards explained by the president, Mrs. E. W. Rowland.

A committee to be responsible for the programme for each meeting for the next three months was appointed in the persons of Mrs. Robert Wilson and Miss N. Rutherford.

The programme, to be given in the Sunday school the first Sunday in September, along missionary lines is in charge of Mrs. J. Shields.

Power was given to the committee in charge to purchase yarn and other material if necessary to commence work for the annual bazaar.

A devotional leaflet entitled, "The Genuineness of Prayer," was given by Miss A. Neill.

As the president explained in her opening remarks, owing to the coming election much stress was to be laid upon Temperance throughout the programme.

A splendid paper was then given by Mrs. Charles McCarey on 'Christianity and the Liquor Traffic.'

Mrs. E. W. Rowland favored the gathering with a piano solo to the pleasure of all.

Before closing, Rev. E. W. Rowland spoke a few words on Temperance and briefly referred to the conditions in England as he found them during his short sojourn there.

The meeting closed in the usual manner, after which a social half hour was enjoyed with Mrs. S. T. Wilson, Mrs. R. Poast and Mrs. I. Fee as hostesses.

TWO PRIESTS AND SEVERAL CITIZENS EXECUTED AS A RESULT OF RELIGIOUS RIOTS IN MEXICO

Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiy Flores in Reporting to the Archbishopric Stated That They Were Charged With Being Leaders of Rebellious Mobs.

BY ORDER OF MILITARY AUTHORITIES

First Battle Lasted for a Day in Town of Zahuayo Between Soldiers and Residents During Which Fifty Were Killed.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Archbishop Leopoldo Ruizy Flores, who has arrived from Michoacan, has informed the Archbishopric that two Catholic priests and between 27 and 37 Catholic citizens were executed by the military authorities on August 1 and 2 on a charge of heading an uprising growing out of the religious situation.

The Archbishop reported that the disturbances occurred in three towns in the States of Michoacan and Guanajuato. A battle between soldiers and citizens lasted for a day in the town of Zahuayo, Michoacan. The Bishop estimated that probably about 50 persons were killed in the battle. The other two towns where disturbances occurred were Acambaro and Irapuato in the State of Guanajuato.

Archbishop Ruizy Flores said that the people of Zahuayo refused to deliver the Catholic churches to the municipal of committees appointed to take them over after the priests had ceased to function on July 31. A group of 50 soldiers arrived from a nearby garrison and were fired upon by the people, who took up positions in the church towers and house roofs and engaged in a day's exchange of shots. The next day federal reinforcements arrived and subdued the Catholics. The soldiers then executed two priests and the leaders of the citizens.

The Archbishop said that the people of Acambaro also refused to turn over their churches. Two visiting government engineers, who attempted to assist the local officials, were killed by the crowd and their bodies hacked almost to pieces. The priests vainly appealed to the crowd to desist. Federal troops then arrived and executed three, and possibly more, of the leaders. All Catholic priests fled and the authorities are searching for them.

The Archbishop said at Irapuato, a Mexican Protestant woman taunted the Catholics as their services ceased, whereupon the crowd killed her and then set fire to several residences of Protestants. Federal troops then arrived and executed three or four leaders of the mob.

After these troubles, Archbishop Ruizy Flores reported, the States of Michoacan and Guanajuato became quiet. He said that he himself had not fled to Mexico City, but was merely here to discuss matters with the Episcopate.

ALSIKE GOOD.

It Is Expected To Yield From Five To Eight Bushels.

BAILIEBORO, Aug. 12—Haying is almost completed in this district and harvest is now in full swing.

The weather during the past week has been somewhat backward for the farmers to get their alsike in a fit condition to put into the barns. Farmers who have already threshed a portion of their alsike have found it to be yielding exceptionally well this year. In the majority of cases it is expected it will yield from five to eight bushels to the acre, with occasional exceptions.

Mrs. C. Dawson and daughter, May, of Toronto, are the guests of the former's son, Mr. F. Dawson.

Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Dainard and daughter Grace of Saskatchewan are visiting friends in this district, having motored from Saskatchewan, a trip of twenty-six hundred miles.

Mrs. W. Fell of Peterborough spent the week-end the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Greer.

Miss Verna Fell spent Sunday the guest of Miss Mildred White.

HAS LEG AMPUTATED

Result of Running Needle Into Knee Some Years Ago.

KINGSTON, Aug. 12. — George O'Neill, of Napanee, was brought to the General Hospital to have his left leg amputated. While in California a few years ago he ran a needle in his knee. It was some months before the trouble was located, and after the needle was removed his knee joint was stiff, causing him to walk with a limp. In Detroit two months ago he was hit by an auto and his leg broken. Ever since it has caused him trouble, and after a consultation with doctors, they advised amputation.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

Report Says That Fires Along Coast Are Nearly Extinguished.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press.)— Every forest fire in the British Columbia Coast district has been extinguished or brought under control, reports to the headquarters of the Forestry Service here yesterday showed.

Fires, however, are still devastating large areas in the interior of the province. South of Nelson, in the Salmon River Valley, fires were out of control and racing into new territory this afternoon.

No settlements there are in immediate danger, but the situation is regared as extremely grave. In areas outside provincial jurisdiction, bring the Dominion Government belt around Revelstoke and Golden, are reported as serious. Many large outbreaks are raging there and ashes from one large fire fell in Golden yesterday.

Berlin Fire Brigade Called To Catch Bees

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (United News)—Catching a stray swarm of bees is a task that has been added to the routine work of the Berlin Fire Brigade, these hot summer days. The job of bee-catching demands highly organized team work. Upon receiving a bee alarm the police depot chief sends out a car with telescope ladder and manned by a crew eqtipped with gauntlet gloves.

First a gentle spray is turned on the bees, causing them to swarm together, then a man with a small box perches high on the ladder and it is swung near the building where the bees are clustered. With a dexterous twist he sweeps the bees into his box.

Then a bee master is notified and he takes the bees to his headquarters, where they are kept until their rightful owners telephone for them.

Off your feed and feeling blue? —Then Kruschen's just the thing for you!

How's your breakfast appetite?

Are you one of the bright and breezy folk that the joyous savour of the bacon brings hot-foot down to breakfast? Or is yours that melancholy eye which wanders from the morning paper no further than the toast-rack?

Is your breakfast a square meal? Or a mere nibble?

Not much doubt about which is the proper way of starting a proper day, is there? Not much doubt that you need the square meal. If you don't want it there's something wrong. It isn't anything subtle or secret or difficult to trace. It's merely that your system has lost tone in these tricky days between winter and spring. You need bucking up. You need the "little daily dimeful" of Kruschen Salts.

A "dimeful" every morning, tasteless in your first cup of tea, is nature's own prescription, for this little pinch is a scientific combination in nature's own proportions of the six mineral salts that your eliminating organs need to keep them in perfect trim.

When harmony and efficiency are restored to your inside with Kruschen's gentle aid, your present listlessness and sluggishness will very soon give way to "that Kruschen feeling." With refreshed virile blood pounding through you like a mill-race, you'll wake up every morning with such a zest for life — and such an appetite for breakfast — that you'll almost feel like standing up on your hind legs and letting out a joyous "Whoopee!" every morning when you get up.

Start the "little daily dimeful" to-morrow, and wire into the eggs and bacon every morning like a regular fellow. It's the little daily dimeful that does it! Prove it to your profit.

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea
Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dimeful that does it.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The dose of a dimeful taken every morning is found in practice just the right amount of a most invigorating daily tonic. The medicinal dose for persons suffering from pains of rheumatism, gout, lumbago or sciatica, or habitual constipation, with inactive liver, etc., is half to one teaspoonful in a tumbler of hot water before breakfast. Every druggist sells Kruschen. A 75c bottle lasts three months. This works out at half-a-cent a day for health and happiness. Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day and start to-morrow. It's the little daily dimeful that does it!

SESSIONS OF PRIORY

Grand Master of revered and beloved memory, the late Col. W. J. McLeod Moore.

It is but fitting that we should at this time express our gratitude to Almighty God for the privilege of again being permitted to meet in annual assembly, to record the work of the past year, and deliberate upon plans for our future activity. May His Divine Guidance be upon us, that all that we do or say, may be to His Honor and Glory.

May we in like manner return thanks to Him for all the material blessings enjoyed during the past year as individuals, and as a people. We in this country, as we emerge from the depression of the late war, must realize our favored position. As we view the turmoil of the world with all its financial, and social unrest, comparing it with the settled position of Canada, with its sound national life, its very high credit, its expansion of trade, and its regard for law and equity, then we must feel that we are indeed a favored people, and with bowed heads, and reverend hearts, express our gratitude to the Giver of All Good.

It is with much satisfaction that we note the presence with us at this session of Gt. Priory of a number of our oldest members and Past Grand Officers.

In meeting in this fair city memory recalls to us the loss to Moore Preceptory and to Sovereign Grand Priory of one of our most valiant Knights, the late V. Em. Knight Walter J. Francis, C. E., Past Grand First Principal of the Grand Chapter R.A.M. of Quebec. There are many present to-day who were fortunate in knowing him as a personal friend. It is of deep interest to us to know that the magnificent Lift Locks situated in this city, was the work of this very brilliant Sir Knight, and stands to-day as a model of engineering ability. His goodness, his courtesy and unselfish efforts in this order and for Masonry in all its branches, will be remembered to-day in all kindness, and his loved presence is missed as we meet here where he first received the right.

In meeting in the city of Peterboro we have come to the home city of R. Em. Kt. E. H. D. Hall, Knight Commander of the Temple, and a member of Moore Preceptory for many years. Sir Knight Hall is one of the oldest P.M. Grand Priors and is the only living member of this Sovereign Grand Priory who has the honor of having been created a Knight Commander of the Temple by the Supreme Grand Master of the Grand Priory of England and Wales. We welcome him to this assembly. The knowledge of his eminent services, continued interest, and his presence with us is a delight to all; and our earnest wish is that to him and the other eminent Fraters I have mentioned, many more years of service to the Temple may be vouchsafed to them.

Let me remind theKnights of the Temple in Canada that the strength and honor of our Order lies in the keeping of each individual Knight, as each member of the Order conducts himself, so will the Order be judged.

Let me remind you too of the importance of our annual meeting. This is sometimes is called in question but do not forget that this is the one medium by which Masons of Canada can gather from all sections of this country for conference and fraternity. There never was a time in the history of our country when there was a greater need for mutual understanding between the various sections than at the present time. Let us then strive to be at least one medium of understanding between the East and the West, the Maritime Provinces, and Central Canada, binding all sections closer, and yet closer together in one united whole, making to a united people, with a common heritage, a common ideal, and a desire for common help and support; an organizations as from traditional times bound up inseparably with the welfare of our country.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Supreme Grand Master, Lt.-Col. George B. McLeod, Edmonton, Alta.; Deputy Grand Master, Horace A. Porter, Saint John, N.B.; Great Officers: W. H. A. Eckhardt, Montreal, Grand Chancellor; Rev. S. Fea, Vancouver, Grand Chaplain; J. G. M. Wilson, Peterboro, Grand Constable; L. C. Allan, Ottawa, Grand Marshall; C. F. Mansell, Toronto, Grand Treasurer; Col. J. T. Thompson, Toronto, Grand Registrar. Grand Council John A. Cowan, Toronto; F. D. Diamond, Belleville; Thomas Essery, Montreal; Dr. C. W. Haentschel, Haileybury; A. B. B ., London, Provincial Grand Priors: Alfred McCann London; Dr. T. F. Campbell, Hamilton; Arthur S. Leitch, Toronto; O. F. Eamon, Kingston-Ottawa; F. W. H. Porter, Quebec; K. M. Gabel, New Brunswick; J. F. Dart, Nova Scotia; A. E. Bazet-Jones, Pacific Coast. W. S. Santo, Kootenay; M. B. Grover, Algoma; E. L. Cawker, Alberta; Jno. McAllister, Moose Jaw.

The city of Edmonton, Alta., was chosen as the venue for the next annual assembly.

MINISTER PREACHES FAREWELL SERMON

Choir Renders Very Appropriate Music for the Occasion.

ROSENEATH, Aug. 12 — The service on Sunday morning in the United Church was extra well attended to hear Rev. McCord of Betheseda, who delivered an excellent sermon taking for his text, Psalm 145, 3rd verse. Rev. McCord before Union was the minister of the Presbyterian church here and a man who made a great many friends among the people of this community. The choir deserves credit for their music and singing. The selections chosen were suitable for the occasion. The an them "When the Lord Shall Build Up ZiZon," was extra well rendered. A trio by Messrs. L. Roberts, R. Parkes and W. Davey, "Jesus keep me the near the Cross," and a duet by Mr. Rodger Parkes and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe, "He'll wipe the tears from every eye." Each piece brought out a deep thought and a feeling of love and kindness toward the pastor and his people. At the close of the service the choir softly sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Many good wishes are extended to Rev. and Mrs. McCord their new charge near Renfrew.

Made Miserable By Eczema In Blisters Cuticura Healed

"Eczema broke out in watery blisters on my face, hands, arms and limbs and made me miserable. After the blisters broke sore eruptions formed and they were terribly itchy, causing me to lose my rest both day and night. I could not do any work, and could not touch water. My clothing aggravated the breaking out on my limbs.

"I was treated and tried different remedies but they did not help me. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some and in less than a month I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. W. Robinson, Box 144, Holditch St., Bracebridge, Ont.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum to promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health; the Soap to cleanse and purify, Ointment to soothe and heal, and Talcum to powder and refresh.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address Canadian Depot: "Stenhouse, Ltd., Montreal." Price, Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c.

BRILLIANT SCENE AT ROYAL COURT

LONDON, August 12. — Queen Mary's flair for gleaming embroideries and lovely laces has transformed the court at Burkingham Palale this season into the most brilliant spectacle of beautiful toilettes and magnificent jewels seen since the Great War put a damper on British social activities.

Silver and mauve are the queen's favorite colors and these colors predominate at the official presentations. A typical style set by the Queen included a regal gown of pale mauve, with silver brocade, embroidered with diamonds and crystals. She generally wears a diamond diadem and other diamond ornaments, including the famous Kohinor.

Bouquets have appeared again this season in the palce of the convention al ostrich-feather fan. In the bouquets are concealed tiny mirrors. Heir looms are brought out on these gala nights. The Marchioness of Sligo orpeared this season with a gown train made from venetian point lace once owned by Marie Antoinette. Lady Doren Knatchbull wor a train of gold embroidered gause once worn by the Empress Josephine.

ENGLISH EXPORTS ARE INCREASING

Scientists Are Told of Trade Expansion To Various Parts of Empire.

LONDON, August 12 (Canadian Press).—In the past 13 years there has been a substantial rise in the exports from Great Britain to various parts of the Empire, according to A. W. Flux, assistant secretary to the statistical department of the Board of Trade, who addressed the British Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday at the concluding session of the association's annual meeting. Mr. Flux stated that the advance has been from 37.2 per cent. in 1913, to 41.5 per cent. in 1925.

The apparent conclusion from these figures, Mr. Flux said, was that the restoration of world trade to its former dimensions and capacity for expansion could do more to restore the British export trade and dependent industries than a struggle to secure for Great Britain trade which had been carried on by some other nation, notwithstanding the importance of maintaining Great Britain's competitive capacity.

Sir Oliver Lodge, the distinguished scientist, thanking the Prince of Wales at the close of the meeting for the great interest His Royal Highness was taking in the association, said the Prince's presence had made the gathering a memorable one.

"I have reason to think that the Prince of Wales gave the preparation of his address, as president of the association, a good deal of thought and care," Sir Oliver said. "It is not altogether a secret that his distinguished family chaffed him in the matter, and suggested that he might make a mess of it, but we all agree that he did not make a mess of it."

Sir Oliver's speech was greeted with cheers.

The association decided to hold its meeting of 1929 in South Africa.

Tells How to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots and Have a Beautiful Complexion

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine from any drug or department store and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to diappear, while the lighter ones have begun to disappear, ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.

MAN FIRED AT ON WOODS ROAD

Three Men Attempt To Stop Belleville Man Near Consecon.

CAR STRUCK.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 12—When Charles Cory, son of F. A. Cory of Belleville, was going to his father's cottage at Consecon Lake, driving a roadster Monday night, he was attacked by three men in the woods and shot at three times.

Cory stated that he noticed a sedan standing still on the road, which passes through a wood, but the motor was running and dimmers on. A man walked out and put up his hand to stop. Two other men who were lying in the ditch jumped up and fired bullets from a revolver. One shot passed through the curtains of the car over his shoulder and out through the windshield, the other struck the rear axle and the third shot missed.

Cory reported the afafir to Provincial Police.

MORE BOATS FOUND OF WRECKED SHIP

Hope Still Held Out For Safety of Missing Fishermen.

HALIFAX, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press). — The Lunenburg fishing schooner Sylvia Mosher, now lying totally wrecked on the north side of Sable Island, with the whereabouts of her crew of twenty-five men unknown, was sighted at anchor Saturday noon, 'just before the storm broke," by the Halifax trawler Venosta, in latitude 44.04 north, longitude 60.32 west, a point about thirty miles west-north-west of West Light, Sable Island.

Later C. H. Harvey, local agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department, received the following message from Superintendent Henry of the island's life-saving crew: "Coxswain Naugle boarded wreck Wednesday. Mooring spars and sills are carried away by storm. Spars alongside held by standing rigging. Two more dories drifted ashore."

These two dories bring the number washed up on the island to eight, six having been found Tuesday. Twelve have still to be accounted for.

NO INTERFERENCE WITH C. N. RAILWAYS

Meighen Reads Telegrams Exchanged With Sir Henry Thornton.

BRANDON, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Premier Meighen last night produced telegrams exchanged between himself and Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, in regard to allegations of political interference with the Canadian National management. It opens with the following telegram from Mr. Meighen to Sir Henry, dated August 6.

"Statements are being made that the present government, including myself, have been, and are, interfering with the management of the National Railways. I ask you to wire me whether there is the slightest foundation for these assertions, and, if so, to advise me what it is."

Sir Henry's reply follows:

"In reply, I have to say that the administration of the Canadian National Railways has no complaint whatever with respect to the attitude of the present government, or, indeed, the preceding Government, in their relation to the National Railways System."

Mr. Meighen, following the reading of his correspondence with Sir Henry Thornton, spoke of the Hudson Bay Railway. "I am not going to enter into any competition of promises with the Mackenzie King government," Mr. Meighen said. "They can beat me at that all around the bush. They have all the awards and belts and records in the world on the score of promises."

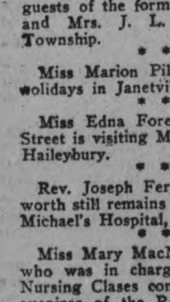
Easy to Gain With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast with Vegetable Iron Quick Way to Build Up Weight



This new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food but not until we perfected "ironized yeast" — which comes in concentrated tablet form was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized, becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast Tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore, they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. If you are under weight, do not enjoy good health, lacking in energy and force, "ironized yeast" tablets will pick you right up, and if they fail, you get your money back.

GIRL DROWNED.

Slips From Raft on Welland Canal Near Thorold.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 12. — (Canadian Press.) —Annie Sharrock, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sharrock, Thorold, was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing in the waste weir of Welland Canal, between Locks 23 and 24, at Thorold. The girl was on a small raft, and in attempting to push herself off from shore lost her balance and fell in. Her little sister, aged 14, who was on the bank fifteen feet away, heard her scream for help when she sank. The little girl ran for help, but when the body was recovered with grappling irons by the police, forty-five minutes later, efforts to resuscitate the girl were unavailing.

JOAN EXPLAINS

Jerry was instantly all sympathy when he heard Joan speak of her brother.

"We must certainly bring him out of his morbid temperament" he said. "Surely Mr. Robinson might have done something."

"That is the one thing" said Joan "that I have always held against Dad. He pays no attention whatever to John. I think he has not seen him since my mother died. Consequently he doesn't know what a wonderful chap he is physically even with his shorter leg and crippled arm. The rest of his body has been trained until he has the broad shoulders and slender waist of a prize fighter. He has had some wonderful contraption made by which he can walk without showing his limp. And he can ride a horse like a cowboy and operate a specially made motor perfectly.

"Yet he will go nowhere. He seems to think that his infirmities make him a being apart.

"Much of this is due to my mother who would have counteracted it if she had lived. But you see she died when he was three years old and naturally he had been backward up to that time. Right after her death he was sent to the camp and from then on he has grown into one of the finest young men that I have ever known.

"He is studying anthropology and is going to South Africa immediately after this will business is settled for he of course comes into his share of the estate at the same time that I do.

"Do not think Judy" said Joan turning to me "that I have been selfish with my brother. Many times I have offered to stay with him up there. But his tutors told me that he did not seem himself even with me and I know he loves me better than anyone on earth. Ever since I have been able to reason I have tried to make John come out into the world and live with me. His isolation has been a constant grief to me.

"Some years ago when he was 11 however a man came up to camp direct from Yale where he had been offered a position as professor of anthropology. This man came up to spend his vacation with one of John's teachers who was his brother. He and my brother immediately struck up a great friendship. He has stayed right there in camp ever since and it has been a dream of my brother that as soon as he came into his fortune he was going to finance an expedition into Africa. There far from civilization I hope he will shed his sensitive obsession about his lameness. He has made all preparations for this; so you see Mr. Hathaway much is hanging on the speedy settlement of our property."

JERRY ADVISES

I noticed that Jerry looked rather queer during Joan's long explanation and description of her brother.

As she went to telephone to the hospital for a late report of Lela I asked him what he was worrying about.

"I am not worrying very much," he said, "but I think it will take somewhat longer than Miss Meredith expects to get the property settled up unless her attorney has been working on it for some time. It looks rather strange to me that he has not served some sort of notice on her and her brother that on such a day a settlement of accounting would be made.

"I think, Judy, my dear, that you have projected yourself into a new job already."

As Jerry said this, that queer little crooked smile, which always gave me a tiny heart throb, curled up at the corner of his mouth, and I knew he was much relieved at the thought that for some weeks at least we would not go abroad.

"I shall advise," he said, "that tomorrow you and Miss Meredith go to Mr. Elkins and ask when the accounting will be ready. If you see or hear anything that you think is at all dubious, manage to telephone to my father's office. I will be there most of the morning and I will immediately interest Dad in the matter."

"But, Jerry," I remonstrated, "are you sure that you want to tell your father. You know he is a friend of Mr. Robinson's Why, I really got my job at the Morton Department Store because I mentioned your father's name."

"No, you din't, my dear. You got your job at Morton's because that old fool liked your looks. My father isn't such a friend of that man that you need to worry about him.

"You've never understood Dad, Judy. And, by the way, dear, there are lots of things about life you have yet to learn. I love your courage and way of marching into things, but I have worried myself sick since I have known you for fear that you would 'come a cropper.' Dad is a pretty good old scout."

"Why, Jerry, I don't see how you can say that. You know what he told me about you."

"Yes, yes, I know. He told you all those things about me, for he knew I was in love with you and he didn't want you to marry me. You see, my dear, Dad's wife—and my mother, more is the pity—deserted him and me when I was only a year old; consequently, Dad thinks that I would be committing something worse than hari kari to marry any one.

"'Love 'em and leave 'em' is poor mistaken Dad's motto. But you can hardly blame him, can you?"

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliff

SHE DESCRIBES A SMART BLACK MAROCAIN FROCK.

"Madame, I feel the need of at least one stunning black frock. It seems that I have everything else, and now that Paris has decreed black I simply must have one."

A charming young matron who is one of Madame's most devoted clients greeted Madame thus this morning.

Madame was very much pleased, for she does love to create black costumes, especially where it is as becoming to the wearer as it will be to this young matron, who is tall and very fair.

Madame sent for Gaby and told her to don the gown which we manikins have named "Simplicity," and, I think you will agree with me that the name fits the gown perfectly.

It is made of black crepe marocain, fashioned on the slim lines which are so popular.

The neckline is one which I adore, as it is such a novel one. The turn-down collar is fashioned in points and bound with the marocain, and gives a most youthful touch.

The double-pleated flounce is scalloped and flares most gracefully about the wearer's knees.

The cunning little double frill which forms the jabot is set in a slashed and bound slit about five inches below the collar.

As a finishing touch, Gaby donned a wide brim black moire hat which is faced with the palest of rose satin and throws a most becoming color on the wearer's face.

As soon as Gaby ewalked into Madame's office, the client exclaimed:

"Madame, that is just the very frock I've had in mind, only I didn't know it until this very minute. I simply must have it, or one like it, and the hat also."

"Yes," Madame agreed, "it seems as though I must have had you in mind when I planned it, for it is exactly your style."

This Charming Frock Features Novel Neckline and Pleated Flounce.

Gaby was delighted that she had modeled the gown, for we manikins do love to model a gown that is so well received by the clients.

I have put a sketch of it in my diary, for I think I shall make one like it for myself, only I've an idea that I shall make it of navy blue crepe, with frills to match, and bind the collar and flounce in red. The hat, too, I shall make of blue moire faced with red satin, as these colors are very becoming to me.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

THOMAS DE QUINCY AND MARGARET SIMPSON.

(Copyright McClure Syndicate.)

A young man studying at Oxford son of well-to-do and respected parents took a dose of opium to relieve an attack of neuralgia. This was the seed from which grew the celebrated "Confessions of an Opium Eater." The "Confessions" and other works of similar nature made Thomas D. Quincey famous as an author but in their writing he was degraded to the lowest depths.

From that first dose of the drug taken at Oxford De Quincey grew addicted to opium with greater intensity as he grew older until he reached a stage when his daily dose was 320 grains equivalent to 8000 drops. That he was able to take such a terrifying amount can be only accounted for by the gradual hardening of his body to the physical effects of the drug.

At the age of thirty-one he married Margaret Simpson the eighteen-year-old daughter of a neighbor. For some six months previous to the marriage and for a short period after De Quincey was able to cut down his drug consumption to forty grains and gain comparative freedom of mind but then he succumbed again and resumed his miserable dual existence. His waking hours from noon to night were passed in regret and humiliation and his nights under the influence of opium in a world of dreams hideous distorted and fantastic. His poor wife was virtually the nurse of a perpetually drug-drunk husband. Eventually however he became one of the greatest of writers and his words aside from his vivid description of opium dreams are supreme for style and rare critical and intellectual insight.

The passage quoted below is not exactly a letter but a tribute addressed to his wife in the form of a literary picture. He figuratively summons an artist to paint for him a picture of his home and bids him: ". . . Near the fire paint me a tea-table; and (as it is clear that no creature can come to see me in such a stormy night) place only two cups and saucers on the tea tray; and if you know how to paint such a thing symbolically or otherwise paint me an eternal tea-pot—eternal a parte ante and a parte post; for I usually drink tea from eight at night to four in the morning. And as it is very unpleasant to make tea or to pour it out for oneself paint me a lovely young woman sitting at the table. Paint her arms like Aurora's and her smiles like Hebe's; but no dear M.! not even in jest let me insinuate that thy power to illuminate my cottage rests upon a tenure so perishable as mere personal beauty or that the witchcraft of angelic smiles lies within the empire of any earthly pencil. Pass then my good painter to something more within its power; the next article brought forward should naturally be myself—a picture of the opium-eater with his little golden receptacle of the pernicious drug lying beside him on the table. . . ."

Despite De Quincey's excesses, he lived to the age of seventy-four.

HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1926.

This is not a supremely lucky day, according to astrology, but certain benefic aspect are believed to aid dwellers on the planet Earth.

It is a day of good omen for banks and bankers. Financiers should be able to accomplish much in the way of directing big enterprises.

Editors and publishers are wonderfully fortunate, the seers foretell, and they may expect much profit.

Poets are to attain to a new opulence, it is prophesied. Their art is to be newly appreciated and encouraged.

Messages of good will from other countries are to be numerous it is foretold, but there may be one with which trouble brews for America.

Nerves may be troublesome and indigestion prevalent this month. Both men and women should remember that diet has a special significance and that food should be wisely chosen.

It has been frequently prognosticated that there would be increase in prices of meats and other forms of food before the end of the year.

As the stars are read as promising reversals of various sorts, it may be well for egotists and individualists to practice humility.

Vanity and worship of the human body which have been general in all parts of the world will be effaced, the seers prophesy, by world cataclysms.

Earthquakes and floods in various parts of the world again are presaged by the stars and nature is to demand sacrifice of lives as well as property, if the stars are read aright.

Aviators should be especially careful while this configuration prevails and there is danger, also, of unusual automobile accidents.

This is a date when it is wise to look forward to the autumn season in business or the professions, but judgment may not be reliable. Decisions should be deferred.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a changeful and exacting year. Good business prospects are indicated.

Children born on this day may have ups and downs all through life. Great extremes of fortune appear to be augured, but happiness through them all is promised.

LEILA.

The original Leila must have been a "vamp." It is distinctly a Moorish name—in fact it is translated to mean 'Moorish'—and it was usually bestowed upon the loveliest of the always-beautiful Moorish maidens.

In reality, it is generally supposed to be one of the feminine names derived from the lily. As the lily is the fairest of flowers, perhaps Leila, as the most beautiful of her tribe, came thus to be used as a proper name. Etymologists are frankly puzzled by her origin, since it seems that only the Hebrew and Slavonic tongues give names really taken from flowers.

But, however that may be, and though the lily is as difficult to trace as the rose, it must still be contended that Leila had her origin in the pure white chalice of the most fragrant of all flowers. Liliola Gonzaga of Italy was perhaps one of the lily-names which preceded Leila. There was a Lilias Ruthven in Scotland in 1557. The Queen of Naples about whom the Scottish ballad of "Roswal and Lillian" was woven, was named after the lily, and curiously enough, was called Cecelia by the Italians.

Occasionally historians have thought that Leila, Lelia and Lillian and Lilias were only contractions of Elizabeth, but there seems little to bear out this contention, so the lily must remain the 'raison d'etre' of all such names. Certainly its heritage of beauty is well borne out by the lovely women who have claimed the name, among them, Lillian Russell, the most beautiful woman of the American stage, and Lily Langtry, famous Jersey lily, and long the center of romance and gossip of two continents.

Leila's talismanic gem is the ruby, the "elixir of life," which gives courage, and freedom from harm, and strength of purpose to its wearer. Friday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number. The lily signifying purity, is her flower.

Lord Byron said of Leila in "The Giaour:"

"Her eye's dark charm 'twere vain to tell,
But gaze on that of the gazelle,
It will assist the fancy well:
As large, as languishingly dark.

Daily Short Story

RIDING DOUBLE

"Nancy? D'know as I can spare her today—had my megs all set for soap-makin'," Sister Crandall said through pursed lips, with a sour glance at her step-daughter Nancy.

"O yes you can," said Mitty Quarles." What's a day more or less? To you and soap I mean. The quiltin's different. Unless I miss my guess it means a wedding long about June—you shorely don't want your own girls to lack quilts when they go to housekeepin'. Remember—you've got five."

"You mean four," Sister Crandall protested: "Nancy's got some few of her Ma's things left—and she's so handy I judge she can make plenty more don't seem there's any hurry about her settin' out."

Nancy, tall, spare, high-colored with thick dark hair strained back from her high forehead, said lazily, "I'd rather have no stick at all than a crooked one. I could fling half the sprigalds that eat your Sunday dinners over my shoulder if I liked, and dance all the rest till their tongues and their shirt-tails hung out."

"Shut up! Don't you ever da'ar talk that way again in my house," Sister Crandall cried. Nancy laughed provokingly, asking: "Now where does your house happen to stand? This happens to be mine when Papa dies—otherwise it would a-been spent like all the rest, long, long ago."

"You'll stay at home for that Miss—speakin' sacrilege of your only parent," Sister Crandall exploded.

"Now you see what I have to put up with Cora," Sister Crandall snivelled to the Quarles girl, who was inviting quilters for the morrow. A leggy sixteen, she stood giggling and gaping. "I hope Nance comes," she managed at last.

Byck Beverley, who shortly rode by, tall, slim, handsome, eke a dare-devil, had a way with him few feminine souls could withstand. Nance Crandall had withstood him. She was everything he did not like—slim, dour, homely—except sometimes—sharp-spoken world without end, also obstinate. Byck, surfeited with adoration found in her the saving tang that salt has for creatures over-fed upon lush pastures.

She was invisible as he rode past the house—yet he chuckled faintly, a hundred yards ahead, at a flash of her bright red through the screen of a thicket in the woodslot—next minute he popped his horse cleverly over its fence, hitched him far enough inside to be invisible, and went plunging down the overgrown steps to the spring. They had been much trodden before wells and wind-mills had come to pass. Now only Nancy, the woodfolk and the fairies came to drink its fair water.

She knelt drinking from her scooped palms, and dashing crystal spray over face and head. Byck slipped behind her, caught her tight in both arms, crying masterfully: "The right woman in the right place—for once. Be a sport, Nancy dear—just for this time. My Selim is already a family-horse—totes double like a lamb. Hop up behind me—let's ride on to Squire Jones, and get this marrying foolishness over and done with."

"Can't!" said Nancy: "Furthermore, shan't. You know why. Daddy has such a little time to live—not a year, maybe—if I leave him to—those others—Lord!" swallowing hard. "It—hurts—but he loves his family a heap better than his stray daughter—but I'll stay—spite of that."

"You will not," from Byck: "You'll do what I say, onless ye wanter git yourself drowned ed dead," dropping into local vernacular. "Easy to pitch ye headforemost into the water here," tightening his hold, "and nobody at all the wiser."

"Maybe if ye try it, that's what'll happen to you." Nancy returned suddenly surging violently away from him. A breath's space they struggled, taking no account of the spring's weakened marge, that rains had set it running like a millrace. Laughing gaily Byck tried to kiss her—the effort sent him backward—he felt the earth yield under his feet, tried to recover foothold—and went down, deeper than his middle in the rushing water, which channeled downward twenty feet before turning toward the bluff. He snatched at a projecting root—it broke in his hand—even the stump it came from was dead. "I—don't find foothold," he said huskily, keeping his head above water with all his strength.

Nancy was not frightened—she had no time to be. Slipping out of her red jersey she flung it over the stump, tied the sleeves together, thrust the knot in his hand, crying: "Hold—but don't pull—stump's too shaky. Be still—hug the bank—and wait."

Glancing eagle-wise about she saw possible salvation, darted up the slope, almost to the top, slipped out of her heavy skirt, made a running leap that landed her six feet up the trunk of a hickory sapling, and swarmed up it to the very top. There she hung a minute, setting it rocking violently—then swung off in air, clinging by hands and feet. As the lithe trunk bent waterward, she loosed foothold and cried: "Help! With one hand! Catch my ankle—tight."

Inside a minute she was in water to her knees. Swinging herself sack-wise across the sapling she brought it within grasp of Byck. "Climb on! Quick!" she adjuted him: Never mind who rides before." Five minutes later when they had won to safety, Byck said shakenly: "You saved me—now you've got to take care of your property—"

"I mean to," Nancy interrupted, "but in my own time and way."

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS MAKES A DISCOVERY.

"Oh, dear! You beautiful blossom!" Doris exclaimed, stooping down over the pure white blossom with its golden heart. "What in the world are you, anyway, I'd like to know?"

"Can it be possible that you don't know Mrs. Blood Root?" asked a tiny voice, and a wee little elfin peeked around the grasses and smiled at Dotty. "Mrs. Blood Root, this is Doris. I just came in time or she would have spoiled her pretty white apron."

"Spoiled whose apron?" Doris asked. Then she bowed to Mrs. Blood Root and shook the elfin's hand. "I'm glad to know you, Mrs. Blood Root, and I'm certainly glad to see you, Squeedee. Whose apron did you mean, Squeedee?"

"Why yours, of course," laughed Mrs. Blood Root, shaking her white petals toward a passing bee. "Come along and dust yourself." The bee settled for a second, then flew away, his legs and body covered with yellow dust from the golden center of the Blood Root. "You wouldn't believe me, but that little fellow and his relatives stop every day and dust themselves with my pollen, and I never give them one drop of honey."

"No honey!" cried Doris. "Isn't it funny that they keep on stopping? But you didn't tell me why I should be careful of my white apron."

"Well, you see," interrupted Squeedee, "whenever you pick Mrs. Blood

"Mrs. Blood Root, This Is Doris."

Root's blossoms you bruise her and from her stem comes a fluid that stains anything it touches an orange-red."

"Doesn't it seem funny?" laughed Mrs. Blood Root. "But that's true. Why, in olden times, I'm told, mothers used to take the juice from the blood root and put it on a lump of sugar to give their children when they had a cold."

"I guess that's why you were given the name of Blood Root," said Doris, "because your juices are red."

"I suppose that's it," replied Mrs. Blood Root, as she dusted another tiny bee and two yellow flies with her yellow pollen. "I'd better be closing for the day. Come and see me again, Miss Doris."

"I certainly will," Doris promised. So she and Squeedee were just about to turn away when Doris saw Mrs. Blood Root quiver. Then slowly her snowy white petals began to bend upward and soon they were standing upright, all folded together tightly.

"Why, Squeedee, isn't that funny?" Doris exclaimed. "Does she always do that?"

"Always," replied Squeedee. "You see, that's the only way she has of protecting her seed cups. Mrs. Blood Root is an interesting little plant. The old Indian squaws used to gather her roots and make a reddish-yellow dye of them which they used for painting their faces as well as dyeing their clothes." Then Squeedee, taking the little girl by the hand, said "Come along, Doris, let's see what else we can find in this meadow," and off they ran down the path into the woods.

POLICE TRACING TWO PROSPECTORS

Two Officers Take Arduous Trip Through Northern British Columbia.

VICTORIA, B. C., August 11. — An epic of frontier life is contained in a brief formal report of a Provincial police constable to the British Columbia headquarters of the force here yesterday, relating the 800-mile trip through snow and mountain torrents in search of McClare and Saunders, two United States prospectors, who have been missing a year in the wilds of the North.

Constable C. D. Muirhead of Prince George was in charge of the patrol. His sole companion for the greater part of the arduous journey was Constable Fenton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The patrol set out from Prince George on May 13 and broke trail 400 miles into the wilds of the Cassiar district, reaching their base in returning on July 28.

At that time the men were forced to shoot their pack animals and trudge through deep snow in a land where few white men have been. They built rafts and shot rapids over the swollen streams.

At Thutade Lake they picked up traces of the missing men and found Indians who had worked for the two prospectors in the summer and fall of 1923. At Brothers Lake they found McClare's cabin, where the two men had spent the winter.

Traces were not wanting that the pack animals of McClare and Saunders had been shot. At Brothers Lake, however, all trace of the two white men vanished.

NO NEW MEMBERS IN LEAGUE COUNCIL

Commission Expected To Decide Against Increase in Numbers.

FINAL MEETING.

GENEVA, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press)—The Commission on reconstruction of the Council of the League of Nations is expected to decide against any increase of the permanent membership except the new seat to be allotted to Germany. Dr. Giuseppe Motta, President of the Commission, has suggested that the final meeting be held on August 30.

Should this action be taken, Spain's hope for a permanent seat membership would vanish. With Brazil resigned and Spain's attitude toward resignation problematical, some members of the Commission are said to be averse to increasing the number of non-permanent seats from six to nine as planned. If this objection is sustained, the proposed allotment of three seats to Latin-America would fail.

Meantime Cuba is strongly favored for one of the Latin-American places on the Council.

Puddles

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

WARM, thawy days are happy days, but they certainly bring their problem of wet feet. The easiest solution is, of course, to keep the children indoors but that is neither wise nor fair, because the warm, sunshiny air is health itself. About the best we can do then is to plead with them to keep out of the puddles, and then "keep our powder dry," by having them wear nice high rubbers, because puddles are certainly magic!

LITTLE puddles on the walk,
Bigger puddles in the street;
"Don't you want to step in me?"
Says each puddle to my feet.

All the grown-ups go around;
They have good feet that obey,
But no matter how I try
My two feet won't work that way!

All the little puddles call,
"Step in us with your galoshes,"
And each puddle helps to make
Just the el-egantest sploshes!

Once a puddle cried, "Hello,
Don't you ever try some hopping?"
So I gave a skip'n hop
And it splashed me simply sopping!

Mother says, "Why do you listen
If they always beg and tease?"
But my feet politely do it
When the puddles whisper, "Please!"

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By Barbara Bayne

SEBASTIAN S. KRESGE—FIVE-AND-TEN-CENT MILLIONAIRE.

The man who has amassed an unbelievable fortune through the successful operation of a chain of five-and-ten-cent stores—Sebastian Kresge—does not waste any sympathy on pessimists. "I am pretty tired of listening to wails about the 'hard times' through which the country has been passing; tired of the doleful folks who keep talking about the boom days we had during and after the war," is his dismissal of down-in-the-mouth prophets who always manage to find plausible causes for their failure.

And if any man has the right to censure this attitude, it is Mr. Kresge, for he started selling in one of the worst business periods this country has ever seen. These were the years 1892 to 1897, when the United States passed through a severe financial depression.

The Kresge family had settled in a small town in Pennsylvania for the purpose of cultivating the eighty-acre farm recently acquired. It was on this farm that Sebastian and his brother, both youngsters, learned the lesson of endurance. They rose at four-thirty and spent the next hour doing odd chores. During the morning they saw to it that the horses were hitched and out in the field. In the afternoon, after a short lunch, they worked in the fields, assisting their father and making themselves generally useful. This was during the Spring. In the Winter the boys went to school at Meusells. When Sebastian was old enough he asked permission to attend his uncle's academy at Fairview, but the family's fortunes were at low ebb and he was at first denied this. But he felt the need of further education and laid this proposal before his father. He said:

"If you will see me though the academy I will give you every cent I earn until I am twenty-one, keeping out for myself only what may be absolutely required for board and clothes."

And that was the contract—born of necessity and faithfully adhered to. As Mr. Kresge himself says, it was not difficult to do, considering the low cost of living.

After he was graduated from Fairview Academy his first job was that of clerk in a grocery store—salary seven dollars a week—duties varied and tiring. He kept this position for about a year, and during this time made extra money by raising and selling doves, pigeons and turkeys.

Then followed a succession of jobs—none of them very happy ventures. Finally the young grocery-clerk-farmer-boy went on the road as a salesman for a Wilkes-Barre tinware and specialties concern. His intention was to enter business for himself by the time he was thirty, so he traveled continuously for this company for five years. When he returned home he had saved $8,000. He invested this in the five-and-ten-cent business, going into partnership with J. G. McCrory.

Their first store was established at Jamestown, N. Y., where Mr. Krege worked for two weeks. Then, feeling more confident of his knowledge of the business he went to Memphis, Tenn., and opened another store there. He managed this for sixteen months, after which another store was opened in Detroit.

These first few stores were so efficiently managed that Kresge realized that they would be his medium for prosperity. He concentrated all his time and efforts on this rapidly-growing business—and he was well repaid. Within a few years the chain of stores grew longer and longer—until today the name of Sebastian S. Kresge stands near the top of the list of eminently successful American merchandisers.

Mr. Kresge's fortune is estimated at one hundred million dollars, but this sum has been greatly depleted by his recent gifts to charity.

COTTON STANDARD NOT YET ADOPTED

Meeting in London Fails To Make Ruling On Fibre Length.

LONDON, August 12 (Canadian Press).—The cotton conference yesterday at the United States Embassy between members of the various cotton associations of Europe and America failed to adopt world standards for cotton staples.

The meeting was called at the initiative of the United States Department of Agriculture because of the feeling that, with the present grade and color standards working so smoothly, it would be wise to go a step farther and adopt standards for the length of cotton fibre. To that end the department recently invited representatives of the various European and American cotton associations to consider the question. The meeting here yesterday was attended by 35 cotton men.

Lloyd Penny, who headed the Agricultural Department forces, in a long address, reviewed the whole situation, and urged the need for fixing standards of staple lengths.

The meeting was very friendly, and a statement issued later explained that a majority of the European cotton men were unwilling to take any action adopting such standards. They will submit at a later date a statement detailing their reasons. The minority delegates favoring the adoption of such standards hope for an early agreement.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of hte people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

WORK OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY LITTLE KNOWN, SAYS G. W. POWELL

Veteran Official of Organization Believes Environment Counts.

TELLS OF CASES.

Born in Port Hope, Mr. Powell Has Lived Here For 41 Years.

George W. Powell, of the Children's Aid Society, who celebrated his 71st birthday on July 28th, has been over 41 years in this city, and has been associated with many organizations having for their object the moral and material improvement of the people.

Mr. Powell was born in 1855 in Cobourg, of an New England family, who emigrated to Canada; his grandfather and grandmother were both descended from Puritan families which settled in New England some ten years after the Mayflower disembarked her first little band of pilgrims seeking freedom from political and religious tyranny.

Mr. Powell's family came to Canada at an early age and on reaching manhood became a naturalized Canadian. At 30 years of age Mr. Powell came to Peterboro. For 29 years he engaged in the meat business in the city, being 16 years in the stand now ocupied by Nathan Stabler, on George street, and 13 years where J. J. Howland conducts business. He was early interested in the work of fraternal societies, being associated with the Ancient Order of United Workmen and the Independent Order of Foresters, in which body he was secretary for 23 years. He has been an active worker in behalf of temperance and has taken part in every temperance campaign since the Duncan Act. He has been connected with three local societies: Sons of Temperance, Good Templars and the Royal Templars.

Nine years ago he was appointed agent for Peterboro City and County of the Children's Aid Society with which body he is still associated as Corresponding Secretary. He has also been charged during the past few years with the duty of administering the provisions of the Unmarried Parents and the Children's Adoption Acts.

Much of the work of the Children's Aid Society never comes before the public, but its beneficial labors are generally recognized and acknowledged.

Two sisters, who in recent years have won academic distinction, owe their present happy cimcumstances to the Society, which rescued them from a home where they were in danger of being exposed to a life of degradation. The case came to the notice of the local society through the fate of an older sister, a ward of the society of another county, who had been allowed to drift into loose living and eventually died in child-bed. With the object of preventing a similar fate overtaking the younger children, the society obtained an order committing the two girls to its care. The mother, whose life had been such as to mark her as unfit to have charge of any child, fiercely resisted the change, and was compelled to give them up while aboard a train on which she was proceeding out of the way of the local authorities. Later she retreated to the back country from where she sent many threatening messages to Mr. Powell and the other officers of the society. Needless to say the change has proved to be a very fortunate one for the children.

Another case in which Mr. Powell services were requisitioned concerned a family which lived in great poverty in a sparsely-settled district in the country. On arriving at the house, in company with a Provincial constable, Mr. Powell found the family located in a rude shack with only half of the ground area covered by a flooring. Knowing that the father was a man of violent disposition, the two officers proceeded warily when they discovered him a short distance from the shack engaged in splitting wood. The constable, criticizing the method the man was adoptign to split the wood, took the axe, ostensibly to give a practical demonstration of wood-splitting, and after putting the lethal weapon out of harm's way, told the father of their mission. Somewhat to the surprise of the officers, he raised no objection to their taking the children from him. His sole stipulation was that they should "take the old woman as well." This they agreed to do, and the party arrived in Peterboro, where arrangements were made for relatives to take charge of the mother, the children being placed in good homes by the society. They are now grown up and in fairly prosperous circumstances. Mr. Powells experiences with the Children's Aid Society have convinced him that environment counts for a great deal, especially in the upbringing of children.

Of Mr. Powell's thirteen brothers and sisters ten lived to become men and women, and seven are alive today, all of them over sixty years of age. Dr. N. A. Powell of Toronto, and W. E. N. Powell of the Massey-Harris Company, Toronto, are brothers. E. W. Beatty, president of the C.P.R., is a nephew. Mr. Powell is also related to the Massey family of farm implement fame.

SIR WILFRID HAD GREAT MEMORY

Liberal Leader Recalled Quotations 25 Years After Using Them.

GAVE THEIR SOURCE.

R. R. Hall, K.C., who represented this riding in the House of Commons from 1904 till 1908, relates an incident that illustrates in graphic manner the extensive literary knowledge and retentive memory of his Parliamentary leader, the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

As a young man, Mr. Hall read a report of a speech in which the Liberal chieftain made use of two quotations that impressed themselves vividly on the mind of his youthful admirer.

Twenty-five years later, when Mr. Hall had himself become an M.P., and a friend and confidant of Sir Wilfred, the two men were travelling together on the train from Toronto to Ottawa, and the Peterborough man in conversation told Sir Wilfred of the speech he had read and the two quotations.

The first one was in a passage dealing with the attitude of the best sections of American thought toward the British Crown. It consisted of two lines of poetry:

"We bow the heart, but not the knee
To England's Queen, God bless her."

"Yes, I remember using those lines," answered Sir Wilfrid, "they are from Whittier's 'Ode to an English Gentleman'."

The second allusion was used in discussing various classifications of wrong-doing. It ran:

"A sin, a vice, a crime, are the objects of theology, ethics, and jurisprudence."

"You will find that," replied Sir Wilfred instantly, "in the 44th chapter of Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

SMART NEW VESTS.

One of the smartest accessories for spring is the new vest of gold leather to be worn under the tailored coat. Vests of white satin or pique are cut on exactly the lines of those worn by men.

LOCAL MAN QUALIFIES.

News has just been received at the Peterborough office of The Dominion Life Assurance Co. that A. T. Jones, of Bridgenorth, Ont., has qualified for the Company's Educational Convention in Montreal, August 30th and 31st. It is learned that this invitation has been extended to Mr. Jones as a result of his outstanding record for large production during the past year.

Mr. McNabb, the Peterborough manager of The Dominion Life, reports that business for the year to date has been far ahead of any former year, and that the Peterborough branch has had an equal share in the company's 20 per cent. increase for the year to date.

CORONER'S JURY FINDS THAT BOY IS RESPONSIBLE

Blames William Urkowitch For Death of Edward Fonger While Swimming.

STRUCK ON HEAD.

Doctor Finds That Boy Had Enlarged Glands and Died From Shock.

HAMILTON, Aug. 12. — A jury empanelled by Chief Coroner Rennie last night found William Urkowitch, aged 16, responsible for the death of Edward Fonger, aged 8, who drowned in the Bay on August 5, after being struck on the head with an oar. Urkowitch attended last night's hearing with his father. He was not represented by counsel, and did not testify. He was not held by the police.

The jury's verdict was: "We, the jury, from the evidence submitted, come to the conclusion that Edward Fonger came to his death from a blow given by William Urkowitch, which was enough to cause death by shock. We recommend to the Harbor Commission that it prevent any one from renting a boat to any person under 17 years of age."

No Evidence of Violence.

Dr. W. J. Deadman, who performed an autopsy on the body of the Fonger boy, said he found no evidence of violence or injury, nor did the body show the usual evidence of drowning. There was no water in the lungs. A peculiar congenital condition, however, was found. The boy suffered from enlarged glands. Persons so afflicted are susceptible to shock. In Dr. Deadman's opinion the cause of death was due to shock.

Struck Over Head.

Joseph Wilcovesky, aged 12, who rode in the rowboat with Urkowitch, said that Eddie Fonger took hold of the side of the boat while the craft was in shallow water. As the boat reached deeper water young Fonger attempted to climb into the boat, but was struck over the head with an oar by Urkowitch. The blow, as the boy described it, was dealt sideways with the blade as Urkowitch was using the oar as a paddle. After being struck young Fonger said he would tell his older brother Reuben, that Urkowitch had struck him. Urkowitch, so the young witness said, then stated that he did not mean to hit Eddie, as he thought the Fonger boy was some one else.

AN OLD FASHIONED GARDEN

(Lovingly Inscribed to Miss A. Peters.)

I know that Peterboro's fair and beautiful to see,
And gardens, most magnificent, within her borders be;
She's the favored of Pomona, and a vision of delight,
When Summer decks her in gay rot.s, of flowing verdure bright.
Here Nature spreads her choicest charms, with lavish hand around,
Making our city all appear one spot of garden ground.

Lawns and gardens, soul enchanting, but, to my heart and eyes
The fairest, in East City, at the foot of Armour lies,
'Tis a dear old fashioned garden, where old-fashioned flowers grow,
Beside green walks, gay bluebells nod to poppies, blushing red;
There candytuft and mignonette, sweet Mary fragrance shed.

White lilies, China asters, spirea, columbine,
And, casting cooling shadows, the broad-leafed trellis vine.
There the lovely rose trees, with her beauteous train is seen
Reigning o'er that flowery kingdom, the undisputed queen.
A rich riot of bright colors, intermingled meets the view;
Blossoms and bloom, as sweet and fair as Eden's bowers knew.

I love that dear old garden with all my heart; for why—
It brings to me sweet memories of happy days gone by;
When, in just such a garden, among just such old-time flowers
With those, who meet me now no more, were spent my childhood's hours.
And, for the sake of the dear friends, that garden who have cared,
To bless us with their kindly smiles, God grant they long be spared.

INTERVIEW BY ARCHBISHOP IS LAW VIOLATION

Mexican Minister of the Interior Reports It To Attorney General.

MAY ARREST PRELATE.

Officials Deny Any Knowledge of Reported Execution of Zahuayo.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Minister of Interior Tejeda has issued a statement declaring that an interview said to have been given to a New York newspaper by Archbishop Mora Del Rio of Mexico, violates the clause of the Mexican constitution prohibiting clergymen from criticizing the fundamental laws of Mexico or the Mexican Government.

Therefore, says the statement, the interview "has been cited to the Attorney-General for investigation." This is said to mean that if the Attorney-General finds the charges of Senor Tejeda justified the Government may order the arrest and trial of the Archbishop.

The Ministry of the Interior announces that it has no knowledge of excesses and of executions growing out of the religious situations which have been reported here by Archbishop Leopoldo Ruizy Flores of the State of Michoacan. The information which the Archbishop brought to this city was to the effect that two Catholic priests and between 27 and 37 Catholic citizens were executed after an all-day battle between troops and Catholics in the town of Zahuayo. The Bishop estimated that fifty persons had been killed in the battle.

The economic boycott continues to depress business and there seemingly are no prospects for reconciliation of the completely opposed positions of the Catholic episcopate and the Government.

Harrision Star Player In Petes Victory At Belleville

PETES MAKE SURE OF BERTH IN CENTRAL LEAGUE PLAYOFF BY DEFEATING BELLEVILLE 7-6

Cannot Now Finish Worse Than in Tie for Second Place.

SPLENDID PITCHING

Hardill Turns Back Belleville Sluggers at Critical Moments.

(By C. J. B.)

Ten hectic innings had to be played in Belleville yesterday before Peterborough came out on top in the final scheduled game, the score at the end of the overtime being 7-6 for the visitors. This, added to the nineteen-inning tie played there on the last visit of the Petes, gave the Belleville fans a view of a great fight for supremacy lasting through twenty-nine innings. Yesterday's game was a struggle between a great pitcher and a heavy hitting team, and Jeff Hardill's team mates gave him such support that he had the edge.

As a result of yesterday's victory the Petes cannot finish worse than tie for second, and it will be necessary for Belleville to win tomorrow evening in Kingston and then win the replay of the long tie game of July 21 with Peteborough to bring about this finish. If the Ponies win tomorow it will be unnecessary to replay the game as its result would make no difference in the league standing.

There was too much Hardill for the Belleville team. The Peterboro hurler struck out nine of his opponents, including the last two men to face him, and allowed only eight hits, scattered over five innings. He was rarely in dififculty, keeping the homesters under control practically all through the game.

Belleville Hurlers Wild.

Ouellet and Goyer did the work for Belleville. The Fenelon Falls boy started but had nothing but his glove and lasted only four innings. Goyer then took up the burden and was constantly in trouble due to his wildness. The two Belleville pitchers struck out only two men during the entire game, and issued eight charities, six on walks and two to hit batsmen.

Wolfe led the assault on the Belleville hurlers. He had a perfect batting average of Ouellet, getting a single and two walks, while he drove in the winning run by a sharp single over second of Goyer's offerings. Collins and Hall also had two singles a piece. Hap Harrison scored three runs, including the first run of the game, the tieing run in the eighth, and the winning run in the tenth. By daring baserunning he stretched a hit over short into a double and was advanced to third, from which base he scored on Wolfe's single.

W. Mills was the leading batter for Belleville. He secured a double in the fifth, but there were no runners on and two out at the time, so it was wasted. His other hit, a fluke single on the right field foul line, came with two men on in the seventh, and sent hame the runs that gave Belleville a temporary lead.

Good Fielding.

The fielders of both teams ranged far and wide to cut off hits, some of which looked good for extra bases. Weir, Meagher, and Blakely were kept busy, handling fifteen chances between them without a slip. The Peterboro infield had few chances on ground balls but captured no fewer than eight pop flies. Helson made the best infield play of the game on a grounder from Weir, his throw crossing the diamond at high speed to beat the runner by a step. Hagerman and Hall pulled down several hard drives in left field.

The first was a scoreless inning. Wolfe walked and stole second and third but was left when Rose flied to left, Ash rolled to Weir, and Hall struck out. For Belleville Weir struck out, Meagher lifted to Johnston, H. Mills singled, and W. Mills struck out.

W. Mills' strikeout followed the first of many disputes with the umpires. He hit the ball down in front of the plate and Collins recovered it and threw him out. Mills claimed that the ball was foul, having glanced off his knee, and after consulting with the base umpire, Colling changed his decision from fair to foul. The foul was the second strike but when Hardill breezed one past Mills that one was designated "strike two", and it became necessary for Jeff to pitch another one, which also fooled the Belleville catcher.

The Petes opened the scoring in the second. Collins singled and was sacrificed along by Helson, who bunted to H. Mills. He took third on a passed ball and stayed there while Harrison was hit and stole second. Ouellet played Hardill's tap to the plate and Mills tagged Collins. Johnston singled to right and Hardill scored all the way from first when Goyer left the ball get away from him. Harrison also scored on the play. Wolfe was walked, putting two men on, but Peenie Mills made a great play on Rose's tap in front of the plate for the third out.

Belleville got one back. Blakely was hit and stole second. Umpire Woodley called him out at first but changed his decision on strenuous kicks by the Belleville players, who laid great stress on the fact that the bag was a little loose. Goyer's fly to Ash advanced Blakely to third, and he scored when Rose made a bad throw to the plate on Palmer's tap. Hagerman struck out and Ouellet popped to Rose.

Two More for the Petes.

Ash and Hall led off in the third with successive singles into left. They moved up a base when Collins hit to Meagher for an infield out, and scored on Helson's single to right. The latter was caught going to second on the throw when Mills shot the ball down to Meagher without bothering to try for Hall. Harrison rolled to Blakely.

Grounders by Weir and Meagher to Helson and Rose, and a pop fly to Hardill by Harry Mills, made up the Belleville effort in the third.

Ouellet's term on the mound was concluded in the fourth. Hardill singled and Johnston sacrificed. Hardill scored on Wolfe's single but the centre fielder was trapped when Ouellet intercepted Goyer's throw to the plate and threw to Meagher. Rose rolled to the box.

For Belleville, W. Mills flied to Hall. Blakely beat out a roller to Johnston and stole second. He went to third on Goyer's tap to Rose, but Palmer lifted a high one to Helson for the third out.

When the fifth inning started Goyer started to pitch, Ouellet going to right field. Ash lined to Weir. Hall and Collins singled, but Helson and Harrison flied to Palmer.

Belleville Climbs Up.

Hagerman got a life when Rose missed his grounder, and went to second on a passed ball. Ouellet struck out but Weir singled, sending Hagerman in. Weir stole second and third and scored on Meagher's single to centre. Meagher stole second and scored when Jeff Hardill threw to centre field in an effort to catch him off. Nobody covered the bag and the return was carelessly handled. Harry Mills lifted to Johnston and brother Willie doubled. Blakely flied to Ash, leaving Mills stranded with the tieing run.

Neither team made headway in the sixth. Hardill flied to Hagerman, Johnston rolled to Meagher, Wolfe walked and stole second, and Rose flied to Palmer. Goyer rolled to Rose and Palmer and Hagerman struck out, the latter being thrown out at first by Collins.

Three infield outs retired the Petes in the seventh. Ash rolled to Blakely and Hall to Weir. Collins walked and Hardill rolled to Blakely.

Belleville Takes the Lead.

The Trunks took the lead in their half. Gibson batted for Ouellet and started the rally with a hot single past second. Weir walked and was forced by Meagher, who stole second. Harry Mills popped to Helson for the second out and the Petes breathed easier but W. Mills caught one on the handle and dropped it just inside the right field foul line to score the two runners. He took second on the throw and stole third but Blakely rolled to Harrison.

The lead was not held very long. Harrison was walked and Hardill was hit. Johnston sacrificed neatly and Harrison scored on a passed ball, Hardill going to third. Wolfe struck out and Rose grounded to Meagher.

The home team secured a hit but no runs in their half. Goyer grounded to Rose. Palmer singled. Johnston took Hagerman's fly and Hardill threw out Gibson.

The ninth was scoreless although both teams threatened. Blakely disposed of Ash and Hall, the first on a fly and the second on a grounder. Collins drew a pass and Helson lifted to Hagerman.

The losers got two men on. Weir struck out and Meagher was passed. The latter stole second and went to third. Johnston threw wide to first on H. Mills' roller. W. Mills and Blakely went out on flies to Hall and Johnston.

The Winning Run.

Two were out when the winning run was scored. Harrison, first up, turned a Texas Leaguer into a two base hit by daring running. He stayed at second while Hardill flied to Gibson and went to third when Johnston hit to H. Mills. Wolfe shot a hot single over second to send Harrison home. Wolfe stole second, his third steal of the game, but was stranded when Blakely went away back for Rose's high one.

Hardill was master in the Belleville half. Goyer raised an easy one to Rose. Palmer and Hagerman struck out, the latter swinging wildly at the third one after making a number of fouls.

PEKING (United Press).—'Hard stomach Societies, featured by ritual and immunity beliefs reminiscent of Chinese Boxer days, are being formed in Hupeh province, according to reports received here.

The men belonging to these bands go through a course of Chinese gymnastics combined with religious rites. Finally they reach a point where their bodies are supposed to be impervious to sword or bullet. In various encounters with bandit bands these supposedly immune men have been hurt or killed, but the explanation is given that their immunity wears off quickly if the rites are not renewed.

FOUR PITCHERS USED IN GAME WITH BROOKLYN

Break-Up in the Eighth Gives Robins Easy Victory.

REDS RUN AMUCK

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Four runs in the eighth inning off Yde, Aldridge, Songer and Adams gave Brooklyn a 4 to 2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday. It was the first Dodger conquest in ten starts. Vance allowed twelve hits but scattered them.

Cincinnati ran amuck at Philadelphia yesterday and evened the series there by winning 21 to 3. Wally Pipp hit a homer in the third with the bags filled and Hargrave followed with a circuit smash into the bleachers. Walker hit a third homer in the seventh.

Jess Haines pitched his second shutout of the season against Boston yesterday and the visiting St. Louis team won 2 to 0. Haines held the warriors to five hits. Boston fielded brilliantly.

At the Polo Grounds Jimmy Ring was pounded from the box in the first inning and Chicago defeated the Giants 11 to 1. Two bases on balls, two errors and a hit gave the visitors four runs in the fourth. Hank Wilson led the Cubs' attack with a triple and a double.

RECORDS BROKEN IN RACES AT GOSHEN TRACK

Past Time Records Destroyed in Three-Year-Old Trot.

FASTER THAN 2.10

Cinema, Established New Time on the Half-Mile Heat.

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press)—Three records were broken in the three year old trot of the Grand Circuit races here yesterday. A race mark fell when all three heats were trotted faster than 2:10.

Cinema, bay filly of the Arden Homestead stables, established new time of 2:09 1-4 for three year olds on a half mile track while Peter Hayes set the same mark for geldings.

READING LOSES STRAIGHT GAME TO THE LEAFS

Toronto Wins Unlucky Number Victory From the Keys.

BISONS DEFEATED

Quellich's Home Run Gives Orioles the Lead Over Bisons.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Pres).—Reading ran its streak of losses to thirteen yesterday when the Leafs nosed out the Keys 8 to 6 in a twelve inning contest at Reading.

The champion Orioles defeated the Bisons 4 to 3 at Baltimore. Both Parnham and Ferguson pitched fine ball but five passes by the Herd hurler and Quellich's homer gave Baltimore the edge.

At Jersey City the Skeeters defeated Syracuse, 4 to 3. The Stors scored all their runs in the third inning but the Skeeters came from behind to tie in the fifth and win in the sixth.

Rochester lost at Newark 6-7, in an ordinary contest.

ALEX. CARRICK TO CONTEST IN JUNIOR FINALS

Brother of Professional Golfer Will Compete in Western Championship.

SEVERAL OPPONENTS

His Third Round Match Will be With Francis Clay.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Alex Carrick, junior member of the famous Carrick brothers, of Toronto, who fought his way brilliantly into the third round in the western junior championship at Edgewater, is the only one who can keep the tournament emblem out of Illinois.

A remarkable series of upsets in the first and second round play yesterday left the young Canadian in competition with seven Illinois entries, four of them Chicagoans. Carrick won in the afternoon from J. Baldwin, of Bloomington, Ill., 2 up.

His third round match today will be with Francis Clary of Chicago, whose 75 was yesterday's best medal score.

SENATORS WIN DOUBLE-HEADER FROM THE YANKS

Tate's Homer in Eleventh Brings in the Winning Runs.

MANAGER BANISHED

Substitute Produces Single That Won Game in the First.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press).—Though Babe Ruth hit his thirty-seventh home run at Washington yesterday, Tate of the Senators hit a betetr one and Washington won both games from the Yanks by identical score of 5-4. Tate slashed out his circuit blow in the eleventh inning of the second game to give the Senators the victory. Stanley Harris, Washington manager, was banished for protesting a decision in the first and his substitute, Stewart, produced the single that won the game.

After pitching brilliantly for twelve innings, Shaute weakened after two were out in the thirteenth and Chicago scored five runs, winning 7 to 2 at Cleveland. Falk made fiv ehits in sixt times up and knocked a homer.

An erro of judgment by Shaute allowed Chicago to score its first run and prevented him winning in nine innings. With a runner on third he elected to throw to first for the put out and allowed the runner to score.

The Detroit Tigers bunched three doubles and two singles in the fourth inning for three runs and won from the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 4 to 1. A wild pitch and a fumble in this inning contributed to the result. These were the only games scheduled yesterday.

The NUT Cracker

By JOE WILLIAMS

Mr. O'Goofty was glad to hear Babe Ruth kissed the cardinal's ring at Chicago but he still gets a bigger kick out of seeing him kiss the old apple.

They say birds of a feather flock together, yet you are seldom able to get two eagles in a row on a golf course.

Hard-headed people are in their proper element on many courses where golf balls have a habit of bouncing off skulls.

Now that Fathers' Day is out of the way, we might hold a grandfathers' day and invite the Washington pitching staff.

It develops that Jess Sweetser carried a rabbit foot in winning the British amateur. . . . Not to mention, of course, a powerful driver, an unerring iron and a faultless putter.

On second thought, the Britons probably suspected Mr. Sweetser carried a mule foot, considering the manner in which he kicked them around.

It is always easy to convince the ultimate victor that a rabbit foot helped turn the trick. . . . But did anyone ever interview the 400 others who carried rabbit feet in the same struggle and finished among the also rans?

In view of the gentleman's vast ability to come from behind, it might be a fine idea to turn the Red Sox and the Phillies over to him for a season or so.

Every member of the Yale crew of '86 is still living. . . . But it must be remembered that the college boys of that period did not make their own gin.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 12—Mr. and Mrs. J. Kirby and family of Sault Ste. Marie are visiting Mrs. Kirby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hoskin.

Mrs. A. McGregor and son, Ralph K., left on Monday to reside in Peterboro, where the latter will serve his apprenticeship with the Dawe-Pearson Printing Company Limited. Since coming to Campbellford Mrs. McGregor has made a large number of friends who will wish her every success in her new home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Denike spent Sunday with Mrs. Denike's father, Mr. G. Dingman of Morganston.

Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Word and son Junior of Syracuse who have been visiting Mrs. Word's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson, Rear Street, left on Sunday for their home. Miss Hazel Atkinson returned with them and will spend several weeks in Syracuse and Rome.

Mr. and Mrs. James Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. J. Atkinson motored from Rome, N.Y., on Saturday and are spending their holidays with friends in town and vicinity.

Fred Skitch of Port Hope is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Frederick.

Mrs. B. Skitch and Margaret and Donald returned to Port Hope on Sunday after spending the past two weeks with Mrs. Skitch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick.

Miss Mary Taylor of Peterboro spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor, Sebastapol street.

Mr. Edward Clemens met with a serious accident on Tuesday at the paper mill when a large plank fell striking him on the head. His condition is serious.

Mrs. Jack Storie entertained a number of young ladies at her home on Friday evening in honor of Miss Olive Hay, whose marriage takes places this week. The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion and the bride was well "showered" with many useful articles. A pleasant social evening was spent after which the hostess served a dainty lunch.

HOW TO SWIM

by Lillian Cannon

BY LILLIAN CANNON.

A very important point in the back stroke is the coast. The movement of the legs and arms should be simultaneous so that the maximum of headway can be attained.

Then at the end of the stroke one keeps the body straight and lets the impetus gained drive one through the water until it is expended.

It will take some practice to get the most out of the coast, but it is very necessary that one get into the habit of making his strokes and kicks vigorously and at the the same time, and then straighten out and let the body slip through the water until the impetus is gone.

For there will come the resting periods.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

JOE NOVAK—VALUE OF INSTRUCTION.

If one is really anxious to master some of the finer points of golf it is surprising how many valuable tips are received during a thorough course of instruction. If these are heeded and remembered they will be of great assistance to the ambitious golfer. After learning to drive well it is necessary to develop a consistent short game because it is here the strokes are saved and the player who concentrates on being dead to the pin has made an important step in the right direction.

Of course the importance of consistently good putting must not be overlooked. Many matches go to the player who putts well and runs them down with consistent regularity. So to play good golf there are three important things to master driving approaching and putting.

One final suggestion on approaching should prove valuable. The whole thought is this: In approaching it i the speed and not the length of the swing that determines the distance the ball is to go.

Moviegraphs

NEW YORK.—They call her "Old Mary."

For 12 years she has been waiting table at the First National studios here. She is an institution.

Just how she has escaped being signed up for extra or character roles no one seems to know. Without a touch of make-up she suggests better than most players the old time farm servant, the veteran boarding house-keeper, or the kindly, hard-worked old lady.

Yet here she is in her old-fashioned, neat ginghams, going from table to table where sit the famous mimes in their costly masquerades—for all the world like a fantastic scene from some whimsical film play.

* * *

"Old Mary" has no illusions about "stars." Nor does she make obeisance before them. Quite the contrary. She is essentially maternal and her sympathies and attentions go to the young newcomers.

The million-dollar faces may open with protests and demands for immediate attention, but "Old Mary" goes about in her own sweet way. She is not to be awed. She's been at it too long.

The first National plant stands on the site of the old Biograph studio, of fragrant memory.

One of the few unscarred survivors of the Biograph days is Jack Mulhall.

This is Mulhall's home neighborhood. As a Bronx lad he would linger just outside the lot, hoping to get a peep at what was going on, just as many youngsters do today.

Time dispelled the awe in which he held the place and one day he took courage in hand and asked for a job as extra. To his amagement he got it. But he had to brush up on acting and spent some time in a dramatic school thereafter.

He's working there now with Dorothy Mackaill, and when not on the set he may be seen strolling about revisiting the playgrounds of boyhood.

HOLLYWOOD.—Commodore J. S. Blackton, producer and director, who has been an important figure in the picture world for 30 years, wants the world to know that he isn't an old man.

The commodore, who came by the title as skipper of the celebrated New York Yacht Club, bridles at the constant, if admiring, references to his veteranship in movies. He feels that the public visions him as a film Methuselah.

As a matter of fact, Blackton is 49, having entered the infant screen industry at the age of 19, when, as a sketch artist for the N.Y. World, a meeting with Thomas Edison determined his career. One may be long in the movies and still be in his prime in years, both of which Commodore Blackton is.

* * *

From the midst of Hollywood's sleek and wisecracking modernity rises the ritualistic chant of an ancient people scarcely touched by "civilized" custom. On the ranch of Harry Carey, within the city limits, live a few score Navajo Indian employees.

Whenever there is birth, death, marriage or sickness among them, the presence of doctor or priest may be tolerated, but always in addition to such service there is the native rite. It is one of the film town's strange anachronisms. A folk aloof, peering down from another era on the alien antics of the movie makers.

Karl Dane, who gave the world a laugh as the grimacing yokel "Slim," one of the comic heroes of "The Big Parade," has been sued by his wife for separate maintenance. She charges non-support.

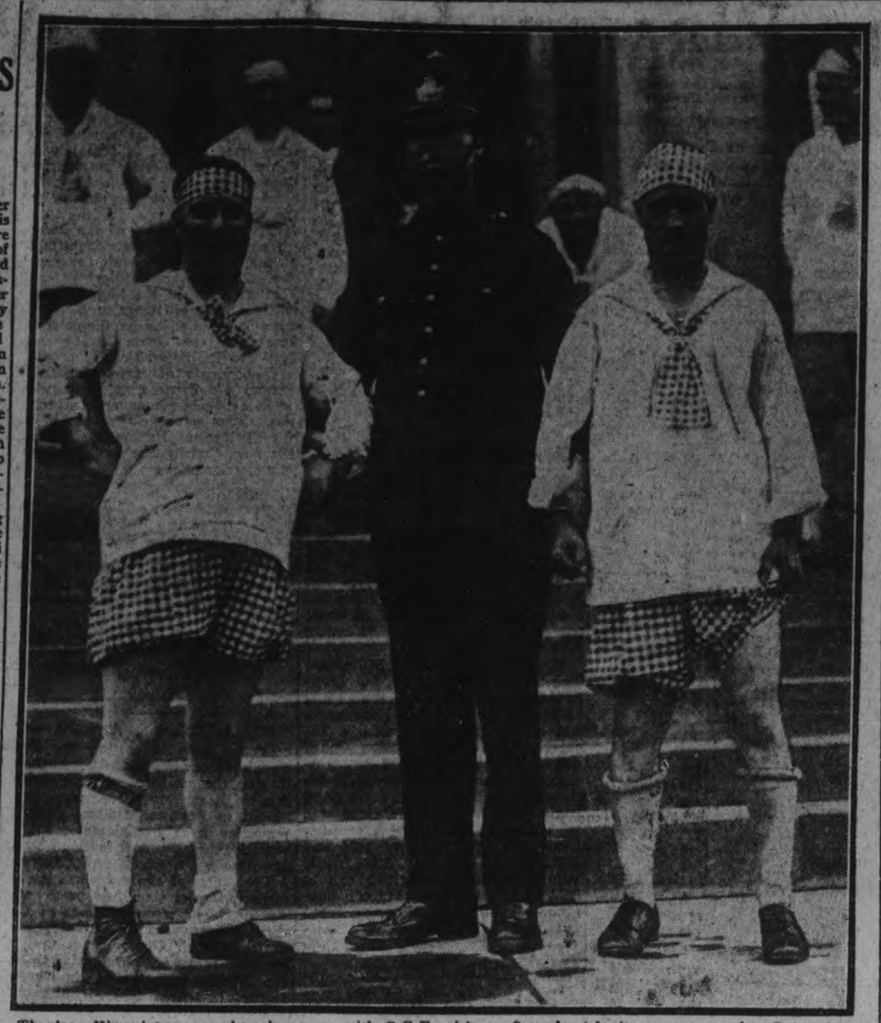
Film exhibitors and some producers are viewing with alarm the joint showing of Mary Pickford's "Sparrows" and Douglas Fairbanks' "Black Pirate" at Sid Grauman's Hollywood theater. They fear the innovation may spread, and that moviegoers may demand two feature pictures for one price. Harrowing prospect for the exhibitors, but unlikely to become customary. It took five hours to show the premier double bill.



They're Kiwanians, caught in Toronto. The Peterborough Club members look better in their girlish outfits, which are all ready for the game with C.G.E. girls on Saturday at Riverside Park. It'll be a real ladies' game, if the C.G.E. girls don't cut up rough. Proceeds are for the Kiwanis underprivileged child work in Peterborough.

Diamond Disputes Decided

By BILLY EVANS

How is it possible for a pitcher to be taken out of the box and then returned to his position as pitcher?

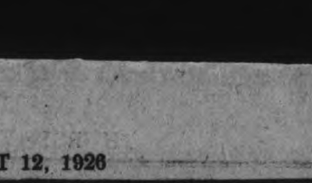
* * *

If a manager, for some reason desires to substitute a pitcher against a certain batsman and then revert to his original pitching selection, he may do so by simply shifting the pitcher to some other position while the substitute pitcher is performing.

In other words, a player may play in more than one position, in fact as many positions as desired, provided he does not leave the game.

Recently in the majors, a manager sent his right-handed pitcher to right field, while he used a southpaw against a left-handed batter and then put the right-hander back in the box after the southpaw had disposed of the batsman.

BILLY EVANS Says



Time ly Batters.

The real value of a player's batting average is largely determined by his ability to drive in runs in a pinch.

Champion batters are not always the best in the big crisis. In this respect Rogers Hornsby of the St. Louis Cardinals is the exception. Not only did he lead the National League in batting last season but also in runs batted in as well.

In the American League I can think of no more timely batsman than Earl Sheely of the Chicago White Sox. In a pinch he is a more dangerous batsman than many with a better mark. Bob Meusel is equally capable.

American League pitchers have a keen respect for the batting prowess of Sheely and Meusel with runners on the bases.

* * *

Most Valuable Arm.

Who has the best throwing arm among the outfielders in the American League was a question recently put to me.

Without much hesitation I would say that Bob Meusel of the New York Yankees had the most valuable arm.

It is just possible there might be one or two outfielders who can throw the ball, a greater distance but I doubt it. Meusel not only gets great distance but remarkable accuracy to his throws. He is a right-hander.

Speaking of left-handed throwers it would be difficult to overlook the arm of Tris Speaker, veteran outfielder of the Cleveland Indians.

Speaker still gets great distance and uncanny accuracy to his heaves.

* * *

Tough Breaks.

When things break badly for a ball club there seems to be no end of the hard luck that can camp on its trail.

Handicapped almost from the very start of the season by illness and injuries, the St. Louis Browns have unearthed about every possible way there is to lose ball games.

No member of the St. Louis pitching staff has been more unfortunate in this respect than Milt Gaston, the sterling right-hander.

No hurler in the American League has more stuff, yet he has been unable to win consistently. I have seen Gaston lose at least four games since the opening of the season that could have just as easily gone into the won column had Dame Fortune chose to smile on him.

A dropped fly ball that should have been caught, a badly bounding grounder that should have been stopped, yet hopped over the infiielder's head for a base hit, failure to touch a base and a wild heave are four ways I have seen games tossed away for Gaston.

* * *

Hornsby's Vow.

"Send me back to the Coast League; I would rather play there anyway."

Since Southpaw Walter Mails first a me to the majors that has been his battle cry. The big noise in the Coast League, he never seemed to care just how he fared in the big leagues.

This spring Rogers Hornsby told Mails the Coast League was scratched.

"If you don't deliver for me, Syracuse is your next stop," is the way Hornsby put it up to Mails. He figured removing the Coast League berth as a possibility would help Mails take the big show seriously.

It didn't and Hornsby made good his threat. Mails is now with Syracuse.

* * *

Natural Batsman.

Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics is one of the best natural batsmen in baseball today. In his second year in the majors he averaged .386, concrete proof of his ability.

Despite a stance and style contrary to all baseball conventions, Simmons is one of the most feared hitters in the league. Prone to pull away badly from the plate, he manages to get 'em safe.

Due to his habit of pulling, Simmons last year was regarded as a dead left-field hitter. He has overcome that habit and now hits to all fields. Recently on the hit and run in one game, I saw him twice hit through the spot vacated by the second baseman who was covering.

This greatly improves his team value, since he is much harder to play.

SOFTBALL

Last night at the Oval the Canadian Woollens defeated the Examiner in a hard-hitting game of softball by a score of 20-13.

The game was a hard hiting affair and the pitchers were touched up for hits every inning. The fielding was not any too brilliant.

Manager Phillips used two pitchers in an attempt to stop the fusilade of hits but of no avail. Dormer started and Scates finished. The rest of the team did not give their heavers the best of support.

Ira Dundas worked on the mound for the Woollens and although he was hit hard at times he was given good support by his team mates. His battery mate, J. Robertson, turned in a good card behind the bat.

V. Robertson with four hits in five times up, and Dundas, E. Vinette and Smith with three hits, and Montgomery with five were the heavy hitters of the Wollens aggregation. Taylor and Clarke with four hits out of five times up and McCauley and Baker with three hits out of five times up were the sluggers of the Examiner outfit.

Fielding features were supplied by Johnston in left field for the newspaper boys and Smith at first base for the Wollens.

The line ups:

Examiner—Scates, ss, p; Dugan, c; Tedford rf; Johnson, lf; Wallwork, lf; Clark, m, 2b; Taylor, 1b; McCauley, 2b, 3b; Dorrington, cf; Baker, 3b, cf; Dormer ss, p.

By innings:

KEENE AND COGS PLAY TOMORROW

Second Game in Finals Should Provide Interesting Contest.

EXHIBITION PARK.

Baseball activities will be resumed at Exhibition Park to-morrow evening, when Keene and Cognawagas meet in the second game of the county finals. Keene has the edge on the series, having won at home last Monday, and the Cogs must win to stay in the race. The contest should be a fine pitchers' battle with Max Robertson twirling for the visitors and Jack Billingsley for the homesters. Billingsley has yet to be defeated by Keene, but at that he will have to be at his best to stop the Otonabee crew. Both teams have been instructed to be ready for a start at 5.30 o'clock.

LADIES' SOFTBALL ANOTHER GAME

Final Arrangements Made For Appearance of Canadian Ladies.

After many attempts to arrange definitely for a game with the Canadian ladies' softball team of Toronto, it has been finally arranged for their appearance here on Tuesday evening next, August 17th, at Riverside Park, when they will meet the C.G.E. ladies softball team in what should be the fastest ladies' softball game of the season.

This is the Toronto team that everyone has been looking for, and the sale of tickets is going on with brisk demand.

WILLS' MANAGER SAYS DEMPSEY FEARS NEGRO

Calls Champion Biggest Liar in World and a Double-Crosser.

READY TO FIGHT.

Commission Recommends That Dempsey Get License and Fight Tunney.

NEW YORK, August 12. Canadian Press. — The State Athletic Commission to-day by a vote of 2 to 1 recommended that Jack Dempsey be granted a license to meet Gene Tunney in a contest for the world's heavyweight championship, at Yankee Stadium, September 16. James A. Farley ,the chairman, held out for a match between Dempsey and Harry Wills, the negro.

The action of the commission paves the way for the license committee to re-consider its action in denying a license to Dempsey last Tuesday. The license committee will deal with the application on Monday.

Paddy Mullins, the grey haired manager of Wills, and Dempsey nearly came to blows in a heated argument outside the commission offices after the decision had been reached.

"You may be champion, but you are also the biggest liar in the world," Mullins shouted at the champion.

Dempsey's face was aflame with rage.

"It's a good thing you are an old man," he cried.

"I may be old, but I can lick you," Mullins replied. "You are afraid of Wills. You double crossed us."

Just then Gene Normile, Dempsey's personal representative, stepped between the two and led the title-holder out of the building.

ELEPHANT HUNT IN B. C. FOREST

Search For Circus Animals is Becoming Very Dangerous.

ONE MAN ATTACKED.

CRANBROOK, B.C., August 12.—Canadian Press. — Scores of men have joined in the effort to recapture the three circus elephants on a rampage in the densely wooded and mountainous country around Cranbrook since they were stampeded by a little dog on Sunday last.

Searchers returning here state that the animals have separated and are in an ugly mood. Each hour the hunt gets more dangerous. Already reports received here tell of the elephants attacking a man. Riding through the heavily wooded country some miles from here on Wednesday an Indian was chased. Without warning the elephant plunged from the dense underbrush. The Indian was thrown from his horse but managed to escape the charging animal, without injury. The elephant took after the horse but after a short chase turned and went into the bush.

An aeroplane carrying an expert animal trainer will join in the search to-day.

FIREMEN WIN BY BIG SCORE

Defeat C.G.E. 11-1 at Softball Last Night—Errors Costly.

GOOD PITCHING.

The C.G.E. suffered their worst defeat of the season at the hands of the Firemen last night in eCntral Park. In the nine innings the C.G.E. got only two hits and there was only one ball hit to the outfield. The Firemen, on the other hand, hit the ball hard up until the sixth innings, when Powell was replaced by McCarney, who pitched very effective ball in the last three innings. Delahay and Nichols each got home runs.

When the C.G.E. men were able to get on bases their base stealing and running had the Firemen in hot water but their only fault was that they did not get on often enough. Dunkerley had four strike outs and walked five men. Powell walked one man. Nichols was the hitting star of the game, three hits in five times to bat. The errors were divided equally on each side, the C.G.E.'s being more costly than the Firemen's.

KIWANIS DRESS VERY CHARMING

Game on Saturday Should Be One Scream After Another.

REAL LADY-LIKE.

"I'm sure they'll look very charming," said the lady in charge of preparing the costumes for the Kiwanis softball team for Saturday's game. Too much cannot be told about the dress, but the business men who are members of Kiwanis softball team are for once going to look quite demure. Some fear has been expressed that Carl McLean's style in heaving may be cramped by the skirts or bloomers or whatever he will be forced to wear.

The game is to be called at 3 o'clock on Saturday at James Stevenson Park (Riverside), and the proceeds are for the underprivileged child work of Kiwanis Club. It will be a real ladies' game, if the C.G.E. girls don't get rough. They have been winning games steadily, and will likely try to take down the Kiwanians a peg. And the Kiwanians, battling for the supremacy of their sex, are not likely to let the girls win easily.

It will be a game worth watching.

DEATH STALKING DUSKY MAGNATE IN PARCHED WEST

Government Says W.K.Hale Murdered Whole Clan to Win Riches.

BOMB KILLS TWO.

Roan Horse Had $25,000 Life Insurance. He was Shot From Ambush.

GUTHRIE, Okla.—The dark cloak of mystery and dread that covered the oil-be-spattered valleys of the Osage hills for four long years is rising at last—unveiling to public view details of a chain of murders so startling that they seem hardly credible.

The long strings of electric lights that wealthy Indians hung about their homes every night for years are being taken down. No longer, when you knock on the door of an Indian's residence at night, are the house lights suddenly doused and rifles hurriedly cocked in the darkness within. Those features of the long reign of terror are over.

The story of the murders is complicated—a series of mysteries within mysteries. Through it, dimly seen but visible with ominous portent, moves the figure of bluff, hard-boiled William K. Hale, who is under indictment for first degree murder, and who, the federal government charges, sought by wiping out a whole clan to make himself a millionaire many times over.

To begin with, there was Lizzie Bigheart, a full-blood. Her husband died after she had borne him two daughters, Grace and Alice. She thereupon married Ote Q., another full-blood, and they had four daughters Nina, Rita, Anna and Mollie.

Smothered to Death.

Five years ago Lizzie Q. was mortally ill of cancer. In accordance with the Osage custom, the aged members of the tribe gathered about her bed, smothered her to death. Lizzie Q's head-rights in the tribal wealth (a head-right amounts now to $15,000 a year, and Lizzie had three) devolved upon her daughters.

The daughter, Nina, married a white man, Bill Smith. She soon died, and he married her sister, Rita. On March 10, 1923, their home at Fairfax, Okla., was destroyed by a bomb and Smith and his wife were killed.

The third daughter, Anna, married Joe Brown, an Indian. He died shortly thereafter, leaving Anna his head-right to add to her own. But Anna didn't live long to enjoy this wealth. Shortly before the deaths of Bill Smith and Rita she was murdered, by someone unknown, on a lonely road.

This left but one of the daughters of Lizzie Q. The two daughters by her first marriage had died. And Mollie, the surviving daughter, was heiress to the head-rights of all of them. Altogether she has nine—a total income of $185,000 a year.

And Mollie is the wife of Ernest Burkhart, nephew of Hale and under indictment with him for murder.

That is the story of Lizzie Q and her family, and the way death stalked through to leave Burkhart's wife sole recipient of the entire fortune.

But it is not the whole story. Here is a separate case as dark and sordid as any murder story of the century.

Indian Poisoned.

One George Bigheart, an Osage (no relation to Lizzie Bigheart) fell in with Hale. Hale, it is charged, got George drunk and induced him to sign over to him, Hale, all of his property. Then while in Oklahoma City, according to the allegations, Bigheart was poisoned. It is even charged that a physician put quicklime in Bigheart's body after his death to obliterate the traces of the poison.

But Bigheart was suspicious of Hale, and before his death he telephoned former Judge W. W. Vaughn from Pawhuska to protect him. Vaughn arrived too late, but collected more than a little evidence of what had happened. Then he boarded a night train at Oklahoma City for Pawhuska.

He never reached Pawhuska. Sometime during the night someone attacked him as he slept and threw his body out the Pullman window. It was found next morning beside the tracks.

Then there was Roan Horse, who had a 25,000 life insurance policy made out to Hale. Roan Horse was shot to death from ambush one night in January, 1923, as he drove along a country road. It is his death on which the federal indictment against Hale is based.

Other Unsolved Mysteries.

And those are not all the murders. There are more that are still unexplained. There was Joe Yellow-horse, for instance, shot to death from the darkness in April, 1923. There was Kenneth Rogers, killed as he sat in his house shortly after-wards. There was George Grammer killed in an automobile accident that was not like other accidents in that the other occupants of his car escaped without a scratch. There was Curly Johnson, who was poisoned just after federal investigators had found that he could enlighten them on some of the other murders. And there were other deaths, the Indians say, that were never formally reported to the authorities.

That is what the Osage reign of terror was. That is what made each Indian light his house at night and beware of going to the door to answer a knock after dusk unless he had a gun. That is what set some Indians to talking of strange spirits, of hypnotism exerted by certain white men.

And that is the thing that has ended since the federal grand jury got busy.

FIRE THREATENS NELSON WATER

Is Burning Near City's New Watershed and Pipe Line.

VOLUNTEERS CALLED.

NELSON, B.C., Aug. 12 (Canadian Press). — An appeal for one hundred volunteers to fight a new forest fire that broke out near Nelson yesterday afternoon was issued last night by Mayor J. A. McDonald. The fire is on James Milne's ranch above the Great Northern Railway track which skirts the upper part of the city, and is burning on both sides of the new Five-Mile Creek pipe line. If the fire is not checked it will spread to the city's new watershed and do serious damage.

ATTACK VICTIM IS UNCONSCIOUS

Charge of Attempted Murder May Be Increased at Any Minute.

REMAND FOR WEEK.

TORONTO, August 12. — Canadian Press. — Facing two charges of attempted murder, in connection with an attack made upon his wife, Mrs. George Strobel, and his step-daughter, Miss Nora Jones, George Strobel appeard in the police court to-day and was remanded for one week, without bail. Crown Attorney Murphy stated that the prisoner was facing two charges of attempted murder, which might result any minute in murder charges.

Miss Jones is still unconscious today and grave doubts are expressed concerning her condition.

KIWANIS CLUB IS PREPARED

Carl MacLean Selected To Pitch Against C.G.E. Ladies on Saturday.

A REAL GAME.

Carl MacLean has been selected by the Kiwanis club for a great honor. He will pitch for the Kiwanians in their game against the C. G. E. ladies at James Stevenson park on Saturday afternoon. As the game in addition to providing entertainment and sport, will give the fans an opportunity to assist the club's work for underprivileged children, there should be a large attendance.

Babe Vincent, the C. G. E. hurler, has attained a speed and skill surpassing that of most men, and the Kiwanian who secures a hit can be proud of his feat, while her team mates nobly back her up with well nigh faultless fielding. The skill of the men especially when hampered by strange garments, is unknown, and the best way to find out how good they are is to visit the park on Saturday afternoon and watch them.

The Oracle

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute —Milton.

Slim.—You have a natural strong inclination toward matters connected with science or business achievement, and should be able to accomplish much along these lines. You have also, however, a handicap in a shell of reserve and retirement that surrounds you most of the time, and must always fight against shyness, introspection and a morbid outlook on life, caused by this habit of reserve and living to yourself. You have a good deal of ability in working out large enterprises and are dominant in home and family life, although frequently considered as cold by those who do not know you well. You are strong in your likes and dislikes, and thrive best when surrounded by those you like. You have a fear of burglars and robbery. You are generous, kind-hearted and noble, but are apt to be very jealous of your friends and companions. You are proud and upright, and are sensitive to slights. You should seek always the company of pleasant people and things, striving to realize that the world is just what you make it. You are fond of money and may become miserly as you grow older. You are sometimes cruel and vindictive and are quite changeable. You have strong healing powers within yourself, but should never allow any disease to gain a hold on you, as medicine is slow to act with you. Always think "Why should anyone wish to harm me?" You were born on Friday. Your colors are tan and buff.

C. M. O.—You have quite a natural aptitude for matters of the mind, also of science and business and should do well in any of these ways. You would also make a good nurse. As your way of success in life, as long as you remain unmarried, lies along the road of real hard work, in keeping always at your job, whatever that may be, you should try to choose an occupation that will bring you in commensurate returns for the activity you put into it. You are not apt to marry young, but when you do, you will be very happy, if you try always to conquer a tendency to find fault, to scold and to nag, traits which you may not notice in yourself, but which are quite pre dominant in your makeup. Especially when sick, you are apt to be very disagreeable. You are often nervous and dissatisfied, constantly wishing that you had done something else or gone somewhere else. Remember that you carry your ego, which makes for happiness or unhappiness, with you and that you make your own life in most things. You are very kind and sympathetic to people who are sick or in trouble. You are suspicious and easily offended and should cultivate trust and confidence in associates. You are affectionate and self-sacrificing. Try to keep your hands and feet still. You were born on Monday. Your colors are tan and buff.

Sim.—You have a strong, active, creative nature, self-centred, however and inclined to disregard the rights of others and to domineer over them. You have also a very great deal of the elements of change and uncertainty in your character, and these do not make for happiness, either for yourself or for your associates and family Particularly in married life, this quality of fickleness will bring you much unhappiness and suffering, unless you resolve while still young to control it. You have much ability, both of head and hands, but you have quite a materialistic tendency, liking the pleasures and good things of life to too great an extent. You will be better and happier when your spiritual nature is developed as much as possible. You have great possibilities within yourself, if you will only reach out for what you want and control your tendency to domineer and violent temper. You have a talent along some special line and should cultivate, it, regardless of others' advice to the contrary. You are very fond of embroidery, in which you excel, but you do not like housework. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are the many variations of flame, from rose and yellow to gas blue shades. The date you ask about, a Saturday, is one for co-operating with your fellows and lending a helping hand.

STRIKE ATTAINS SUCCESS.

TANGIER, (United Press.—Tobacco workers hairdressers and cafe waiters here, went on strike recently in a demand for higher wages.

Public demand for higher wages hour mass meeting were held in the center of the city. With the "essential luxuries" tied up, the strike was sucessful and the increase was grant ed.

AROUND THE CITY.

The counting of the grains of wheat in the jar whose contents were estimated by many people in connection with the social held recently under the auspices of the Immaculate Conception Church, took place on Tuesday evening. The prize thoroughbred Holstein calf offered as a prize to the lucky guesser was won by Rodney Ecobichon, 703 Aylmer Street North, whose guess of 19,113 grains came nearest to the correct number in the jar.

The bank clearings for the week amounted to $701,085.

About fifteen of the members of the Outdoor Club of the Young Women's Christian Asosciation held a jolly picnic at Chemong Park on Tuesday, preceded by a swim in the Lake, Mrs. H. J. Boyle kindly loaning her cottage for the girls' use in dressing. The al fresco supper in the Park was followed by a programme of stunts.

Wheat Price Drops Down Crop Report Not Accepted

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—Influenced largely by unofficial reports from Canada, discrediting the Canadian Government crop estimate, wheat values showed an early downward trend. Advices were also at hand that domestic receipts south-west continue heavy and that Kansas City arrivals will increase throughout the remainder of the week. Opening ¼ to ½ lower, wheat showed no lasting power to rally. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise easy, corn starting at 3-8 off to 1-8 cent up, and subsequently declining all around.

According to authoritative private information current, the Canadian wheat crop in the three Prairie Provinces will run from 335,000,000 bushels to 360,000,000 bushels, against the latest Canadian Government estimate of 318,000,000 bushels. A forecast of 335,000,000 bushels today from a leading Chicago expert attracted much attention.

The movement of new Canadian wheat promised to be earlier this season than usual. Today's reports here indicate that the movement from Western Canada should be liberal in three weeks.

New High Records Made By Stocks On Mine Market

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press.) — Lake Shore Gold Mines toched a new high for all time in the trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. It closed at 13.25, its high for the session, for a net gain of 25 cents per share. The market was active with prices firm.

Teck Hughes also touched a new high for all time at 4.01, but dropped one cent and closed two cents higher at 4.00. Wright-Hargreaves was active and strong with a 14-point gain to 8.39. Tough Oakes was up one half to 43 1-2. Unchanged were Hollinger at 19.50, Barry Holly at 57 and Kirkland Lake at 1.10, while McIntqre was off ten to 25.90. In the silver list, Keeley dropped ten to 1.74 and Bourlamque two to 1.05, while Mining Corporation firmed one to 3.92 and Canadian Lorrain one-quarter to 91 3-4. Noranda eased five cents to 17.65.

Brazilian and Smelters Feature the Stock Market

TORONTO, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press.—Brazilian Traction was the centre of interest in the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today through its great activity and strength, but Consolidated Smelters was also a focal point on account of its advance of 3 1-8 to 33 5-8. Trading in other stocks was light and featureless.

Brazilian opened strongly and closed at noon with a net gain of 2 1-4 at 110, and a turnover for the session of 2,715 shares. International Petroleum firmed 1-4 to 34 3-4, and Imperial Oil was up 1-2 to 36 1-2. British Columbia Fishing and Goodderham and Worts New were unchanged 75 and 29 respectively. International Nickel was also un-3-4 to 90. Standard Bank gained 1 to 192. Lake Shore Mines touched a new high for all time at 13.10 for a net advance of 10 cents. Dome was off 10 to 11.60, and McIntyre was unchanged at 26.00.

Market Rallies To-day General Motors Leading

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (Canadian Press).—The stock market rallied briskly today. Operators working for higher prices were helped by a large quota of constructive trade news. General Motors opened at a 3 1-2 advance, then back to 198 on selling by bear traders who apparently insisted on touching off enormous quantities of stop loss orders around 200.

Immediate support was forthcoming, however, and the stock quickly rose to above 200, and then on to 205, where it was still meeting with fairly good support in the early afternoon. U. S. Steel Common and Dupont also made a quick recovery after touching new low levels for the week.

Erratic fluctuations of the industrials shifted some of the investment buying to the rails, with the result that Atchison and Norfolk and Western touched the highest prices in their history. Regular dividends were declared today on the common stocks of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific roads.

With plenty of funds available around 4 1-2 per cent, pools were again active in a number of specialties, sharp gains being recorded by Air Reduction, Burroughs Adding Machine, Cudahy Packing, and Electric Refrigeration.

BULGARIA ASKED TO KEEP PEACE

Note From Three Balkan Nations Fololws Frontier Troubles.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 12. — A collective note requesting the Bulgarian authorities to take measures to stop the activities of Bulgarian comitadji, or irregulars, was presented to Foreign Minister Bouroff yesterday by the diplomatic representatives of Bulgaria's neighbors, Jugoslavia, Roumania and Greece.

The tone of the note was much more moderate than had been anticipated. The representatives of the three countries, while stressing the desire of their Governments to live on good terms with Bulgaria, called the latter's attention to the necessity of bringing to a definite end the activities of the comitadji, which have caused unrest for some time along the borders.

The three countries ask Bulgaria to order the frontier authorities to fulfil their obligations, not only for the sake of good neighborly relations, but also in accordance with existing conventions for surveillance of the border. Bulgaria is asked to take most severe measures in order to render impossible in the future the activities of all revolutionary organizations.

Foreign Minister Bouroff, replying verbally to the diplomats, said that he would send a written reply after the text of the note was submitted to his Government.

LIBERALS OF HASTINGS-PETERBOROUGH UNITED IN OPINION THAT THEY SHOULD PICK CANDIDATE TO CONTEST CONSTITUENCY IN FEDERAL VOTE

All Those Nominated Withdraw Their Names But W. N. Gilroy, of Coe Hill, Who Agrees To Reconsider the Matter.

MOST ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING.

Every Part of the Riding Represented—Officers of Association Are Re-elected — Many Speakers Discuss Political Matters.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

MARMORA, Aug. 13.— That a Liberal candidate should be nominated to contest the riding of Hastings-Peterborough in the forthcoming election was the dominant note struck by all the speakers at the Liberal convention held here yesterday. Over one hundred and fifty delegates were present, representing every part of the riding and despite the fact that considerable enthusiasm was evident there seemed to be some difficulty in selecting a candidate. E. C. Tufts, Madoc; W. T. Curtis, Havelock; W. N. Gilroy, Coe Hill; Dr. Munroe, Warsaw; and W. H Richardson, Norwood, were all nominated at different stages, but each of the gentlemen for various reasons refused to accept the nomination.

Mr. Gilroy, however, on being asked to reconsider his decision, and being assured of the wholehearted co-operation of those present promised that he would give a definite answer some time during the next two days.

By a standing vote the entire assembly passed a resolution declaring their confidence in Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party.

J. Marshall, Stirling, president of the Liberal Association, acted as chairman for the occasion.

It was unanimously decided that the officers of the Hastings-Peterborough Liberal Association be re-elected. They are as follows: President, J. S. Marshall, Stirling; Secretary, James E. Legrow, Stirling and F. A. Bapty, Deloro.

J. S. Marshall.

Many thingsh ave happened since the last election, declared Mr. Marshall. In that election neither party otbained a sufficient majority to enable them to operate on a proper basis. That is the reason, he said, that we are called upon to decide whether the Liberals should be represented at the forthcoming election or not. "We are here," he declared, "to decide whether the Hastings-Peterborough riding shall have a Liberal candidate." During the session that has just ended, he said, the Conservatives have voted against everything; they voted against the Robb budget which, in his opinion, was the best budget ever brought before the people of Canada. What has the Conservative member for this riding done in Ottawa, he asked. He has done nothing but vote, the speaker declared. Mr. Marshall stated that he had been looking up Dr. Embury's record and the only speech that he could find on record was where Doctor Embury had declared that "the Australian treaty had ruined the cheese business in this country." You men here, he said, know this to be untrue, as the cheese business never was more prosperous than at the present time, he declared.

E. C. Tufts.

Mr. Tufts stated that he was of the opinion that a candidate should be put in the field to represent the Liberals of the riding. The Liberals in this riding have got into the habit of regarding it as a lost cause. This should not be so, he declared. "We should get the vote out, get to work ourselves and we will be able to elect the man we choose." There never was a more opportune time in the history of the Dominion for the operation of the Liberal policy, he declared, and there are strong possibilities in this riding that a Liberal can be elected if the members of the association get out and work.

Dr. Munroe.

Dr. Munroe stated that he echoed the sentiments of the previous speaker. The Liberals in the riding, he said, may have good reasons for thinking that the situation was hopeless and it was mostly due to the fact that their opponents encouraged them in the belief. "Even in Tory Toronto," declared the speaker, "you will find Liberal candidates in every constituency."

F. A. Bapty.

Mr. Bapty declared that that riding should have a candidate as it would be a feather in the caps of the Conservatives if they got it without a fight. The last election, he said, went practically by default as the Progressives made no attempt to canvas the vote. He expressed the opinion that if the sub-divisions were properly organized the results would be both sutprising and gratifying to the Liberals in the riding.

B. O. Lott.

"There is something strange about a Liberal convention in Hastings - Peterborough," said the speaker, but it is only a sign of the times. The next election, he declared, would result in the Liberal policies being carried throughout the Dominion. The Conservatives, he declared, have brought no issue before the country. "Their protective tariff is dead," he declared, "and they have talked nothing but scandal and thrown dirt since they started out."

"They talk of the Customs investigation," said the speaker, despite the fact that no Liberal denies that there was corruption in that particular department. "It was there from the time of Sir Robert Borden," the speaker declared, "and every man implicated in the scandal was a Tory." "The men they are making the profit off were Tory appointees," the speaker declared, "and no Liberal has yet been implicated except La Rochelle, and he was an Old Country Frenchman appointed a long time ago."

The Tories call the Liberals because they criticize the Governor-General, declared the speaker. "They say we are disloyal but we never rotten-egged the Governor-General like the Tories did in 1842, nor burn down the Houses of Parliament as they did in 1838, nor brought in the annexation manifesto that would have bound Canada to the United States as they did in 1846." The Liberals have always been Imperialists down through the ages, he declared.

The Conservatives ignored Robb's budget and have done nothing else

Hair Left Long On One Side Will Hide Bob Next Season

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (Can-Press) — Long on one side, short on the other, such is the hairdressers' latest dictum for the bobbed head.

Exhibiting 75 models at a fur show here, Madame Luise, beauty expert, yesterday displayed hair cut long on one side of the head and bobbed the rest of the way. "Hair for formal wear next season," she said, "will be cut to suit the type and draped about the head to simulate long hair.

"Bobbed hair will never go. It's too comfortable, but it is to be camouflaged to look long. It will be cut much as a piece of goods, on the bias. Ears will be out this year and tinted from flesh color to cerise. Finger nails will be painted to match the gown."

MORE CRUISERS PASS LIFT LOCK

Vessels From Many Parts of United States—Motorists Pay Visits.

WATCH LOCK WORK.

The record of the ships passing over the Lift-Lock this season shows a decided increase as compared with former years. The number of cruisers from the United States is away ahead of that of any other year.

Among the States represented have been New York, Rhode Island, Maine, Illinois, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Ohio and the District of Columbia.

Evidence of the growth of what may yet develop into an important industry is shown in the passage through the locks of several cruisers and yachts built by the Ditchburn Company of Orillia, for owners in New York. These vessels are of splendid workmanship, each of them costing over $110,000.

That the Lift-Lock is still an outstanding attraction was demonstrated at a recent lockage when parties in cars bearing license numbers from places as far apart as California, New Brunswick, Vancouver and New York were interested spectators of the scene of a vessel being lowered with the lock.

GANGSTER GOES TO EXECUTION WITHOUT FEAR

Richard Reese Whittemore Walks Steadily To His Death.

WIFE HYSTERICAL.

Not Afraid, He Tells Chaplain—Harder For Wife Than For Himself.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—With the simple statement, "I wish you good-bye, the best I could wish anybody," Richard Reese Whittemore, one of the East's most amazingly successful gangsters of recent years, was hanged this morning for the murder of Hobart Holtman, a Maryland penitentiary guard, within a few yards of the spot where he struck the old man down on February 20, 1925.

A few hours before Whittemore told the prison chaplain that "Death isn't such a hard proposition. It's harder on my wife than on me."

He was not surprised when told all hope of a reprieve was gone. "It's what I expected," he said. "I tried to keep up a show of courage mostly for my wife's sake, but I knew all along I was booked for that rope. Well, I'm not afraid. It's in the game, I guess."

Whittemore was unshaken when a few hours before his execution he bade good-bye to his wife, but the latter was hysterical. He walked steadily to the execution platform.

EXPLORER SHARES FATHER'S ESTATE

J. W. Ellsworth Leaves Property Valued at Four Millions.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (United Press). — James W. Ellsworth, father of Lincoln Ellsworth, of the dirigible "Norge" fame, left $2,515,318 when he died, an appraisal filed here yesterday shows.

His entire estate was valued at $4,000,000.

The bulk of the estate goes to his explorer son and his sister, Claire Ellsworth Prentish of Cleveland. He also left $100,000 to a friend, Albert August.

Ellsworth, known as a Patron of the Arts, was honored by Italy with a decoration. He made his fortune as an operator of coal mines.

BAIL ALLOWED MEN HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Lawyer Acting For Customs Department Opposes Bail in Liquor Case.

Seven Men Released on $20,000 Each By Niagara Falls Magistrate.

VIGOROUS PROTEST.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press). — Seven men, charged with manslaughter in connection with the deaths of Reuben Upper, John MacDonald and Charles Dunham, at Allenburg, on July 22, and also with violations of the Customs Act, were granted bail of $20,000 each and were remanded for one week by Magistrate Fraser here to-day. The men were John Tyschiniski, James Sacco, William Herberts, Frank Boyd, Nick Ricci, Frank Seroni and John McRae. They had been arrested in connection with the investigation of the police into the origin of the poison liquor which resulted in a score of deaths in the province.

J. B. Hopkins, Niagara Falls, and R. H. Greer, K.C., are acting for Tyschiniski, Sacco, Herberts and Boyd; T. W. McGarry, Toronto, and J. W. McNamaby, Thorold, defended Ricci; A. L. Brooks, Welland, acted for Seroni, and A. C. Kingstone, Welland, for McRae. T. D. Cowper, Welland, appearing for Peter White, K.C., special prosecutor appointed by the Dominion Government in connection with the smuggling charges, vigorously opposed the granting of bail, but his contention was over-ruled by the Magistrate. The City Hall, where the proceedings took place, was crowded and many were unable to gain admittance.

The charges under the Customs Act were laid on information laid by Inspector Alexander of the Customs Department. The seven men were charged with smuggling alcohol and having it in their possession.

With the exception of Nick Ricci, the only man named at the Allanburg inquest was John Seroni. The bail was immediately forthcoming, it having been anticipated that bail would be granted. It is understood that all the evidence will be in the hands of the Crown by next Friday and that the cases will go on or be dropped at the next hearing.

Several special investigators are in Niagara Falls, Ontario, and Niagara Falls, N.Y., and a thorough examination has been made of the bank accounts of all suspected persons.

Anglo-American Debt Pact Greatest Deed Statesmanship

WILLIAMSTOWN, Massachusetts, August 13. — Canadian Press. — Mr. Mendelssohn Bathcldy, member of the German peace delegation of 1919, told the Institute of Politics that if he were called upon to pay homage to one deed of statesmanship in the post war world and that deed due to the very character of the man who did it, he would without a moment's hesitation choose Mr. Stanley Baldwin and the agreement concerning the British war debt to the United States.

DENIES ATTACK MADE ON BOIVIN AFTER HE DIED

Drayton Says Conservatives Regret His Untimely End.

NO CALLOUSNESS.

Criticism of Boivin's Sherbrooke Speech Mailed Before His Illness.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—Sir Henry Drayton, Acting Prime Minister, in a statement issued last night, denies a published charge that the late Hon. George H. Boivin, former Minister of Customs, was the "victim of any posthumous attack," or that "any callousness was shown about his untimely death, which is deeply regretted by all Conservatives who knew him."

"The propagandists of the Liberal party in their anxiety to make political capital out of the lamented death of the late Mr. Boivin, have been disseminating charges that, while he was lying dead, campaign literature, in which he was strongly attacked, was being distributed through the mails under the frank of the Prime Minister. I have felt compelled to look into the charges. Their hollowness can best be exposed by a narration of the facts.

Had Spoken at Sherbrooke

"The late Mr. Boivin, just prior to his departure for Philadelphia, delivered at a Liberal convention at Sherbrooke a long speech, in which he defended the conduct of the King Government and himself, made light of the Customs scandals, and criticized some terms of the report of the Special Parliamentary Committee. Coming from the lips of a prominent Liberal leader, the contents of the speech seemed fair matter for public criticism, and Conservative headquarters were responsible for the publication of an article in which the late Minister's utterances at Sherbrooke were analyzed and subjected to criticisms which contained absolutely no personal reflections upon his character.

Written a Week Before

"The article in question was written a week before, and was placed in the mails for distribution some days before the first word of Mr. Bojvin's illness reached Ottawa, but the date of release had been fixed, as is customery, several days after the date of mailing, to permit simultaneous publication in all parts of the country. At the time it was written Mr. Boivin was in perfect health, and was an active combatant in the election. Comment upon his speeches was perfectly justifable.

"This effectually disposes of the charge that he was the victim of any posthumous attack, or that any callousness was shown about his untimely fate, which is deeply regretted by all Conservatives who knew him."

U.F.O. FAVOR LIBERAL NOMINEE ON CONDITION HE SUBSCRIBES TO THEIR PRINCIPLES IN THE HOUSE

Will Endorse Northumberland Liberals' Candidate on Certain Conditions—Committee Appointed to Interview Him as Soon as Possible.

CASTLETON CONVENTION WELL ATTENDED

R. H. Halbert, Former Progressive Member From North Ontario, Addressed Meeting on the Tariff Policy of Hon. Arthur Meighen.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CASTLETON, Aug. 13.—The U.F.O. of Northumberland county in convention here yesterday decided to endorse the prospective candidature of W. A. Fraser, Mayor of Trenton, and nominee of the Liberal party on condition that he subscribes to the general principles of the Progressives in the Dominion House.

Adopted at the close of a four-hour session, the restrictive proviso to the successful motion was rather vaguely worded, but in the impatience for definite action, that became restless as six o'clock approached and passed, it was seemingly understood that the wishes of the majority had been sufficiently explicitly expressed. And the following committee was appointed to interview Mr. Fraser at the earliest opportunity: W. A. Samons, Colborne; Mack Rutherford, Colborne; J. Terry, C. Quinn and Geo. Holdsworth, Cobourg.

No direct communication had been received from Mr. Fraser except the report of a telephone conversation Thursday morning in which he sent his regrets that an urgent telegram had called him to Toronto thus preventing him from attending the convention and personally announcing his position and the course he would follow if elected.

His Warkworth speech a week ago at the Liberal convention was also quoted in respect to his assertion of independence to support any legislation from any source, Liberal, Conservative or Progressive, if it impressed him as being in the interest of the county and the country as a whole. Mention was also made of Mr. Fraser's statement that he would not be so bound to any party as to be deprived of freedom of action in Parliament. Refusal to enter the fight without the endorsation of the United Farmers was also said to be Mr. Fraser's attitude, and it was believed that he had withheld for a week his answer to the Liberals until he learned the direction of the U.F.O. sympathies.

Largely Attended.

The large attendance displaying interest and strength in the U.F.O. organization surprised the farmers themselves, and regret was freely acknowledged that the U.F.O. had not promptly taken their own political action before the two old parties had entered the field.

John McCracken of Colborne presided and was re-elected president, with George Holdsworth of Cobourg, vice-president, and Chas. Quinn of Castleton, secretary-treasurer.

The usual campaign speech was a vigorous criticism of the Conservative policies by R. H. Halbert, former Progressive member from North Ontario in the Federal Parliament. He was referred to as an Orangeman and erstwhile Tory before the United Farmers' movement had altered many old party affiliations in rural Ontario. Mr. Halbert's main theme was the tariff policy of Hon. Arthur Meighen which he reitérated would be a burden rather than a benefit to the farmers.

Prolonged Discussion.

The farmers left their chief problem until the last, and then, as they faced it, frankly admitted that a dilemma confused them. They were informed that Mr. Fraser would not be a candidate without their endorsation. As a consequence it appeared that M. E. Maybee, the Conservative candidate, would be unopposed. On the other hand Mr. Fraser did not stand out in the references to him as recognizable an Independent as some of the staunchest U.F.O. insisted on to win their favor.

Mack Rutherford objected to being bound in any way if a Progressive or Independent was unavailable, and intimated that he could not vote for Mackenzie King.

Mr. McCracken, chairman, remarked that any man who did not vote should be disfranehised.

George Holdsworth was inclined to scorn both old parties and sighed for the pristine glories of the U.F.O.

John O'Reilly extolled "Billy" Fraser, but said his chief concern was to consult the welfare of the U.F.O.

D. McDonald was out and out for Fraser who, he said, was a successful farmer in Northumberland, business man,and member for years of the Trenton Farmers' Club.

For a long period the convention resolved itself into a political experience meeting some members, however, shunned the candor in which many proclaimed their political faith and preference.

The motion endorsing Mr. Fraser was adopted with a large majority over an amendment to the amendment by C. Bradley and C. Murphy of Colborne to support Fraser only as an independent candidate, and the amendment by Dan Kewin and Clarence Thorne that no candidate be approved.

Mr. Halbert's Address.

Mr. Halbert sketched the use and decline of the U.F.O. and declared his belief that the farmers of Ontario would again rally to their own standards.

"Were the Conservatives discouraged in 1921 when their strength and fortune was at the lowest ebb? They were defeated everywhere. In six of the nine provinces not one Conservative was elected, and not one Provincial Government was Conservative. But in defeat they went to work harder than ever. They got back into the saddle in Ontario, and for the present they are occupying Ottawa. We farmers should take heart from the example of the Tories. We know our ideals are high, and we have had the experience that our mushroom growth was not the soundest. However, from this meeting to-day and others that I have attended I am certain our cause is very much alive. Our organization may have been winter-killed but its roots are strong in our hearts."

It would be a calamity, Mr. Halbert declared, if Arthur Meighen and his followers secured control of Canada's treasury.

"Not only for the farmers, but for every man and woman in Canada and I don't exclude the manufacturers.

If there was any decided boost the automobile industry got it was from the Robb budget. The flourishing conditions this year prove

Maybe There's Something In That Stuff, After All

The association of Friday and the number thirteen has always been regarded as the climax of superstitious significance. Sailors who are notoriously superstitious have long shied clear of both. In the ports of Europe, Friday is, so far as members of the crew are concerned, the most unpopular day of sailing. In the enumeration of the state-rooms of ocean liners, the number thirteen is invariably omitted, fourteen always coming after twelve. Due to a long prevailing belief that such a step is a sure harbinger of future misfortune, newly constructed ships have rarely been launched on a Friday.

But these superstitions like many others, products of an earlier and cruder age, are having a hard time to maintain their existence in these days of searching analysis and cold remorseless fact.

During the war most of the concession to seafaring customs and superstitions were abandoned by the Allies—and the Allies won the war.

On land, Friday once regarded as a decidedly unlucky day on which to get married is now the favorite day for tying the nuptial knot in many parts of the world especially Scotland.

The fact that many people today give heed to old observances, not because of any belief in the jinx but simply from a sentimental desire to keep alive the observances of old rites in a mechanical and materialistic era.

Possibly the hardest blow to the belief that Friday was unlucky in any way, was struck unconsciously by business firms that introduced the custom of paying their employees on that day. Who in the world could be induced to regard as unlucky, a day on which he or she received a big check or an envelope full of crisp rustling dollars?

GERMANY WANTS LEAGUE ASSURANCE

Delegation Won't Go To Geneva Till Council Seat Is Promised.

BERLIN, Aug. 13 (United News) —The newspaper Vossiche Zeiting in a news article, claims that the "German delegation to the League of Nations will not go to Geneva until Germany is notified that she alone willl obtain a permanent seat on the council of the league."

It is learned from official sources that this is about the opinion which predominated at today's cabinet meeting, although a definite position is believed to have been postponed.

SCHOOL TEACHER HAS FINE RECORD

All Pupils in Miss Tully's Entrance Class Pass Examinations.

A school teacher in one little red school-house made a name for herself this year. Miss R. Tully, of Otonabee, who has been teaching for two years at S. S. No. 1, North Monaghan, had an enrollment of 42 pupils in the various classes from junior primer to senior fourth last year. In the entrance class were five pupils, who all tried their final examination and passed. Miss Tully has been re-engaged for a third year by the school board.

GERMANY WANTS LEAGUE ASSURANCE

Delegation Won't Go To Geneva Till Council Seat Is Promised.

BERLIN, Aug. 13 (United News) —The newspaper Vossiche Zeiting in a news article, claims that the "German delegation to the League of Nations will not go to Geneva until Germany is notified that she alone willl obtain a permanent seat on the council of the league."

It is learned from official sources that this is about the opinion which predominated at today's cabinet meeting, although a definite position is believed to have been postponed.

SCHOOL TEACHER HAS FINE RECORD

All Pupils in Miss Tully's Entrance Class Pass Examinations.

A school teacher in one little red school-house made a name for herself this year. Miss R. Tully, of Otonabee, who has been teaching for two years at S. S. No. 1, North Monaghan, had an enrollment of 42 pupils in the various classes from junior primer to senior fourth last year. In the entrance class were five pupils, who all tried their final examination and passed. Miss Tully has been re-engaged for a third year by the school board.

ENJOYABLE PICNIC TO SUMMER RESORT

People From Hoard's Church Gather at Crow River Bridge.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Aug. 13.—Crow River Bridge was again the scene of a very enjoyable picnic on Tuesday when the Stephens' United Church, Hoard's, held its annual get-together day there. The congregation was out in full force, practically every family being present. As is the custom with rural picnics, the crowd gathered during the forenoon, and after all had done justice to the good things provided by the ladies, an adjournment to the ball grounds was in order. The Sports Committee, Messrs. W. Hume, J. Rannie, F. Heagle and C. Hoard, arranged the programme, the results of which follow:

100 yards dash, open—C. Smith, I. Whalen, J. Thompson.

Girls under 16—Jennie Willis, Elsie Rannie, Doris Rannie.

Married women—Mrs. P. Oddie, Mrs. H. Gunning, Mrs. F. Heagle.

Sack race, open—C. Smith, I. Whalen, J. Thompson.

Boys under 16—W. Millsop, I. David, J. Lindsay.

Three-legged race—Alex. Oddie and Ivan Whalen, C. Smith and S. Wilson, C. Hoard and F. Heagle.

Under 6 years, open—Jean Oddie, Bobby Hoard, Betty Hoard.

Girls' three-legged race — Elsie Rannie and Norma Lindsay, Edith Gunning and Irene Thompson, Jennie Willis and Velma Gunning.

Fat men's race—Ray Williams, Will Hume, Rev. C. Daniel.

Boys' and girls' coal race—Irene Thompson and Chas. Hoard, Edith Gunning and Ivan Whalen, Jennie Willis and James Thompson.

Quoit finals—Percy Oddie and Rev. C. Daniel won from Ray Williams and Ed. Rannie by score of 20 to 19.

An interesting and very exciting softball game took place between the Benedicts and the Bachelors, the latter winning by a score of 26 to 16. The married men firmly believe that they played the better game and should have won, but luck was against them.

The teams lined up as follows:

Benedicts—C. Gunning, P. Oddie, C. Hoard, Rev. Daniel, R. Williams, F. Heagle, A. Sharpe, E. Rannie, A. Heagle, A. Hutcheson.

Bachelors—J. Thompson, A. Oddie, O. Rannie, W. Hume, C. Heagle, I. Whalen, M. Rannie, S. Wilson; C. Smith, T. Willis, K. Oddie.

Lawn Social.

A considerable number from Petherick's Corners attended the annual lawn social held on the Stanwood United Church grounds on Tuesday evening. Lunch was served in the basement of the church, seats being provided for the comfort of those at the tables. Ice cream and other refreshments were sold on the grounds. One booth which attracted a large crowd was that of the fortune-teller, who for the modest sum of one dime would foretell all that would come to pass. An orchestra, composed of Miss E. McDonald and Messrs. Lain, Lisle, Anderson and Beatty, provided musical entertainment. Miss D. Sparks presented old English scenes with Robin Hood and the Maypole dance as features. Altogether a most enjoyable evening's entertainment was provided and the Stanwood congregation is to be congratulated on the success of the garden party.

Erects New Barn.

Almost before the ashes were cold, Mr. Thomas Fry began the work of erecting a new barn to replace the one destroyed in the electric storm last Friday night. The new barn will be larger than the old one, making necessary the removal and rebuilding of one wall.

People's League.

The meeting of the People's League on Monday evening was in charge of the missionary convener, Miss Hazel Brown. Forty-five were in attendance, with the Reds again in the lead. An interesting reading by Gladys Simpson and the missionary topic by Hazel Brown were the features of the programme. The figures of the attendance contest to date were announced, showing the Reds to be far in the lead with 701 points. The nearest rivals, the Khaki, have 552 points, with the Whites only 17 behind. The Blues are below the 500 mark. A race for second place is assured as the end of the year is only six weeks away.

RHEUMATISM

If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or Legs Rheuma Will Bring Quick Relief or Nothing to Pay

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints, and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills hundreds years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Rheuma acts with speed; it often brings in just a few days the relief you have prayed. It helps antagonize and drive from the system the deadly poisons that cause Rheumatic agony, twisted swollen, unsightly joints and sore muscles. Rheuma is harmless—quick acting and one discovery that has forced Rheumatism to yield and disappear.

Don't continue to suffer Rheumatic torture—get a bottle of Rheuma from McDermid and Jury or any druggist today. It must rid you of all Rheumatic pain or money back.

W.M.S. MEETING.

Presbyterial Vice-President Gives Address To Bethany Ladies.

BETHANY, Aug. 13.—On Tuesday afternoon the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church held its August meeting and regular quarterly tea in the church basement. A very interesting talk was given by Mrs. Margaret Field, of Cobourg, who was visiting the society for the first time since her election as Vice-President of the Cobourg Presbyterial of the W.M.S.. Mrs. Field explained the new rules of the society and gave an excellent talk on "Our Task as a Society." Mrs. Field's address was greatly appreciated by her hearers, who were also pleased to make her acquaintance. Mrs. McKnight, of Millbrook, accompanied Mrs. Field to the village, and was also in attendance at the meeting.

Another pleasing feature of the programme was a duet by Miss Lee and Miss Thorndyke.

Mr. Tom Baker, Reeve of Darlington, and his wife, Mrs. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Staples and Mr. Ed. Weatherilt, of Oakville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Staples on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McMahon, of Peterboro, attended the funeral of the late William Johnston on Wednesday.

The Bethany senior baseball team met the Orono team at Pontypool on Wednesday afternoon. The game was snappy from the beginning, the score standing at the end of the 9th inning 7-7.

HAVELOCK NEWS.

HAVELOCK, Aug. 13.—Mr. Harold Buchanan, of Hamilton, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Buchanan.

Mr. Wilson Livingstone, of Toronto, is spending his holidays with his grandmother, Mrs. J. Harrison.

Mr. C. H. Roberts is visiting friends in Oshawa, Whitby and Columbus.

Miss Dorothy Davidson, of Toronto, was the recent guest of the Misses Alice and Agnes Dewey.

CAVAN PERSONALS.

CAVAN, Aug. 13.—The Stark brothers are building a fine big barn this summer, one hundred and ten feet by thirty-six feet, with cement basement.

On Monday there was a bee of twenty-four men working at it all day.

On Tuesday afternoon there were about fifty men at the raising. The timbers and rafters were all gotten up. A sumptuous supper was served on the lawn by the Misses Stark assisted by a number of their neighbors.

Mrs. Howel and Mrs. Scruten and sons of Montreal are guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perrin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Swain and Helen visited their daughter, Mrs. Harold Bigelow, Grass Hill on Tuesday.

Messrs. Roy Staples and Wilfred Reynolds attended Pontypool Sport Day on Wednesday.

Mr. James Paul attended the funeral of the late William Johnson on Thursday.

ROSENEATH W.M.S.

Temperance is Discussed at Meeting Held at Centenary.

ROSENEATH, Aug. 13.—The Women's Missionary Society met at Centenery on Tuesday afternoon and was extra well attended. The President, Mrs. (Rev.) Wylding, presided. The meeting opened with a hymn, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us," followed by the W. M. S. watchword given in unison. Mrs. Robert Mouncey read the Scripture lesson, Proverbs, 23rd chapter, 29th to 35 verse. A hymn, "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" followed.

The meeting dwelt on temperance. Articles were read on Government control as tried in British Columbia and Vancouver City. These were read by Miss Hilda Arthurs and Mrs. Arthurs and were very interesting. Some sections were unable to pay their school teachers, they said, yet the money that had been spent in wines and beer amounted to much more than a teacher's salary. The people do not take the interest in their work, but live more carelessly and thoughtlessly.

A story was well read by Mrs. M. Davey, entitled, "A Heroine of the North," describing the wonderful missionary work done by Miss Jackson and the many hardships she endured in the Far North.

A reading by Mrs. M. Johnston on missionary work by D. L. Moody was very interesting.

A letter was read from Mrs. J. N. Roberts asking this W. M. S. to attend a meeting at Grafton on August 12, the object being to talk over the constitution and bylaws of the auxiliary and becoming better acquainted with them. Grafton W. M. S. ladies will furnish refreshments.

The business part of the meeting was the planning of making quilts and preparing the annual bale of clothing, etc., to be sent to the mission field this fall. Mrs. Thomas Arthur, Centenery; Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Ella Brown, Roseneath, and Mrs. W. Jibb, Fenella were appointed to canvas for quilt blocks and new members. Fenella decided not to hold a silver tea as previously arranged and brought a donation of $18.20. It was suggested to have a speaker come to Roseneath sometime during the fall, either Miss Mary Haig, of Baltimore, who is home on furlough from Formosa, or Mrs. (Rev.) Barker, who is soon coming to Gore's Landing. It was also decided to purchase a new study book on India.

The meeting then closed by repeating the Mizpah prayer in unison. A dainty and most refreshing luncheon was served by the ladies of Centenery.

News Briefs.

The School Board has purchased the "Book of Knowledge," to be used in Roseneath Public School. It should be a great help to the pupils.

Miss L. Fry, of Norwood, is the guest of Miss Reta Varcoe.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, Aug. 13.—A packed house witnessed "Bluebeard's Seven Wives" at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening.

Miss Florence Clare of Welcome is visting her friend, Miss Hilda Thomson, for the next two weeks.

Mr. Hugh Crawford is erecting a garage on the main street.

Miss Grace Crawford has returned home from holidays spent in Colborne.

Mr. Max Geraldi of Tweed spent Wednesday afternoon in town.

THE CHARACTER OF A NATION IS NO MORE OR LESS THAN THE CHARACTER OF THE INDIVIDUALS WHICH COMPOSE THE NATION.

(By John I. Allen, Superintendent, Prudential Insurance Co.)

"I ain't afraid; 'shamed o' nothin' I ever done; alwuss kep' my tugs tight; never swore 'less 'twas nes'sary; never ketched a fish bigger'n 'twas; er lied in a hoss trade, er shed a tear I didn't hev to; never cheated anybody but Eben Holden. Goin' off somewhere, Bill—dunno the way, neither—dunno if it's east er west er north er south er road er trail; but I ain't afraid."

So read Eben Holden's epitaph.

Every man is his own builder. Friends and relatives may advise, but he builds his own character, and to him alone the world looks for his success. He builds from within, and if his steps are progressive he will attract by his apparent sincerity, uprightness and justice.

An artist once painted a remarkable picture, to which he gave the title "Life." He showed a deep ravine with high, rocky walls. At the end could be faintly discerned the snow-capped summits of majestic mountains. Through this ravine swarmed a multitude of human beings, some walking stalwartly, some plodding, some going on wearily, some moving with breathless speed. There were many, however, whose movements were impeded by crutches.

Doubtless, the artist intended to portray the fact that countless thousands rear their own obstacles and faults in the battle of life and forget the great Biblical truth that a tree is known by its fruits. These people go through life hampered by their own mistakes and errors.

The noblest contribution which any man can make for the benefit of all is that of a good character, and one builds in proportion as he is conscious of his faults and shortcomings and seeks to remedy his deficiencies. He may never arrive at the point of perfection—that would be expecting too much—but he can censure and correct himself, pattern his life after high ideals, and win the commendation, goodwill and praise of an ever-increasing number of people proud to be numbered among his friends.

The affairs of the world are governed by men of brains and character—character founded on principle. In their efforts to gain the place where they would be recognized as leaders, these men early saw the necessity of developing lasting qualities and discarding those whose worth hovered around the zero mark; hence future generations will revere memories of them.

Character is made up of little as well as big things. It is a series of actions and thoughts and includes generosity, patience, forgiveness, kindness, charity and sacrifices for the good of others. Where you find a man with these qualities, he will be fearless, and with head upright and eyes to the front, will go onward and upward, always steadfast in his aim to deal honorably and justly with those with whom he comes into contact. His success is an assured fact and he leaves behind him a trail of pleasant memories with people who are anxious to serve him in return for attention and courtesy. And so he builds, stone on stone, a lasting monument to the principles of right.

Each of us should take an inventory of our weak points, as well as our strong, as did Eben Holden; and when we have completed the entries on the debit and credit sides we shall realize the truth of Longfellow's famous lines:

"Not in the clamour of the crowded street,
Not in the shouts and plaudits of the throng,
But in ourselves, are triumph and defeat."

HEADLIGHT COMMON SENSE.

Among the chief causes of accidents on the highways remains the glaring headlight, despite law and the appeal to chivalry repeatedly made through newspapers and organizations. The Examiner has often before called attention editorially and in its news columns to this menace, but the highway near the city and the Chemong road continue infested by the thoughtless and reckless motor car drivers who glide along past other cars with headlights glaring brightly. Motorists cannot be bothered, it seems, switching from bright to dim and back again for every car they meet—and yet just past one of them may be a culvert with death lurking under it, or a pedestrian whose life may be forfeit, or a buggy with a precious load of humanity. Not only courtesy but ordinary safety is involved.

Some car drivers avoid night driving altogether because of the danger involved, and the strain on them of passing blinding headlights without knowing what is ahead. But by far the greater number breeze along serenely unheeding their responsibilities or perils.

This is a serious thing. Unlike the regulations in the city for the safety of pedestrians, the law relating to glaring headlights is mainly for the safeguarding of motorists themselves. There's only one thing to do when meeting another automobile—dim the lights.

FINISH THE JOB.

According to a recent visitor from the other side of the boundary line, Peterborough exhibits no small degree of culpable negligence in failing to cash in the fullest possible extent on its most spectacular attraction—the Lift Lock. Most American cities, if in possession of such a feature, would adopt Florida methods of boosting it, he declares, and real estate dealers would be kept busy effecting the sales of lots in the neighbourhood.

As a matter of fact, neither Peterborough nor the other municipalities that are situated along the route of the Trent Valley Waterway are reaping the benefits that ought to accrue from the canal. This, however, is not attributable to lethargy on the part of the city. On the shoulders of the various departments of railways and canals, both Liberal and Conservative, lies the responsibility for the fact that the canal as a waterway navigable for freight-carrying craft is still an incompleted project.

If the work were carried through to the northern end, Peterborough would benefit to a considerable extent by the advent of barges carrying grain from the north and the trading vessels from the south which would ply on the waters of the canal.

This is a matter that might well engage the attention of the two gentlemen who are at present wooing the suffrages of the electors of West Peterborough.

VISION, ENERGY, LOYALTY.

Loyalty to your home city, and a willingness to co-operate with your fellow-citizens in working for its welfare, is the most important factor in city building. The great cities of the world have been made by men who lived in them, rather than by the natural advantages of their locations.

Peterborough can be made the greatest city of Eastern Ontario, not only because its founders had vision, but because its citizens of today and tomorrow have the loyalty to work out that vision. The builders of Peterborough brought the railroads here, they brought commerce here, despite handicaps, and because the city was removed from the water front they endeavoured to bring the lakes nearer to Peterborough by means of the Trent Canal. It is not so many years ago since barefoot boys played over the fields that now have sprouted into the fine western residential section; it is not long ago since George street was a quagmire, lined by ugly poles. Peterborough is progressing, but vision, energy and loyalty are still needed. There are leaders here to be developed, but the energy and loyalty must be provided by the citizenship. Without them progress is impossible.

Co-operation and loyalty will continue the work that has already gone so far toward building up Peterborough. The city is the creation of all of its inhabitants, and its growth and prosperity and betterment are in direct proportion to their co-operation and energy and loyalty. Are you doing your share?

PORTABLE FIRESIDES.

Alice Tisdale Hobart, in her account of twelve years of residence in China, tells of an invention which ought to be introduced at the earliest possible date in America. Moving about so much with her husband, who was a Standard Oil agent, she found it impossible to have a suitable fireplace, since Chinese house construction doesn't make adequate allowance for this Occidental requirement. Eventually, the Americans invented a portable fireplace, which they carried from house to house.

It isn't the portable fireplace that is needed in America so much as a portable fireside. According to all the old rules and regulations, a house without a fireside is just a house and nothing more, the fireside being something altogether more than a hearth with a fire on it and a chimney above to carry off the smoke. The fireside made the home.

But in these days of register and radiator, the fireplace is certainly gone as a hub institution, and with it the fireside, too, is fast going, from all appearances. The semiannual move has been another heavy blow at the old heart of the home institution, and there isn't any other thing in the family midst that has either symbolism or suitability as a substitute.

The loose miscellany of furniture in the moving van is destitute of the precise character needed. No home can be made to revolve around an upholstered chair, a lounge or davenport. The old-fashioned cook stove might do, but, alas! there are no more cook stoves at all to speak of. Nevertheless, it is obvious that something cheaply and easily portable is needed, like the Lares and Penates of ancient Rome, to preserve the identity and unbroken succession of whatever it is that constitutes the essence or substance or ultimate nucleus or spirit of the home. Once the fireside was that essence et al.

If Mrs. Hobart will tell the modern tribes of nomads who are forever on the wing (of course, they don't go afoot so much as nomads used to do), she will confer a blessing on a vast, wandering, homeless host, even though at the moment the said host is not crying for it.—The Philadelphia Public Ledger.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The political battle has started in Peterborough already. The two parties agree on only one address out of six in their advertisements of the registrars on the front page of yesterday's issue.

Some people might think this carrying the differences of party opinion too far.

The Exhibition needs another building or two. Are the citizens going to let that halt their fair's progress?

"Ontario Votes End of October"—heading. Having spoiled the summer vacation, are the politicians now going to interfere with the spooks?

Wonder what the Kiwaniqueens say about their Kiwanians playing around with other girls like this?

Advertisements are out for a photoplay entitled, "Fig Leaves." Women have not changed much, after all. They're still telling their Adams they have "nothing to wear."

"nothing to wear." The office cat says "It looks that way."

If ever Messrs. Ryckman, Black, Jones or Hanson are looking for a job, none of them is likely to give the name of Hon. G. N. Gordon as a reference.

Border Cities Star: Men will wear narrower trousers next winter, but the old balloon pants will still come in handy to cover up the radiator on cold nights.

Winnipeg Free Press: Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Tunney, whose fight was to be in Chicago, as announced last week, are, it is now announced to fight in New York. Next week, our guess is, it will be announced that they are to fight in Cold Harbor with lawn mowers.

Vancouver Province: The cruises of the Dominion Government steamer "Margaret" promise to become as notorious in election annals as the famous vote-runner "Minnie M." whose campaign activities contributed to the downfall of an Ontario Government.

Mail and Empire: If those West Indian Islands are eliminated as a source of liquor supply, it will be touching to hear the bootleggers sing, "Yes, We Have No Bahamas."

Sterling demand $4.84 5-8.
Sterling cables $4.85 1-8.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards yesterday were light, covering 33 cattle, 12 calves, 97 hogs and 129 sheep and lambs. These cattle sold at steady prices, being quickly picked up. Prospects are that there will be quite heavy receipts of Western cattle the coming week.

Total export cattle shipments for the week numbered 833 head.

The calves received yesterday sold steadily at prices from $11 to $12 a hundred for choice. Hogs are unchanged in price at $12 f.o.b., $12.60 fed and $13 off cars for thick smooths. Premium on selects $2.46.

The one load of lambs received yesterday was slow in selling at 50c reduction.

When farmers are finished with their harvest work a marked improvement in shipments is looked for.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—The extreme dullness that has characterized the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market in the past few days was continued in yesterday's session. The domestic and country trade in car lots of grain was also slow, but the undertone to the market was about steady at the late reduction in prices noted.

Owing to the fact that both foreign and local buyers are holding off with the expectation of lower prices in the near future, the trade in spring wheat grades of flour was quiet but values were unchanged. The winter wheat situation was without any new feature to note.

A fair volume of business was transacted in millfeed and the feeling was steady. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was again limited, but prices were unchanged.

The demand for eggs of late has been confined to small lots owing to the warmer weather prevailing. Prices were well maintained. The receipts were 1,604 cases.

An easier feeling prevailed in the butter market but prices failed to show any change. No. 1 pasteurized was offered at 32 3-4 to 33c per pound, with few takers. The receipts were 2,100 packages.

The undertone to the cheese market was softer and prices were shaded fractionally. The receipts were 11,577 boxes.

OMEMEE PERSONALS.

OMEMEE, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Geo. Culbert, of Lindsay, visited Mrs. E. W. Rowland last week.

Mrs. Wilbert Moncrief has returned home after a two weeks' vacation with friends in Barrie, Belleville and Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Wilson and son, Albert, of Chicago, and Errol Wilson, of Omemee, spent Tuesday with friends at Fenelon Falls.

Mrs. Joseph Poyser and Mrs. A. Lloyd are visiting friends at Gravenhurst.

Rev. Henry Earle, of Port Credit, is spending a holiday in town and will conduct the service in Christ Church on Sunday evening at which bronze tablet will be unveiled in memory of a former prominent member of the congregation.

Rev. A. T. Weir, with his wife and family, are spending their vacation with friends at Craighurst.

Mrs. E. J. Wagar and Miss Wagar, of Peterborough, spent Civic Holiday at the parsonage.

Rev. J. U. Totten, Mrs. Totten and daughter, of Cavan, visited Rev. E. W. and Mrs. Rowland on Tuesday.

Miss Mary Faulkner is visiting her sister, Mrs. Halligan, of Bewdley.

The Women's Guild of Christ Church met at the home of Mrs. George Newman on Thursday afternoon for the regular monthly meeting.

Mr. Boyle, of Peterborough, was in town on Monday on business.

Mr. Samuel Skuce's flower garden is the centre of attraction to many motorists who travel through the village. On Monday he did a land-office business in gladiolies, which are blooming in abundance.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

ENGLISH LIKE A TREE WITH BRANCHES

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

The English language is often likened to a tree, with the trunk representing the speech of England, and the branches the variations of it as written and colonies. A recent writer in the New York Herald said:

"Many interesting correspondents are writing to newspapers about what seem to them faults or signs of undue wear and tear in English as used in the United States. Some writers are greatly concerned because Howells didn't spell as Chaucer did, some because Yankees guess instead of fancy, some because here a clerk isn't a clark.

"It is all good practice, and admirable because it reminds some who may not have recalled it of the fact that, like branches on the north and south sides of a tree, the English language on the east and west sides of the Atlantic grows differently. The roots and a trunks in both instances remain the same; the twigs do not matter much."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

JUST THE DIFFERENCE.

Last fall while walking in the country I ran across two humans and how well they typified life. One was a boy hugging a sack of freshly-gathered chestnuts and congratulating himself as a collector.

The other human was an old man who carried a sharp stick and a sack of acorns. About every twenty or thirty feet the old man would punch a deep hole in the soft earth with that sharp stick and then plant an acorn.

The boy was gathering for his youthful satisfaction. The old man planting pleasure for an unknown generation.

Thirty or forty years from now there will be stately trees growing where that old man walked and if the boy lives he will probably plant more acorns for some future tree time.

Youth claims the gifts of the moment. Age graciously gives for an on-coming generation.

The boy's nature was normal and the old man's notion, beautiful.

Fox hounds are not the cheap pets. Sometimes good hounds bring as much as $2,000 each.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

LIKE BROTHERS AND MEN

A fellow can follow the wide world alone
When the sea's like a pond, when the harbor is known,
But the morn brings a wind and the sea feels a gale,
And then there is needed a man for the sail,
A man for the rigging, a man for the wheel,
And even a man in the cabin to kneel.
The wind from the east starts to whistle again,
And then we must face it like brothers and men.

And life's like the sea: though a fellow can fare
The valleys of pleasure, a devil-may-care,
Heed little of counsel, car e little for kin,
The wind turns around, and the shutters blow in.
It's all very well when it's all very well,
And then there's a different story to tell.
For grief at the window is sobbing again,
And then we must face it like brothers and men.

Then you 'll be needing, and you needing me:
We sail life together, the same as the sea.
Our money won't help us, our satins won't save,
When a storm breaks the heart as a storm breaks the wave.
A fellow can follow the wide world alone,
When the sea's like a pond and the harbor is known,
But time brings us many a trouble again,
And then we must face it like brothers and men.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

THE LONG GREEN AGE

By Dr. Frank Crane.

In the matter of publicity, the batting average of the dollar is creeping up week by week.

The financial page isn't big enough to hold it any more.

News of its exploits, its adventures and its future, have spread all over the paper.

A change in the style or cut or material of its outward attire is given as much prominence as the Prince of Wales falling off a horse.

The doings of the dollar as considered as good news now as theatrical wine parties, prize fighters who don't fight, and married couples who do.

In more ways than one the dollar is more of an interest getter now than ever before.

One of the stories which daily chronicle its doings tells us that the French government, in a serious mood, forbids her citizens to keep company with a dollar for more than ninety days without turning it into honest, home-made francs.

It isn't a case of moral turpitude, but a measure to prevent profiteering on the fall of the franc.

In this land of the free spending and home of the brave front no law compelling citizens to part with their dollars has been found necessary.

Another story notes a contemplated change in the style of clothes.

Following the fashion of skirts the long green will be not so long.

The federal efficiency expert proposes decreasing the length and breadth of the dollar bill to about two-thirds its present size in the interest of convenience.

Another front page item broadcasts the results of longevity experiments.

It is announced that a third again has been added to the lifetime of the dollar bill by the use of a new processed paper. Two million bills recently put into circulation will test the new material's effectiveness.

A few generations ago it was just a dollar trying to get along; now it is a headliner in the news the world over.

In publicity the long green age has arrived.

ARREST BROTHER AS ACCOMPLICE IN HALL MURDER

Charged With Aiding in Murder of Rev. Edward Hall.

TRIES TO ESCAPE

Second Warrant is Issued for Cousin on Same Charge.

SOMERVILLE, N.J., Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Willie Stevens, a brother of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, was arrested last night in New Brunswick on a warrant charging him with the murder in 1922, of Mrs. Hall's husband, the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, a chorister.

A warrant charging murder was also issued yesterday for Henry Carpender, a cousin, and detectives went to the railroad station in New Brunswick at which Carpender was arriving on a train, to make the arrest.

He arrived and drove away from the station without interference.

When the automobile carrying Stevens and detectives arrived at police headquarters, Stevens concealed behind an umbrella, made a dash for the entrance of a dry goods store.

"Hey, Willie, you're not running to a fire now," shouted one of the reporters, referring to Stevens' past experience as a volunteer fire fighter.

One of the state police rescued him from the doorway and took him upstairs to headquarters.

Timothy Riffer, of New York, counsel for Mrs. Hall, and Patrick Hayes, chief detective on special prosecutor Simpson's staff, arrived shortly after.

Uncertainty as to whether Carpender had been arrested was ended when he stepped from a car in which Pfeffer arrived and surrendered to state police.

Accompanying him was Edward O'Reilly, a New Brunswick banker who was called in to furnish bail two weeks ago when Mrs. Hall was released from custody.

Meanwhile, Judge Frank Cleary who issued the warrants appeared at his office for the commitment proceedings under which the prisoners would be placed in jail overnight.

Carpender and Stevens, after being questioned by investigators, were taken to the office of Judge Cleary. Their entrance was preceded by the explosion of numerous camera flashlights. Carpender, obviously nervous, entered first. He stared uncertainly about him and then took a seat. He was followed by Stevens, who dabbed excitedly at his lips with a handkerchief.

Attorney Pfeffer examined the warrants and said: "I notice that Mr. Carpender is charged only with the murder of Mrs. Mills. I also notice that Mr. Stevens is charged only with the murder of the Rev. Mr. Hall."

Judge Cleary explained that

PAINTING YOUR KITCHEN.

In painting your kitchen, the first step is to wash the walls and woodwork thoroughly with soap and water. Then rinse with clear water to remove the soapy deposits. After this, go over the surface with a cloth satured with kerosene to cut any remaining grease, which is always a fatal enemy to good results. Do the walls first, commencing with the ceiling and working downward. Two coats should give you a good job.—Popular Science Monthly.

Scientist Takes Baby Girl On 2-Year African Trip

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (Associated Press).—Scientists who follow their exacting profession to the far corners of the earth have varied and sometimes strange equipment, but seldom do they consider a baby girl an absolute necessity for their entourage.

William H. Hoover, assistant to the director of the Astrophysical department of the Smithsonian Institution, sailed Tuesday for a two-year stay on a Central African mountain, where he will establish an observatory for measuring the sun's heat and its variations. With him was his sixteen-months-old daughter, Bettina, in charge of her aunt.

"I find her more interesting than my career," said the young scientist, whose wife died during another expedition shortly after Bettina was born. "If I could not have her with me I would not have gone."

POISON VERDICT AT NORTH BAY

Testimony Shows That Liquor Was Brought in From States.

ACTED AS COOK

NORTH BAY, Ont., August 13.—Canadian Press. — Testimony given at the inquest opened at Port Loring Thursday into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. George Carey, tended to show that they died from the effects of poison liquor brought into the n... by a party of Buffalo tourists, l...aded by Dr. Bayer, a Buffalo dentist, and given to Carey by them as a bonus for his services as cook on a fishing trip.

Dr. Smylie of Parry Sound, who conducted an autopsy on the bodies, testified at the inquest that death in both cases was due to alcoholic poisoning.

Joseph Kane, Mrs. Hutchins and Miss Hutchins, relative of the Careys, are all ill from drinking the liquor but are expected to recover.

It was brohght ost at the insrest that following the fishing trip one bottle of liquor was given Carey by the tourists. Carey opened the bottle last Saturday and took a number of drinks, giving one to his wife.

A short time later she complained of feeling ill and hoping to cure her, he gave her another drink. When this did not relieve her sufferings a third drink was given her during the night.

When Mrs. Carey arose on Sunday morning she complained of feeling dizzy and that she could not see. She turned and staggered to her bed and collapsed. Her husband carried her downstairs and summoned a doctor, but she failed to regain consciousness and died before medical aid arrived.

Carey did not feel unwell until Monday evening when he complaincd that his sight was bad. On Tusdaf morning his condition was worse and as his two young sons were preparing for school he called them to him and kissed them both, telling them he would be dead when they returned. Immediately the children rushed out and brought in neighbors, but the man died a few minutes later.

By the double fatality in the Carey family four children, the eldest 14 years of age and the youngest two years, are left orphans.

Pennsylvania has more hunters than any other State, judging by the number of licenses.

RUMORED MINERS NEAR THE END

Will be Defeated by Starvation if Negotiations Not Resumed.

LEADERS ANXIOUS

LONDON, August 13. Canadian Press. — Without any visible basis, except hints in the latest utterances of A. J. Cook, secretary of Miners' Federation, that the miners were reaching the end of their powers of resistance, and therefore it was advisable to get the negotiations resumed if they were not to be defeated by starvation, rumors of peace were in the air yesterday.

Almost in the same breath, however, Mr. Cook maintains the same unyielding attitude on the question of hours and wages as he did when the coal miners' strike began on May 1st.

Mr. Cook and others of the miners' leaders are anxious at the delegate conference called for Monday, to secure a free hand for a possible renewal of negotiations. On this subject the conference says:

"Personally, I hope the conference will recognize the need for taking full responsibility and deci... either for negotiations or what methods should be adopted to secure ammunition—that is money—and to get an embargo on coal."

The embargo on coal is a reference to the patent fact that enormous coal importations are being made and this is gradually killing the strike.

Premier Baldwin was in London yesterday consulting with his colleagues, some of whom are remaining here so as to be on hand if there is any new turn requiring their assistance.

AN ODD FIRE ESCAPE.

Devices for human safety always have been favorites with inventors. Back in the 1870's, when buildings were growing taller, ingenious minds turned freely to the invention of new-fangled fire escapes.

One of the oddest of these, says Popular Science Monthly for September, was in the form of a parachute attached to a headgear worn by the escaper. With this, declared the inventor, "a person may safely jump out of the window of a burning building from any height, and land, without injury and without the least danger, on the ground." To make doubly sure of such a landing, he further provided overshoes with thick rubber soles "to take up the concussion with the ground."

but howl hard times, he said. Mr. Lott expressed the opinion that the coming election "would not see the manufacturers that they did before." There never was an intelligent discussion of the fiscal issues from a Conservative, he said. The Progressives, in his opinion, opened the eyes of the people and they should be given credit for it. They fought in the interests of the common people, while the Conservatives are always behind the manufacturers, he declared.

The present Cabinet had not been sworn in, he said, and the poorest municipality in the country would not permit itself to be governed by a council that was not sworn in, yet Mr. Meighen had formed a Cabinet on this basis. "If you put a candidate in the field," said the speaker, "get your coats off, get your organization working and the victory will be yours."

Dr. Thompson

"If a person was to believe everything that he read in the newspapers," said the speaker, "he would be forced to the conclusion that there were no honest men in Ottawa. Mr. Patenaude, he said, had declared that the tariff was not an issue, but in the speaker's opinion it meant a great deal to the working man. For example, the speaker said, "a man can go to the United States with a hundred dollars in his pocket. While there he may see a gas engine that would be useful on his farm. He buys the engine and brings it back with him, but at the border he is compelled to pay from fifteen to twenty per cent duty for the privilege of bringing this useful machine to Canada." The Conservatives say they need the money to carry on the government, but "should a government not be able to find enough money to run a country without descending to highway robbery." The speaker declared that he had never seen a man or a woman who would not smuggle goods into the country. "In their hearts every person is a free trader," he declared, "they want to buy as cheaply as possible." "We need money," he said, "but I object to the manner of raising it." People say that honesty is the best policy, but it is nothing of the kind, the speaker declared; it is no policy but it is the best principle. Dr. Thompson declared that the tariff was "a piece of unmitigated iniquity for the benefit of a few score of manufacturers." In conclusion said the speaker the cause of much of the apathy was that the Liberals did not know for what they were fighting. All that is needed, he said, is to bring the policy of Liberalism down to its first principles—a square deal for everyone.

H. Squire

"This question affects every man, woman and child in the Dominion of Canada," declared Mr. Squire. "You cannot show me a single act that the Conservatives have passed that was in the interests of the working man," he said. Liberals legislate for the mass, not the chosen few. During the last administration the Conservatives obstructed every measure. In conclusion, said Mr. Squire, "if we do our part success will attend our efforts, but we want men who will study the needs of the majority of the citizens of this country and not the needs of a few."

W. N. Gilroy

Mr. Gilroy struck a martial note when he arose. "We are here for business," he declared, "to decide whether we shall have a candidate or not. I am of the opinion that we should—they tell us we cannot do it—it's a lie. Hastings-Peterborough riding can do it if they stand behind the man they nominate and work for him." He expressed the opinion that the only thing the Conservatives had for their platform was scandal. They would not admit, he said, that the Robb budget was the best ever brought down in the history of Canada. Look at the Canadian dollar, he counselled, it's the biggest in the world and it was all due to Liberal rule.

W. T. Curtis

"We certainly can put a man in the field, and a winner, too, if we get behind him and work," declared Mr. Curtiss, "it should not be a hard fiding to win, for the present member has not opened his mouth at Ottawa since he was elected."

W. T. Curtiss

Mr. Griffin stated that he was a strong U.F.O. man and was absolutely opposed to the Meighen government. The Progressives, he said, in all likelihood will not run a man in this riding, so that the way is open for a Liberal. What this country wanted, he said, was men who would work for the masses. The speaker declared that he had watched Mackenzie King closely, and while he had been in many difficult positions, he has always been a success. "We may not see the day, but our children will see it, when history will proclaim him as the greatest statesman that ever lived," he declared. In conclusion, he said, "get a man, get behind him and he will win out."

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

DATES IN TEXAS

LAREDO, Tex., Aug. 13.—Southern parts of Texas will undertake the raising of dates on a commercial scale. Dr. W. V. H. Dolson, subtropical date specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, recently found many isolated date palms in and around Laredo and in other loaclities along the Rio Grande.

CUSHMAN, Ark., Aug. 13. — A manganese field near here has one woman miner, Mrs. A. Shinn. While her weekly production is small, ore buyers say that hers is the cleanest and highest grade sent from the field. She operates a mine on a farm belonging to her husband, and is the only worker there.

ALBINO ROBIN

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 13.—An albino robin, pesfectly white and with pink eyes, has been discovered here. A pair of robins has nested for several years in an ash tree in P. N. Bathpry's back yard. A boy climbed the tree and found that this year's offspring consisted of the lone albino.

COURT BY 'PHONE.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 13.—Judge Leahy of Wichita, Kansas, walks into his courtroom in the morning, picks up the receiver of his telephone and keeps the line busy trying his cases over the 'phone. Several criminals have decided to do away with telephone service, to save $4 a month and their own necks.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute —Milton.

V. I. R.—You are quite self-satisfied and have a good deal of poise in your make up, a desirable quality, if not carried too far in the way of conservatism and being unfavorable to new enterprises of any type. You will always have to work quite hard—to keep at your job, at all times, no matter what that job may be. You are a natural leader and thinker, with a good deal of ability along many lines and an aptitude for management. You like travel and a wide circle of acquaintance. You are kind and have a good disposition, being very happy when you are jolly and quite miserable when you are wretched, often without any real reason. You make a true, loyal friend, with a faculty for keeping a secret. You are careful in money and business matters, and regard a promise as absolutely sacred. You are inclined to like your own way, but can adapt yourself to varying occasions, in order to make things harmonious. You will be happiest when you control your temper and gain self-poise. Always avoid scolders and fault-finders, by whom you are easily depressed. You are fond of pleasure, and a certain amount of change and excitement are necessary to your good health. Always follow out your own original ideas. You were born on Friday. Your colors are steel and purple.

Brown Eyes.—You have a kind, affectionate nature, that is marred at times by jealousy, fickleness, and a cruel vindictiveness that springs into prominence when you are criticized in any way. You are very young yet, so you have plenty of time to conquer your faults and cultivate your good points. You will find your best success in life by associating yourself carefully with others in any undertaking whatsoever. You will never succeed by trying to stand alone. Never attempt, either, to control the affairs of those about you. You will fail. You are strong in your likes and dislikes, and should always seek the companionship of cheerful people, among whom you will thrive. You have a fear of poverty, burglars and robbery, and dread being left alone at night. You are inclined to be jealous of your friends and companions, although you are generous, kind-hearted and noble in essence. You are very sensitive to slights, and have a habit of imagining that others wish to hurt your feelings. You are apt to have trouble with your throat, lungs and kidneys, but are quite strong physically. Learn to respect the opinions of others, to realize that happiness can be had, even if you are not at the head of things, as you desire, and try to cultivate poise. Marry a man born in November, March or January. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are yellow and violet.

Barney.—You have a peace-loving, kind nature, charming and affectionate, but without much efficiency or initiative. Circumstances of your life make you rather reserved and retired in your ways, and you have a certain amount of shyness in your makeup. You like things religious or occult, and things artistic also have a strong appeal for you. You are always anxious to help others who are in need, and sometimes overtax your strength in this way. You are not self-assertive enough, and may often be imposed upon by those to whom you are kind. This will hurt your feelings, but you will not retaliate. You are more apt to go off and have a solitary fit of weeping. You must learn to conquer this habit, and, when you have done so once or twice, you will be astonished at the reserves of power you will accumulate. You are apt to talk too much for your own good and have a habit of asking unnecessary questions, particularly when interested in a subject. You are rather restless and nervously anxious, and a certain amount of travel would be very beneficial for you. You are inclined to be too generous with money. You should cultivate the society of men, as you would make an excellent wife. Marry a man born in September, October or July. Dress in pale, delicate shades, and give more attention to your toilet than you are inclined to do. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are gold and white.

M. P. M.—You have already received a reading. It was given a short time ago.

D. F. G.—I am sorry that you have only given me your husband's first and last names, with "Mrs." attached to them. Your married title is not your own real name. Your name is your own christened name or names, and your husband's surname.

M. A. K.—You have a good deal of executive ability in planning and working out enterprises of any sorts. You are dominant in your home and family life, and very ardent at heart, although people sometimes consider you as cold, when they do not know you well. You are strong in your likes and dislikes, and thrive best when surrounded by those whom you like. You are afraid of burglars, poverty and robbery, and dread being left alone at night. You are generous, kind-hearted and noble, but have the fault of being jealous of your friends and companions. You have a natural liking for the fine arts, for pleasure and good cheer, and will attain most success in matters where you try to use diplomacy and tact to gain your ends, rather than in the use of force. The velvet glove, rather than the mailed fist, should be used by you. You are fond of praise and of public notice, and must guard also, against a tendency to hoard money. You are fond of travel and may take many voyages in later life. You like a handsome home and good clothing. Your memory is very keen. You resent any personal criticism, even when meant for your own good. With you, medicine is slow to act, therefore you should never allow disease to gain a hold on you. You were born on Wednesday. The day you enquire about a Monday, is one for original thought and expression, and for taking advantage of every opportunity. Your color is black.

H. M. H.—You have a great liking for the fine arts, especially singing, dancing and painting and are very of good times and pleasure. You have, however, a curious disposition toward fickleness and uncertainty that will not make for the happiness of yourself or your associates. You are inclined to be quite extravagant, and have no real conception of the value of money. You are generous, ambitious and full of hope and enthusiasm, not being easily discouraged by defeat. You are kind and amiable, and have a strong distaste for hard and dirty work. You are easily confused, and do not like crossing a busy street. You are careless of your own personal belongings, and of borrowed articles, which you do not return promptly. You are fond of praise and are easily wounded by trifles. A quick temper and a tendency to worry will hamper you, if you do not try to control them. You should think often of your friends and seldom of your enemies. Strive for habits of order, even in small things and learn to be patient and well-poised. It is what you think and do that will make you happy or otherwise in later life. Marry a man born in February, May, August or March. You were born on Tuesday. Your color is black.

Topsy.—You have a natural aptitude and liking for matters connected with business, commerce and finance and should do well along any of these lines. Your way of success in life will lie along the channel of hard work, in always keeping at your job, whatever it may be. You are emotional and rather highly strung, apt to take dislikes to others without real cause, and being hard to change in these regards. You are very strong in your love for your own people. You are fond of home and its comforts, and make an ideal "homemaker." To succeed in life, you should adopt these rules: Do not dream unless you act. Do not criticise. Do expect what you want. Do reach out and take it. You would do best in a city, where the bustling life you would lead would suit your temperament. You are original in your ideas and should cultivate individuality in your dress, manner, home surroundings and manner of speech. You are a conscientious, tireless worker, and will win success if you guard your health at all times. Try and control your temper, which is apt to be fiery at times. And try to learn unselfishness and patience. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are opal shades of gold and blue, also tan and buff. The day you ask about, a Monday, is one for safely undertaking new enterprises and accepting new positions.

Glenorvie.—You have quite a keen mentality, with an inclination toward pursuits of a business type. Circumstances of your life tend to make you somewhat reserved and retired and you must constantly struggle to overcome shyness, introspection and even morbidity. You have a strong will power and a good deal of skill with your hands. You are fond of the good things of life, in food and in dress. You have the very unfortunate habit of putting things off, which exercises a bad effect on your destiny. You like praise and flattery too much, and should learn that one true friend is worth a hundred flatterers. When interested, you are a hard worker, but you are inclined to be indolent. You love pleasure and have a great aversion to rules and regulations. A quick temper, a scolding habit and a tendency to sarcasm are your bad points. You like to be amused and demand constant attention. You are inclined to be a "good fellow," somewhat to your own detriment. You prefer to give rather than receive. You should try hard to overcome suspicion and jealousy, to stop finding excuses for yourself and lay the blame where it belongs, and to be more careful of the feelings of others and less tender of your own. You were born on Friday. Your colors are tan and buff.

A. M. Y.—You should be able to attain a considerable degree of success in anything connected with business, commerce or finance, as you have a natural aptitude along these lines.

However, service should be your watchword. You would make a good nurse, and can be relied upon, also, to fill any position of trust, such as that of a cashier, accountant or bookkeeper. You are not self-assertive enough and are inclined to be too modest and retiring. You are always anxious to help others, sometimes overdoing yourself in this way. You are interested in religious and educational matters, and have a somewhat irritating habit of asking many questions about subjects that interest you. You may have a serious illness before your thirty-fifth year, but after that will settle down to steadier conditions. Dress in pale delicate shades, and seek the company of men, which you are not inclined to do. You would make an excellent wife. Marry a man born in September, July or October. You were born on Monday. Your colors are opal, shades of gold and blue, also tan and buff.

D. L. W.—You have a great deal of ability along the lines of mental or business affairs. You should attain much in either way. Your way of success in life lies in bringing joy and happiness to the lives of those about you, and, in doing this, you will have to conquer a considerable amount of selfishness and a certain amount of self-satisfaction. You do not think you are selfish, but you really are. And somewhat critical, too, of the ways and habits of others. You have an innate feeling of superiority toward those who are not quite as clever as yourself. You are well fitted for teaching or leadership in any type of educational work, and should also have considerable musical ability. You are orderly and methodical, affectionate and kind-hearted. You are secretive about your own affairs and are a great believer in blue blood. Snobbishness will increase in you, if you do not try to control it. You are strong and healthy and the passing years will leave little mark on you. You are inclined at times to be intemperate in eating and drinking. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are opal shades, tans and buffs.

"Proper Food and Exercise," by ARTHUR A. McGOVERN
Former physical director, Cornell Medical College.

Keeping health easier than regaining it

THIRTY MINUTES A DAY —EVERY DAY

IT is easier to remain healthy than to regain lost health. Men and women who have been weakened by too great devotion to business should exercise regularly. The demand on the physical resources of men who seldom give themselves a holiday means breakdown in mental and bodily health. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Thirty minutes of every twenty-four hours should be set aside to giving the muscles and organs of the body a thorough going over. If you have been accustomed to getting up at seven, get up at six-thirty. A half hour devoted to exercise and care of the body is much better than a half hour's sleep, because a good healthy body does better with six hours' sleep than a diseased body with twelve.

Upon rising open all the windows wide, bend forward at right angles, take a deep, slow inhalation as you straighten up. Hold your breath for five seconds, then as you bend forward to starting position exhale. Do this ten times. Raise both hands over the head, and as you swing the arms down to the sides kick your right leg up straight ten times, then repeat this exercise kicking the left leg up straight ten times. Place both fists on your chest, punch forward with both hands at the same time, kicking the right leg backwards ten times. Repeat this exercise kicking the left leg backwards ten times. Hands at your sides, raise the right arm up sideways, at the same time bringing the left leg out sideways ten times, then repeat this exercise bringing the left arm up sideways and the right leg up sideways ten times.

I have a chart of twelve exercises which are too lengthy to put in this article that I will gladly send free to any of my readers if they will forward to me a stamped addressed envelope. Send to Arthur A. McGovern, 5 West Sixty-sixth street, New York City.

COLOR FILTERS DIM HEADLIGHTS

The dangers of glaring auto headlights, which are only partly removed by dimmers and special lenses, can be eliminated entirely by the simple use of orange and blue colored filters, according to Karl D. Chambers, automotive engineer, of Asheville, N.C.

As described in Popular Science Monthly for September, the filters would be adjustable so that on cars travelling in one direction on a highway the headlights would give blue light and the drivers would look through blue filters attached to the windshield. On cars going in the opposite direction the colors of the headlights and filters would be orange. Since a colored glass filter passes light of its own color, but stops that of a complementary color and since blue and orange are complementary colors, the result would be, Chambers declares, that drivers going in either direction would have perfect visibility.

MANY ADDITIONS TO MIDWAY SHOW

Boyd and Linderman Have Added New Attractions This Year.

Boyd and Linderman Midway Shows, who played the Peterboro Exhibition last year, and will appear again this year, were in London last week handling the Midway for the Old Boys' Reunion Commitee. They are, also, furnishing the Midway Attractions at the Ottawa Old Boys' Reunion, and Ottawa Exhibition.

Many features new and novel have been added to these attractions this year, including one of the new Hey Dey Rides, an English invention, which was the feature ride on the Midway at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, last year, which was the first time it had been in Canada; also a water circus where exhibitions will be given by famous lady swimmers and divers from various parts of the Globe.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—When Sir Edward Elgar, the noted British composer, recently had an inspiration as he was riding atop a London bus, he began humming the tune, but was interrupted by an old lady who offered him her seat, saying: "You feel ill, don't you?"

SPONGE WOOD BEFORE STAINING.

The advantages of sponging wood before staining are many. It frequently happens that the grain rises when the stain is applied but by sponging the wood first and then allowing it to dry the raised grain may be sandpapered level and thus a recurrence of the trouble is avoided when the stain is put on.

Another advantage of sponging lies in the fact that water opens the pores of the wood, and thus any clogged condition arising from previous sandpapering is remedied and furthermore the stain is enabled to sink deeply into the wood. This produces a very even color capable of standing light sandpapering if such is found necessary to produce the smooth surface on which the success of good varnishing depends. Another great advantage is this—that when a filler is used without previously sponging, the old sandpaper dust and other material which clogs the pores absorbs water from the stain and remains damper than the wood in contact with the air. When the foreign material does dry out it does so by absorption through the surrounding wood which causes shrinkage and settlement and pulls the varnish coat down into the pores. Or again, the same moisture may, by expansion, force the varnish out in small spots, especially if the varnish is applied in an excessively warm atmosphere.

CHAMELON GEM.

MADRAS, Aug. 13.—A strange new gem has been found, the value of which experts have not been able to determine. It was discovered as part of a necklace of a maharajah which was auctioned off. The jewel shows a rosy tint in daytime, but changes to royal blue at night.

OSAGE MURDERS GRIM SEQUEL TO SUDDEN WEALTH

Seventeen Indian Men And Women Have Been Slain Mysteriously.

UNJUSTLY TREATED

Discovery of Oil on Their Apparently Worthless Land Made them Rich.

BY BRUCE CATTON.
NEA Service Writer.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Aug. 13.—The story of the Osage murders is the story of the land where the bad old west never died.

It is a story of crime that spread its dark, devious paths over a background of ignorance, greed, superstition and sly craft—a story that, however depressing, is nevertheless blown through with a breath of the romantic, devil-may-care frontier west that we thought was gone.

And it is an amazing story, too. So amazing that at first you wonder if it can possibly have happened in modern twentieth-century America.

Seventeen men and women have been murdered. One William K. Hale, picturesquely known as the "King of the Osage Hills," is lodged in jail, with various alleged henchmen, on a charge of first-degree murder. A two-million-dollar fortune is at stake.

To understand them you must know something of this background. Otherwise the whole thing is inexplicable.

Land Thought Worthless.

It goes back nearly half a century—to 1883, in fact, when the Osage tribe, a branch of the once-dreaded Sioux, was granted a haven in the wilds of unsettled Oklahoma.

The red man has never in history received a square deal from the white man, and that occasion was no exception. With canny care the great white father looked over his Oklahoma acres and picked out the section that was the most utterly barren and worthless. This section he gave to the Osage tribe forever.

The Osages settled on it, because there was nothing else to do, but it was unpromising land. It was so desolate and barren, in fact, that all of its 1,500,000 acres would not grow enough produce to support the 2000 odd members of the tribe, and the great white father had to dig down and grant each member a pension of some $45 a month.

In 1889 Oklahoma was opened for white settlement, and the land around Osage county became more or less thickly populated. There was competition for land all over the state—but no white man begrudged the Osages their million and a half acres.

And then, in 1906, oil was discovered on the Osage land. A year or two later more oil was found. In 1912 came a new strike—a monstrous field this time.

And the great white father realized, all too late, that the land he had given the outcast Osages contained the richest oil field in the whole country! Further, it was too late to do anything about it.

What happened? Well, the Osages became, instead of the most poverty-stricken of red men, the richest body of people on earth.

There are 2229 accredited members of the tribe, each with an equal share, or head-right, in the wealth of the oil land. This money is collected for them by the government and each person's share is paid annually.

And what do these annual dividends amount to? Just $13,000—that's all.

In other words, every Osage Indian has a $15,000 annual income for the rest of his life—except that it may go up as new wells go down. And, in addition, many Indians have invested this money in oil lands outside the reservation. Practically every member is a millionaire. Some are millionaires many times over.

The Fight for Head-Rights.

And here is what started this mysterious train of murders.

Each Indian's head-right, or share in the fabulous wealth of the Osage oil land, goes on his death to his next of kin. Consequently—

If some white man who had an Indian wife could kill off all her relatives, she would fall heir to a fortune of many millions of dollars.

William K. Hale has no Indian wife. But his nephew, Ernest Burkhart, has—and though the two are named in only one indictment, federal investigators hint that by the time the grand jury quiz ends something of this "murder by wholesale" nature will be found to have been the case. Several relatives of Mollie Burkhart, Ernest's Osage wife, have died under mysterious circumstances and the annual income of Mollie and her husband through inheritance of head-rights, is now about $135,000 a year.

At all events, it is common talk throughout this part of the country that the great wealth of the Osages has led some of them to sudden death. Even the porter on the train that brought this writer down from Chicago knew of it. He shook his head and remarked:

"No, sir, I don't want to be no Indian in Oklahoma. They jus' kill 'em and throw 'em in the ditches—that's all."

Woman's Safety

From losing charm under a trying hygienic situation comes this way

SCORES of women's disorders are largely traced today to old-time "sanitary pads," insecure and unsanitary.

8 in 10 better class women today employ "KOTEX."

Wear lightest gowns and frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere.

5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

Deodorizes. Ends ALL fear of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying, "KOTEX." No embarrassment.

In fairness to yourself, try this new way. Costs only a few cents. Twelve in a package.

No laundry—discard like tissue

HOW TO KEEP YOUR KNIFE KEEN.

The best of penknives will not long give good service unless they are kept sharp. Deep nicks should be ground out on a grindstone or an emery wheel. Lay the blade flat upon the tool rest so that the edge will some square against the wheel. Press lightly and draw the blade slowly and evenly back and forth across the stone. When you are satisfied that the edge is true set the rest at the proper beveling angle or hold the knife freely in the hand at the angle, and grind down both sides, moving the blade constantly across the face of the wheel while so doing.—Popular Science Monthly.

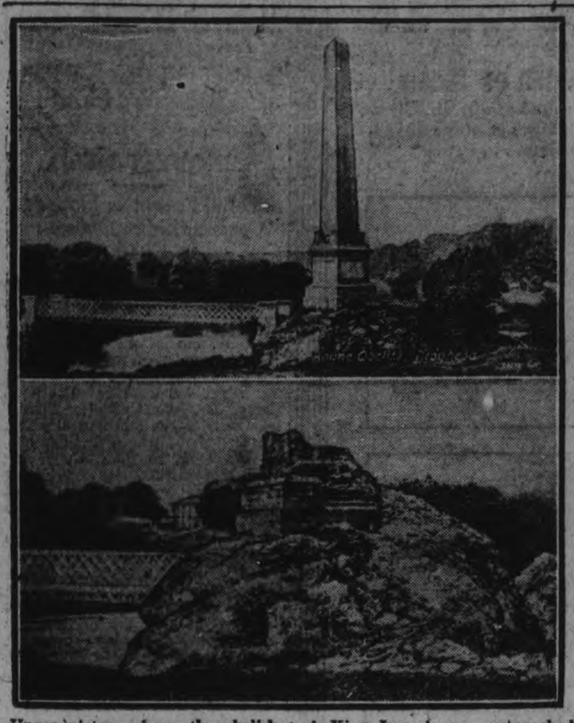
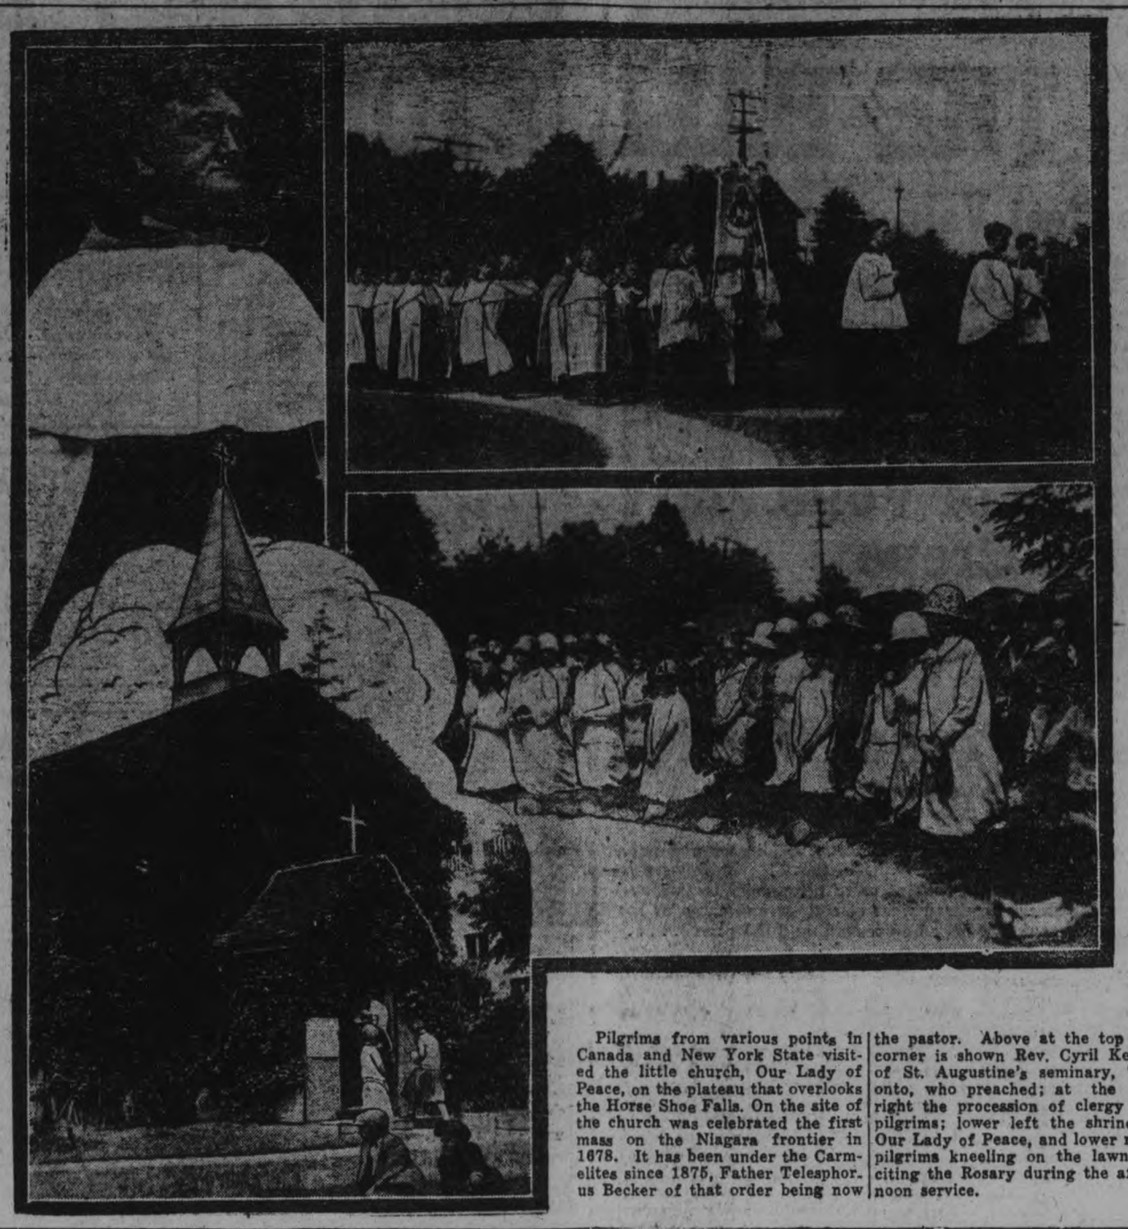
THE "EXAMINER" PICTURE PAGE



Upper picture shows the obelisk near Drogheda, Ireland, erected in 1836, to commemorate the victory of King William III. in the Battle of the Boyne in 1690. It was at this spot that King William and his army forded the river to attack King James' army entrenched behind the Boyne and where his famous general, the Duke of Schomberg, was slain. The lower picture shows the ruins of the obelisk after the Sinn Feiners blew it to pieces by land mines in 1923.



Pilgrims from various points in Canada and New York State visited the little church, Our Lady of Peace, on the plateau that overlooks the Horse Shoe Falls. On the site of the church was celebrated the first mass on the Niagara frontier in 1678. It has been under the Carmelites since 1875, Father Telesphorus Becker of that order being now the pastor. Above at the top left corner is shown Rev. Cyril Kehoe, of St. Augustine's seminary, Toronto, who preached; at the top right the procession of clergy and pilgrims; lower left the shrine of Our Lady of Peace, and lower right pilgrims kneeling on the lawn reciting the Rosary during the afternoon service.

Rev. Hillyer Straton, eldest son of the famous New York fundamentalist, Rev. John Roach Straton. The young man preached his first sermon in the pulpit of the Calvary Baptist Church, where his father usually officiates on quiet Sunday afternoons. He attributes his faith to a hickory stick and the prayers of his father and mother.

Through months of discouragement she has clung to the hope that her husband will return to his senses, his home and the favor of his family. This is her latest portrait.

The layout shown above illustrates the shooting of D. E. Chipps, wealthy lumberman, by Dr. J. Frank Norris in the latter's office in Fort Worth some time ago. Picture No. 1 shows Dr. Norris writing in his study after the shooting. There is a picture of his friend, William Jennings Bryan, on the wall. No. 2 is a front view of Norris' magnificent church, the First Baptist. No. 3 is the church building where the shooting took place. The door near the tree is the one through which Chipps entered. The fourth photograph is the victim of the shooting, Chipps.

OBITUARY.

MISS MARGARET HENDERSON

COLD SPRINGS, Aug. 13 — An estimable lady who was well beloved by a large circle of friends, Miss Margaret Henderson, entered into rest at the Cobourg General Hospital on Tuesday afternoon after a long illness. Although she had been in the hospital since the 8th of May when she fractured her hip, her demise was sudden. It was thought that she had practically recovered from her injury and it was hoped she would shortly be well enough to return home, but a short time ago, she was seized with another ailment. On Monday she chatted for a short time with a nephew who visited her and seemed quite herself, but on Tuesday was suddenly taken worse.

Miss Henderson was a daughter of the late John Henderson and spent practically all of her life near Plainville in Hamilton Tp. Of a large family only one brother, Walter Henderson of Brampton, survives. A sister, Mrs. Ritchie, who for a time resided with her, died a year ago. Miss Henderson is survived by several nephews and nieces.

GUY SHAFTO ORDE.

LINDSAY, Aug. 13.—Residents of Peterborough, and especially East City, will regret to hear of the death of the late Guy Shafto Orde, which took place a few days ago near Port Sandfield, Muskoka.

The deceased was born forty-six years ago, and came of two old Peterborough families, his father being Francis W. Orde, now of Winnipeg, grandson of Charles Rubidge, R.N. His mother was a daughter of the late George Barker Hall, the first County Judge of the County of Peterborough, whose father was also one of the pioneers of the county.

The late Mr. Orde left Ottawa for the west twenty-seven years ago, later joining the staff of the Union Bank of Canada. He served the bank as manager at Calgary and Ottawa, and later as its manager of the main branch in Winnipeg. His health failing him, he came east a few weeks ago for a rest, going to the cottage of his brother-in-law, Dr. N. T. McLaurin, of Toronto, at Muskoka. He passed away as the result of a severe heart attack.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, who was Marion Warren Burnham, of Port Perry, two sons, Phillip and John, three brothers, Hon. Mr. Justice Orde, Toronto, Henry B. Orde, vice-president of the International Telegraph and Telephone Company, of New York; Francis L. Orde, Winnipeg; one sister, Sister Elizabeth, of the Anglican Sisterhood of St. John the Divine, Toronto.

Interment took place at Port Perry.

MRS. (DR.) W. W. L. UGLOW.

LINDSAY, Aug. 12.—Peterborough friends of Mrs. (Dr.) W. W. L. Uglow, of Vancouver, (who was Miss Mattie Robertson, daughter of the late W. H. Robertson, former editor and proprietor of the Peterborough Morning Times) will regret to learn of the death of her husband from the effects of an accident which occurred some months ago at Honolulu. The deceased, who was Professor of Mineralogy at at the University of British Columbia, was returning to Vancouver from a visit to China, and had stopped off at Honolulu, where he was met by his wife and only child, Elizabeth, aged six years. While walking in the surf at Waikiki Beach, he injured his spine, and never recovered from the serious injury.

'WILL THE BABY BE A BOY OR A GIRL?'

Experiments May Make It Possible to Predict Sex Before Birth.

"Will it be a boy or a girl?"

That question is one that has interested not only expectant parents, but also eminent scientists since the earliest days. Yet not until recently has a method of sex diagnosis been developed that would stand scientific scrutiny.

And now scientists are endeavoring to solve a problem that is even more perplexing—sex determination—regulating the sex of an unborn child, according to the wishes of the parents, writes Peter Vischer in Popular Science Monthly for September.

In other words, according to scientists, it is now possible for parents to learn whether their baby is to be a boy or a girl. Further, it is not beyond possibility that, by scientific means, the sex of human being some day may be changed before birth, or even later. Finally, it may even be possible some day for parents to bring about the birth of a boy or girl, as they wish.

A chemical process for sex diagnosis has been worked out in Russia by two doctors, who announced that by this method they can tell definitely the sex of an animal or plant merely by testing a few drops of blood or of plant juice. As applied practically, the blood of a mother would be submitted to test. If her child was to be a boy the test would disclose traces of male blood, for the chemical reagent used by the Russian scientists causes male blood to lose color, but has no effect on female blood.

At about the same time scientists in Germany were pursuing a similar investigation. They used and refined what is known medically as the "Abderhaden reaction," based on the same theory developed by the Russians. This reaction was found effective in seventy-eight cases out of 100. Since then elaborations of the test are said to have given it an accuracy of ninety-nine per cent and more.

The German scientists, incidentally, made the interesting discovery that in the case of twins of different sexes the development of a boy child is indicated. Also, that the birth of an extremely delicate boy usually results in the reaction that "normalizes a girl.

Sex transformation and determination, however, present considerably more complex problems than sex diagnosis. There are, though, at least three cases thoroughly authenticated by scientists that show a complete transformation of the sex of adult animals. One was that of a hen that became a rooster.

EXHIBITION TO SHOW FALLACY

Many Lines of Merchandise Need Not Be Imported.

MADE IN CANADA.

There are some lines of merchandise manufactured in Canada which many people think can be procured only from foreign points.

The exhibits of "Produced in Canada" goods which will be shown at the "Produced-in-Canada" exhibition, to be held the latter part of October, in the Armouries, under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, will convince those who attend of the fallacy of this idea.

The exhibits will not be confined to the manufacturers of Peterboro, but will be from all over the country including many educational exhibits which will be loaned by the government.

A meeting of the special committee who have this exhibition in hand was held a few evenings ago when plans were formulated to push it forward to a huge success.

This exhibition will be patterned after the one held in Hamilton last June, which was so successful. Some of the manufacturers who exhibited there will also exhibit in Peterboro.

The numerous exhibits from all over Canada will be interesting and instructive and will give the visitors an opportunity of realizing the wide range of Canadian manufacture.

CURED BY KING.

LONDON, August 13. —King George IV cured General Sir George Higginson of smoking. General Higginson recalled on his 100th birthday recently, that when he was a child the king noticed him in his permamulator one day and, for a joke, since the child was staring at the king's cigar, put it to the baby's lips. The nauseous impression stayed with him all his life, Sir George stated.

SAYS ALCOHOL WOULDN'T KILL DIES SAME DAY

One of Victims of Poison Ridicules Idea of Fatality.

INQUEST HELD.

Alcohol Found in House Not Commercial or Denatured Fluid.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 13.—"Oh, that stuff wouldn't kill anybody," were the words of Charles Dunham, one of the victims of the Allanburg alcohol poisoning cases, upon whom an inquest was held here last night by Coroner David V. Curry. Dr. John Herrod of Thorold, who early in the morning of July 22 was called to Reuben Upper's house at Allanburg, to find Upper and John McDonald dying. While Dr. Herrod was looking after McDonald and Upper, Dunham walked into the house and demanded, "hat's the matter with Reub?" r. Herrod told him Upper was just dying from drinking wood alcohol, whereupon Dunham ridiculed the idea, and said that stuff wouldn't kill anybody. Asked by the doctor if he had been drinking himself, Dunham denied it, but his brother, who was there, said he had. Dunham was given some medicine, and appeared to be getting better, but later serious symptoms developed, and he was sent to St. Catharines' Hospital, where he died that same day.

Dunham's body was exhumed after being buried a week at Dunnville, and a post-mortem examination made and the stomach sent to Toronto for analysis.

Barton Elliott, Provincial constable, told of finding a can of wood alcohol at Reuben Upper's house. It was about half full. Elliott personally took two samples to Toronto to Professor Rogers. The report said these samples were not a commercial wod alcohol, nor a denatured spirit.

Here Crown Attorney Lancaster asked a week's adjournment of the inquest pending further development in evidence.

YAWN NOT ALWAYS SIGN OF BOREDOM

May Be Caused by Repressed Excitement or by Intense Interest.

If people yawn when you talk to them it may be the sincerest compliment they could pay.

The man who in a poker game picks up one of those winning hands that occur once in a lifetime, and actually yawns before unloading his dynamite, doesn't deserve any fame as a "poker face" — he could no more help yawning than he could fly.

And when "she" yawns—just at the moment when, in the porch swing, you're nerving yourself for the big moment—ten to one it's because her heart has been pounding at unaccustomed speed, too.

Such at least are some of the startling facts about yawning set forth in Popular Science Monthly for September.

Anything may start a yawn. An earnest, monotonous talker; seeing someone else do it; excessive nervousness; love; too much concentration or not enough of it.

We yawn when we are bored, but we yawn when we are excited, too; we yawn when we are sleepy and when we've had too much sleep; when we are enjoying the best of health, or when we are sick or about to be. And, strangest of all, we may yawn when we are about to die.

Underneath all of these things, which the doctors term "incoming sensory impulses," the primary purpose of the yawn is to supply the imperative demands of our bodies for "more air and hurry up about it!"

A teacher of economics in a small college early in the year began to entertain a hearty dislike for one of his pupils. This student, a boy from the farm, would sit forward in his chair in an attitude of deepest attention, seemingly hanging on the teacher's every word. Then, just as the teacher was beginning to believe he had captured this particular student's imagination, the country boy's face would disappear behind a yawn.

The instructor, being young, was sensitive, and happened to talk about the boy once to an old doctor who was dean of the medical school.

The dean laughed.

"Why," he said, "that boy is paying you the highest compliment possible. He is so interested that his brain draws on the blood for more oxygen. He has to yawn!"

Yawns also have their bad sides. They are sometimes the product of melancholy, languor, torpor, ennui or weakness, or of the malaise that precedes the onset of a disease. It is regarded in the world of medicine as a sort of indirect symptom.

AAREST BROTHER

two complaints, charging Stevens and Carpender with both murders, had been made by Captain John L. Lamb, of State police, warrants had only been issued on one of the two complaints against each.

Both rose to their feet to enter their pleas of "Not Guilty."

Judge Cleary then committed both to jail without bail.

FIRE BRIGADE HOLDS DANCE

Omemee Fire Fighters Are Raising Funds to Buy Alarm.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT

OMEMEE, July 13.—The newly organized fire brigade of Omemee held its first dance last Wednesday evening, with very gratifying results. Coronation Hall was tastefully decorated for the event and a local orchestra provided the music.

The aim of the fire fighters is to purchase a fire alarm, which will occupy a central position in the village.

The dance of Wednesday evening was arranged with this end in view, and as a result the energetic brigade has on hand $165.00.

Annual Picnic.

The Anglican Sunday chool held its annual picnic on Friday last when the members and friends of the school motored to Keneden Park. The weather was very favorable for the outing and an enjoyable afternoon was spent in races and ball games. At the supper hour Mr. and Mrs. Griffin, who had graciously thrown open their cottage for the use of the visitors, were the guests of the picnic party, following which a very happy toast list was proposed and responded to by some of the orators of the party.

Mrs. E. Doube.

When preparing to attend church on Sunday morning Mrs. E. Doube, an aged and much beloved citizen of the village, had the great misfortune to fall a short distance when overcome by weakness, falling sideways over the end of her bedstead. Medical aid was soon summoned, and the aged lady made as comfortable as possible, but owing to the fact that she has suffered similar attacks since then, grave fears are entertained for her recovery.

LECTURE GIVEN ON HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE

Miss Hopkins Addresses Class of Girls on Tuesday Afternoon.

WARSAW, Aug. 13.—Miss Hopkins spent Tuesday afternoon in Warsaw coaching about fifteen girls on points of a good loaf of bread; of a good school lunch, and good dressing. She had two samples of bread, both of which were marked over eighty percent.. The main points of a loaf were: Color a uniform ,golden brown shape,, ,loaves well rounded, and uniformly risen, not bulged on the sides; crust, crisp but tender; texture, should be full of even small holes, silky in appearance; neither heavy enough to be solid nor light enough to be too dry, it should have risen about twice the bulk of the dough; there should be no streaks; the bread should be slightly moist, but dry enough to rebound when compressed; the color should be creamy white, and the flavor nutty, with no suggestion of sourness nor any other "off" flavor.

Reasons for different defects were given.

In the matter of school lunches, the container was first considered. The teacher thought an ordinary tin pail, with a perforated lid as good as any. In packing the heaviest things should be at the bottom and, if possible, the things to be eaten first on top. Each lunch should contain some body builder, such as meat, cheese, eggs, fish, generally found in the sandwich filling; some energy producer, starch, sugar, butter, as found in bread, cereals, sweets, and some body regulator, as found in water, milk, fresh, raw fruit or vegetables. She did not thing a piece of cake or pie wrong, but there should be but one piece.

House dresses for morning should be neatly made of cotton material, easily laundered, of colors that will not fade, and are becoming to the wearer.

Any straps that catch or get into one's work are out of place. The sleeves are better short.

For church, Miss Hopkins did not object to a conservative sport dress, a good knitted suit, but a sporty sport dress is altogether out of place. It should not be conspicuous, there should be proper underwear, but it should not show. Hat and gloves should be worn to church. She advised low heels. Everything should be properly adjusted. Knickers are absolutely out of place except for sports, and with sport suits, silk stockings should never be worn. She described one girl she saw who wore white knickers, a silk sweater, silk stockings, and black satin pumps. She was much pleased at Toronto Exhibition last year. Over three hundred girls were there at the competitions, and all were properly dressed.

She urged the girls to take advantage of the opportunities offered them. In this county the agricultural societies give over one hundred dollars for prizes in these competitions, and the girls in this township should try for some of it. Even if they do not get a prize, the trying and noticing, and judging is educational.

She also urged the holding of short courses in domestic science and in nursing.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clements are taking a two weeks' holiday. They are on a motor trip and will spend a few days on Georgian Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Weller, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. McIlvena and Miss Edith Bullock are camping on the lake.

SHOPPERS' CONTEST DECLARED ILLEGAL

Promoter of Recent Event is Fined in Lindsay Court.

LINDSAY, Aug. 13 (Special). —An important judgment of interest to merchants and others throughout the province was handed down yesterday by Police Magistrate Bradford in the case of Rex vs. Neil C. Cameron, or the Profit Sharing System, Toronto.

Some months ago the defendant launched a Shoppers' Contest in Lindsay with which a number of merchants were identified. Coupons were sold to the merchants, and these in turn were given out to purchasers of merchandise who, in turn placed them to the credit of their friends who were contesting for the prizes given those who obtained the greatest number of votes. The coupons were worth their face value and could be redeemed by any merchant at any time. The prize offered the contestants were valued at several thousand dollars, the grand prize being an automobile. When the contest closed, the prizes were delivered to the winners, and the contest closed to the entire satisfaction of the merchants.

On the 30th day of July, however, Mr. Cameron faced a charge in police court of having directly or indirectly issued, sold and disposed of trading stamps to merchants in the town of Lindsay for use in their business, being contrary to the Criminal Code. After the hearing of evidence from the merchants and defendant, judgment was reserved until yesterday. The defendant was found guilty, and a fine of $100 and costs was imposed, and in default of payment, one month in jail. George Walsh, of Toronto, counsel for the defendant immediately notified the court that the judgment would be appealed.

Police Magistrate Bradford in his judgment gave the meaning of "trading stamp" as defined in the Criminal Code. It represented a discount on the price of goods or a premium thereof redeemable by any other person other than the vendor or the person from whom the goods is purchased or the manufacturer. The evidence established that the coupons were bought by the merchants and given out to the purchasers of goods. They contained voting privileges and the persons controlling the largest number of votes were awarded the prizes. The value of the coupon was its voting privilege. The magistrate did not recollect a single instance where the purchaser of these coupons went to the merchant who furnished him with same and asked to have them redeemed in cash or goods. The coupons, the magistrate said, indicated an adroit attempt to circumvent provisions of the Criminal Code. He failed to see any difference in this case and the case of Rex v. Pollock, reported in 36 Ontario Law Reports. He adopted the language of Chief Justice Meredith, and ruled that the case was well within letter and spirit of the enactment.

"I find the defendant guilty of the offence charged," said the Magistrate. "As I see it, not only the defendant (Cameron) but all the merchants who participated and even the customers who used these coupons, have offended against the provisions of the criminal code, and have left themselves liable to be prosecuted for violations of the law. Recourse to such methods of selling goods tends to lower the standards of business ethics and should not be encouraged. Merchants who do not participate in these questionable devices of selling their goods, should be protected against the manifestly unfair competition in which they are thus subjected."

Shoppers' contests such as that carried on in Lindsay are under way in Orillia, Kitchener and other centres, and the outcome of this case has been awaited with interest.

COURT JUSTICE DENIES PARDON

Paid the Supreme Penalty For Murder Shortly After Midnight.

PAYS LAST VISIT.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—Richard Reese Whittemore yesterday was prepared to die, the last slender thread of hope on which his life rested having been snapped by United States Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes' denial of a writ of error.

The bandit leader, who fatally wounded Robert H. Holtman, a guard, in an escape from Maryland penitentiary on February 20, 1925, took the final adverse decision calmly as he had taken the long series of failures which attended the efforts of his attorneys to set aside the death sentence.

"All right, that's all I expected," he said.

Whittemore was convicted of first degree murder on May 21, after having escaped conviction by a jury disagreement in Buffalo, N.Y., where he was tried for murder in connection with the killing of a bank messenger during a $93,000 hold-up.

Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, the condemned man's wife, who had refused to relinquish hope throughout the series of adverse court decisions, was in a state of collapse when word reached her that the last possible move had failed. She, with Rawlings V. Whittemore, the slayer's father, and Mr. and Mrs. Rawlings V. Whittemore, Jr., the bandit's brother and sister-in-law, was to visit her husband in the death cell for the last time last night. The time of the visit was not divulged, but it was indicated it was scheduled well before the hour of execution, set for a few minutes after midnight, eastern standard time.

Whittemore asked that his last meal be an Italian dinner, and Warden Patrick J. Brady granted the request. The meal was prepared in a downtown restaurant selected by Whittemore.

CIRCUS ELEPHANTS REMAIN AT LARGE

Trainers Fear That Hunted Animals Will Turn on Pursuers.

CRANBROOK, B.C., Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press.)—Three circus elephants who bolted from the show grounds five days ago, are still enjoying their holiday in the wilds of British Columbia.

None of the posse of mounted Indians and woodsmen, who have been scouring the woods and mountains southwest of the city, have sighted the runaway jungle beasts during the past 48 hours.

Tracks have been found as far east as the Walkey Abatoir, and to Perry Creek, about ten miles north of here. Evidence is forthcoming that one of the stampeding elephants has developed fractious tendencies. It is believed that the animals are growing increasingly wild, particularly since they became separated two days ago. Circus trainers believe that the beasts have sensed the chase and fear that they may turn on their pursuers, when finally located.

Tourists travelling the roads of East Kootenay are alarmed and as a consequence of the menacing mood of the runaways, the tourist traffic has dropped off considerably.

It was expected that "Cheerful" Gardiner and his airplane from Wichita, Kansas, would join in the hunt yesterday.

Hay was an abundant crop here this year. Oats are also a good crop.

Most of the farmers have their wheat cut and report a splendid crop.

NOW YOU TELL ONE!

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 13.—"I have a house cat with a remarkable appetite for cheese," a subscriber wrote to a local paper. "Every time cheese is placed on the table Tabby sits and begs for some. Inquiring into the cause of this extraordinary taste, I discovered that the cat ate the cheese and then went to a mouse-hole in the woodwork and blew his breath heavily into it. That was his way of enticing the mice to come out."

MODELS FROM OLD TIN CANS

High school boys in Hawaii are putting old tin cans to work in study ing engineering. Lumber was too expensive to use for models and near by was a pineapple cannery where they could have for nothing all the cans they wanted.

Out of these cans they have made unique mdels—trusses, columns, girder bridges, beams, arch bridges, gantry cranes and trestles.—Popular Science Monthly.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

BRITAIN INSPIRED CONFERENCE TO KEEP SEA POWER

American Admiral Adds That She Objected To Bigger American Navy.

BENEFITS JAPAN.

Latter Nation Given Free Land in Asia By Washington Pact.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 13. — The leading powers of the world are engaged in a competition of armament building, but the United States is not involved in the race, it was asserted at the Institute of Politics by Rear Admiral William L. Rodgers, U.S.N., retired, and Captain W. W. Smyth, U.S.N., attached to the office of the Secretary of the Navy.

"The competition is on," declared Captain Smyth. "It is perfectly terrific in tonnage and in qualities of ships. Each nation is trying to get as many ships of one ton less than 10,000 tons as it can stand."

Assertions Against Britain.

Admiral Rodgers, who was a member of the Citizens' Committee of the advisers to the American delegation at the Washington Conference, made a series of sweeping assertions concerning the part he alleged was played by Great Britain in the calling of the conference, and vigorous exception was taken to some of his declarations.

Among the assertions made by Admiral Rodgers were:

The Washington conference was inspired by Britain, foreshadowed by utterances of British leaders, and spurred on by "British propaganda in the United States," directed towards economy in armaments.

The conference was called "because Great Britain objected to the United States having a merchant fleet and a navy bigger than her own."

The whole result of the conference "was that for the advantage of Britain the treaty destroyed the threatened United States supremacy of the sea and left Britain as the leading sea power in merchant fleet and in war fleet, for it is developing its cruiser class, which the treaty left unlimited.

Demand of Canada.

"Further it released her from the Japanese alliance, which Canada would no longer tolerate. With the limitation of armaments the United States consented to the four-power treaty by which Japan is made secure in her status quo on the continent of Asia until Russia offers an objection or until China herself becomes strong enough to do so.

The treaty participated in by Great Britain, United States, Japan and France, gave Japan a considerable advantage, and double security, Admiral Rodgers said, by limiting Great Britain and the United States in the construction of further fortifications in the Far East.

NEW MEMBERS FOR KIWANIS

Two Are Received Into Club To-day—Address on Traffic Control.

BIG PROBLEM.

Two new members, W. S. Merrell and Coleman R. Blewitt were received into the Kiwanis Club today. They were introduced by Art Reynolds who, in an inspiring speech, described to them the privileges and obligations of Kiwanis. The word Kiwanis, said the speaker, has no special meaning, therefore it is up to every Kiwanian to give the word a meaning suggestive of increased happiness with good fellowship behind it. "My earnest wish," he said, "is that you will find happiness within the walls of this club." Kiwanis club meetings take the form of luncheons, and no club can progress unless its members attend its meetings. In the dawn of history the breaking of bread was symbolical of friendship, he said. "You will also be called by your first name," he declared. "This will serve to remind you of the days of your youth. Certain duties will be requested of you, not commanded, for there are no commands in Kiwanis. In conclusion," said Kiwanian Reynolds, "these remarks are not to be regarded as preaching or precept, but it is my earnest desire that you become established as good Kiwanians."

H. C. Treneer of Toronto, a former organist at St. Andrew's Church of this city, rendered two excellent piano solos, which were heartily encored by those present.

The local club will be represented at the district convention in Toronto by President Jack Craig, Secretary Jack Heron, and District Trustee Jack Allen.

R. J. Marshal of Toronto, the special speaker for the occasion, gave a very interesting talk on the subject of traffic control.

In touching on the subject of traffic control, said the speaker, the situation that occurs in the Province of Ontario today is complicated by the immense growth of automobile traffic. In 1905 there were between four and five thousand automobiles in the province, by 1915 the number had increased to forty-one thousand and last year had increased to three hundred and eighty-seven thousand. One would infer from these figures, he said, that by 1935 there would be four million automobiles in the province alone.

Ten or fifteen years ago, he said, traffic was usually directed by the street car conductor in an effort to pilot his car across the intersections. The problem of traffic control is therefore a new one and will only be settled by a proper campaign of education along certain lines. It can be divided into two divisions—traffic movement and traffic accidents. High ways built for the transportation of commodities and social intercourse, should be kept as free as possible. The problem has already reached such a state that in New York they are considering spending thirty five million dollars for the construction of an overhead highway.

Traffic obstructions cause an appaling amount of money, he said, it being estimated that their cost to the manufacturers was around a million dollars a day. This results in additional charges to the ultimate consumers. The finding of data in connection with traffic movement was a very laborious one, he said. Cars had to be counted, heavy trucks also, and up to the present very little had been definitely established.

It has been solved in many cities by the city engineers improving a short stretch of pavement, thereby encouraging traffic to travel by other than the main thoroughfares. By this plan congestion on the main routes is relieved. Another system was designating one way streets. Their efficiency was an unknown quantity, he said, as there is no use in having them operate one way without having them op.rate the other. Another method was by having through traffic streets, but the wisdom of this course was doubtful, he declared. While they create a ready way of getting through a city on the highways it is inclined to give the average driver the idea that he has absolute rights over everything else coming from the sideroads. When signals are used they are placed in position with the idea of conveying some fact to the driver. For that reason it is never advisable to put too much wording on a sign.

For controlling traffic it was impossible to beat the well trained police officer, and no mechanical device will ever ever be found to equal him, he said. But where in the past bucket brigades were considered efficient fire fighting apparatus, today we find that the best mechanical brains are busy inventing machinery that will bring the matter to a fine state of efficiency. It is the same with traffic control, he said. Today it is practically impossible for a police officer to control every phrase of traffic movement.

Nothing has given the experts more trouble than the problem of parking. In business retail sections it is impossible to place no parking signs because the general tendency is that where travel is not easy on city streets the result will be a sub centre shopping district.

The problem of accidents is a big one, and when a person considers that last year in the United States twenty thousand persons were killed and six hundred and seven thousand injured by automobiles, the public is regarding the matter with altogether too much complacency. Studying the accidents that occur in a city over a period of time a person will find that some places figure more in accidents than others. Statistics show that eighty-five per cent of the accidents occur at street intersections, and seventy per cent. from cutting corners. This is due to direction and guidance not being given to traffic to the point where it may make the turn properly.

Education in courtesy is also a big feature in this connection, and lessons in this regard could be taken with profit by about ninety-nine per cent. of the motorists on the road. In conclusion, said Mr. Marshall, the question of traffic needs the co-operation of every person with each other and the authorities to make it a success. Kiwanis clubs, he said, have already done a great deal toward this cause.

Harry Boyle conveyed the thanks of the members to Mr. Treneer and to Mr. Marshall.

Among the visitors present to-day were: H. Irwin, Detroit; R. J. Marshall, Toronto; Charles E. W. Phillips, Montreal; R. M. Devell, Peterborough; H. C. Treneer, Toronto; and F. E. Kerr, Peterboro.

Sea Bathing, Once Considere d Scandalous Performance, Royal Indulgence Made It Popular With British Gentry

BRIGHTON, England, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press) — Sea bathing, now so popular, was a rather scandalous performance in England until the beginning of the nineteenth century. With hundreds of thousands of bathers along the British coast daily, it is difficult to realize Smollett wrote 150 years ago that persons who went swimming in the sea were apt to be "retrieved" forcibly by those who thought they had gone mad.

Doctors of the Royal family happened to be men who believed in bathing, and to that fact the popularity of sea bathing as a fashionable sport may be attributed. George III was sent to Weymouth and some of the members of his family bathed at East Bourne, while the prince regent came to Brighton and gave this resort a fashionable reputation.

Bathing in pools of mineral water, such as those at Scarborough, was popular and fashionable as early as the middle of the eighteenth century but it was not till years later that sea bathing was looked upon as something that the best families could do.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—Robert Scott, who pleaded guilty of the murder in connection with the slaying of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk, was taken to Joliet to begin serving a term for the crime in the State prison. He had no opportunity of saying goodbye to his brother Russell, who is under sentence of death in conenction with the same crime.

KING TAKES STAND.

Never Has Favored Annexation States Ex-Premier King.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—"I stand for British constitution through and through. I am not in favor, never have been in favor of annexation," said Right Hon. Mackenzie King here last night. "I make this statement," he added, "because there has been deliberate attempt to mislead the people of the country."

"I believe that this country can have no greater destiny than as one of free, self-governing nations of the British Empire. That is the highest destiny we have."

Heat Refugees In Parks Cooled By Brisk Shower

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. — (United Press). — Hundreds of heat refugees who went to the parks to sleep in the open last night learned the cooling effects of a bath when brisk showers drenched them early this morning.

Washington was the hottest city in the country except Yuma, Arizona, according to weather bureau reports.

The temperature reached 99. After the cooling rain the temperature dropped, but more showers and then warmer were the prediction for to-day.

TILBURY DOCKS BEING ENLARGED

London To Be Made Port of Call For World's Biggest Steamers.

FIVE YEARS' WORK.

LONDON, Aug. 13. — (United News.)—London probably will become a port of call for the biggest liners in the world when the gigantic docks at Tilbury, 20 miles outside the city, are completed about five weeks hence.

Work will begin soon on these docks, which are to be built at an estimated cost of $14,000,000. Plans for the undertaking include a new entrance lock to Tilbury dock, which will be extended to a length of 1,000 feet, a dry dock 1,000 feet long, and a pontoon landing stage 1,140 feet long for ocean, railway ferry and excursion steamer traffic.

GANGSTERS DIE OTHERS APPEAR

Despite Killings in Gang Feuds and By Police They Flourish.

IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—If a cemetery had been set aside four years ago for gangsters, it would by this time be in a flourishing condition. Chief of Polic Collins has been going over his statistics and is puzzled. More than 200 gangsters are dead as the results of feuds. Outside of these figures, the police have killed 160 during the four years.

Forty-two gangsters are dead since January 1, shot down in feuds. The killings in the suburbs lift the figures to 54 dead men since January 1. Chief Collins finds that during the last year his police have killed 60 gangsters. This list is outside of the family gang killings. Yet, with this extraordinary death rate, gangsters seem to spring up ready to be cut down. They seem to thrive on death.

"The police can do nothing to stop gang killings," said the chief. "They are beyond protection by the police.

"The gangsters have an organization of their own. There was a time when they had the city divided into territories and each faction respected territorial rights. That was before the days of hi-jacking.

"Nowadays they are all over the city, and when they want something they take it. When their demands are refused they back them up with revolvers or shotguns.

"If gangsters kill each other, we don't care very much. Of course, we make an honest and sincere effort to find the guilty parties, and when arrested we try and hang them. But the task is hard."

MEIGHEN DENIES C.N.R. RUMORS

Says First Decried For Creating System, Now Accused of Destruction.

DISCUSSES BUDGET.

LANDIS, Sask., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—"Those who decried me for creating it, now pretended that I am going to destroy it," declared Premier Meighen yesterday afternoon in addressing a brief wayside meeting at Biggar, Sask. Mr. Meighen spoke from the back of his car and at the time was vigorously denying rumors that he proposed to amalgamate the Canadian National with the C.P.R.

Speaking on the Robb Budget, Mr. Meighen recognized that the Budget had brought reduction in income tax to the man of moderate income. "I was glad to see it. It should have come before," he said, adding, however, that those who benefitted most were men of large income.

As to effect of the Budget on automobile prices, Mr. Meighen declared that there never was a more transparent sham than to try to make people believe that the Budget reduced prices of automobiles at the expense of the manufacturer. The price of cars was reduced because the luxury tax had been taken off and the Treasury had lost the money.

FAREWELL PARTY.

Messrs. M. and T. Sproats Receive Gifts From Eastern Star L.O.B.A.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Miss Edith Brown, Worthy Mistress of Eastern Star Lodge, No. 525 on Wednesday evening, August 11, when about thirty members gathered together to say farewell to Brother Thomas Sproats and Brother Melville Sproats, who are leaving the city in a few days. Among friends present was Mrs. Agnew of Scotland.

The evening was spent in music and singing and a few words were spoken expressing their regret in the departure of two very worthy members from the lodge. Brother Thomas Sproats was then presented with a fountain pen and eversharp pencil and Brother Melville Sproats with a cigarette case.

A very dainty lunch was served by Miss Edith Brown, Miss Flossie Brown and Miss Myrtle Frost, after which the old favorite words were sung: "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

"Cry Baby" Bandits Get New Trial When Juror Quits New Panel Composed Of Solid-Looking Business Men

NEW YORK, Aug. 13—Retrial of the "Cry-baby" bandits began in Bronx County Court yesterday with a jury tested and double-tested against a recurrence of the unusual incident which on Tuesday prematurely terminated the five-day trial.

On Tuesday Judge James M. Barrett declared a mistrial after Louis Long, juror No. 8, dramatically arose and demanded to be released because he could no longer stand the testimony of the five defendants concerning alleged "third-degree" brutality used to wrench from them, along with copious tears, confessions that they attempted to rob the Liccione Bank in the Bronx, and shot a clerk there July 22.

Edward J. O'Brien, counsel for the defendants, sought to challenge for cause the man in the hoodooed seat No. 8, because, he said, he had policemen friends and would be inclined to believe implicitly the sworn testimony of the average cop. This venierman hung for a long time and was peremptorily challenged.

After several hours of tedious questioning, 12 very solid-looking citizens sat in the jury box, accepted by the District Attorney.

Little Baronet Perturbed By International Discord

MONTREAL, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—Sir Robert Muir Mackenzie is somewhat perturbed at certain signs of international discord he had noted in his travels abroad.

"The Americans don't seem to like the Canadians, and the Canadians don't seem to like the Americans. The Americans call the Canadians 'Blue-noses,' and say they are mean," he announced yesterday, when interviewed here.

"I am the sixth Baronet," he explained, and went on to say that he had been sixth Baronet some time—ever since he was 18 months old, in fact, when his father was killed in the war. For, although he is already "takin' notes," and gaining first-hand knowledge of the relations between nations, Sir Robert is only nine years old.

TRACE RHEUMATIC ILLS TO ONE BONE

Doctors Find That Displacement of One Joint is Often Cause.

Rheumatism long has been regarded as a more or less harmless, though often painful, affliction. Today, however, medical men who have made a special study of the disease are convinced that what is commonly classed as "only rheumatism" may actually be any one of a number of serious nervous disorders.

Some remarkable discoveries, described in the September Popular Science Monthly, have been recently made by Dr. Henry P. De Forest, of New York city, and Dr. Horace G. Baldwin, of Tannersville, N.Y. They have found that various forms of "rheumatic" ills are due to mechanical nerve irritation, and that the seat of the irritation apparently lies in a joint at the base of the back. By setting this little bone in place they claim to have brought relief to sufferers.

Summer Suits Itself with Transparent Coats

PARIS keeps cool in Georgette coats that fail to hide the many colors of the frock of printed silk beneath. This is the last word on Summer ensembles. It makes a very perfect costume, for it combines the formality necessary for the street with the sleeveless frock that every one likes to wear in warm weather. Georgette, crêpe Roma and silk voile are the lightest materials for the coat and are very smart over checked taffeta or printed crêpe or crêpe de Chine. The frock is the one-piece type with a straight lower edge while the coat is made with a circular flare slightly shorter than the dress.

The Examiner does not sell these patterns.

Paris Prints A Guide To Chic

Since fashion decrees simplicity of line, she is especially careful of detail; and since the jabot is most enthusiastically approved of by the mode, this frock of polka-dotted voile uses one effectively, fashioning it of plain contrasting color to harmonize with the semi-mannish collar. The diagram, in lower right-hand corner, pictures the simple design of this little frock, which has each side of the front slashed and gathered over the bust, creating a yoke effect, while the back is quite straight and in one piece. The jabot is made from a straight strip of material six inches wide, having the outer edges bound or picoted, and is tacked to the underneath side of the flat plait which covers the front opening. The pattern provides long sleeves gathered into narrow wrist-bands. NO. 1098 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years requires 3¾ yards figured material; ¾ yard plain contrasting for trimming. Price 20 cents.

HER OWN WAY by A GIRL of TODAY

A NEW JOB

Just then Joan came back on the porch from telephoning and we could say no more.

She immediately asked Jerry if he would book us passage on the next steamer early in the morning.

"Of course, I will do that, Miss Meredith, if you think you will want it, but honestly if I were you I would wait until I knew something about the settlement of the estate."

Joan looked annoyed. I imagined it was the first time in her life that a man in the same station as herself in life had not started immediately at her command to make her wishes come true.

I hastened to explain.

"You see, Joan, Mr. Hathaway seems to think it rather strange that you have not had anything said to you by anyone, not even your stepfather, about the final settling of your estate. You know you probably have many millions of dollars in many different securities and real estate holdings and it will take a long while to get these all in proper shape. Have you seen Mr. Elkins lately?"

"Some way I have a faint recollection that Josiah Elkins is very ill," interrupted Jerry, "and that his son has taken over as much of his business as possible. This may possibly account for Miss Meredith's not hearing about her business."

"Well, we will find this all out in the morning," I said. "Joan, Mr. Hathaway suggests that we visit Mr. Elkins' office in the morning and notify them that we will expect a settlement on the seventeenth, which is a day after tomorrow."

This seemed to suggest but one thing to Joan Meredith.

"Then you are coming home with me, Judy, as my companion and business manager!" she exclaimed enthusiastically.

"If you want me, dear," I said. "I'll try to be your companion, if that is what they call them, for a while, but not your business manager. I don't know anything about business. And I don't think I had better go home with you tonight, for your step-father is probably very angry with me."

I had not told Joan anything about Miss Cleaver and I did not intend to unless it became absolutely necessary. But I knew that Mr. Robinson had probably been hunting me all day, and if he found me at his house there would be ructions.

"I don't see why you can't come home with me even if he is angry," pouted Joan.

"I would rather not tonight, dear," I declined. "You see, Mamie does not know where I am and I will have to make some arrangements with her before I can come to you."

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The ancients believed that envy was the greatest enemy to man's happiness; that his health and fortune could be destroyed by the green-eyed monster in the eyes of others. Therefore, the carnelian, to-day's talismanic gem, is particularly valuable, since it serves as a protection against envy.

Peace is promised by to-day's natal stone, the agate. It is said to protect those born on an anniversary of this date from all danger, especially from misfortunes attendant on associations with evil companions.

Green is to-day's color. It signifies the emerging of its wearer from despair—to joyousness.

To-day's flower is the pink rose, which brings good fortune to the home where it is used as a decoration.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliff

SHE DISCUSSES THE PICTURE FROCK FOR AFTERNOON.

"Yes, I would advise at least one picture frock," Madame was saying to the youthful client as I passed them in the salon.

I noticed the young girl particularly, as she was not a familiar client to me, but seemed to be a new face among those who come into the shop regularly.

I passed on into the mannikins' room, and soon one of the errand girls came in to say that Madame wanted me to don the newest pale pink organdie.

I love the dress anyway, and was delighted at the idea of modeling it.

The dress is one of the simplest possible picture frocks, one of the kind that would make a most useful addition to any Summer wardrobe.

I put it on with the aid of the wardrobe mistress, and added a large cream colored straw hat with a simple grosgrain band about the crown.

The young girl who was sitting with Madame liked it immediately, I could tell by the sudden look of interest that came into her eyes when I appeared.

"You see, this is the kind of picture frock that I like best," Madame explained to her. "It is not extreme, so you can wear it to any kind of Summer afternoon party and feel quite at ease."

The pale pink organdie is the sheer kind that has a certain amount of body, but is by no means stiff. The dress has the simplest possible waist, just a slender bateau neckline and very short sleeves, with narrow rose organdie pleated ruffles to edge them.

The skirt is made in the most attractive way for an organdie—that is, with a straight foundation skirt, and a gathered skirt over this that opens down the front. In this way, the overskirt flies back a bit when the wearer walks, and the dress gives the bouffant effect without losing any of the grace of the straighter frock.

The client liked the embroidered wool flowers in gay colors, and ordered an exact reproduction of the original.

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

THE EMPRESS EUDOXIA PETER THE GREAT AND MAJOR GLEBOFF

An uncouth giant, a beautiful, young patrician and a kind-hearted officer formed an unusual and striking triangle in the dawn of the eighteenth century.

The uncouth giant was Peter the Great, the patrician the Empress Eudoxia, his wife, and the officer, Major Gleboff, whose name would have passed into obscurity if it were not for the part he played in the life of the Empress.

Peter the First, surnamed "The Great," was one of the founders of the Russia that was and a tremendous force in the history of the world, but as a man he descended to unbelievable depths of hatred, cruelty and dissipation. The Tsar had the nature and tastes of a peasant and hated anything that savored of the refined. He mixed among his people, worked with them at manual labor and also joined them in drunken carouses. He received diplomats in a short shirt, with his hose slopping over his feet, he could be seen on the streets at times clad in the filthiest clothes and his large build, great strength and fearsome temper magnified every uncongenial quality in him. He could be truly regarded as the personification of one of the terrible, powerful giants that awed us in our fairy tale days.

To offset the uncouth nature of Peter, his mother hopefully married him to Eudoxia Lopukhina, a beautiful, finely bred though not over-clever lady. To a man of Peter's inclinations a woman like Eudoxia was gall and within a year after his marriage he despatched her to a convent to pass twenty years of her life in a lonely, friendless existence. Peter later took to his bosom a kitchen maid, formerly a camp follower, who fascinated him because of the neat way in which she kept the kitchen of a friend. It was she who became the famous Catherine, elevated by Peter, in spite of the shocked protests of his country, to the throne of Empress.

Confined in her solitary cell at the convent Eudoxia suffered every deprivation. She had not enough to eat nor clothes sufficient to keep her warm through the intense cold of a Russian winter, and she had to appeal to friends for necessary comforts. One of those friendly persons who took compassion upon the unfortunate queen was a Major Gleboff. His kindness aroused in Eudoxia a fondness which soon developed into a passion, though she knew he was a married man and she was nominally the wife of Peter. In time, Gleboff either became fearful of the consequences of keeping up his relations with Eudoxia, or his interest cooled, for he stopped coming to her. Then followed the letters from Eudoxia to Gleboff which were to bring the latter to a horrible death at the hands of Peter.

The following excerpts are from these letters:

"Where thy heart is, dear one, mine is also; where thy tongue is, there is my head; thy will is also mine. . . .

"My light, my soul, my joy, has the cruel hour of separation come already? How can I endure existence? Rather would I see my soul parted from my body. God alone knows how dear thou art to me. Why do I love thee so much, my adored one, that without thee life is worthless? Why art thou angry with me? Why, my batushka dost thou not come to see me? Have pity on me, O my lord, and come to see me tomorrow. O, my world, my dearest and best, answer me; do not let me die of grief . . . Send me but a crust of bread that thou hast bitten with thy teeth, or the waist-coat thou hast worn, that I may have something to bring thee near to me."

Eudoxia's love for Gleboff came to light in connection with a plot against Peter. The nuns of the convent where Eudoxia was confined were questioned and when they would not betray the queen they were put to torture, so brutal that many of them died, until confession was obtained. At Gleboff's home was found a package of Eudoxia's letters which the foolish man had kept and even labelled "Letters from the Empress." Gleboff was forthwith taken in hand by Peter and tortured to confess the story of the queen's love for him in detail. When Gleboff's agony had brought the desired words to his mouth Peter ordered his execution by a form of crucifixion and, to prolong his sufferings, he had the wretched man wrapped warmly in furs in order that the winter cold should not put an end to him before his wounds did. In this horrible state Gleboff existed twenty-eight hours before death came.

Peter did not dare to deal with Eudoxia as he doubtless wished to and the furthest he could go was to have her publicly flogged and sent to an even more remote nunnery. When Peter died Catherine vented her spite on Eudoxia in a freer fashion than Peter and placed her in a damp and vermin-infested dungeon of a fortress. There Eudoxia remained for two years when, upon the succession to the throne of Peter II., she was released and brought home and given the honors that were denied her by Peter.

But the mind of the queen who had remained almost thirty years a prisoner was weakened as her frame was emaciated, and she asked to be returned to a convent, where two years later she died.

HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

FRIDAY, AUGUST 13, 1926.

(Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

For all forceful and energetic persons this should be a lucky day, according to astrology. Doers more than dreamers are supposed to be affected.

It is a favorable day for all who have climbed to the top of the ladder, making for larger vision and quicker sympathies.

There is a sign of promise for all who seek employment and the stars presage stimulation in many industries.

Women should benefit if they are fitted for high achievements. Many are to win success as bankers and financiers, it is prophesied.

Jupiter today smiles on merchants and manufacturers, who will find increase of trade and commerce makes added demands on them.

Inventors are to furnish activity in the production of noble machinery and strange devices that affect everyday life, the seers prophesy.

This is a fortunate sway for flying and again astrologers announce increase of commercial uses for airplanes.

There is a good sign today for fairs and expositions which come under a direction of the stars that arouses interest in material things rather than mere ideas.

Trend toward artistic achievement will be strong—many women as well as men are to win fame.

Farmers come under a sway today, which appears to offer hope of better market conditions. Many provinces will enjoy returns from big crops.

Land again attracts interests on the part of investors who will seek real estate holdings in places hitherto deemed unpromising, for engineers are to perform new wonders in platting ground.

An aged scientist is to achieve final honors this month when he will make a last contribution to human comfort.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of trials, which should end happily. Extreme sagacity should be exercised in all personal matters.

Children born on this day may have eventful lives marked by many unusual experiences. They are likely to be of sunny nature and diverse talents.

NEW GARDEN TOOL KILLS WEEDS WITH GASOLINE.

Killing weeds with gasoline is the purpose of a new garden tool. It looks like a sender cane and is filled with gasoline. The gardener holds the cane in his hands and presses the sharp point in the ground at the root of the weed. CORNELIA

(The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

Fortunate is she who bears the name of Cornelia, which through the centuries has been symbolic of all that is beautiful and reverent in motherhood. Not only has Cornelia a heritage worthy of an empress, coming, as she does, from the distinguished old Roman gens of Cornelius but her memory is immortalized by Latin legend, which makes her the mother of the Gracchi and the heroine of one of the most beautiful tributes to motherhood.

Some etymologists endeavor to trace Cornelia back to the two words, 'cornu belli,' meaning 'a war horn,' but the consensus of opinion is that she had no existence previous to the first woman so called, who was the daughter of Publius Cornelius Scipio Africanus I, and the mother of the Gracchi. She seems to have inherited from her gallant warrior father a spirit of pure, lofty dignity, which made her the highest type of Roman brotherhood.

When, according to the legend, the matrons of the most fashionable circle of Roman society were gossiping over the ancient equivalent for tea, and exhibiting their gem collections for the edification and envy of each other, Cornelia alone had no glittering display. But, summoning a slave, she had her twelve beautiful children brought to her, and, laying her hands on the shoulders of the Gracchi, said proudly: "These are my jewels."

The great historians of ancient Rome have carefully recorded the incident making Cornelia superior to all the noble Roman ladies of her time.

Cornelia's popularity as a feminine name throughout Europe is due to the martyred Pope Cornelius, whose relics were brought to Compeigne by Charles the Bald. In the Low Countries, Cornelia became Keetje and sometimes Kee. Nelson is a Dutch rendition of Cornelius.

But though Cornelia's jewels may have been her children, she had a talismanic stone, the turquoise. It is said to protect its wearer from the dangers attendant upon travellers, and to bring them good fortune when they see the new moon reflected on its surface. Saturday is her lucky day and 1 her lucky number. Holly, signifying foresight, is her flower.

HE COLORS TREES TO ORDER.

Magical experiments have been made recently by a scientist in the Maine woods, who has been coloring trees with indelible dyes. By means of a new process he can transform an ordinary beech tree into "rosewood," says Popular Science Monthly, and birch into "mahogany," which are sid to defy detection by expert lumbermen and furniture manufacturers.

The coloring matter saturates the trees from the outer surfaces to the hearts of the trunks. In the process, holes are bored at the base of the trunk, and these serve as reservoirs for the dyes.

Daily Short Story

SYLVIA'S ENGAGEMENT

(By Clarissa Mackie.)

Sade Dunton leaned over the gate in the summer twilight. The village street was quiet, but there were distinct sounds that whispered it was June—the soft breeze in the tall locust trees, the last throaty chirrup of robins in the apple trees, the long chirrup of insects in the grass. There was the delicious, tender sweetness of roses and lilacs, and undertones of unnamed scents that made the night a never-to-be-forgotten one. Sade had a sharply pretty face, with a too-tight mouth and eager eyes. Her rather long pointed nose indicated shrewdness. In spite of the nose, Sade was rated a pretty girl. She was clever about cutting out her girl friends and dancing on her way with some chosen beau. It amused her. She loved power.

"I wish the Blaynes would stop that old phonograph—it's too screechy for words—if they play 'Silver Threads Among the Gold,' I shall scream!"

The phonograph wheezed into silence and after a decent interval, during which Sade looked up and down the street hoping to see the form of some evening caller, the phonograph screeched into the familiar strains of the old melody. Sade screamed just then, not for the expected reason but because a man's form suddenly loomed up as it passed her gate. She thrilled. "It must be Dave Laing," she said aloud. The man stopped.

It was Dave.

"That you, Sade?" came his pleasant voice that always thrilled her.

"Yes," she said softly. "You seem in a hurry, Dave—oh, you're going to the dance?"

"On my way. Of course you're going?"

"I expected to, but you know Lin broke his arm yesterday."

"Ye—tough luck for him. I just saw him in the window." Dave was leaning over the gate and the light from a bow window of the little house fell on his fine, clean-cut face.

"I suppose you're going to take Sylvia," offered Sade wistfully.

Dave laughed. "Why, not exactly. I expect to meet her there, though."

"Will her fiance be there?" Sade shot this bombshell and held tight to the fence pickets with icy cold fingers. This was the biggest thing she had ever dared—but Dave was worth it.

"Her fiance?" repeated Dave slowly. "What about—him, Sade?"

"Nothing much," she said hastily. "Only Mrs. Hathway told somebody that now Sylvia was engaged, she would have to have some new clothes. I wonder who it can be?" she rattled on. "I've decided it must be the new school principal at the Corners."

Dave drew a long breath. "Well, I must be on my way, Sade, if I'm going to have a look in at the dance." Lifting his hat he strode away. Once her voice arrested his steps. "Yes?" he queried in answer to her call.

"If you get tired of the dance, stop in and tell me about it," she invited.

"Thank you," she heard him say, and then he passed on. She could see his tall form every time he passed an occasional street lamp, and her heart turned over when she discovered that he had passed hrough his own gate, and gone into his own house.

"Good-night for you, Sylvia, my dear," smiled Sade, and she went contentedly to bed.

The following week the village vibrated with the news that Sylvia was to marry the new principal at the Corners School, and Sade Dunton only added fuel to the flame of gossip. There was a sewing circle at the parsonage that afternoon and tongues wagged as fast as the needles, and were as sharp pointed. A bright-eyed little woman sat next to Sade, and heard the gossip about Sylvia.

"How odd," said the little woman, Mrs. Peters, who was a newcomer in the church. "I am sure I've seen this girl you call Sylvia—she's a very sweet looking girl—engaged, you say?"

"Yes."

"To a young man named Dave something or other?"

"Dave Laing? Mercy no—I could tell who he is about to be engaged to." Sade pursed her lips with unmistakable meaning.

Just then the door opened and another member of the circle arrived—i. was Mrs. Hathway, Sylvia's mother.

"I am the busiest woman," she was beginning, when someone breathed the words—"Sylvia's engagement." "Why, who told you about it?" she gasped in amazement. "Why, how do things leak out? I was going to announce it this afternoon—well, I am not surprised at it for Dave has been coming around for six months——"

"Dave Laing?" shrieked somebody, not Sade Dunton, I assure you!

"Of course it is Dave Laing. Who else could it be?"

"Somebody said—it was you, Sade Dunton—somebody said it was the new principal at the Corners School."

The little woman stood up. "That is impossible, and absurd," she said firmly, "because the principal is Mr. Peters, and he is my husband!"

But when they looked for Sade, she had vanished.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID MEETS AN INTERESTING LITTLE FELLOW.

"I don't believe I've ever seen a llama in all my life," David mused as he glanced at the sign tacked up above the fence in the zoo. "I wish he'd come out so I could get a squint at him."

Just then there was a rustle behind the big stone in the pen and out came the creature David had been wishing for.

From the top of his head to his feet he was just about four feet high. He was covered with a great heavy coat of brown, yellow and black. His head seemed almost too small for his bulky body and was on a great long neck, that he could turn in any direction. His ears were quite long and he raised them up just like a rabbit when he heard David's low whistle. His feet seemed so small that David wondered how they could carry the heavy body around all day. There was no tail to speak of, just a tuft of wool that wiggled a greeting to his visitor.

"Well," said David, "I'm glad to know you, Mr. Llama. There's something about you that's mighty pretty."

"I'm glad of that," chuckled the creature, coming closer to David's side of the fence. "I'm glad you came to talk to me. I love company. Now before I cam to live here in the zoo, I used to live with a flock of my friends at the foot of the mountains. Then I had plenty to keep me from getting lonesome."

"What did you do there?" questioned David.

"Worked from early morning until night," replied Mr. Llama. "Work is the only thing to keep lonesomeness away. I used to get up early in the morning. My master would pack a heavy kit on my back and along with many of my friends, we'd journey across the country just like camels. My master said he'd rather have llamas to do his hauling than all the camels in the world. I can carry heavy loads on this back of mine.

"I don't see how those little legs and feet of yours can stand much weight."

"They do," replied Mr. Llama. "But let my master put on too much and I'd lie right down and never move a step until the load was lightened. We had the master trained about as well as he had us trained.

"Now if I had something to do here, I wouldn't get so lonesome," the llama continued. "I wish the keepeer of this zoo would let me help him carry the food around to the other animals in the zoo. But he doesn't know I want to do so and he doesn't understand me when I try to tell him."

"Well," David cried, "I'll go and tell him right now," and away he ran to find the keeper.

Of course the old keeper laughed at David's suggestion, but just the same he tried it, and it worked so well that he gave Mr. Llama the steady job. After that Mr. Llama was never lonesome again. He hadn't time to be lonesome.

EXPLAIN 'MYSTERY' OF FAKIRS' TRICKS

Anyone Can Learn to Do Them, Say American Magicians and Psychologists.

Anyone can thrust his arm into a blaze without feeling pain. Any trained athlete can learn to lie on a bed of sharp pointed spikes without blinking; and burial alive for twenty or thirty minutes is not even slightly dangerous. So, at least, say American psychologists and magicians in Popular Science Monthly for September, in explaining some of the "miracles" by which Rahman Bey and other Oriental fakirs are now mystifying American and European audiences.

Rahman Bey lies and walks upon knives, pierces his flesh with daggers and pins, casts himself into deathly trances, permits himself to be buried alive, and performs amazing feats of hypnotism and telepathy. He professes to demonstrate that the will of man, by unremitting practice, can become master over flesh and blood.

In his burial performances in America, Rahman Bey ordinarily remains buried alive for only a few minutes. He offers, however, to stay in the coffin as long as his audience desires. Two stipulations he insists upon—that he must know beforehand exactly how long he is to remain "buried," and that he must be disinterred exactly at the end of that time. If he should be left buried even a minute too long, he warns his uneasy audience, he might die from suffocation.

The burial is picturesque. Clad in flowing white, the fakir appears beside the coffin. For a brief time he manipulates certain nerves in his neck and his temples. Suddenly he becomes rigid, topples over and is caught by attendants, who place him in the coffin, covering it completely with damp sand.

In showing how anyone, given the rigid training of the fakirs, can do their "tricks," Dr. James J. Walsh, New York physician and psychologist, says:

"Burial alive—ten or even thirty minutes of being confined in a box completely covered with sand—is not even slightly dangerous. There is enough air in the box to keep a man alive much longer than that. Try it yourself. Wrap your head up tight for ten minutes. At the end of that time you will feel no ill effects.

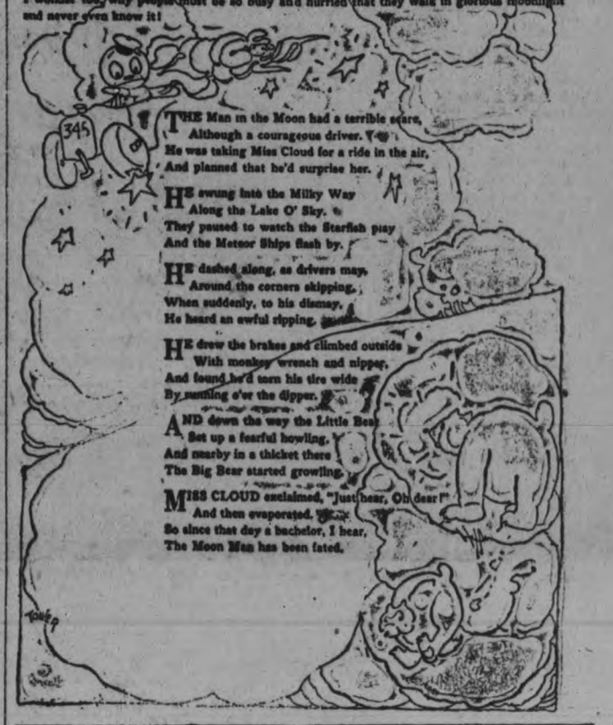
"As for fakirs being buried for months and years—that is another story. On at least one occasion it was discovered finally that some Egyptian fakirs who had been mystifying the country by this stunt had been making use of a hollow tree near by. They would burrow their way over to the tree, make their escape, and at the end of the period of burial go back and resume their 'cataleptic" attitudes in the coffin."

Houdini, the great magician, offers to show anyone how to thrust an arm into a blaze without feeling pain. "It is simply a matter of making the skin fireproof by anointing it with any one of a number of preparations," he says.

Moon Man Motors

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

WHEN the moon is yellow and fat the moonlight shines into our living room in the early evening. A certain little girl sat with me in the big chair while we watched the Man in the Moon racing in and out of puffy silver clouds, all the time winking and smiling at us. A caller came, "Oh don't turn on the lights," we begged, "Come enjoy the moon with us." "Is there a moon?" the caller exclaimed, "I hadn't noticed." When we were alone again we sat silently awhile then came the child's question, "How could the lady not see the moon?" I wonder too, why people must be so busy and hurried that they walk in glorious moonlight and never even know it!



TRIED TO SHOCK MISS MACPHAIL

Woodsworth Says Attempt Was Made To Influence Her Vote.

REPLIES TO DOUCET.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—"I am inclined to think that an effort was made to shock Miss MacPhail and thus influence her vote," said J. S. Woodsworth, Labor leader, last night, in reply to the statement of A. J. Doucet, former member for Kent, that he (Mr. Woodsworth) had accompanied Agnes MacPhail, the former Progressive member for Grey Southcast, on a visit to the Finance Department and after reading certain documents in connection with the customs probe had told her that they were not fit for any woman to read. Mr. Woodsworth stated that "Miss MacPhail had been told that there was certain evidence which she should not see and she thought that the fact that she was a woman should not prevent her from seeing all and everything pertaining to the government of the country.

"Miss MacPhail was urgent to go to see certain documents which had not been before the committee, and she asked me to accompany her," Mr. Woodsworth said.

"The documents produced had no direct bearing on the investigation. One of them was alleged to have been found in the desk of Mr. Bisaillon's secretary. It was obscene in character, but no names whatever were contained in it. After reading it, I said to Miss MacPhail that there was no need of her reading it through.

"As to the famous diary, we did not see it and we were assured that it was safely locked up where no one could see it. Mr. Duncan assured me that no member of the government was involved."

Cholera Epidemic at Shanghai Traced To Waterworks.

TOLL IS HEAVY.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—The outstanding cause of the cholera epidemic which has ravaged the Chinese population in this district for some time, taking an estimated toll of 1,000 lives daily, has been traced to the Chapei waterworks, which supply the Chinese territory. Bacteria was found in the intake, in the filter beds, and in faucets. No white persons have been attacked.

OIL BURNERS SAVE FURNACE WATCHING

Automatically Keep Home at Even Heat—New Types Almost Noiseless.

The greatest advantage of using oil burners to heat your home lies in the fact that the heat is turned on and off automatically so that the house is always kept within a degree or two of the desired temperature. In all types of mechanical draft oil burners this automatic control is accomplished electrically, explains Popular Science Monthly for September.

Upstairs, on the main floor, there is a delicate thermostal that goes into action the minutes the temperature in the house gets colder than desired. If, for instance, the control is set for seventy degrees and the room cools off to sixty-nine degrees the thermostat immediately closes an electric contact that starts up the oil burner in the cellar.

Most of the newer types of oil burners are said to be surprisingly quiet in operation. What noise there is usually consists of the hum of the motor plus the sound of the blower—about the noise of an ordinary electric fan. But the amount of noise depends entirely on the type of heating plant and the location of the burner.

Oil burners of various types differ from one another not only in the methods of converting oil into gas and mixing it with air, but also gas after it is introduced into the in the method of burning the oil-fire box.

KIWANIS PRESIDENT HOPES GIRLS WILL NOT BE ROUGH

Says Kiwanians in Female Garb May be Shy at First.

GAME TOMORROW

C.G.E. Babe Vincent to Match Kiwanian Carl McLean.

In an interview with The Examiner today President John J. Craig of Kiwanis Club told of the objects of the softball games to be staged on Saturday and of his opinion as to the outcome. "If the girls don't get too rough", he said. I think the Kiwanians have a good chance to win. Of course, the C.G.E. girls have had a lot of practice, and they have become used to winning. Many of the Kiwanians may be bashful under the circumstances, but they will soon get over that, and put up a real battle."

"How about your pitcher; have you a good one?" Dr. Craig was asked.

"Well, I guess Carl McLean will do the heaving against Babe Vincent," he said, "and they'll have to go some to stop him. He broke one of my fingers once with a softball."

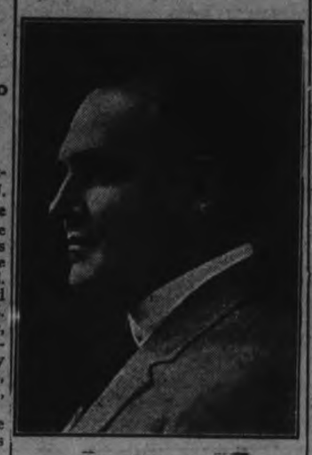
"You're not trying to frighten the girls, are you?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, no!" The President hastened to deny such a thought. "We're going to play real ball. We know we couldn't scare the C.G.E. girls if we tried. In fact, I think they have us pretty well scared to start."

Continuing, President Craig told of the work that is being dose in Peterborough by the Kiwanis Club. "There is not much of the activity under the heading 'Underprivileged Child that we care to make known," he said, "because it is so personal to the people involved. We have had a splendid committee this year, working under the chairmanship of Art Moffatt. This commitee has brought in many cases of children needing medical or surgical treatment, or backward in educational requirements. members of the club are constantly on the lookout for such cases and there is never a meeting of the Executive or of the Committee of Chairmen, when some suggestion is not debated for the betterment of a child, a family, or a section of the city."

It is to this work that the Kiwanis Club will devote the money it receives as proceeds of tomorrow's game. Besides the pleasure of helping out a good cause, the fans are assured of a good game, with lots of fun.

IT'S UNANIMOUS!



President J. J. Craig of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club.

SENATORS COP THIRD STRAIGHT FROM LEADERS

Former Yankee Pitcher Holds Teammates to Three Hits.

WINS TWO GAMES

Second Game Called in the Seventh on Account of Rain.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—George Murray, once a Yankee, held his former teammates to three hits at Washington yesterday and the Senators copped their third straight game from the league leaders, 5 to 2. Walter Beall lasted seven innings in the box for New York. Babe Ruth failed to get a hit and fanned once.

Boston opened its stay at home yesterday by dropping two games to Philadelphia, the Athletics taking the opener 5 to 1, and shutting out the Sox 5 to 0 in the second.

The latter game was called at the seventh because of rain.

At Cleveland, the Indians and Chicago finished their series for the season, Cleveland winning 5 to 0. Miller kept the Chicago hits well scattered and registered his second shut-out of Chicago this season. Tris Speaker made three doubles.

The St. Louis Browns bunched hits in front of their own bleachers yesterday to take the Detroit Tigers for a 7 to 2 victory. Schang hit a homer in the second. Sisler and Manuish each got three safeties.

REDS WIN ONLY NATIONAL GAME

GAME POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—The single game played in the National League at Philadelphia yesterday resulted in a victory for Cincinnati 9 to 2. Jakie May was solved for 12 hits, but kept them scattered after the first inning. The Reds cinched the game by scoring four runs in the third inning. Charley Dressen made four hits, including a home with one on base.

The only other National League contest scheduled—Chicago at New York—was postponed because of rain.

BISONS VICTORS OVER ORIOLES

Buffalo Scores Three Runs in Seventh and the Ninth.

THREE POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(Canadian Press).—With rain putting the quietus on three International League games yesterday, the Buffalo Bison triumphed in the Oriole orchard, 9 to 4. Proffitt and Stryker allowed Baltimore seven hits, while the Orioles were garnering 14. Three runs in the seventh and a like number in the ninth put the game on ice for the league leaders.

The postponed games were:
Syracuse at Jersey City.
Rochester at Newark.
Toronto at Reading.

COGS PLAY KEENE HERE TONIGHT

Second Game for Wright Cup Called for 5.30 P.M.

AT EXHIBITION PARK

The baseball classic of the season, so far as the E.P.B.L. is concerned, is in store for the fans who patronize Exhibition Park this evening. The Keene team, which is playing better ball this year than ever before, will meet the Cogs in the second of home-and-home games for the Wright Trophy.

The first game was played in Keene on Civic Holiday when the Cogs were defeated 3-2 in the best game in this league this season.

The Cogs have their backs to the wall again for the third time this season, but they promise a strong line-up. A large crowd should turn out and boost the teams along.

PLAY GROUNDS HAVE FIELD DAY

About 350 Children Have Outing at Oval Yesterday.

CRESTS PRESENTED.

Yesterday about three hundred and fifty children from the School Playgrounds journeyed to the Oval led by their respective supervisors, with J. Abraham, Chief Supervisor, in charge. The final game in the boys' senior league was played, King Edward winning. Then the crests for the three leagues were presented. It was pleasing to see the smiling faces and to hear the clapping of hands when the winners from the respective grounds came forward. In the interval, Mr. G. Lily, formerly of Peterborough and now of the Military College, Kingston, entertained the audience with acrobatic stunts. He soon had a lot of the boys imitating him, which caused roars of laughter. There was some excellent fancy sewing exhibited on a large table, also raffia work, which had been done by the girls on the grounds. Some of the parents were present. At 4.30 p.m. they had refreshments and at 5.30 p.m. called it a day and went rejoicing on their way home.

COAL GAS SPEEDS GROWTH OF PLANTS

Fumes From Furnace Can Fertilize Vegetables, Says Science.

If someone should tell you that you might run a pipe from your chimney to the back yard garden and use the coal gas from your furnace to fertilize vegetables and flowers you probably would laugh at the idea. Yet virtually that same thing is being done to-day.

In remarkable experiments, conducted in plant laboratories near New York City, plants are being made to grow and flourish as never before on a simple diet of carbon dioxide—the gas of combustion given off by the very furnaces used to warm the greenhouses in which the plants are grown!

That such things have proved possible, explains Popular Science Monthly for September, is due to comparatively recent scientific discoveries concerning the manner in which plants breathe and draw nourishment from the atmosphere, the sunshine and the earth. For one thing, plants breathe like animals. A plant takes in oxygen through tiny openings in its leaves, much as we breathe through our noses; and it gives off carbon dioxide.

Under the influence of sunlight, however, the plant, while breathing oxygen, also draws in carbon dioxide and uses this gas to manufacture the starch on which its growth depends. Now, by supplying this gas in the greenhouse at certain times of the day, we can make the plants grow from two to three times as fast as they would ordinarily, and more luxuriantly.

According to some experimenters, an individual gets four-fifths of his night's sleep in a concentrated dose of about two hours, and during the rest of the night his nerves and muscles are more or less active.

An Indian war canoe, 50 feet long, was washed ashore on Pelee Island in Lake Erie recently. It was hewn out of a solid poplar log.

FAST SOFTBALL IN TOURNAMENT AT BRIDGENORTH

Fred. Jopling's Team Wins in Finals Played Yesterday.

ERRORS COSTLY

High Honors Goes to the 6th Line Sporting Girls.

Fred Jopling's team won the cup at the annual softball tournament at Bridegnorth yesterday. Ten teams were entered in the men's contest and three in the ladies, the ladies' cup going to the Wesley girls, Albert White's team were the finalists and lost out to the Jopling aggregation by the close score of 9 to 7. Errors and foolish plays lost the game for White's team. They took an early lead in the second innings and held it until the seventh. With two out in the eighth and third occupied the second baseman, McLaren, picked up a grounder and threw to home but too slow to catch the runner. This break gave the winners just what they were looking for and before the third was out four runs went across the plate. Showing that a sensational catch is not always the thing was pulled by Lebarr in the eighth. Lebarr in the right field made a fine catch of a line drive just outside the diamond, third was occupied and the runner scored.

Dormer kept the hits well scattered and was given fine support. The other pitcher pitched a good game but was not backed up by his team. Great enthusiasm was taken in the game by the crowd and the close score kept everything edged up.

Summary—Three base hits, Ash; struck out by Dormer ,1; first on balls, off Nichols, 1; left on bases, Joplings, 3; White's, 10; sacrifice hits, H. Dormer.

The Tournament

The first round was played on three separate diamonds. Selwyn made a runaway with the game with Fairview defeating them 16 to 4. Albert White's team defeated the Park Juniors, last years cup holders, in a close game in which the Juniors had one bad innings, 6 to 1. Braundport defeated Bridgenorth 6 to 5 in a ten inning game which was just twice the length of the ordinary games in the first draw. Scates for the loosers starred in this game by his timely hitting pulling the game out of the fire twice in the overtime to have the youngsters even up again in their half of the innings. The Kiwanians won over the Park Seniors in a very close struggle by the score of 10 to 9 and Fred Jopling's team made a runaway with the game from Lakefield defeating them 12 to 0.

In the second round White's team defeated Selwyn 6 to 0. Braundport which is made up of five boys by the name of Braund defeated the Kiwanis coming from behind in the fifth innings to win by five runs the final score being 9 to 4. The Braundport team are a very smart aggregation and play errorless ball. They are young, their pitcher being just a midget, but he hangs on to them just the same. Fred Jopling drew the bye.

In the semi-finals Joplings put the Braundport out in an extra innings the young lads put up a determined fight but were tired after bearing the brunt of the games all afternoon for they had the misfortune to draw the heavy end of the schedule having to play 21 innings to ten and fifteen by the other two finalists.

BETHEL VICTORS IN SOFTBALL GAME

BURNBRAE, Aug. 13.—Several Burnbrae softball fans attended Wednesday night's game at Mt. Pleasant when Bethel and Hoards met in the final championship game in the West Hastings loop. The former team won by a score of 12 to 10 after seven innings of real snappy ball. Last spring a league was formed composed of teams from Glen Ross, Hoards, Mt. Pleasant, Bethel, Minto and Wellman's Corners to provide good healthy sport and furnish entertainment for the fans. Rivalry has always been keen among these various districts and it was in no wise abated by the formation of a softball league. Most of the teams presented strong line ups and good interesting games resulted. When the end of the league season arrived Bethel and Glen Ross were tied for first place, Hoards third, Mt. Pleasant, Wellman's and Minto in the order named. In the deciding game for first place Bethel won, so Glen Ross played off with Hoards for the right to challenge the league leaders. Hoards was successful in this series and came into the finals against Bethel. The first game at Bethel was won by the home team 23 to 17. In this game Hoards granted the opponents a 14 run lead in the first inning and the handicap was too large. The second game at Hoards was won by the western boys 18 to 15, tying up the series and making a third game necessary. This was the game played at Mt. Pleasant Wednesday evening and drew a large crowd from all over the district and well into Seymour.

Hoards were handicapped in the first inning by the absence of the third baseman, J. Rannie, and one or two loose plays gave Bethel three runs. Hoards fell one short with two counters in their half. Bethel scored one each in the second but forged ahead with four runs in the third. Bethel came back with three in the fourth and two in the fifth while all Hoards could get was a lonely run in the fifth. Playing snappy ball in the field Hoards held Bethel scoreless for the first time in the sixth while they ran in three counters to even up at 10-10. Hard driven hits to left field for extra bases gave Bethel two runs in seventh. Hoards tried hard to even up but were again goose-egged. Although they got two men on, Hume's best effort was a short fly for the third out. In spite of this Hume was the star of the evening with four hits and three runs in five trips to the plate while he fielded his position well and held Hoard's curves to perfection.

In a game as closely contested as this every little misplay counted and Hoards made several slips which coupled with some dumb base-running gave Bethel the few breaks of the game. Heagle made two splendid catches in left field but the other two outfielders were off form. The infielders were good on flys but made several slips on ground balls. Hoard fielded his position well in addition to pitching a good game.

Bayliss in the box for Bethel was the main cog in the machine. His rapid fire delivery had most of the Hoards' boys guessing. His teammates gave him excellent support and in addition he fielded his own position well. A bullet-like drive in the sixth injured his thumb affecting his play for the rest of the game. On bases the Bethel team were very fast, taking all kinds of chances, and again Bayliss was outstanding. The noise put up by the crowd would have done credit to a world series game.

U. F. O. FAVOR LIBERAL NOMINEE

that and industry everywhere in Canada has been steadily improving.

As to agricultural implements Mr. Meighen was asked ifhe would increase the duty on them and his answer was, "I certainly would." You can find that statement in Hansard.

Vote For Self-Taxation.

Is there a farmer who will go out on September 14 and by his vote say to Mr. Meighen, "I want you to raise the duty on the agricultural implements I have to buy." If there are such farmers their families and friends should look after them for there's something wrong with them.

The Conservatives told us that the 2½ per cent reduction in the tariff on agricultural implements in 1923 didn't amount to anything. Well, I compared the price lists, and as a result of that cut in the tariff the farmer saved $49 on a three-horse manure spreader, $23.50 on a binder, $16 on a waggon and $3.50 on an ordinary plow. Do they mean to say tha a saving of $49 to the man buying a manure spreader wasn't welcome to him?"

"They see those big advertisements in the papers and on the billboards. Tons of literature are being sent through the mails absolutely free, and you are paying for the most of it, even for the room of the head organizer of the Conservative party occupies in the Parliament buildings.

Take those advetisements and your paper and ask yourself who is paying for those ads. Are they interested in you and your organization? Answer that for yourself and you'll know how to vote."

Mr. Halbert held up a list of the names of 14 Canadians who in 16 financial organizations, industries, etc., control $4,295,000,000.

"They are presidents, vice presidents and managing directors, and they control the finances of Canada. And when you control the finances of Canada, you control the government of Canada. If you search it back you'll find leaks from these instituions into the campaign fund of the party these financiers want at Otawa."

Protection A Tax.

Touching on the tariff, Mr. Halbert proceeded with an interrogatory which he also answered.

"What is protection?"

Protection is money help. And because protection is money help that's why they want it.

And because it is money help, some persons must supply the money.

Who are those persons?

The people who buy protected goods.

For example motor cars. Last fall the Ford Tudor cost $205 more than the same car in the United States. And remember that $205 didn't go into the public treasury.

It went into the treasury of the Ford Company of Canada.

A friend of mine in Maine, near he Canadian border bought a car for $640 that would have cost $900 anywhere in Canada. If he had driven it across the border to use here he would have had to pay $260 into the Canadian Treasury. However, when you buy a car here the duty goes into the treasury of the manufacturer. There is no mystery about, but it is taking some of us a long time to realize just what it means."

Mr. Halbert checked the flow of his address to invite some of the men at the rear doors to occupy seats at the front, and that subject diverted his thought to a discursive reference to the reason why farmers chose he background.

"My observation at hundreds of meting convinced me that farmers take the back seats through force of habit. Today their place is in the front seats. We produce the foodstuffs on which the wealth and well being of the nation and all its people depend. We should respect ourselves and our brother farmers. If we can't command we should compel legislators to sit up and listen to us. We have been dodging around the backdoors of Parliament too long. It is time we walked upright through the front doors where we belong. And that day will come only when we want it.

I was going to say that $1000 worth of Ford stock bought in 1904 would have realized $437,000 if sold in 1920 when Sir Henry Drayton went through the country getting information. And those are the people we've been protecting. I know a taxi man at Newmarket who got a rebate of $96 on a Star car because of the Robb budget. Wasn't that money just as good to him as to the company? Better! He needed it and the town profited by his spending it at home.

Protection For Farmers.

Mr. Meighen says he will protect the farmers. He can't. We will have, from the present crop reports, 325,000,000 bushels of wheat we can't eat. How can Mr. Meighen protect that rich crop. He can stop wheat from coming into this country if anything was to be gained from that but he cant' protect even the 50,000,000 bushels we eat, for the price is set in Liverpool. This price applies not only to our export grain but also to the quantity we ned for our own consumption."

Brick for brick with the United States has been one of Mr. Meighen's promises in raising the tariff, Mr. Halbert said.

"I dare Mr. Meighen to do it. If he would, I'd quit speech-making in this campaign. You remember how he wailed about the condition of the implement industry when we cut the tariff 2½ per cent. Mr. Meighen wouldn't make the tariff wall brick for brick on farm implements for there is no duty going into the United States. In the same way it would mean 30 per cent. duty off the Canadian boots and shoes industry, for there is not one copper duty on our boots going into the United States. And so with the leather industry. Mr. Charles Shaw of Huntsville, the man behind that famous band, is supporting the Meighen candidate, but Mr. Meighen wouldn't dare make the leather tariff on a brick for brick basis because 60 per cent. of the output of Mr. Shaw's tanneries, perhaps the largest in the country, go to the United States without any duty to be paid.

So you see the catch in that brick for brick phrase.

I want to tell you farmers the tariff is no good to you. I have never advocated free trade, but it seems to me we should aim for it."

Benefits of Budget.

Extolling the Robb budget, Mr. Halbert said that in 1921, when Sir Henry Drayton brought down his budget, Canada's dollar was 15 per cent. below par in New York, and it had been a long time since the Canadian dollar could face the world. Trade was declining, the country's debt was mounting, and new taxes were applied.

"To-day our dollar is above par in the United States," Mr. Halbert emphasized, "and there's nothing that tells you how a country's doing like the state of its currency. The money of only three countries is quoted higher than the U.S. dollar, and they are Holland, Switzerland, and Canada. The first two countries were not engaged in the war, so that of all the nations in the war ours stands the highest to-day.

The debt of our national railway is decreasing from $22,000,000 to $35,000,000 a year, and we have the largest per capita favorable trade balance of all peoples in the world. Our income tax has been reduced, the tariff tax also reduced, other taxes are off altogether and we have penny postage restored. These are some of the advantages the Robb budget has gained for Canada as compared with Sir Henry Drayton's budget five years ago."

Appeal For Unity.

"See that you don't elect a supporter of Arthur Meighen from this fine rural constituency," Mr. Halbert enjoined. "We may have differences of opinion on minor matters, but on the major issues let us not be divided. Send a man to Ottawa who is for a lower tariff, for one thing, and personally I don't care who he may be."

WILL MEET IN FINAL ROUNDS

Sam Alpert and Francis Clary Opponents in Junior Championships.

WESTERN GOLF

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Sam Alpert, 15-year-old high school champion, and Francis Clary, a fellow townsman, two years his senior, will meet in the final round of the western junior golf championship tournament at Edgewater today.

Alpert continued his remarkable southpaw play in a drizzling rain. and still breeze in the third round, eliminating Jack Lamphier, of Springfield. Illinois, the former State and amateur champion, 3 and 1, and came back in the afternoon semi-finals to defeat R. C. Chicago, 3 and 2.

Clary eliminated Alex. Carrick, of Toronto, 5 and 4, in the third round, and then downed Robert Martin, Chicago, 3 and 1, for a place in the finals.

DELORO WINS FIRST PLAY-OFF

Beats Point Anne 4-1 on the Losers' Home Grounds.

GOOD PITCHING.

MARMORA August 13. — The first play off for the Bay of Quinte championship between Deloro and Point Anne at the latter pla.. on Thursday provided some good baseball. Shea and Bennett were the opposing pitchers and each turned in an excellent performance. Billy Ralph registered a fine homer for the visitors in the eighth frame when he batted for Brown. Another bright feature of the game was Maracle's spectacular one hand catch in the sixth innings.

Score by innings:

Diamond Disputes Decided

By Billy Evans

When is it proper to call "time," thereby suspending play, when some player is injured and unable to continue.

A proper interpretation of such a play always seems a trifle inhuman but to rule otherwise would invite constant camouflage.

When a player is injured in trying to make a play on either a thrown or batted ball, the umpire should not call time, no matter how serious the accident, until in his judgment no further play is possible.

Otherwise, players would be constantly feigning injury to cover up a mistake and thereby suspend action when things were breaking against them.

Moviegraphs

HOLLYWOOD.—When Gardner James, the whimsical, tow-headed Irish lad who is being applauded for his role of "Rufe" in the picture "Hell Bent for Heaven," first felt the gravitational pull of Hollywood, he was standing on the New York docks. Rich he was in imagination and a yearning to grace the screen, but poor in worldly goods, indeed penniless.

He signed as coal-hand on the first vessel leaving for Los Angeles, and his experiences in the stokehold, as he laconically remarks, oould justify the paraphrase, "Hell bent for Hollywood."

No signs or portents marked his arrival in the movie mecca. Eventually he found he had 10 cents to spare for a ride to the studio where Commodore J. Stuart Blackton was preparing to make "The Happy Warrior."

Out of 200 applicants he was selected to play the juvenile character part of "Lord Rollo." Since then he has appeared in eight productions, with increasing repute and promise, his present role being with Richard Barthelmess in "The Amateur Gentleman."

James, sensitive artist and stubborn optimist, has as background and paving for his picture endeavors a career as a brilliant child actor. He was for 10 years under contract to the Shuberts, his initial stage appearance being with George Arliss in "Disraeli." In seven of his 28 child parts, he created the role assigned him.

During the intervening period the young Irish player succumbed to the lure of the sea, circling the world twice as cabin-boy, deck hand and third mate.

Yanks' Chances.

The Yankees appear to be bent on distancing the rest of the field in the American League Derby.

Some idea of the chances of the New York Americans to win the 1926 pennant can be gleaned from the following figures:

First, it must be understood that any team able to win 90 or more games in either major league is considered to have an excellent chance to go over.

To dope out the situation we will take the first 39 games played by the club as a basis for our deductions.

* * *

Pennant Dope.

Of that number the Yankees managed to win 30 while losing only nine. Since the schedule calls for 154 games, 115 games at this particular time remain to be played.

If, during the rest of the season, the Yanks could win only 60 games while losing 55, the club would have a record of 90 victories at the finish.

Thus it is apparent the Yanks need only to play a trifle better than .500 ball to win 90 games, always believed enough to give a club a chance to cop.

In other words, the Yankees are sitting quite pretty.

* * *

Stopping Ruth.

"Kid" Gleason, veteran star of other days, now assisting Connie Mack in handling the Philadelphia Athletics, has his own definite ideas about battling the New York Americans.

In the eyes of Gleason, Ruth and Gehrig are the two big threats of the club, although he is willing to admit that every man in the lineup is dangerous.

To have a chance with the Yankees when they are in a hitting mood you must play to Ruth and Gehrig, thinks Gleason. They are the two batters who must be silenced for an opposing club to be uniformly successful.

* * *

Gleason's Views.

"By playing to Ruth and Gehrig, I mean taking no chances," explains Gleason. "In other words, with runners on and Ruth or Gehrig up, I would always favor passing either one if there was an open base.

"I would go even further and say I would favor passing them, even though it meant that you would be compelled to place the winning run on first base.

"It has been my experience that you can't pitch to dangerous batters in a pinch and get away with it to any considerable extent.

"Such batters are always a menace, and a base on balls is often the best solution."

* * *

Very Superstitious.

No athletes are more superstitious than major league ball players. This holds equally good for the managers.

Several weeks ago, just as the Yanks started their long winning streak, Joe Dugan suffered a badly split finger. At the time, Dugan was leading the American League at the bat and playing a brilliant game in the field.

It seemed as if the Yanks were certain to be seriously handicapped by Dugan's absence from the lineup

The injury gave Mike Gazella, who, among other things, learned football and baseball at Lafayette, his chance. Mike stepped right into the breach and delivered. The Yanks kept on winning.

* * *

Tempt Fate.

Dugan reported ready to play in the midst of the winning streak.

Was he sent back in to the lineup, despite the fact that he has few superiors in the majors at third base? He was not.

No manager would tempt fate by breaking up a winning combination. Mike Gazella kept on playing, while Dugan watched his club win from the bench.

In all probability the Yanks will have to experience a serious slump before Manager Huggins goes back to his regular infield lineup.

NO SOCCER GAMES HERE SATURDAY

Many of the Players Injured —Secretary To Go To Omemee.

At a special meting of the local Soccer Association last evening, it was decided that no game be played this Saturday (to-morrow). According to the schedule it was the final game of the Gordon Soccer Cup between Quakers versus Thistle or Omemee, but the Quakers could not field a team through many of their players being injured in the five-aside competition, also a number being away on holidays.

Frank Burton was instructed to go to Omemee and interview the officials of that club in regard to their games to be played.

Next Monday evening the P. and D. F. A. will hold their regular meeting at the home of George Nimmons, 175, Stewart Street.

WESLEY GIRLS WIN TOURNEY

Defeat Fairview and Then Gilmour in Games at Bridgenorth.

BY GOOD MARGINS.

In the girls' softball tournament yesterday at Bridgenorth three teams entered: Wesley, Fairview, anr Gilmour. Gilmour drew a bye and Wesley defeated Fairview 16 to 12. The final game was between Gilmour and Wesley, in which the Wesley girls won 16 to 10. This last game was very closely contested all the way, and the umpires had a very strenuous task keeping the game in check, as great enthusiasm was shown by the spectators.

BELMONTS OUT OF LEAGUE RACE

Triple Links, By First Win of Series, Eliminate Clubmen.

FIREMEN ON TOP.

Last night in Central Park the Triple Link defeated the Belmonts, putting them out of the running for the post season series championship. The win was the first of the series for the Triple Link. The final score was 9 to 6. At present the Firemen are leading the group by one game over the C.G.E., who play the Triple Link tonight in their final game. A win for the Triple Link will finish the softball series. The Belmonts are scheduled to play the final game of the series against the Firemen on Monday night, and if the C.G.E. win tonight and Belmonts on Monday night, it will make the old rivals, the C.G.E. and Firemen, tied for first place.

On Saturday, the 21st August, the Kingston softball champions will play in this city at James Stevenson Park against the champions of this city.

FAST TENNIS MATCH.

Lewis, of Port Hope, Meets G. C. Scott in Exhibition Game.

Tennis fans will have the opportunity of witnessing a fast tennis match on Saturday afternoon at the Monaghan Road courts, when Lewis and Scott will pair off in an exhibition match. Lewis, who beat Scott in Port Hope, has the best form of any player yet seen in the Central Ontario League, and as Scott has been practicing hard, this should be the outstanding match of the season. Several other players will probably make the trip from Port Hope, and other good matches will be played. Visitors will be welcome.

HOW TO SWIM

by Lillian Cannon

THE OVERARM BACK STROKE

When trying for speed in back stroke swimming it is best to use the overarm stroke.

This is accomplished by movement just the reverse of the crawl stroke when swimming face forward.

The arms are brought upward from the side as far forward as possible and the stroke is made down the side and as deeply as is natural.

At first the arms will reach out almost at right angle with the body, but with practice more power can be developed by striking them deeper into the water.

The body is given at slight roll toward each stroke, but the face is out of the water at all times, and the breathing is the same as for all strokes.

SECRETS OF STARS INSIDE BASEBALL

as told to Billy Evans

BY "STUFFY" McINNIS.

Since holding the ball is so essential to a first baseman, he must work to seek perfection in fielding.

I am going to suggest a rather simple thing that I am sure will tend to make every first baseman more accurate in catching a ball if he will rigidly adhere to my advice.

It is this—squeeze every ball that is thrown to you.

In other words, at the completion of every play simply tighten up on the ball as if you were trying to crush it. This not only tends to make more certain the catch, but develops in the hands and forearms a set of muscles that are most useful to the correct play of every first baseman.

The habit of fighting the ball is a fault peculiar to many novice first basemen. This is due to a tenseness rather than ease that should characterize the play.

Learn to give with the throw. The body and arms should be supple in a sense relaxed, rather than stiffened up as the play is about to be completed.

A finished first baseman must learn to handle a thrown ball in every conceivable position. In all probability, during the course of the season he makes more one-handed catches than all the rest of the team put together For that reason it is well for him to play every ball in practice just as he would be forced to in the game.

Playing the ball with one hand is considered grandstand stuff as a rule but that isn't true of a first baseman. It is a necessary part of his stock in trade.

DYNAMITE KILLS PIONEER MERCHANT

Defective Explosive Brought Back By Prospector Explodes Suddenly.

HUDSON, Ont., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press). — N. T. Faulkenham, pioneer storekeeper of the Red Lake mining field, was killed by an explosion of dynamite near his store, according to word brought here yesterday. He was a former resident of Matheson, Ont., where two brothers survive him.

Faulkenham had had a case of rynamite returned by a prospector because it was defective. He was storing the explosive in a cave in the rocks a short distance from his store when the explosion occurred.

The body of David Jackson, an employee of the Red Lake Transport Company, was recovered yesterday from the whirlpool at the foot of Snake Falls, where he was drowned a week ago.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL

ALMA RUBENS IN "SIBERIA."

There is an odd atmosphere to "Siberia," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the last half of this week. After an almost steady diet of society dramas and Wild Western episodes, the dramatization of one of the pre-war sore spots of the world seems somewhat unreal. Audiences of the present day, considering the sufferings of political prisoners who were exiled to Siberia under the Czarist regime, thrill with sympathy over their woes, but still the whole affair seems a bit unreal and it is hard to enter into the spirit of the story. One wonders if there is a hint of propaganda in the screen dramatization of these old-world sorrows.

Alma Rubens has a splendid part in "Siberia," as Sonia, daughter of the noble Andre Vronsky. She, like her brother Kyrell (Vadium Uraneff), is imbued with the doctrines and philosophy of the great Tolstoi, and both leave a wealthy home to enter into the struggle for liberty and the freeing of Russia from the yoke of the despots. The tale unfolds in peculiar fashion. Either it has been censored ruthlessly, or else its producer inclines to a vagueness that is somewhat perplexing at times. The undercurrents submerge at times the main thread of the picture, and there is a shadowy confusing atmosphere to many of the scenes. Edmund Lowe is the hero, Leonid Petroff, an Imperial officer who sympathizes with the revolutionists, and Thomas Santschi is a fine villain, Alexis Vetkin, ruthless and cruel. Lou Tellegen has an outstanding role as Egor, the "Silver tongued Apostle of gloom and unrest," who works the peasants up to revolt, and then skulks in the background while they suffer for their attempts to free themselves. An example of the oddness of producing in this picture is the fact that while Egor is supposed to be a "Safety First" man, and to look after himself at all times, he has one moment of insurrection in which he attacks the vicious military Governor, and is flogged brutally for his protest. Lilyan Tashmann is Marie Varina, the dashing friend of Egor.

The tale progresses, through glimpses of Russian life of that period, as lived by the aristocrats, to a revolutionary plot, foiled in its unfolding, and the consequent exile of Sonia and her brother to the wilds of Siberia, where the girl is pursued by the cruel Vetkin, and finally rescued by Petroff. The finale is a wild ride in careering droshkys through the snow, with the hero and the villain in a mad fight that ends in the death of the latter.

The short reels are interesting, with a bright "Adventure of Mazie" and a comedy, "Remember When?" with the ridiculous Harry Langdon as its hero.—Jeanette.

JIM BARNES—GETTING VALUE OF LESSON.

The reason for a fault re-appearing after a lesson is that while you are taking the lesson you are concentrating on the proper method for correcting your fault, but when you start out to play a match, you lose sight of these special instructions. In other words, you will get little benefit from lessons unless you take the time to practice with them until you get fully accustomed to the new way of playing the stroke.

So far as the act of swinging the club is concerned, you cannot hope to play consistently well until this becomes practically force of habit.

In other words, if you have to stop to think of doing several details while making the stroke, you may be sure that the result will be failure.

Work of this kind must have been attended to beforehand, so that when you start the club-head back, all you need to do is to think of hitting the ball. Spend time after the next lesson in practicing, not playing.

WEDDING BELLS.

GRAY—HISLOP.

At high noon on Wednesday, in St. James' Anglican Church, Stratford, the marriage was solemnized of Eleanor Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hislop, to Dr. T. W. Alvin Gray, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Gray, Millbrook, Ont. Canon A. E. Armstrong of Toronto officiated, assisted by Canon Cluff, rector of the church. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a French gown of grey georgette, embroidered with touches of mauve and pink. The bride carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and baby's breath. Mr. Norman T. Ives, played the wedding music. After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left for a short trip, the bride travelling in an ensemble suit of grey French tweed. Following some post-graduate studies in England and on the Continent, Dr. and Mrs. Gray will reside in Palestine, where Dr. Gray will take charge of St. Luke's Hospital (Anglican), Haifa, Palestine.—Toronto Globe.

M'LEAN TO HURL FOR KIWANIANS

To-morrow's Game Will Combine Good Baseball and Fun.

CLUB CONFIDENT.

Kiwanians to-morrow are going to start Carl McLean, the Belmonts' pitcher, against the C.G.E. ladies, and Mark Bredin is slated to do the catching. The team had a work-out yesterday at the tournament when they defeated the Park Seniors and then let the Braundport team put them out of the running. Miss Vincent and her mates are going to have a difficult game to play to hold these men in check, but they are confident that they will be able to.

The Kiwanians are to appear dressed like the ladies, and they certainly have had a strenuous time collecting their outfits. There is sure to be plenty of fun and frolic, but there will be good softball also, for the C.G.E. ladies can be relied upon for that. Alex. Kay has promised to umpire the game, and the proceeds are to go to the underprivileged children. The game is scheduled to start at 3.00 at the James Stevenson Park.

LIBERAL LEADER TOURING COAST

Opens Pacific Coast Campaign With Address at Victoria.

ON CONSTITUTION.

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King opened his tour of the Pacific Coast here last night with an address in which he discussed the constitutional question at length. His appeal, he said, was not to the Tories who believed only in their own right to rule. These persons were different from Conservatives who had reverence for the constitution, the laws of the country, and the parliamentary procedure which have come down through generations from the old lands.

"I address my remarks on this question, particularly to those who call themselves Conservatives," he declared, "because a condition has arisen in this country which will not appeal to, or be approved by thousands who call themselves Conservatives.

"I challenge any man or woman in Canada to point to any word or action of mine which has in any way reflected on the honesty or sincerity of purpose of Lord Byng," declared Mr. King.

In speaking of references made by opponents to an attack on the Governor-General, Mr. King paused to allow any one to take up his challenge, and expressed the hope that a section of the press of the province would take that as an answer to their statements regarding his relationship to His Excellency.

"What the Liberal party is standing for today is British constitutional practice," declared the Liberal Leader.

"That is all, because we want to see this country remain British."

ENLIST MOSQUITOES TO FIGHT PARALYSIS

LONDON, Aug. 13. — Patients in the mental hospital are to be treated with malaria infected mosquitoes imported from Hull. They will bite the patients, infecting them with malaria in the hope of overcoming paralysis. The treatment was discovered by Dr. Jeuregg, of Vienna.

Brazilian Active To-day But Loses a Fraction

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 13 (Canadian Press)—Interest in trading on the Toronto stock exchange today centered in Brazilian Traction, 3,379 shares changing hands by the noon close. It eased three-eighths to 111 1-4 from the previous close. In the remainder of the list prices were slightly irregular.

Consolidated Smelters was moderately active but weaker, two points off to 232. International Petroleum declined one quarter to 34 1-4 while British American Oil advanced a like amount to 54. Imperial was unchanged at 36 1-8, Gooderham and Worts now was unchanged at 28 7-8, while Brompton was off one eighth to 34. International Nickel firmed one half to 36 1-2. Provincial Paper was stronger, the common being up 1 1-2 to 105 1-2 and the Preferred 1 1-4 higher to 106 1-4.

Trading In Mines To-day Is Heavy and Widespread

TORONTO, Ont., August 13. Canadian Press. — Trading was fairly heavy and spread evenly over a broad list on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Prices were irregular.

In the gold stocks Gold Hill gained 1-2 to 65 and Lake Shore was up 10c to 13.35. Declines were registered by Barry Holly, off 1-2 to 56½; Wright-Hargreaves, down 5c to 8.10; Hollinger, off 10 to 19.40, and Tough Oakes off 1 1-2 to 41 1-2. Teck Hughes, which was fairly active, was unchanged at 4.09. In the silvers Castle Trethewey declined 7c to 1.43 and Keeley 2 to 1.75. Amulete was up 2 to 1.37 and Noranda was down 5 to 17.80.

Wheat Price Goes Up On Buying at Liverpool

CHICAGO, Ills., August 13. Canadian Press. — The Unexpected strength of wheat quotations at Liverpool led to an early upturn to-day in the wheat market here. According to advices in Chicago, British buyers are re-entering the market abroad, and have purchased a fair volume of bread stuffs.

Opening 3-8c to 1 1-2c higher wheat values in Chicago held much of the gain. Corn and oats turned easier, corn starting 1-4c. off to 1-8c up and subsequently showing a material setback all around. Provisions were firmer.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13. — Canadian Press, — Wheat, October 1c to 5-8c higher at $1.40 1-2 to 1-8; December 5-8 to 3-4 higher at $1.43¼ to 5-8; May 1c to 7-8c higher at $1.43 3-8 to 1-4; Oats, October 3-8c higher at 48; December 1-8c higher at 47 1-8c. Barley October 3-8c higher at 62. Flax October 1 1-2c higher at $2.17; Dec. 1 3-8c higher to $2.17 3-4; rye, Oct. 1-2c higher at $1.

SPARKS' INFORMATION GIVEN TO GOVERNMENT LONG BEFORE IT WAS PASSED TO STEVENS

Says President of Commercial Protective Association in Telegram.

SIX DETECTIVES.

Minister of Customs Appeals Against Statements of Liberal Leader.

OTTAWA, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—In a telegram sent to-day to Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, R. P. Sparks, president of the Commercial Protective Association, declares that the charges made by Mr. Stevens on the floor of the House of Commons in regard to maladministration of the Customs Department were based on material collected by detectives of the Commercial Protective Association. This material, Mr. Sparks says, was furnished to Mr. Stevens after the then Minister and Deputy Minister of Customs had been advised that such was being done.

Mr. Sparks' telegram was sent following the receipt of one from Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, reading as follows:

"Mackenzie King persists in repeating false statement that information I used was stolen and smuggled. Please wire me statement of facts."

Mr. Sparks' reply reads: "Statements in your speech were based on information which I had obtained as the result of an investigation during 1924 and 1925 by Walter Duncan and a staff of six private detectives paid by the Commercial Protective Association. All this information was previously given to the Government. I advised both the Minister and Deputy Minister of Customs weeks before Parliament opened that I was giving you the information upon which you could base a request for a Parliamentary Commission which we regarded as the only solution of an intolerable situation. Most of the evidence contained in the Duncan report is based on information obtained by Duncan and his staff while in our employ months before you made your speech in the House of Commons.—R. P. Sparks, President Commercial Protective Association."

Six Killed, Ten Hurt When Train Is Derailed

CALVERTON, N.Y., August 14 (Canadian Press).—Six persons were killed and ten injured, several seriously, when two engines and three cars of a seven-car Long Island railway train were derailed and overturned at a switch. The cause of the accident was not known, but investigations were begun shortly afterward. Engineer W. J. Squires and Fireman John Montgomery, both of Greenport, in the lead engine, were among those killed.

MANY IN FIELD FOR ELECTION

Liberals Lead in Quebec With 59 Candidates Chosen.

FEW CONVENTIONS.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—One month from polling day in the Dominion general elections there are definitely in the contest in the province of Quebec, fifty-nine Liberals, thirty-eight Conservatives, one Independent and one Protectionist. Not all have been nominated by the convention, but they are acknowledged candidates. In the Liberal case, at least, it is probable that a large number of constituencies will do without conventions, the sitting member of the late Parliament, chosen last year, getting the nomination without opposition.

Scotland Yard Busy On Huge Stamp Fraud

LONDON, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press). — The Westminster Gazette says that at the request of the General Post Office, Scotland Yard is investigating huge stamp frauds, reported to amount to £300,000. The frauds are said to have been perpetrated by a gang engaged in the wholesale selling of defective or forged postage, insurance and revenue stamps.

STEEL MERGER ON CONTINENT FORMED TO-DAY

Seeks To Remedy Evils Arising From Excessive Industrial Installation.

SATURATION POINT.

Aim is to Allot Each Country a Reasonable Share of Demand.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (Canadian Pres) —A continental steel and iron trust which probably will be organized today at the offices of the French steel combine, here, has for its object to remedy the evils arising from excessive industrial installation since 1914.

British interests are not yet identified with the arrangement. It is understood that they took the viewpoint that in view of the present disturbed state of British industries, they would come to the combination under disadvantageous circumstances. It is said, however, that nobody is excluded from the arrangement and that it may eventually include North American steel and iron interests.

The mushroom growth of war industries during the four years of the war which since have been diverted to general industrial enterprise has saturated the market. It is said by steel and iron men, that the time has come to realize that production cannot increase indefinitely without disorganizing the steel and iron trade.

OLD CHARACTER OF NORTH ENDS COLORFUL LIFE

Neh Faulkenhan Killed By Explosion of Dynamite in Store.

HEROIC FIGURE.

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Ont., Aug. 14.— (Canadian Press.) — Neh Faulkenham, old time prospector, fur buyers and storekeeper and well known throughout the entire north country, was killed on Thursday at Red Lake by the explosion of some dynamite which he was putting away near his store there. News of the accident was received yesterday by his brother, Elijah Faulkenham, who is employed at the New York Porcupine mine. The body has been shipped out to Hudson, and will be forwarded to Matheson, where the late Mr. Faulkenham has been making his home for a number of years. The late Neh Faulkenham was one of the familiar figures on the trails of Northern Ontario. He was a pioneer of the Porcupine district, having come here in 1909. Among his interests were a number of claims which later became part of the Hayden mine.

The story was told here of his heroic achievement last February when he travelled sixty miles out of his way by dog team to bring out Digby Grimston, an old friend and fellow prospector, who had fallen sick in the woods in Lightning River and was unable to reach civilization, thus saving his life. Mr. Faulkenham has played an important part in the Red Lake gold rush. His was the first store to be established in connection with last winter's stampede. He took his provisions into Red Lake at the same time as the Dome and McIntyre equipment was shipped to their properties. The late Mr. Faulkenham was about fifty years of age. He was unmarried. He was a native of Nova Scotia.

Honesty Is Dishonest Pays $5 For Privilege

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Percy Honesty, 19, failing to live up to his name, took a newspaper from a street corner stand without leaving two cents to pay for it. He paid $5 in Police Court to-day.

SALOON OWNER SHOT IN STREETS

Police Believe Buffalo Killing Result of Bootlegers' War.

FOURTH DEATH.

BUFFALO, August 14 (Canadian Press).—Frank Polizzi, part owner of a saloon, was shot to death on the street early to-day. Police believe he was a victim of a bootleggers' war in which three other persons have been killed in the Italian sections here recently.

NONE ARE DEAD IN EXPLOSIONS OF MUNITIONS

Civil and Military Authorities Are United To Probe Cause.

MANY RUMORS.

Only Factory Permitted in Hungary Under Peace Treaty.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—Civil and military commissions are now at Csepel Island, not far from Budapest, investigating the explosion which caused the destruction on Thursday of the Manfred Weise Works, the only munitions factory permitted in Hungary under the peace treaty.

Thus far, no dead have been found, although much of the vast devastated area remains to be searched. Of the 34 persons in the hospital, only three are understood to be seriously hurt.

Various rumors are about as to the causes of the explosion, varying with political opinions. Those who support the Radicals assert that the catastrophe was due to an explosion among stores kept hidden from the inter-Allied Military Commission, which controlled the factory, while the Conservatives affirm that it was work of Communists in revenge for the sentence of eight years in jail given to Matthias Rakosi and other Communists on the charge of attempting to overthrow the government and set up a Communist dictatorship in Hungary.

The devastating explosion of 30 tons of powder was bad enough, but nothing in comparison to the havoc wrought by the fire which followed. The firemen had to let the fire burn itself out, which it only did when the whole of the vast factory had been reduced to ashes. Their efforts were confined to preventing the flames from spreading beyond the bounds of the works for the intense heat made it impossible for them to approach the factory.

It is reported that several banks will be hard hit by the destruction of the works, as well as a number of aristocratic families who were large shareholders. Among those said to hold shares is former Empress Zita.

FILMING SCENES OF TRENT CANAL

Ontario Government Motion Picture Bureau To Photograph System.

FOR ADVERTISING.

As a new method of advertising the Kawartha Lakes and the Trent Valley Canal, the Provincial Motion Picture Bureau will make a trip down the waterway, taking films of the scenery along the banks. For this purpose the steamer Oriental has been placed at the disposal of the Trent Waterway Development Association under the auspices of which the scheme has been inaugurated.

The party will leave Midland about the 23rd of this month, and it is expected that the work of filming will take a week. As arrangements now stand, the intention is to make the itinerary from Midland to Young's Point, but the association will, if necessary, charter a vessel for the purpose of covering the entire route from Georgian Bay to Trenton. It is the intention of the Association to have narrow gauge films made of the pictures and to use a small portable projector as a medium of advertising the charms of the district. Frank Stinson, secretary of the Association, will be responsible for the planning of the trip and will accompany the party.

This effort marks a new departure in the advertising scheme of the Association. Since 1923, the Association has had an exhibit at the New York Motor Boat Show, being granted free of charge, space which in ordinary circumstances would cost $200. Representatives of the Association have gone to the show distributing photos, charts and the Blue Book of the Canal.

The Association has also put in circulation 40,000 free booklets.

The films will be easily transported to places where their exhibition is likely to prove efficacious and beneficial results are expected to follow the introduction of this most modern means of advertising.

Turkeys Act As Spotters Help Kill Rattlesnakes

ENTERPRISE, Oregon, Aug. 14 (United Press).—Assisted by her band of 250 turkeys, Mrs. Richard Fiske has killed 44 rattlesnakes this summer. The turkeys, after "spotting" a snake, surround it and keep up a great clamor until Mrs. Fiske dashes out and despatches the reptile with a club.

MOTHER KILLS TWO CHILDREN IN NIGHT TIME

Calmly Tells Her Father of Deed at Breakfast Table.

WAS INSANE.

Mrs. Cecil Marshal is Under Arrest For Slaying in Manitoba.

NEWDALE, Man., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. Cecil Marshal, living with her father, W. J. Hampton, on a farm near here, strangled her two small daughters to death on Thursday night. The children were one and six years of age.

The woman has been taken into custody by the Provincial Police and an inquest will be held. Police state that the woman committed the deed during a period of insanity.

The children were strangled with a piece of rope while other members of the household slept.

The woman's father told the Provincial police that his daughter came down to breakfast at the regular hour yesterday morning and calmly told her mother that she had killed her two children.

MAKE LONG TRIP THROUGH CANAL IN 17 FOOT BOAT

C. H. Currie and H. C. Laird Arrive Here From Parry Sound.

LAUD WATERWAYS.

Visitor Believes Number of Motor Boat Tourists Is On Increase.

"The Trent Canal is something Ontario should be proud of." This opinion was expresesd this morning by C. H. Currie of Toronto who, accompanied by H. C. Laird, a sixteen year old youth from Parry Sound made the trip from Parry Sound to Peterborough in a 17 foot motor boat.

Leaving Parry Sound on July 28, they sailed along Georgian Bay to Midland, then to Port Severn, and into the Trent Waterway. Passing through Lake Simcoe in a thick mist, where they were five miles from shore, they had to depend entirely on the compass and the chart, by the aid of which they steered their course very accurately to the east side of the Lake. Calm water was experienced except on Sturgeon Lake on the journey from Fenelon Falls to Sturgeon Point. Sailing through Balsam Lake they passed close to the site of the St. Andrew Brotherhood camp. The lake was lonesome, declared Mr. Currie, and the shadow of the tragedy seemed to hang over the waters.

The Lock attendants were extremely courteous, he said, and spared no effort to assist the voyagers.

The waterway is about the prettiest in the continent, according to Mr. Currie, who has travelled over most of the waterways in Canada Newfoundland and the Northern States, and has sailed on the St. John and Mississippi Rivers.

By the aid of the buoys on the route and the charts issued by the Department of Railways and Canals, it is quite practicable to navigate the waterway in a 17 foot boat, Mr. Currie asserts. His boat is a Model No. 4, built in 1922 by the Peterborough Canoe Company.

FRASER ACCEPTS NOMINATION OF NORTHUMBERLAND LIBERALS

Mayor of Trenton Has Endorsation of U.F.O.—Decision This Morning.

MET AT COLBORNE.

Yields To Friendly Pressure at Two O'clock This Morning.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

COLBORNE, August 14. — W. A. Fraser, Mayor of Trenton, has accepted the nomination of the Liberals of Northumberland, as endorsed by the Progressives at their convention on Thursday.

Toward two o'clock this morning, after long conferences with persuasive delegations from both parties, he yielded to their friendly pressure and assumed the leadership in the fight against the Conservatives, and their candidate, M. E. Maybee.

Mr. Fraser's decision was made to nearly 50 men representatives of both parties, and most sections of the riding, but he emphasized his statement that the contest was not his personally as much as it was that of the electors, who were anxious that their cause and ideals should be given the chance to prevail. He believed that the assurances of support had been made in all sincerity, and it was only on the pledges of energetic assistance that he consented to leave his many business undertakings during the next month to devote his time and effort to the political fight in which he said, he was as keenly interested as any one in the riding.

After the cheers that greeted his decision, Mr. Fraser thanked the deputations for their confidence, but reminded them that they were committed to him as much as he was to them, that they were engaged in a common enterprise, in which every man and woman's help counted.

The interview here last night began about eight o'clock, and it was not until about two a.m., that Mr. Fraser and the delegations finally parted in full agreement and accord.

The more things a man is ashamed of the more respectable he is.

Peanut Rolling Scheduled For Morning After Election

Bitten by the election bug two prominent George Street merchants entered into a bet the other night that promises to give considerable mirth to their many friends on the day after election day. Both are ardent supporters of their particular party leaders and each, feeling assured that his man would have a majority, submitted to the terms of the following bet. The man who does business on the west side of George Street will, if his party loses, pay $5 to his opponent and in addition will undertake to roll a peanut from his store to Simcoe Street with a toothpick. The man who does business on the east side of the street has undertaken to roll a peanut, using the same implement, from his store to Hunter Street.

In the meantime both men are working hard to prevent the peanut act from taking place on their particular side of the street.

JEWEL SALESMAN ROBBED IN STATION

Packet Valued at $200,000 Is Taken at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug 14. —Canadian Press. — Two men held up Sol Roseman, a New York jewel salesman, and robbed him of diamonds valued at $200,000 as he stepped from a taxicab at a railway station here last night. The bandits struck Roseman over the head with the butt of a pistol and snatched the packet of gems from his hands.

TWO KILLED IN WRECK.

CALVETON, Long Island, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—A fireman and an engineer were killed last night in a collision of two Long Island Railroad trains. Several cars were piled up, and it was believed that several injured passengers were imprisoned in the wreckage.

Picture Of Scene Familiar To Local People Is Used To Advertise North Bay To Tourists

Peterborough scenery is the best in Canada. That is the firm belief of most residents of the district, and it is borne out by the Ontario Government's booklet, "Your Vacation in Ontario." The Government has a number of pictures of the Kawartha lakes scattered through the booklet, but better than that, the city of North Bay, seeking tourist trade, makes use of Peterborough's scenery.

On a page labelled, "North Bay, the Gateway to New Ontario," are four pictures. One of these bears the caption "Boating is popular in the North Bay district." To a resident of Peterborough the picture seems strangely familiar. It depicts a motor boat speeding along a lake near a short with several buildings nestling among great willow trees. Closer sudy shows that it is a view that every canoeist on Little Lake has seen. The white building nestling in the right hand corner is the Vermont Marble Works. The tall poplar trees near the Mark street wharf and the pines on the Lundy property are easily discerned. The buildings toward the left of the picture are those near the railway crossing on Maria street, just east of Burnham.

All these passed without a thought by Peterborough citizens, are used to advertise the baby city of Ontario, North Bay.

DRESSED FOWL FAIR TO BE HELD IN PETERBOROUGH DURING FALL

Committee Formed To Prepare For Assembly of Buyers and Sellers.

BIG TURNOVER.

Large Number of Fowl Should Be Sold Here, as Logical Centre of District.

A dressed fowl fair—an assembling of all the buyers and sellers of the district—will be held in Peterboro at about the end of November. This was decided at a meeting held last night and attended by representatives of the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants' Association, and the Poultry Association.

The purpose and results of such fairs, of which there were 14 in eastern Ontario, were explained by F. C. McRae, Agricultural representative for Peterboro County. Instead of making it necessary for the raisers of poultry to depend on the offerings of the buyers who happen to call, the fair will bring all the sellers and buyers together in Peterborough on one or two specified days. The buyers seeking poultry in this district for the Toronto and Montreal markets will be able to make their selection without driving all around the district.

A large amount of money changes hands at these fairs. In eastern Ontario last year, the transactions paid through the banks alone resulted in 912,000 pounds of fowl changing hands at an average price of 25 cents a pound, or a total of $237,120. In Napanee alone the buyers paid about $68,000. The figures available to the department, said Mr. McRae, did not include the transactions of the buyers who came with trucks and paid cash, but covered only the checks put through the banks.

Peterboro should be a good centre for such a fair, said Mr. McRae, as it is the centre of four good counties. There should be a large amount of poultry brought in, judging by the local market, which is visited by sellers from as far away as Lindsay and Port Hope. The Department of Agriculture will help in every way possible, particularly (Turn to Page 3, Please)

RAY ALLAN FUND BENEFIT CONCERT

Kilty Band Will Give High Class Programme Wednesday Evening.

VICTORIA PARK.

Next Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Peterborough Caledonian Pipe Band (Kilties) a special benefit concert has been arranged by them to take place in Victoria Park, at 8.15 prompt, on behalf of the Ray Allen Memorial Fund.

The band will give a number of bagpipe selections; there will also be dancing, and singing—sentimental and comic—of the usual high-class variety which has always been greatly appreciated by the public.

During the evening, a special collection will be asked for on behalf of the Ray Allan Memorial Fund by a number of canvasers.

Dont forget, Wednesday evening, August 18th, in Victoria Park.

NO DISORDERS OVER RELIGION SAY MEXICANS

Roman Catholic Churches Are in Charge of Municipal Committees.

PRIESTS ACCEPT.

Calles Decides Not To Bring Formal Charge Against Archbishop.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—Reports received from the governors of all the states of Mexico, says an announcement issued by the Department of Interior, show there is no disorder anywhere in the country as an outcome of the religious situation.

All Roman Catholic churches, with the exception of a few, where inventories have not been completed or where church treasures are missing, are in charge of municipal committees. It is announced that the concession made to the Catholics in Mexico City, whereby the committees looking after the churches may be composed of five Catholics and five citizens appointed by the municipality, is to be extended throughout the country.

The Department of the Interior says that even priests in the state of Puebla have announced acceptance of the Government's religious regulations, and the belief is expressed by the Department that more priests will gradually assume a policy of acceptance.

But, so far as an outward truce is concerned, the Government and the Episcopate continue deadlocked, and there is no prospect of an agreement. There have been no new developments with regard to the boycott called by the League for the Defence of Religious Liberty with a view to coercing the Government to reflex the religious laws.

No Charges.

It is officially announced that President Calles, after a conference with Attorney-General Ortega, has decided not to "consign," that is, make formal charges against Archbishop Mora y del Rio of Mexico, because of the interview he recently gave to the correspondent of an American newspaper.

long educational lines. The representatives in the four counties of Peterboro, Durham, Northumberland, and Victoria will push the subject at the school fairs they visit.

He suggested that the merchants would help in advertising the fair by mentioning it in their advertisements attractions to get some of the sales atractions to get some of the money that the buyers would pay out.

Alderman Roland Denne said that he was strong for anything that would bring people to Peterboro, and he felt that co-operation by everyone concerned would make the fair a success. He pointed out that the ordinary week by week sale of fowl on the local market would not be interfered with, but that the trade in poultry for the larger cities, now carried on a every way station in he district, would be consolidated in Peterboro.

Co-operation from the Poultry Association was promised by Fred Holmes and J. Ellis. They recalled, as did Alderman Denne, that the demonstrations arranged by the association had greatly improved the quality of dressed poultry sold on Peterborough market, and felt that the educational side of such a fair would be of benefit.

Messrs. H. W. Cressman, F. L. Roy, and C. G. Graham expressed the opinion that the business men of the city would be heartily in favor of the scheme. F. G. Stinson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, offered on behalf of the President, G. A. Gillespie, the use of the stenographic and other facilities of the Chamber. Mr. Gillespie was to have been chairman of last night's meeting but was unable to be present.

A committee was formed to get in touch with the buyers and arrange a date, to arrange for circulars and advertising, and to consult the merchants to get co-operation. It consists of Alderman Denne, representing the city council, H. W. Cressman of the Retail Merchants' Association, F. L. Roy, representing the Chamber of Commerce, W. Stevens and F. Holmes of the Poultry Association and F. C. McRae, agricultural representative for Peterboro.

FOREST FIRES A RECORD YEAR

Care on Part of Public Can Keep Up With Good Start.

5,200 LAST YEAR.

The question arises, are we to have our regular 5,200 fires in Canada this year? It remains with you! Up to date we have had a good fire record in Eastern Canada. Our fire losses are relatively small, one reason is wet weather and another, increased care on the part of the public, through educational campaigns. How may we make the most satisfactory fire year in our history? By a little thought in preventing fire from occurring, or by co-operating with the fire fighting service when fires break out, by warning the ranger or district forester or fire inspector, by lending a hand when the fire is small and easily controlled, etc.

A little care for the next two months will make a record for Canada! Why not be on the firing line yourself and lend a helping hand to conservation of a national resource which involves $500,000,000 annually in our national income.

Make sure you do not start a fire by careless matches, cigarette butts, cigar stubs or pipe heel. Make sure, in locating your camp fire, that you make it small, near water, on rock, with a wide clearance from brush pile or debris. Make sure that when you leave, your fire is dead out. Use half a dozen pails of water instead of one. If your fire is not on rock, carefully trench and see that there are no rootlets or faggots to carry fire across from your fire and always puddle your fire before leaving it. Remember, one little ember is enough to cause thousands of dollars of damage. Do not leave it to the other fellow. Do it yourself.

STEEL MERGER

Luxemburg steel interests consequently have got together to find a way to obviate over-population and an impending economic crisis. Their aim is to allot to each country a reasonable share of the markets' demand. When percentages of allotments have been arrived at, a schedule will be drawn up which the industries of the different countries must not exceed.

The organizers of the proposed new combination declare that their object is not to increase prices. They say that the arrangement, if concluded, will necessarily be referred to the governments of the contracting parties and that consequently it is impossible for it to contain the germs of an increase in the cost of living.

W. M. FOWLDS HOME FROM COAST TRIP

Hastings Business Man Impressed By Vancouver.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Aug. 14.— Walter M. Fowlds has returned from his trans-Canada trip to Vancouver, after an absence of five weeks. He said he noticed evidences of prosperity everywhere, but especially in Vancouver. The western crops looked very promising in most places, and there were general reports that the harvest would be heavy. Mr. Fowlds met quite a number of former Hastings and Peterboro people.

Mrs. F. O'Reilly, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. J. J. Cooney, of Detroit, are visiting ther sister, Mrs. E. J. Lynch.

The friends of Mrs. Dan Cleary, of Percy are felicitating her upon recovery from a rather long illness.

Many Hastings people remember George Carey, who, with his wife, died a few days ago near Sudbury from the effects of poison alcohol, a bottle of which had been given to Mr. Carey as a bonus from a party of Buffalo tourists for whom he had cooked. Mr. Carey was born and spent his youth here.

CHURCH IS BURNED.

Catholic Church at Louisville, Quebec, Was Valued at $300,000.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press). — The Catholic Church at Louisville, Que., fifteen miles from here, was destroyed by fire early this morning. The loss is estimated at $300,000.

BODY RECOVERED.

The body of Mr. Rogers, who was drowned last fall while hunting, was recovered to-day. That of his companion, Winslow, was found some weeks ago.

BUSHEL BASKET?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. — Whether sauerkraut should be sold by weight or by measure was one of the questions raised at the recent national conference on weights and measures. Several delegates urged it be sold by weight.

WEDDING BELLS.

WHITEHEAD—HAY.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 14.—A very quiet but pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, August 11, at St. Andrew's Manse, when Olive, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hay, became the wife of Mr. G. Sylvester Whitehead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitehead. The Rev. James Grier officiated.

Miss Verna Hay acted as bridesmaid and Mr. E. Lee was groomsman.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride, after which the young couple left on a motor trip to Toronto, Rochester and other points. The bride wore a green silk crepe dress and black satin coat, with fur trimming.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead will reside in Stirling.

Both young people are well and favorably known in town, and their many friends join in wishing them "congratulations."

OBITUARY.

EPHRIAM DOOLITTLE.

COBOURG, August 14. — Ephriam A. Doolittle, born of U. E. L. L. ancestors, who settled early in Northumberland County, died here on Sunday morning in his 93rd year.

Five weeks ago he suffered a slight stroke and after that gradually weakened until his death. He was one of the well known men of the district, and was held in high regard.

His wife, Esther Stenton Irish predeceased him 15 years ago. Later he left the farm near Wicklow, which he had occupied for many years, and moved with his widowed daughter, Mrs. Flynn, to Cobourg, where he had purchased a residence on Cottesmore avenue.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from his late residence to Fairview cemetery, Grafton. Rev. Dr. Brown conducted the services at the residence and at the cemetery.

The pall bearers were Messrs. W. H. Hopper, J. F. McCullogh, Edwin Guillet, J. W. Roberts, J. G. Findley and J. G. Waite.

Canadian Flour Barred By Czecko-Slovak Tariff

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Canadian flour will be virtually excluded from the Czecho-slovakian market, commencing to-day, unless an extension of time in which to conclude a reciprocal trade agreement is granted Canada by the Slavic Government, it was learned in milling circles here yesterday. Imposition of new Customs duties which would practically bar the Canadian product from Czecho-slovakia were scheduled to become effective on July 14, but, on representation of the Dominion Government and Canadian flour merchants, they were suspended for one month by the Czecho Government.

CANCELLING DEBTS WOULD HASTEN WAR

U. S. Senator Says Burdened Natives Must Keep Peace.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—"If the United States were to cancel her war debts Europe would be almost immediately embroiled in war," declared State Senator Bernard Downing of New York just before sailing for home yesterday on the Leviathan.

"Britain knows this," he continued, "and that is why, with her traditional far-sightedness, she not only is setting an example to other nations by settling her own debts, but advocating the adjustment of war accounts throughout Europe. Saddled with debts, as they are, European countries now have to work, and hard work is an excellent stabilizer.

"A country paying off its financial obligations is not in a position to undertake another war, but is forced to re-establish its economic rather than military strength."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

ORGANIZING FOR SERVICE

Text: Exod. 18:13-24.

And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sat to judge the people: and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening.

And when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he did to the people, he said, What is this thing that thou doest to the people? why sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even?

And Moses said unto his father-in-law, Because the people come unto me to enquire of God:

When they have a matter, they come unto me; and I judge between one and another, and I do make them know the statutes of God, and his laws.

And Moses' father-in-law said unto him, The thing that thou doest is not good.

Thou wilt surely wear away, both thou and this people that is with thee: for this thing is too heavy for thee; thou art not able to perform it thyself alone.

Hearken now unto my voice, I will give thee counsel, and God shall be with thee: and thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws, and shalt show them the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do.

Moreover thou shalt provide out of all the people able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness; and place such over them, to be rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens:

And let them judge the people at all seasons: and it shall be; that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thyself, and they shall bear the burden with thee.

If thou shalt do this thing, and God command thee so, then thou shalt be able to endure, and all this people shall also go to their place in peace.

So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had said.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 15. Organizing for Service—Jethro's Wise Counsel. Exod. 18:13-24.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

Our lesson brings us interesting light upon the social organization of Israel and upon the nature of a true political ideal. One must not see in incidents in the past the expression of modern ways of thinking and of democratic theories, but none the less we have here what may be interpreted as a manifestation of the essence of democracy.

Moses was sitting as a judge of his people in much the same way that a modern sheik acts as judge in relation to his tribesmen. If any member of Israel had a grievance against his fellow, he had an opportunity of bringing it to the judgment seat where Moses sat. It looked like a beautiful arrangement. that the leader and savior of his people should be the arbiter between them in all their disputes. Surely no wiser or more honest judge could have been found than Moses: no one better fitted to hear all matters of dispute and make a wise decision.

Saw Dangers.

But Jethro, the father-in-law of Moses, saw with a clearness with which Moses did not perceive it, the weakness of such a system. What Moses was doing represented really the concentration of power in the hands of one man, and though Moses was an unselfish and conscientious man, well-fitted to exercise that power, which in the hands of a less scrupulous leader of his people might become very dangerous.

Moreover, Jethro saw that such a system was placing altogether too heavy a burden upon Moses, and that a task not performed well and competently was only going to produce dissension and dissatisfaction; so he urged what we would call today the decentralization of power. He suggested that better organization was the method of solving this problem, by localizing matters of judgment and deputing various persons appointed over groups to hear and adjudge cases of dispute.

It is interesting to note the types of men that Jethro urged Moses to appoint as rulers over thousands, over hundreds, over fifties, and over tens. These local judges were to be "able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating unjust gain."

Not Always Good.

Perhaps it should be emphasized that decentralization and the localization of justice is not a good thing unless judgment is in the hands of men of that type.

Unfortunately the solemn obligations of honor and justice do not always deter men from acting corruptly and dishonestly even in the supposed administration of justice. In this country, however, the people have the cure for such a situation largely in their own hands, and it may be said that in the main we get the type of judges that we choose and therefore deserve.

Good organization is as necessary for sound government as good basic principles. This seems to be for a modern day the message of Jethro's common sense. Also there is a suggestion that is well worth considering: namely, that great men, even the greatest, may learn a great deal from lesser men. No one would think of suggesting that Jethro was a greater man than Moses, but Jethro was able to give Moses very wise counsel. Perhaps also it was part of the greatness of Moses that he was willing to accept it.

Truly great men are always teachable, and they can learn even from God's humblest children.

SWEDES DISCOVER ROYAL GREEK TOMB

Expedition Unearths Magnificent Burial Place in Southern Greece.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—A royal Greek tomb, said to rival in splendor that of the Egyptian King Tutankhamen, has been unearthed near the ancient city of Asine, on the southern shores of the Paloponnesian Peninsula, Greece, by a Swedish Archaeological expedition. Crown Prince Gustav Adoph is the organizer and a former personal participant in the expedition.

Preliminary reports published here say the discoveries during the fourth annual digging, now about to close, have been greater than those of all the previous ones combined. They include masses of materials throwing new light on Greek life as far back as three thousand years, before the Christian era.

Vases and ornaments in great quantities have been found from various historical periods, and among the contents of the royal tomb dating approximately from 1500 B.C. were several ornate gold pieces and unique weapons. One of the first things encountered in the so-called "lower city," was what remained of a Roman bath, with marble-lined tubs for hot and cold water. Some of the underground plumbing was found to be in such good condition that it could be used to-day, Dr. Otto Frodin, head of the expedition reports.

TOURISTS SEE REAT SEA FISH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. — More than 400 passengers disembarked from the steamer Cleveland the other day, convinced that they had seen sea serpents on their way across the Atlantic.

Captain W. P. Hillman, in command of the vessel, and his officers, know better, however.

One day a crowd rushed to the rail to see a queer succession of fins protruding from the water. There were 24 large black fins. Whew! What a whopper!

The captain says it wasn't a sea monster at all, but the fins of a file of blackfish that the excited passengers saw.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

In Summer When Childhood Ailments Are Most Dangerous.

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe, They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

. . . UPBUILDER OF THE HOME . . . NOURISHER OF THE COMMUNITY SPIRIT . . . ART LETTERS AND SCIENCE OF THE COMMON PEOPLE.

THIS IS YOUR CITY.

There is no need of your going to some other city to work out your destiny; work it out in Peterborough, your own home city. If you think you have done the best you can, sit down and think it over. You will be surprised to see how much more you could do if you had to do it.

Opportunity is always knocking at your door, but true prosperity comes only to those who have confidence in each other and in the city in which they live. Sitting around waiting for something to happen means nothing will happen; results are secured by confidence, push and energy.

Wear a smile of optimism, show commercial courage and faith, and keep everlastingly boosting—and success will come your way. Co-operation in endeavour is the rock upon which individual and city prosperity is built.

"PETERBOROUGH'S OBJECTIVE SHOULD BE UNITY."

(By Kiwanian Harry Dickin).

Unity of spirit in our public offices, chamber of commerce, service clubs, churches, etc., should be every citizen's objective. Our city should be a place for workers and not for drones. Those who do not want to work should get out of Canada. We should have no room for them here. As soon as co-operation is established in the minds of every citizen then city pride and prosperity follows.

The place of least resistance draws the drones. If we have a handicap here, it will prove a blessing later on as we climb the ladder of success.

Citizens should boost for the Produced in Canada Exhibition, to be held in the Armouries the week of October 18th, and help the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough to establish greater unity and co-operation among all Canadians. Every farmer and citizen should remember that quality production increases quantity production.

THE DOG DAYS ARE HERE.

These are the dog days. The chief advantage of the dog days is that one may enjoy them without owning a dog. In fact, dog days have nothing to do with dogs. As things stand now, dog days have nothing to do with anything in particular.

Anciently wise men observed that for a considerable period in the summer the big star, Sirius, called the dog star, rose shortly before the rising of the sun. They called these the dog days and they thought that the hot weather was due to the fact that the sun and the big star were working together.

This, like a great many other conclusions of wise men, ancient and modern, was all wrong. If the earth depended for its heat upon the dog star, the ice cream business in Peterborough would be ruined. The dog star is hot enough, but it is too far off. If the dog star should go out of business this evening, nobody on earth would get the news for eight years. The light that has been turning out for the past eight years would keep right on coming, and would create the illusion that he was still on the job. That's how remote the dog star is. Forty-seven trillion miles is too far to operate a central heating system satisfactorily.

But even the dog star can beg off from the charge of making the dog days hot. The dog star no longer rises with the sun during dog days. This is due to what is called the precession of the equinoxes, another word for the wobbling of the earth's axis. It is calculated that after about 25,000 years this matter of the dog star and the dog days will be righted again, but a good many dogs will have had their day before that.

This all has a practical application because it is usual to advise muzzling dogs during the dog days. During dog days dogs are supposed to be particularly subject to rabies, the disease that is known in human beings as hydrophobia. In this, also, it appears that everything having to do with dog days is largely a misapprehension. Statistics prove that the larger number of outbreaks of rabies have occurred in the colder months.

A STUPENDOUS DISCOVERY.

Shall science save or destroy civilization? The report of the discovery of a new ray which has remarkable power to penetrate metal prompts the question.

The now familiar and beneficent X-ray readily passes through many solid bodies, including certain metals. But the X-ray is stopped by even a thin sheet of lead, and this fact enables men to protect themselves from its destructive tendencies and to make use of it as a curative agent.

But the new ray, called Millikan's ray from its discoverer, Prof. Robert A. Millikan, is declared to be capable of penetrating six feet of solid lead. Professor Millikan in a recent interview reported in The Examiner said: "We find that our hardest observed rays have a frequency at least 50 times that of the hardest gamma ray, 1,000 times that of the average X-ray, and about 10,000,000 times that of ordinary light."

This is too fast for the human eye, but experiments are proving that all space is thrilling with tremendous vibrations and the guess is hazarded that these are caused by the decomposition of atoms composing stars. The breaking up of atoms is one of the goals of scientific investigation. But when it is achieved it may have results of incalculable importance. It may mean available power to do all the world's work at trifling expenditure of human effort. It may mean plenty for everybody, for everything that man has learned hitherto about the control of energy has meant more useful products from natural sources. And plenty for everybody may mean the end of [illegible] the millennium, for most of the quarrels of the nations at bottom grow out of economic causes.

But these unseen rays also may be destructive. If men of evil intent learn to use these deadly rays which can not be seen, which leap across space with the velocity of light, which can not be stopped by armor-plate no matter of what material, and which have the power to disintegrate the very atoms of which not only the works of men but men themselves are composed, then civilization may cease upon the earth.

Before these discoveries are perfected men may well learn to compose their difference by reasoning, charity, and give and take.

SAVE THE FISH.

It has been estimated that fully 90 per cent. of the visitors to Kawartha Lakes come here with the object of having a fishing holiday.

Only last week a motor car from Cleveland passed through Peterborough en route for Jack Lake with a number of visitors who declared their purpose was "just to have some good fishing."

Provided he can get good fishing, the average holiday-maker is quite prepared to do without many of the things to which he is accustomed when at home. But it is not difficult to imagine his frame of mind when he discovers that such fishing as is available is far below what he had hoped to find.

In season and out of season, competent authorities on the subject have laid emphasis on the fact that the fishing on the lakes is not what it used to be and that re-stocking is necessary, if we are to prevent advertising of a wrong kind among prospective tourists.

We are now more than half-way through a record season without any adequate effort having been made to remedy a state of affairs that is likely, if present inaction is maintained, to go from bad to worse.

The problem is one that is too great for any fish and game association to handle. It is one that calls for knocking, with the importunity of the woman in the parable, at the door of the responsible authority—the Ontario Legislature.

And when the lakes have been re-stocked, it will be incumbent on every right-thinking citizen to co-operate with the local association in discouraging the outstanding source of depletion—illicit fishing.

LIGHT THE TORCH OF UNITY.

Canada is a nation of glorious traditions; a nation whose history should warm the heart and stir the blood of her sons and daughters. But Canadians, especially English-speaking Canadians, for the most, yawn at our own history. If there were more fervour in our retrospect there might be less partiality in our present inter-sectional relations.

The proposal to make a national demonstration, stimulating a spirit of unity, out of Canada's sixtieth birthday is to be commended and will, let us hope, not be allowed to die. C. Harold Hale, managing editor of The Orillia Packet and Times, one of Canada's finest town papers, makes the suggestion, and it is now being actively promoted by Orillia citizens. The idea could have no more fitting birthplace. Orillia has given adequate recognition of the power that lies in history to unite a nation by raising to the memory of the great French explorer, Champlain, a monument that is one of the noblest in Canada and that was unveiled in this English-Canadian town by one of the ablest of present-day French-Canadians, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux.

If 10,000 beacon fires could send a burning message of provincial brotherhood from sea to sea and from hill-top to hill-top on July 1 next year and in the succeeding two days, it would indeed light a flame that would not easily die.—The Financial Post.

CHAFF IN THE WHEAT.

Why is it that nine-tenths of those who gain fame or notoriety in the courts, in scandals, in the field of athletics and in a hundred and one other places, will not rest content until they have inflicted themselves upon the public as author of a book or as a moving picture actor? Is it that the two roles of author and actor offer the sole means respectively of setting their views before the public and displaying their physiognomy for admiration? Is the failing simply a conceit, or is gold the lure? If the former we must be charitable, if the latter we have ourselves to blame for making it profitable for publishers and movie barons to encourage the like.

We rather relished the humor of Jack Dempsey's facial reconstruction by plastic surgery. The metamorphosis from the ugly bulldog-featured Jack in the ring, the redecorated mask of the movie Jack did tickle our risibility. It excited our curiosity to understand how a perfect demon of the ring, a diamond in the rough, could by any stretch of imagination, by any placation, flattery or cajolery, conceive himself to be an actor—even with a new face. That's humorous, no doubt.

Red Grange is falling for the movie screen, too. We thought better of him. You know of others who have gone the same route. For instance, all the successful golfers except Bobby Jones write books.

When Harry K. Thaw attempts, however, to foist upon an unsuspecting public, a book of his memoirs or his autobiography, that is too much. We doubt if Harry has anything good to disclose to the world. Certainly he should not be permitted to revive the nauseating history of his shooting of Stanford White and the Shaw-White-Nesbitt triangle. We should imagine a man who had gone through his experience and had been so exposed to the world would be sufficiently humiliated to withdraw into seclusion instead of bursting into print.

There is little doubt that a considerable number of people will buy his book to satisfy their morbid curiosity and in the hope of finding something ultra-sensational and a few new sordid morsels for their perverted appetite.

In the case of Thaw he is not writing in the hope of earning money. He has plenty, unfortunately. He has no talent for writing that has up to the present asserted itself. He has no new cause to expound. He has not got one of many excuses other authors of his type may claim. As an autobiographer he should be squelched.—Ottawa Journal.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Aug. 14 — Receipts of the Union Stock Yards, Toronto, for the past week although in excess of last week's offerings, were comparatively light, numbering 5,326 cattle; 1,322 calves; 2,806 hogs, and 3,761 sheep and lambs.

During the week exporters took 620 cattle, buying finished steers at from $7.50 to $8.25, and finished heifers at from $7.50 to $8.25, and finished heifers at from $7.25 to $7.85. They also bought some good finished bulls at $4.50 to $5.25.

Export men report orders for the coming week's market, for about 600 cattle. Included in this number they will require three or four loads of bulls.

The effects of the strike in the old country, where meat consumption is considerably decreased, the packing war between British and American interests in the Argentine, resulting in price cutting, and the increase of Irish cattle receipts in England, are three factors tending very much for the time being, to lesesn the demand for Canadian cattle. Until these conditions are improved exporters do not look for much improvement in the foreign demand.

Owing to light receipts choice butcher steers and heifers were a shade stronger during the past week. Choice steers sold at $7 to $7.75; choice heifers $7 to $7.50. Fat cows maintained their last week's values, with a few fancy selling up to 6c. Most of the bulls offered were of the bologna type and sold at steady prices.

Common cattle were a bit slow to sell.

Baby beeves at from 8c to 11c sold readily.

Good trading is looked for in choice butchers if they are well finished.

Springers and milkers—For choice backward young springers there appears to be a good demand at prices from $85 to $100; good, $60 to $75; choice milkers, $65 to $70. The demand for common milkers is slow. For an odd fancy springer a price of $125 was secured.

Stockers and feeders — Western stockers and feeders numbering around 2,100 were sold during the week. The feeding steers brought from $6 to $6.25, with a few fancy at $6.50. Yearling steers sold at from $4.75 to $5.25, with heifers at from $4.50 to $5, according to weight and quality.

Sheep and lambs—Choice lambs sold in early part of the week at 14c to 14½c, strengthening to 14½ to 15c. Yearling sheep brought 10c to 11c; choice butcher sheep, 7c to 8c; good; good, 5c to 6c; heavy sheep and bucks, 4½c to 5c; cull sheep, 2c to 3c.

Calves remained firm at from 11c to 12c for choice, 10c for good, and 7c to 9c for medium; grassers, 4c to 5½c.

Hogs, after a slight recession the first of the week, held steady at $12 f.o.b., $12.50 fed, and $13 off cars. Premium and selects, $2.46 per head.

Packers are bidding firm prices for Saturday and Monday loadings.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press) — Despite greatly enlarged export buying that totalled 2,000,000 bushels, the wheat market yesterday receded from early upturns in price. Heavy profit-taking sales of corn forced the corn market down, and indirectly weakened wheat. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Thursday's finish to 5-8c lower, with corn 2 1-2 to 3 1-4 down, oats 3-4 to 1 @ 1 1-8 off and provisions unchanged to 27c up.

Preceding the wheat price reaction, which took effect chiefly in the final hour of trading, the wheat showed a decided upward trend. An unexpected advance in quotations at Liverpool brought about a prompt response from the market here, advices in Chicago indicating that British buyers were re-entering the market abroad and had already taken a fair volume of breadstuffs. Besides, current reports said European stocks of wheat and flour were far from burdensome, and that imports by Great Britain alone should average 3,250,000 bushels.

Threshing delays in the American northwest due to wet weather tended further to lift wheat values and so likewise did the fact that mills are continuing to absorb cash wheat with a surprising degree of readiness. Moreover, commission houses were active in spread trading, between wheat and corn, with spreads consisting largely of simultaneous buying of wheat against sales of corn. Toward the last, however, the acue weakness in corn acted as a big drag on wheat.

Besides the weight of profit-taking sales and of general speculative pressure, the corn market was influenced by absence of aggressive purchasing that has been much in evidence of late. One reason was more favorable weather conditions for the new corn crop together with prospects of an unusually large carry-over of old corn. Oats went lower with corn.

MONTREAL GRAIN

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press) — There was an improved inquiry from the United Kingdom and the continent for wheat on the Montreal market yesteday. A fair business was transacted in Canadian spring grades and American winter wheat, but the demand for coarse grains was again slow.

Owing to the above there was more activity in the ocean freight market here, there being a good demand from both Canadian and United States exporters and a fairly large business was done to most ports for September shipment. Engagements of heavy grain to Liverpool were made at 3s to 3s 3d per quarter, to London, Glasgow, Leith and Newcastle at 3s, Manchester at 3c 3d, Avonmouth at 3s 3d to 3s 6d, Hull August 3s 6d, Belfast and Dublin, first half September, at 3s, Antwerp 16 cents per hundred pounds and Hamburg and Rotterdam at 15 cents.

The feature of the domestic cash grain market was the weakness that developed in corn and prices were reduced two to three and a half cents per bushel. This was attributed to the break in the Chicago market. Car lots of American No. 3, yellow, were offered here at 88 1-2 cents, and Argentine corn at 92 cents per bushel, ex-store.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand—$4.84 5-8.
Sterling cables—$4.85 1-8.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press)—The butter trade was featured by the improvement demand from foreign buyers and considerable business was transacted. This created a stronger feeling in the market and prices scored a fractional advance. The receipts were 5,777 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese market and prices were easier. The receipts were 14,444 boxes.

WIFE SLAYER DEFIES POSSE

Threatens To Kill Children If Officers Shoot at Him.

CRAZED BY DRINK.

CINCINNATI, August 13. — Canadian Press. — With his wife's body at his feet, Scott Workman, aged 40, paced back and forth before the windows of his farm house near New Richmond to-day defying the sheriff and a posse of 100 men surrounding the house to fire at him and his two youngest children, three years and seven months old. The man is believed to be crazed with drink. He urged the police to shoot as he tossed the children up and down.

"Sure, I killed my wife—I'll kill these too if you shoot!" he yelled.

Workman has seven other children.

MONEY SINGULAR OR PLURAL?

In a newspaper account of a suicide, it was said that "near the body was found a purse, a hat and a pair of eyeglasses. In the purse was 75 cents."

The question is asked, "Should the last sentence not have read, 'In the purse were 75 cents'."

The answer is, No. We do not regard the amount named—in this case 75 cents—as made up of a number of individual cents or units, but as a whole sum of amount; that is, as one thing. It is therefore proper to use with it the singular verb "was" and not the plural verb "were."

According to some grammarians, in sentences such as the one quoted, the words "the sum of" are "understood;" that is, they are to be supplied by the mind of the reader or hearer, without being expressed by the writer or speaker. The full sentence would read, "In the purse was the sum of 75 cents."

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DEPENDS MORE ON SUBURBS

During recent years intense city crowding and apartment house living have done much to lessen the opportunities for a real wholesome family life.

The small suburban home with good transportation to and from the city seems to be turning the family life toward a more normal basis. The prosperity of the larger cities depends largely upon how efficient a transportation system is run to their suburbs, and how attractive these places are.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE CUP OF LIFE.

I hope I shall not greatly grieve
When love grows cold, when false friends leave,
If so it be that fate shall will it;
For life is like a crystal cup,
And when misfortune drinks it up,
Refill it.

Weep not for pleasures that are gone,
But look for pleasures farther on,
Aye, look for April in December.
For life is like a cup of glass,
And there is many another lass,
Remember.

This is the sorrow of our loss:
We make of every hurt a cross,
And then the cross elect to carry.
We might have said, "Well, that is done,
But there are other fields to run—
Why tarry?"

I would not weep about a lad,
For there are others to be had,
New joys for old, if hearts but will it;
For life is like a crystal cup,
And, when misfortune drinks it up,
Refill it!

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

WHEN I AM NINETY-FIVE.

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Mark Twain once said it was shameful the way great men missed the chance of having their last words something important and impressive.

He said that most last words are unimportant and trivial and he planned a few he was going to say.

It seems to me the same thing applies to the birthday interviews of the unusually old.

Of late a number of centenarians, nonagenarians and octogenarians have broken into print by virtue of their extreme longevity.

They have been interviewed and their statements recorded in imperishable type.

Few of them seem to have taken full advantage of their opportunity andsaid the important and original something for swhich the world is waiting.

Now, with me, it will be different.

When I am ninety-five and the reporters flock in to get my ideas they will go away with an original earful.

I have it all planned out.

My answers will be fresh, original, valuable.

Right out of the box I will bowl them over with this statement:

"Yes, I think the modern girl is all right. She may have her faults, but in the end she will come out all right. She is franker than her mother."

When I am sure they have that down I intend to follow with other original bits such as these:

"I think the world offers more opportunities to young men now than ever before. When I was a boy there was not one chance for success where there are now a hundred."

"I attribute my long life to two things: never worrying and simple living. I have made it an iron-bound rule to have breakfast in the morning, lunch at midday and dinner in the evening."

"I am practicing the latest dance step and think it is wonderful."

"I believe that America is enjoying a period of unparalleled prosperity and that good times will continue; that the moving picture is educating the masses; and that the President is doing the best he can for the country."

Original statements like these will be sure to be featured in the papers because I will be ninety-five.

WOMAN PIG RAISER'S STORY IS BASIS OF STATE'S HOPE IN HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE

Discredited Four Years Ago —Brings Laughter in Court Now.

CROWD GASPS.

Mrs. Jane Gibson Declares She Saw Men at Scene.

SOMERVILLE, N.J., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—A woman pig raiser's story discredited four years ago, is the basis of the State's hope for indictment of three persons charged with the murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

That was revealed at the first session of the hearing of Henry Carpender, New York and New Brunswick millionaire, and Willie Stevens, eccentric brother of the rector's widow, arrested on Thursday and held without bail.

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the widow, is at liberty on $15,000 bail, also charged with the double slayings.

The woman pig raiser, Mrs. Jane Gibson, said by State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor directing the renewed investigation, to be the State's chief witness, pointed in turn to Carpender and Stevents and pitching her voice in a dramatic key, said they were the men she saw at the crab apple tree on the night of September 14, 1922. Carpender, she said, had "something shiny" in his hand just before four shots were fired.

As the crowd in the court room gasped with surprise or roared with laughter, Mrs. Gibson, who said she was a former circus rider and could not tell the place of her birth, told her story of how, while following a wagon she thought contained corn stolen from her, she came upon the murderers and saw their faces in the glare of automobile headlights. A moccasin she said she lost in Derussey's Lane, near where the bodies were found, was produced as evidence and identified by her. The circumstances of its finding were not revealed. The gasps of surprise came when Mrs. Gibson pointed to Carpender, who smiled back at her, and Stevens, who was not perturbed by the accusing finger pointed at him.

Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain chorister, added to the melodramatic events of the afternoon, a tale of an attempt to poison her mother. Recalling conversations with her mother, Charlotte, who was only 15 at the time of the murders, said that Mrs. Mills had gone to the Hall home one afternoon to look at the flowers in Mrs. Hall's garden.

Invited to have tea, Charlotte said her mother related, Mrs. Mills noticed that she was the only one drinking the tea. After taking several sips she became violently ill and did not recover for several days.

Willie Straub, New Brunswick, was arrested as a material witness in the double murder. Straub is alleged by Special Prosecutor Simpson to have been within 15 feet of the crab apple tree when the Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills were killed.

Finds Bed In Flames On Sudden Awakening

EDMONTON, Alta., August 14 (Canadian Press).—Thinking that the night was usually warm a young lady, living in a residence on the South Side, languidly awoke out of her beauty sleep to find her bed in flames. Her shrill screams for aid brought the others in the house to her room on the jump. The young lady had been curling her hair with a pair of eectric curling irons and had left them on the bed with the juice still running when she went to sleep. She was not seriously injured.

POLITICS HAS NAUGHT TO DO IN WORLD RULE

Says Spokesman For German Foreign Office Discussing Occupation.

IMPLORES LOCARNO.

Says Industrial Relations Count—Ridicules French Withdrawal of 50,000.

BERLIN, August 14 (Canadian Press).—The world is not ruled by political sentiments but by industrial relations, a spokesman for the Foreign Office said yesterday, concerning French misgivings as to further diminution of the forces of occupation in the Rhineland.

"At a time when Franco-German industrial co-operation has been perfected by industrial leaders, who significantly belong to the parties of the Right, it is an anomaly to keep up the occupation," he said. "To contend that occupation is necessary for French protection is ridiculous in view of the Locarno Pacts and Germany's entry into the League of Nations."

The German Centrist organ says: "German Nationals consider the diminution by a paltry 50,000 men a repudiation of the spirit of Locarno, as well as the true spirit of the League of Nations. If France believes that an intransigient policy serves her interest, she wil have to take the inevitable consequences."

Despatches from Paris yesterday stated that the allied troops of occupation in the Rhineland have been reduced from 78,000 to 70,000 since the beginning of the year, and will be further cut to 62,000 next month. This is the limit of the reduction now in view, it was said in official quarters. Of the remaining 62,000 men, 50,000 will be French troops and 12,000 British and Belgian.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the head office of the Bank of Montreal from its branches. The branch managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

General—Rains almost general throughout the Prairie Provinces, with cooler weather, have improved prospects for the later crops during the past week. Cutting has commenced in nearly all districts. In the Province of Quebec, recent rains have proved beneficial to the crops. In Ontario conditions continue satisfactory. Wheat harvesting is in full swing. Some sprouting in the stook is reported, but threshing yields are better than expected. In the Maritime Provinces, crops continue to make good progress under excellent weather conditions. Haying is practically completed, and farmers on the whole are well satisfied. In British Columbia, the prolonged drought is badly affecting all crops, with consequent reduction in the estimated yields. Details follow:

Prairie Provinces.

Alberta Western Area — Recent rains have improved conditions generally and an average yield is now anticipated. Scattered hail has done small damage.

Alberta North-Eastern Area—Fairly general rains have been beneficial. Average yields are expected, except in certain localities.

Alberta Southern Area—Harvesting fairly general. Results disappointing as previously forecast. Only the best lands will produce anything, and these crops will be light.

Saskatchewan Northern Area — Crops, with exception of the earliest grains, have benefited from recent rains, and cooler weather. The crop it patchy with yield promising fair to average throughout.

Satkatchewan Southern Area — Wheat cutting under way. Yields on summer fallow vary from fair to good, but are poor on stubble, while the south-east better than the south-west. Recent rains have helped coarse grains. There is considerable hail damage over widely scattered areas, including the Regina district.

Manitoba—Favorable weather has prevailed and indications are that a good average crop will be harvested. Cutting general except in the north.

Province of Quebec.

The harvesting of hay is not yet completed, that harvested is a fair average yield of excellent quality. Early vegetables are good in quality and yield. Later varieties promise well. Berries and small fruits are plentiful. Apples and plums are of good appearance, but the yield is expected to be slightly below average. Corn has greatly improved and prospects in some localities now are for a fair crop. Pastures are averaging, but should be improved by the recent rains.

Province of Ontario.

Considerable threshing has taken place in the western part of the province. Grain is yielding from thirty-five to fifty bushels per acre. Some cutting of barley and oats have been done. Both crops are heavy. Corn is steadily improving and needs another month of good growing weather to ensure an average crop. Turnips in many sections are a failure but other root crops are good, especially potatoes. The tobacco crop has greatly improved from recent rains. Small fruits are plentiful. Early apples are good but winter varieties are light. Pastures are exceptionally good.

Maritime Provinces.

In New Brunswick there is a fair yield of hay, and the crop is of good quality. Potatoes are doing well, though somewhat late. In Nova Scotia, there is an average yield of hay with quality fair to good. Apples are below average in quantity, but shaping well. In Prince Edward Island, hay is an average yield of good quality. Apples fair. Grass pastures excellent.

Province of British Columbia.

Grains are ripening too quickly, resulting in light weight. Potatoes and roots are suffering from lack of moisture, and the prospective yield is heavily reduced. Apricots, peaches, plums and prunes are some what above the average. Apples are now reduced to an average crop with prospect of a further decrease should the drought continue. Heavy shipments of pears and peaches are being made. Hops promise an aver-

WOULD ABOLISH RUBBER SCHEME

Economist, Financial Organ, Says Stevenson Plan Out of Date. HELPS U. S.

LONDON, August 14 (Canadian Press).—The Economist, one of the most influential of British financial organs, strongly urges that the time has arrived to abolish the Stevenson scheme, by which exports of crude rubber from the British fields in Malaya and Ceylon are controlled.

The paper points out that United States manufacturers are taking three-quarters of the world's supplies and are primarily responsible for fixing prices. Since, under the Stevenson scheme, supplies are dependent upon prices, it adds, the United States manufacturers are presented with an excellent counter for market manipuation.

The Economist admits that removal of the restriction would cause a temporary period of depression, but argues that it cannot be maintained forever and that the longer its removal is delayed, the greater will be the evil.

All Hope Abandoned For Safety Of Fishermen

HALIFAX, N.S., August 14 (Canadian Press).—Virtually all hope had been abandoned last night for the safety of the twenty-five Nova Scotia fishermen missing from the Lunenburg schooner Sylvia Mosher, whose deserted hulk was discovered last Tuesday on the north bar off Sable Island. The Government steamer Lady Laurier, which has been scouring the Atantic waste in the vicinity of the island during the past two days, was returning to Halifax after a fruitless search.

NO BRITISH FIRM IN STEEL PACT

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Westminster Gazette learns that although the British Steel interests will be represented informally, they have no intention of becoming signatories to the Franco-German steel agreement being negotiated at Paris.

The newspaper points out that British trade in heavy steel on the Continent of Europe is not large, and, provided the Franco-German pact is limited to the continent, it will have but little effect on the British steel trade.

In the view of one British industrialist, it is too early to visualize a partially American controlled Franco-German combination fighting in competition with the British heavy steel trade. But, he remarks, the possibility of such prospects "is sufficiently obvious to demand close watching of events."

FROM FAR AND NEAR.

STEAMER AGROUND.

TURKS ISLAND, Bahamas, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—The Norwegian steamer Erich Lindoe, 927 gross tons, is ashore on the south point of Salt Cay. The weather is good and indications are that the vessel will be re-floated.

PHARMACEUTICAL ASSOCIATION.

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 14. — (Canadian Press). — E. A. Foster. Charlottetown, P.E.I., was elected president of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association at the closing session of the 14th annual convention of the organization here yesterday.

Sir Thomas Skinner died on May 11 last.

PROTECTION IN INDIA.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's)—The Government of India announces that it has adopted a recommendation made by the Tariff Board for a protective duty in favor of Indian shipbuilders.

QUEBEC, August 14 (Canadian Press).—The Quebec Harbor Commission issued a report yesterday afternoon, showing that 392,910 tons of goods were received through this port during the month of July last and 395,504 tons shipped, a decrease of 60,000 tons in comparison with July, 1925. Fifty British liners arrived and 53 sailed during the same month; 1,208,026 bushels of wheat were shipped in July.

The business of the cold storage shows an increase of 40 per cent. over July of last year.

Equipment

No-draft ventilating windshield, bumper and bumperettes, engine heat indicator and gasoline gauge on the dash, coincidental lock, oil filter and air purifier, automatic windshield cleaner, automatic spark control, rear-vision mirror; and two-beam headlights, controlled from steering wheel.

FOR the first time in an automobile of economical production, these Studebaker Custom Sedans duplicate the master creations of custom design!

Swung low in the body—close-hauled in the coachwork—fleet and flowing in their lines—resplendent with the lacquered loveliness of duotone color schemes—and replete with every detail of correct custom treatment, from broad-lace trim, Butler finish hardware and Chase mohair interiors to the silvered figure of Atalanta poised on the radiator.

These Custom Sedans combine the lines that appeal to a woman with the stamina that appeals to a man—add custom refinements to the ruggedness of Studebaker performance—offer disc wheels and four-wheel brakes—reaffirm the inflexible standards of Studebaker quality—and invoke anew the great Studebaker tradition of making good with the public by continually making better in the plant!

They are the latest examples of the Studebaker policy of progressive betterments. To the smoothness and power of the quiet Studebaker L-head motor is added the custom symmetry of line and treatment that would be absolutely impossible, at the Studebaker price, without Studebaker One-Profit facilities.

These Studebaker Custom Sedans are now on view at our display rooms. You are invited to come in and see them.

ROAD BUILDING AT WARKWORTH

Gravel Pit With Stone Crusher on Newly Bought Lot.

COUNTY'S CREW.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARKWORTH, Aug. 14. — The County Roads Committee, of which Reeve Harry Bedell of Brighton Township is chairman, has opened a gravel pit north of the village on the one and one-half acre property bought from George Partridge for $850. The product of the pit, gravel and broken stone is being used in the rebuilding of the road from Warkworth to the Campbellford gravel road. Graders have already done the preparatory work of cutting off the shoulders and generally widening the traffic surface.

This road is only one of the many that "went to pieces" last spring, and the committee reached it as soon as possible.

W. H. Jones of Newtonville is foreman of the county's crew of two motor truck drivers and five other men. The plant includes a crusher driven by a motor tractor, two trucks and four teams. The pit has been laid out with an efficiency that is apparent even to the inexpert observer. The men are boarding at the Leonard House here and expetc to be engaged until about Christmas in the present pit and road operations.

The new pit is near the crest of the long grade north-west of the village, and is close to the highway undergoing repair. The longest haul is five miles. The entire work is under the supervision of George Greer, county road superintendent.

Fishing Party Adrift On Rice Lake All Night

COBOURG, Aug. 14.— A fishing party that was marooned on Saturday night in a motor boat on Rice Lake, with an engine that would not work, used a novel method of getting to shore. They had one paddle and upon using this to propel the boat, it soon broke and left them drifting, and at the mercy of wind and wave. Having a rain coat, fortunately, with them, they rigged up a sail and with a favorable wind reached the north shore of the lake at 10 p.m. They had gone out from Kent's boat house early in the evening. After getting to shore they secured help at a farm house, and a steam launch was secured to take them back across the lake again.

Mexican Trouble Is Purely a Domestic One, It Is Claimed.

WON'T INTERVENE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press) — The United States government will in all probability keep hands off in the Mexican controversy. In spite of pressure on the administration to intervene it is unlikely that President Coolidge will permit himself to be drawn into the conflict between the Cailles Government and the Roman Catholic authorities in Mexico. Nor is it probable that Secretary of State Kellogg will allow himself to be drawn into it.

Officials here make no secret of the fact that for the government to situation as extremely delicate and indicate they do not want to be entangled in it.

Reasons why the United States government is likely to keep hands off are several. In the first place it is argued that the controversy in Mexico is a domestic one and not one for an outside government to take a hand in.

Probably more weighty with the administration than this, however, is thefact that for the government to interfere would arouse criticism at home from one source or another. President Calles has much support in this country and much antagonism and the Roman Catholic church in Mexico has much support and also opposition.

IN STEVENS' RIDING.

VANCOUVER, August 14. Canadian Press. — In the constituency of Vancouver Centre, which returned the Hon. H. H. Stevens to parliament last year, the Right Hon. Mackenzie King last night made a sharp attack on Mr. Stevens' methods in the customs' probe, and charged him with attempting to create a sensation.

"What is Mr. Stevens doing now " he asked. "Not satisfied with attacking the living he attacks the dead—he attacks my poor old grandfather who has been 75 years dead."

Mr. King quoted from a report of Mr. Stevens' speech at Kamloops in which the Liberal leader was accused of "trying to raise the spirit which actuated his grandfather rebellion."

"That is the offense I am guilty of," said Mr. King. "If Mr. Stevens will go to Toronto he will find on the walls of the city hall there, a portrait of William Lyon Mackenzie, the city's first mayor, being kept there by the Tories of that city."

"I was never more proud in my life to bear my name than at this moment. I direct Mr. Stevens' attention to British history, and when he is again forced to attack some one lying in his grave, let him read a little history and not display before his fellow citizens his ignorance of these things."

Mr. King said it was little wonder that Mr. Stevens had become an authority on smuggling.

"Every bit of information he used was smuggled," he said.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin —Whittier.

Fixed Fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute —Milton.

M. A. N. B.—Much of your trouble in life, as indeed is the case with most of people, lies in your own character, in traits that you may not have ever stopped to notice, and yet that have a devastating effect on your success. You are changeable to a degree, with a fickleness of quality in you that makes you veer this way and that, and you are too intent on appearances. You were born with a strong tendency toward a peaceful existence, preferably in the married life, but circumstances have thrust you into a different arena. The best thing for you to do is to try at all times to conquer this indecision of character, and also strive against jealousy. Although you are large and true in many ways, you are not easily lived with, and impatience and temper, combined with this unreliable quality, will do much to mar your life. By deciding to conquer your faults and to develop your capacities along some one line, you will do better. You spend too much on dress and personal appearance, neglecting the inside of the platter. Never touch drugs or drink. You were born on Friday. Your colors are orange and gray.

F. E. A.—Your nature is one of very common ones which is marked mainly by indecision. You are seldom quite sure of yourself or your ideas, and can be easily twisted from a purpose. Strive always for perfect independence of all outside influences. You have what is known as the strongest and weakest personality in the world, which means that, while you may have unusual ability in one direction, it takes very little to hamper your steps and cloud your mind by thoughts of insecurity and indecisiveness. Your destiny in life is to bring joy and happiness to the lives of others around you, and you have the power within yourself of making your companions happy. You worry a great deal, unnecessarily, and you are inclined at times to indolence and materialism. Remember always that perfect honesty and truthfulness are absolutely necessary to the characters of great men and women. Learn to be self-reliant and study how to concentrate. Marry a man born in October, January or June. You were born on Friday. Your color is pink.

D. H. A.—You have a good deal of poise and self-satisfaction in your makeup, but you incline a little at times to the conservative side, and have your moody times when you wish to withdraw into yourself. You are fond of the study of the mystic and the occult. Your destiny is a well-rounded one, with an aptitude for making money and for making a complete, full life at the same time, if you do not allow this dark strain to conquer your nature, and if you resolve always to fight against materialistic tendencies. The good things of the world—good in a material sense—have a strong appeal for you. You like rich food and drink and lively parties. You have much ability, both of head and hands, and hold within yourself the elements of success. Your wife will be unhappy as long as your spiritual nature remains undeveloped. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are steel and purple.

M. I. J.—You should have rather an interesting type of disposition. You have a natural aptitude for the fine arts, especially music, and you have joyful characteristics that are usually in the ascendant. You will find your success and happiness in life from trying at all times to bring joy and good cheer to the lives of those with whom you are associated. To do this, you must overcome at times a tendency to solitary brooding, a liking for praise and flattery, a desire to scold and nag over trifles, and also the very bad habit, which will have a disastrous effect on your future life, of putting things off. When you are interested, you will work well, but you are inclined to be indolent. You love pleasure and have a great aversion to rules and regulations. You are inclined to be extravagant. Marry a man born in June, July, December or January. You were born on Saturday. Your color is black.

Hollyhock.—You have much ability to face the circumstances of daily life, and a good deal of love in your nature. You have also a natural aptitude for money-making, and should meet with success in any venture connected with business, commerce and finance. You are generous, ambitious and talented, full of hope and enthusiasm and not easily discouraged by defeat. You are apt to be careless about money matters are slow in paying your bills and are careless of your own belongings and those borrowed from others, frequently forgetting to return such things and then becoming impatient of criticism of this fault. You are easily confused and dislike crowds and busy streets. You are inclined to be extravagant with money, although you are successful in making it. You should not worry, as this is very bad for your health, also anger and impatience will have a bad effect upon your nerves. Think often of your friends and seldom of your enemies. You were born on Thursday. Your colors are red and brown. The day you ask about, a Tuesday, is one for quiet meditation and self-communion. Let things take their course on this day and don't worry.

J. M.—You should be able to do a good deal in any enterprise connected with science or business, as you have a natural aptitude for success along these lines. You also have a nature showing unusual understanding and sympathy for the troubles of others, and much will always be expected of you as you go through life. Your errors and omissions with regard to those about you will not easily be forgiven. You are kind-hearted, generous and magnetic, with noble ideals and strong individuality. You are apt to take dislikes without real cause, and find it hard to overcome this trait. You like to do things in your own way and are good at planning for others, but do not like detail work. You are fond of rich and highly-seasoned foods which do not always agree with you. You should cultivate originality in all things, and strive hard to control a fiery temper, for you have a hot-headed and passionate nature. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are tan and buff. The day you ask about, a Tuesday, is one for collecting information and for reading good books and articles. Don't engage in any important business enterprise on this day.

M. P. M.—You should be able to attain success in business enterprises and affairs in which mentality is in the ascendant, perhaps more than in work done with the hands. You have too, a nature that shows considerable understanding and sympathy with the trials and troubles of others, and your companions will expect much of you in this way, as you go through life. You would make a very good teacher or leader in any kind of educational work and also show an inclination toward business life. You are very orderly and methodical, and do best when your surroundings are neat and tidy. You have a liking for music and for chemistry and would do well in this latter avocation if you were trained for it. You are apt to find fault with others and should try to conquer this fault, and a tendency toward undue precision in speech and manners. You will retain your power of enjoyment of life until a good old age. Travel will be beneficial for you. Do not be too sensitive nor critical, and do not place too much trust in appearances. Be original, not a copyist. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are tan and buff shades.

G. H. S.—You have a high degree of mentality and scientific and educational matters appeal to you. Your destiny in life is to bring joy and happiness to the lives of those about you and in this way to learn them for yourself. It is a peculiar fortune, this, but has its rewards. Your difficulty will be in endeavoring to refrain from being too self-sacrificing and injuring your own life in this way, because you are not assertive enough for your own good, and have too low an estimate of your own worth. You are restless and this nervous force will affect your health unduly unless you try to control it. A certain amount of travel would be beneficial for you in every way. You are apt to talk too much for your own good, and are too timid and sensitive. Never give way to the desire to indulge in fits of melancholy weeping. Learn the value of silence and of money. Within the next few years you may have a serious illness but will settle down to steadier conditions after that. You would make an admirable wife. Marry a man born in September, October or July. Dress in pale, delicate shades and pay more attention to your looks and toilet. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are tan and buff shades, also opal shades of blue and gold.

E. M. S.—You have an odd type of nature. You were born with a good deal of self-satisfaction and poise in your makeup and an inclination toward things occult and religious. You have too a high degree of mentality and matters of educational interest appeal strongly to you. You would make a fine teacher or leader in educational work. You have the habit of selfish criticism of others which is not a good thing, and you are very much inclined also to be snobbish. You are kind-hearted and affectionate but critical at most times, although you may not have noticed this trait in yourself, and do not like to be accused of it. You are extremely exacting in money matters and are fond of accumulating money, but wish to enjoy life as you go along. As long as you remain single, you will have to work hard to find success. Marry a cheerful man born in March, May or August. You were born on Sunday. Your colors are shades of steel and brick.

DRUNKEN MOB PLUNDERS INN

Slay Inkeeper and Four Female Relatives After Carousal.

IN RUMANIA.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 14 (United News).—Reports from Ticheciu, Rumania, says that a gang of villagers following a drunken carousal, murdered an inn-keeper named Rubin, his wife, his mother-in-law, and his two daughters.

The gang is said to have cut the throats of their victims with a razor and then to have plundered the inn.

Agents Unload "Hard" Stuff Find Nothing But Kindling

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—There's a bunch of real Canadian hard stuff coming through to a Chicago bakery, prohibition agents were tipped. So they seized a box car and spent a day unloading cedar kindling.

"Sure," said the baker, "it's real Canadian hard stuff, hard cedar chip we use for starting oven fires. Thanks for unloading it."

The agents are seeking the tipster.

Royal Yacht Squadron, Says Report, Has Black-Balled Relative of King George—Gossip Indicates Mountbatten

LONDON, Aug. 14 (United News).—It is reported that the Royal Yacht Squadron at Cowes, perhaps the most exclusive club in the world, has black-balled a distant relative of King George, the husband of a well-known heiress.

Gossip is busy regarding the identity of the applicant and as to the identity of the member or members who disliked him sufficiently to turn down the application made in his name.

At any rate, there is no disgrace attached to being black-balled from this club. It has happened to many leading men. It is considered a great honor to be classed with the many prominent people who have been blackballed from it.

King Edward himself resigned from a London club because when he went into it smoking a cigar many years ago—when he was Prince of Wales—a servant approached him and said firmly:

"Smoking is not permitted, your Royal Highness."

Gossip concerning the heir of the Royal Yacht Squadron incident has turned almost automatically toward Lord Louis Mountbatten, a distance relative of King George, who married in 1922 Miss Edwinda Ashley, a great society heiress. There is no indication that Lord Louis is the man concerned. He is very popular with the younger Royal set and in smart society generally, which might or might not be in his favor as regards the crusty rulers of the R.Y.S.

Before the Bath

The patented Air Blast Ring in McClary's Sunshine Furnace mixes preheated air with the gases and volatiles (soot) in soft coal causing instant combustion with an intensely hot flame the heat of which is immediately felt in the rooms above. The gases and soot are utilized. They do not lodge in the chimneys or flues to clog them up. The all Cast Iron Construction of McClary's Sunshine Furnace enables it to burn coke either alone or mixed with coal without risk of cracking or burning out.

AIR INTENSELY HOT AND DISCHARGED THROUGH SMALL HOLES

No shivering or hesitating in the genial atmosphere of the home heated with a McClary's Sunshine Furnace.

Warmed air properly humidified in the furnace, uniformly distributed to every room in the home, gives it that summer softness which means comfort and health to all the inmates and that is just what the Sunshine Furnace is guaranteed to do when installed by McClary's accredited dealer in your district.

No More Fuel Worries

The Sunshine Furnace eliminates the fuel worry, too. It burns hard coal, soft coal or coke equally well. All Cast Iron Construction gives it the sturdiness to stand up under the concentrated heat of coke, and the patented Exclusive Air Blast Ring by a simple operation of the drafts enables it to burn soft coal as well as hard coal.

Write your nearest McClary's Branch for free booklet: "Winter Comfort in Canadian Homes," that will give you much interesting information about heating, fuel, and the proper installation of furnaces so necessary in solving the problem of comfort in Winter.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Stoney Lake, Aug. 11.

Mister Spotting Editor:

Trying to size up the ball situation from here ain't just the easiest thing in the world, because the Petes is apparently out to doublecross me. When I figgered the game at Kingston would be a total loss they go down to Joe Daley's town and give the Ponies a nice trimming, and then when I countde the Sat. game at home as already in the bat bag the lads crumple up and let Mister Daley's boys walk off with the verdict. So I ain't going to try to guess what's going to happen in this week's games. Losing them last 2 home fixtures has made it a whole lot harder for the Petes to get in the playoff serious than it looked when I last seen the home lads perform.

Well, Mac, you'll be sorry to hear that you're just a week further away from that fish dinner than you was last week. Since I last wrote you I ain't had nothing on my line but weeds, and I begin to think them 'lunge I hooked last week was strangers just touring through the Trent Waterway. Anyway, they ain't no signs of any more, and from now on any fish what wants to do business with me'll just naturally have to call at headquarters. I ain't going to do no more house-to-house calling on them, so if you want fish, Mac, you better hike out and buy yourself a can of salmon.

Since my last letter the big event up here was the annual regatta. The most exciting feature was not the races, but the costumes of some of the fair sex what congregated to see the sports. I ain't seen so many bare knees since I seen the 48th Highlanders parade, and some of them was the kind I woulda thought the owners woulda been glad to cover up. Short hair, short knickers and short hose, everything was short except the stares of some of the visitors, which never knew they was boat races on the programme.

1 thing, Mister Sporting Editor, struck me, and that was some of them birds what has been writing about barring canoes shoulda seen the way this Stoney Lake gang handled them in the races. When you seen a dozen birds, each standing on the gunwale of a canoe and paddling like mad, and a bunch of others propelling a canoe with nothing but pie plates for paddles, you begin to think that it all depends on how they is handled whether canoes is safe or not.

Well, Mac, hoping you can get me ring-side seats for the Peck-Duffus bout, I'll say so long now.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

SCORE FAST GAME OVER TRIPLE LINK

Break in Sixth Allows Four Tally Against the C.G.E.

Although the Triple Link got a bad break in the sixth innings last night at Central Park when they ran in four runs; they were held scoreless in the other eight innings by the smooth working C.G.E. team. The final score being 6 to 4. Up to the beginning of the sixth innings the Triple Link secured one hit off Powell. In the sixth Batten got a home run with two on bases and Constable also scored on two singles. In the first of the ninth Powell pitched three balls and had as many out as each player up grounded out or popped out a fly on the first ball pitched. This is the first time this season that this thing has occurred. Ash was the hitter of the game getting a single, a double and a triple in five times up. Carruthers relieved Pacey in the sixth and he held the C.G.E. down; in fact after the second innings only one run was scored. The win last night gives the C.G.E. a chance for first place with the Firemen, if the latter team lose to the Belmonts on Monday night.

NOVELTY MATCH ON GOLF COURSE

Old Timers Play Unusual Game on the Somerville Course.

REGULATION RULES.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—A novel match took place on the course at Senneville Country Club, when Dr. Arthur S. Lamb, president of the clhb, playing regulation golf with a full accoutrement of clubs, teed off against Major D. Stewart Forbes, M.C., athletic manager at McGill University, who was equipped with a set of home-made slings.

The conditions of the match required Major Forbes to take a penalty of one stroke when his ball found its way into a bunker and permitted him to throw or roll the ball with his hand when approaching or playing on the green.

Major Forbes, despite lack of practice, the use of a golf ball instead of a stone of pellet, and the rough and ready character of his slings, was only defeated 4 and 3 to play by Dr. Lamb, who negotiated the course in 85 strokes. Major Forbes' "tee-slings" were the feature of his game, being nearly always straight down the middle of the course and often near to the 250 yard mark. His weakness was on the green, where lack of experience and practice severely handicapped his hand-putts to the hole.

CAMPAIGN PLANS ARE DISCUSSED

Supporters of J. J. Duffus Hold Informal Meeting To Make Arrangements.

Plans were outlined for the campaign now under way on behalf of J. J. Duffus, the Liberal candidate in the coming election, at a meeting held in the Duffus building last night There was a large gathering present but as the meeting was of an informal nature no speeches were delivered. Enthusiasm prevailed among those present and many predictions for a successful conclusion to the campaign.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

FAST PLAYERS HERE TUESDAY

Canadian Ladies' Roster Includes Many Well known Girls.

MEET C.G.E.

Following are the remarks of Miss Mabel Ray, manager of the Canadian Ladies' Softball team, which plays here on Tuesday regarding her players:

Reta Beaune, the cutup of the team, and the one who always gives the fans a laugh caught for Supremes last summer but came back to her first love as she played her first game for me, on the Robertson's team. Sister of Eddie Beaune, the Hillcrest catcher.

Marje Souther, called the iron man for pitching five games in four days. Plenty of speed and a good fielder and hitter; one of the few speedy pitchers who have good control.

Flo Taylor, first base. This is her first game since she underwent an operation a short time ago. Flo is claimed to be the best first baseman in the game today and is the heavy hiter of the Danforth league. They had to let Flo out of the hospital or she would have walked out herself; said she had to get in shape for the Peterboro trip.

Laure Donoghue (Red) at second is a fast girl and good batter; she played for Danforth last season and is the life of the team. She is called the singing second baseman.

Stop—you have hit short — and here you find Shaver Oraindi. Shaver has been with me the last three years. She gives us heart failure in every game she plays. There is not a better fielder in the game at this hard corner and on the bases she gives everyone heart trouble. She gets away with more daring base running than anyone in the game and when she gets on base just try and keep her from scoring.

Third is held by Tony Conacher —she of the boyish bob. Tony is the wonder of the Danforth League at this corner and is also a member of the Canadian Ladies' famous relay team holder of the world's record of 50 2-5 seconds for the 880 yards.

In left field Mabel Kavanagh is most reliable and is hitting the ball on the nose all the time. She never misses anything that comes her way. Her specialty is sensational one hand stabs.

Little Etta Young, the baby of the team, holds down center, and Red can be relied upon to grab any old kind of a hit that comes her way. This is her first season in senior company and the team is very proud of her making good. Always smiling and ready to help "Red" is a big favorite.

Right field is looked after by Ann Black and Beatrice Hockley, both stars in thir position. Ann Black is the real live, wideawake coach when the girls are on base and they listen to her more than anyone else especially when they reach third, Ann may be depended on to get them in.

DRUMMOND'S WINS.

Station Team Beats Zion 10-8 in Snappy Ball Game.

A very snappy and exciting ball game was played on Tuesday evening between Zion and Drummond Station, in which the latter won by the score of 10 to 8. Orde for Zion was knocked out of the box in the second innings. Hayes, who relieved him, was also hit hard. C. O'Toole went the whole route for Drummond Station, pitching excellent ball. John Heffernan was the star player, pulling down eight flies, and hitting two home runs.

The line-up:

Zion—N. Hayes c; E. Orde p; B. Orde 1b; V. Hayes 2b; J. Fitzgerald 3b; J. Thompson mf; Carroll lf; Leo Fitzgerald rf; Nickel ss.

Drummond Station—F. Heffernan c; C. O'Toole p; J. Heffernan 1b; T. Heffernan 2b; F. Fitzgerald 3b; B. F. Clancy ss; H. Fitzgerald mf; V. Powers rf; N. Fitzgerald lf.

Score by innings:

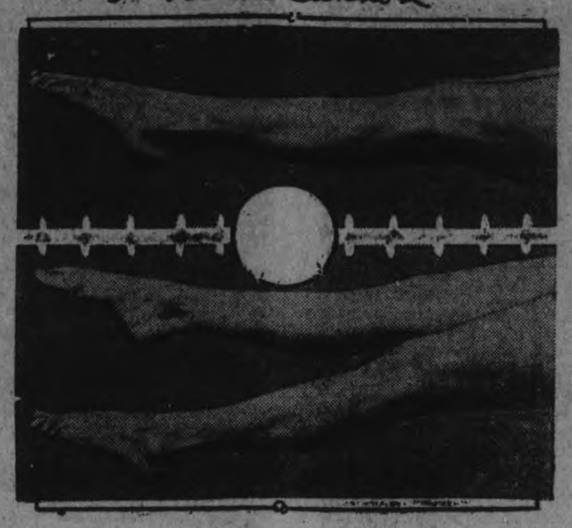
HOW TO SWIM

by William Cannon



BACK STROKE KICK.

The kick to be used for back stroke, when developed for speed, is the crawl, but because of the position there will be only one kick for both arm strokes.

The kick is the four or six-beat flutter — from hip down with the downward stroke of either arm.

The swimmer himself will decide this and will choose the one which comes most naturally to him.

The personal equation should always be favored in matters of swimming, unless it forms a real drawback, and each swimmer in using the back overarm will discover that the kick is more natural with one or the other arm.

He should choose the arm that is the more natural and which gives better results.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY HELD AT PONTYPOOL

Large Crowd Attend Successful Event in Memorial Park Wednesday.

PONTYPOOL, Aug. 14.—The annual field day held here in the Memorial Park on Wednesday, Aug. 11th, was the largest and most successful day ever held here since the park was opened. The weather was ideal and a very large crowd was present for the occasion. There was a large turnout of Pontypool Old Boys and Girls, who always try to be present on an occasion of this kind. Orono Band (military) was present and was very liberal with their music, which was of the best. The first event of the day was a softball game between Kirby ladies and Kendal ladies, the score being 27-9 in favor of the latter team. The line-up was:

Kirby—N. Dockril ss; C. Wannan rf; E. Dean c; E. Hogg 1b; L. Henderson 2b; W. Wannan cf; M. Milson p; T. Brown lf; G. Cobbledick 3b.

Umpires—J. Payne and L. Hay.

This was followed by a very interesting game of hard ball between Bethany and Orono, who are old rivals at this game, and have not met for many years. A large turnout of supporters were present for both teams, and excitement prevailed during the whole game. Both teams played an excellent game, and the score resulted in a tie, 7-7. Bannon's home run with two on was one of the features of the game. Bannon formerly played with the K. of C. team in Peterborough, and is living near Orono now. He played right field, and showed up good in the field also. T. Staples' fielding and H. Johnston's batting were the main features of Bethany team. The fielding on both sides was airtight and was of the highest calibre.

The line-up was:

Bethany—Staples ss; Reynolds c; Price cf; R. Staples p; B. Ryley 2b; Johnston rf; T. Staples lf; Dawe 1b; Clarke 3b; Thorndyke 3b.

Orono—Hackney 3b; Bannon rf; Hay 2b; Moise c; West p; Cowan 1b; Lycett ss; Cornish lf; McNeil cf.

Umpires—Moise, plate; Evans, bases.

The football game between Liskard and Lotus was a draw, and was very interesting to the fans interested in that line of sport.

Supper was served on the grounds by the ladies till all were served, after which a good concert was given by the Perrin Concert Co. of Toronto in L.O.L. Hall. This was followed by a dance, which was largely attended. The music by Edgerton's orchestra proved very satisfactory to all present. The dance broke up at 2 a.m., bringing to an end a real day.

Among those who were present from outside points were: Mr. and Mrs. Ira Palmer, Beeton; Mr. E. Harper and Miss Carrie Harper of Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. R. Staples, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Staples and Miss Jessie Staples of Toronto; Mr. Leslie McRoberts and mother of Toronto; Misses Evelyn and Marjorie Cully of Toronto; Dr. D. W. Clarke and wife of Peterboro; Mr. E. Howlett of Peterboro; Mr. F. W. Bowen, ex-M.P., Orono, and Mr. M. Staples, Independent candidate in the coming election.

Miss Frances Payne, who has been visiting at her grandmother's, Mrs. E. Payne, has been engaged to teach at Enterprise School south of here.

Pontypool team play their last schedule game of foothal here tonight against Lotus, who are leaders in the League.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 14.—A herd of cattle, being driven to slaughter, stampeded one day recently in a crowded section of Liverpool. Seven bullocks raced into one big china store, causing a panic.

PRIZE WINNERS.

The prize winners will receivet heir prizes today or Monday.

Miss Margaret McFadden was chosen to do the drawing, and Messrs. Fairen and McFadden assisted Rev. P. Butler in the arranging of the event.

The committee in charge of the social wishes to thank all who worked or contributed; and also the Rangers' Band, which supplied the much-praised music on the night of the social.

Prize winners in the ticket-selling competition were the Misses Ann McCarthy, Reid Street; Margaret Hanlon, and Clothilde Boland.

G. RODGER'S BODY RECOVERED TO-DAY

Was Drowned With Companion on Hunting Trip Last Fall.

The body of the late George Rogers, who was a resident of the Clarina district, Dummer Township, who was drowned last November along with George Winslow when they were crossing Koshabogamog Lake, was found this morning.

The men, two of a hunting party of four, started early on the morning of Monday, November 16, to change camp to the other side of the lake. Winslow and Rogers started out in a canoe with two dogs. The canoe, by some means, upset, and the men were unable to right it as the weight of the dogs chained to it kept it down in the water. Winslow's body was recovered on May 6.

EXTORTION.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Women money lenders in the slums district have been found to charge as high as 100 per cent. per week on loans of 5 to 20 pounds. The offenders are hard to catch because of the victims' wish to hide the disgrace of their poverty from their neighbors.

STAMPS FOR TACNA.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A set of stamps has just been issued here for use in Tacna-Arica, South America, a district which has been under a plebiscite since the war between Chile and Peru ended in 1883. Tacna and Arica were left to decide to which country they wished to belong and have not decided yet.

SILVER WEDDING IS CELEBRATED

Companions of A.O.F. Make Presentation To Mr. and Mrs. E. Freeman.

SOCIAL EVENING.

The Companions of the A.O.F., Queen Alexander Circle and friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terrace, 105 Auburn street, to give a surprise party to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Freeman in honor of the 25th anniversary of their wedding. A mock wedding was celebrated in the drawing room, acted by Miss J. Pattison and Mrs. A. Simmons as bride and groom, little Vera Barnes and Hilda Freeman as bridesmaids, Mr. Lemming as best man and Mr. Jackson as the parson.

After much fun and showers of confetti, Mrs. Lemming read an address to Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, wishing them every happiness in the years to come and Miss Ina Terrace presented them with a beautiful hand painted electric table lamp.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman thanked their friends for their kindness and everyone sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Forty guests then sat down to supper in the dining room, after which singing and dancing were indulged in until midnight. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Terrace, Mr. and Mrs. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Lemming, Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Winterbottom, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Pink, Mrs. A. Simmons, Mrs. Skipper, Mrs. Bugg, Mrs. Lang, Misses Pattison, H. Freeman, Townsley, L. Simmons, Terrace, Martin, K.Shurety, F. Shurety, Wiggins, V. Barnes, E. Freeman, Phylis Pink, Miss Wood, of Toronto, Messrs. Fred Ward, Don Lee, Pat Outram, W. Matthews, S. Winterbottom, A. Barnes.

WELCOME NEWS

WELCOME, Aug. 11.—A very interesting meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Harvey Wallace on Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. E. H. Martyn and after the business was concluded, Mrs. Little, leader of Group B, took charge.

The devotional leaflet was read by Miss Gertrude Lewis.

The subject for the day was Temperance.

Miss Martyn gave a reading dealing with the effects of intemperance, physically, morally and spiritually.

Mrs. E. J. Symons dealt with the "Education on the Evils of Drinking."

Miss Marjorie Runnals gave objections to government control.

Misses eJan and Evelyn Bosnell sang "Have Courage, My Boy, to Say No."

A poem, "We Women Can Do it," was read by Mrs. E. H. Martyn.

The Heralds of the Watch Tower responded by temperance items.

Mrs. Ben White read a very touching temperance story. Lunch was served by Group B.

Welcome News

The girls' softball team played two games this week. On Monday night they played the Canton team at Welcome. The score was 18 to 15 in favor of Welcome.

On Thursday night Welcome played the Bailieboro girls at Welcome. A fast game was played, resulting in the score of 5 to 1 in favor of Bailieboro.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

According to statistics compiled by Mr. Charles Ough, who has been official traffic checker at Dale Corners during the past few days, the total traffic passing that point between July 29 and August 4 amounted to 8,713 vehicles.

Traffic both on the Provincial highway and over the Welcome-Dale road was checked. The heaviest traffic on the Provincial Port Hope to Bewdley road was on Sunday, August 1, when 1,166 autos and 25 horses passed the intersection. Civic holiday was a close second with 1,117 cars and 46 horses. On the Welcome road 678 cars and 22 horses passed the corner on August 2.

Of the total number of vehicles, 8,713, some 933 or 9.3 per cent. were foreign cars. The checker was on duty from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m. A daily average of 1,241 and an hourly average of 77 vehicles passed the checker.

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

RICHARD DIX HAS CAST OF REGULARS IN NEW COMEDY

"Let's Get Married" has more than its Share of Muscular Men.

As Richard Dix romps and battles his way from dilemma to predicament in his new farce comedy "Let's Get Married," which comes to the Capitol on Monday, he is accompanied by a bunch of "regular guys" of his own selection.

There is "Gunboat" Smith, an expugilist who has played in many other films with Dix and exchanged blows with him. "Gunboat is the detective who dogs Dix's devious detours in "Let's Get Married."

Dix has for his boon companion in the picture at Pendleton, wrestling champion of Europe. He rose to this eminence after winning the intercollegiate title for Columbia University in 1914. Later he won a place on the Olympic team. Nat's versatility has been displayed before in both histrionic and directorial capacity on the screen.

With Dix and Pendleton we find Douglas MacPherson, former football star of the Detroit High School, who has the role of Tommy. MacPherson however modestly disclaims any particular right to fame as a football player, but admits he's pretty good at checkers and expects someday to take up golf. This is his first picture in several years, having devoted himself recently to the Broadway stage.

Trailing this trio through the thrills; or if you will reeling through the reels, are an organ grinder and a street sweeper. Both of them are hefty lads who would be handy to have around in an emergency, but neither of them is professionally proficient in the rugged pastimes.

The cast of extras is also well sprinkled with exponents of agility and prowess. They include Phil Bloom, who acquired his cauliflowered ears in many a ring battle, and Charlie Young, a vaudeville tumbler, whose business it is to get thrown through a window. Sort of a "picking up business.

Richard's tough gang in "Let's Get Married" is not due entirely to his liking of young fellows who are able to argue and back their arguments, but also to the fact that "Let's Get Married" calls for more robust scrapping than any picture he has made lately. Lois Wilson, who is featured, contributes her part in injecting some feminine beauty to offset all these pugnacious men. Gregory La Cava directed for Paramount.

HOLY COW!

DELHI, India, Aug. 14.—On a railroad in Rajputana, northern India, the train to Delhi was crossing a sandy desert when suddenly the brakes ground the wheels. Everybody got out and went up to the head of the train. A sacred cow or white zebu had strayed onto the tracks and the turbaned engineer would not have struck the animal for untold wealth.

DODGE BROTHERS

DE LUXE SEDAN

People select motor cars by different standards.

Some desire luxury and ostentation. Others, utility and economy alone.

Dodge Brothers De Luxe Sedan strikes a fine and distinguished balance—both in appearance and price—between these two extremes.

It provides unusual comfort and roominess; a refinement of line and design in which the owner takes deep pride; and everywhere in the world the name it bears is associated with the highest standard of integrity and workmanship.

With reasonable care, the De Luxe Sedan serves its owners for years, frequently delivers mileage running well into six figures, and on the resale market brings prices that strikingly reflect the solid value Dodge Brothers have built into it.

Protect your home with warmth and comfort

A GURNEY Warm Air Furnace will do the trick, by flooding the house with genial heat. If there's a "Gurney" in your basement next winter, you'll know what "the comfort of warmth" really means.

The coal-saving records of Gurney Furnaces are accounted for by their mechanical perfection and their specially-designed fire pot and grates. It's a common remark by owners that "Gurney Furnaces are easy on fuel".

We have a little booklet on Warm Air Heating that tells a story you will appreciate. Ask for it.

A FRENCH COLONIAL HOUSE

(By Lawson & Little, Architects.)

This house, about twenty-five by thirty, contains seven rooms and a bath-room. The hall, which is in the centre of the house, is approached through a verandah porch and vestibule, off the latter is an ample coat cupboard. Both the living-room and dining-room are of ample size, the former having a large fireplace, and the latter conveniently connected to the kitchen for easy service.

A side and cellar entrance, and a separate kitchen entrance are provided. As the stairs land in the centre hall on the first floor direct entrance is given to the four bedrooms, and bath-room, without any loss of floor space. In fact, the plan shows commendable study in this respect. Besides a cupboard in each room, the master bed-room is provided with a fireplace.

The exterior shows a dignified rendering in the French Colonial style, the uninterrupted lines of the eaves and cornices being artistically broken by the vertical lines of the group flued chimney.

The house has been erected of concrete and concrete blocks—the walls being finished in plaster—stucco roughcast. The roof is slated with Asbestoslate, of guaranteed quality.

The interior woodwork is of oak throughout the ground floor, and pine for painting elsewhere. The floors are of hardwood, except in the kitchen.

The heating is by hot water to each room, from a Standard type hot water boiler in the basement. Plumbing fixtures of modern design and type have been installed.

This house on a forty foot lot would cost about ten thousand dollars.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct, Address Lawson & Little, 273 Beaver Hall Square, Montreal, Que. Copyright 1926, MacLean Building Reports Limited.

Question: The plans for our house call for brick walls with lintels and sills My contractor objects to these and advises using stone or cement. As there is considerable difference in cost what would you advise:

Unquestionably the architect who designed your house used brick lintels and sills because he thought they would be better appearing. We advise you to use them. If the contractor puts them up properly the construction will be sound.

A FEW SAFEGUARDS WHEN SELECTING A SITE

A reliable agent or real estate man, on whose reputation you can count, is usually in a position to safeguard your interests and point out the advantages and disadvantages of locations you may think favorable. There are many things to be considered. For instance, you should find out whether there are any restrictions in the neighborhood, if you are expected to make improvements, or whether you are likely to be assessed later on for new sidewalks, curbs, roadways or gradings. Then there are the possibilities of railroads, trolley lines, public utilities or manufacturing plants later affecting the property. On the one hand, these may be beneficial, if not too close or of an offensive character; on the other hand, they are likely to be a detriment to the neighborhood and decrease the value of your land.

Another thing to investigate is the nature of what are called "easements." This is a term indicating the rights of certain persons or firms to install water or gas mains, telegraph or light poles or wires, etc., which may not occur to the land-buyer at the time, but may disfigure the property when the district develops.

In a built-up locality these easements are generally apparent. For this and other reasons it is almost always safer to buy a lot in a district that has passed the initial stages of development. The land will cost you more in the first place, but you are able to form a better idea of whether the locality will be a pleasing place to live when thoroughly settled and built up, and hence you are more certain of a steady increase in the value of your property.

In better class districts there are usually restrictions on the type of house permitted, and also upon the erection of places of business within the vicinity. This restriction is fixed in order to prevent good residential districts from being disfigured with shacks and other unattractive buildings which reduce values and greatly reduce the possibilities of resale. To build a substantial and handsome home in a district where small dwellings are likely to predominate is to court an eventual loss.

BOYS ARE FOUND AFTER 30 HOURS

Had Left Belleville To Row To Toronto in Small Boat.

REACH PRESQU'ILE.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 14.—Jackie Lavin, 13 years old, and George Mintz, 11 years old, are safe back in their homes on Front Street, after a 30-hour trip, which took them out into Lake Ontario, near the Big Light off Presqu'Ile Point. When they on Thursday night put into shore a fresh breeze was springing up, and they were soaked to the shoulders with the water which had washed over the clumsy dinghy of seven or eight feet in length, and five-foot beam, in which they set out to see Toronto.

They had been missing 30 hours. They were traced up the Murray Canal, and to Brighton. During the trip they had but a box of berries and three chocolate bars. On Thursday night they decided to go back, but could not make way, and so agreed to telephone their parents. When one of the two went ashore at Presqu'Ile to get some one to phone to Belleville to give their whereabouts, the hotel proprietor asked if they were the boys from Belleville whom the authorities here had sent out word about. Some time later the boat came ashore with the other boy. A motorist went from Belleville and brought them home.

Wednesday night they slept by a fence alongside a graveyard, and were not startled until they saw a man with a lantern.

KING HOLDS UP PARTY RECORD

Appeals For Support in New Westminster on Legislation Basis.

MORE TAX CUTS.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press). — Claiming for his government a "record which has not been surpassed in the matter of legislation for the popular good," Right Hon. Mackenzie King appealed for support in the city of New Westminster. The drastic reduction in the income tax, elimination of the receipt tax, and the return to penny postage were in themselves facts, he said, which had recommended the Liberal administration. The return of the Liberal party to power would mean further cuts in taxation. It also would mean that all Liberal Government legislation which was lost through the abrupt closing of Parliament in July would be reintroduced and supported.

PINNED UNDER CAR INSTANTLY KILLED

Agincourt Man Dies When Nephew's Car Runs Into Ditch.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 14 Andrew Nicols, of Agincourt, aged about 55 years, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon on the Provincial highway, one mile north of Horning's Mills, when a car owned and driven by his nephew, Arnold Nichols, left the road, plunged in the ditch and turned turtle, pinning the occupants under the machine.

Mrs. James Frisby, Agincourt, also received serious injuries, and is in Lord Dufferin Hospietal here, suffering from three fractured ribs, lacerations of the head, injuried hip and internal injuries. Miss Lillian Thompson, aged 15, of Feversham, sustained cuts and bruises about the head and face. The driver escaped with minor injuries.

The cause of the accident is unknown. The car was badly damaged. Dr. S. T. White, coroner, will hold an inquest here on Monday.

MEIGHEN MEETS WITH A HECKLER

Man Inquires About Case of Mr. Boys in Connection With Probe.

ANSWER GIVEN.

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press). — When Premier Arthur Meighen was dealing with the Customs report in his speech here last night he was confronted by a heckler. The Premier was challenging refutation of his statement that in all the 3,000 pages of evidence taken in the Customs inquiry there was not one reflecting on any Government except that of Mr. Mackenzie King's Government.

"The whole welter of wickedness was during the Mackenzie King Government," he charged.

"What about the case of Mr. Boys, the Conservative Whip?" asked the heckler. Mr. Meighen returned that all Mr. Boys did was to act as solicitor for the men charged with wrongdoing. Mr. Boys had written to the Minister as he had a right to do, urging consideration of the case, as it was the man's first offence. "What Mr. Boys would not have had right to do would be to secure the release of the guilty man that he might be used in elections."

DIES FROM FALL.

Fell From High Stool and Struck Back Against Railing.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Falling from a high stool and striking his back against the railing of a stairway caused the death four hours later last night, of George E. Judson, aged 65, senior member of the undertaking and furniture firm in Athens, Leeds County. A fractured rib had pierced his lung. He was making repairs when the mishap occurred. His widow and one son survive.

MONTREAL HAS NO SHIPMENTS EXPORT CATTLE

Trade Hits Botton This Week With None on Any Ship.

STRIKE BLAMED.

Total Cattle Exports Show Decrease in Year of 12445

MONTREAL, Que., August 14.—(Canadian Press). — Montreal's cattle export trade hit the bottom this week, not a single head of cattle having been shipped out of this port on any of the ships leaving for the other side. For the same week last year 2,951 head were taken to the markets of Great Britain.

Cattle shipments to Great Britain have been weak ever since the general strike, but at no time this season has a week gone by without at least one or two boats taking over some cattle.

Last week 541 cattle were shipped.

Cattle shipments to date have fallen 12,445 behind those of the same date last year. The total number of cattle exported from Montreal this season now is 15,263, as against 27,708 on the same date last year.

MEIGHEN OPENS B. C. CAMPAIGN

Talks About Customs Probe and Loss in National Revenue.

AID FOR HIGHWAYS.

McBRIDE, B.C., Aug. 14 (Canadian Press)—Among the mountains of Yellowhead, Premier Meighen yesterday made his first sepech of his campaign in British Columbia. Mr. Meighen addressed a wayside audience during a halt of the train. He spoke of the customs investigation which, he said, had revealed a collapse of the customs service which had resulted in a loss to the country of untold millions in revenue. Mr. Meighen said he was looking forward to the day when the Federal Government might again come to the assistance of the provinces in the construction of highways as had been done before.

REBEKAH PICNIC GREAT SUCCESS

Six Lodges of District Gather at Chemong Park For Outing.

HAVE FINE TIME.

MILLBROOK, Aug. 14—The picnic held at Chemong Park on eWdnesday afternoon, under the auspices of the six Rebekah Lodges of the district, was a decided success though the attendance was not as large as had been anticipated.

The three lodges in the southern part of the district, Peterborough, Havelock and Millbrook, had representatives present, and of the three in the north, Beaverton, Little Britain and Lindsay, the last named alone sent a number of carloads to the picnic grounds, the distance the others had to drive and the very busy season for those members living on the farm, doubtless preventing their being represented at the enjoyable event.

Races for all ages were included in the sports' programme, Messrs. Throop, of Peterborough, and Thomas of Lindsay, acting as starters, while Mrs. B. Watt, Past President ofthe Rebekah Assembly, and Mrs. Thomas, Grand Warden, distributed the prizes.

Candy in abundance, and of various kinds, was provided as the awards in the children's and ladies' races, and for the men cigars proved popular with the winners.

Every competitor in the race for girls under 8 years was made happy with an "all day sucker." Jean Thomas and May Endicott, of Lindsay, came first and second in the single ladies' race, and in the married women's race, Mrs. Gordon of Lindsay, was soonest at the line. Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt, of Peterborough, outdistanced the others who entered for the three-legged race.

A game of softball between the "North" and "South" followed the races, and provided plenty of fun for both onlookers and players until the supper hour. Kawartha Lodge, Lindsay, was obliged to uphold the honors for the north, while members of the three lodges, Havelock, Millbrook and Peterborough, made up the team from the south. The line-up was:

"North"—M. Cook, p; M. Endicott, c; Miss Gordon, 1b; G. Thomas, 2b; M. Braden, 3b; Mrs. Golden, rf; I. Ferriss, lf; Miss Evans, ss; F. Armstrong, cf.

"South"—M. Kimberley, p; M. Reid, c; J. Little, 1b; A. Long, 2b; H. Syer, 3b; L. Syer, rf; F. Syer, lf; Mrs. Mowry, ss; Mrs. Gordon, cf.

Mr. H. Woodbeck, of Havelock, was umpire, and five innings were played. The score was 21-8, and the "Southerners" came out ahead. The fact that some of the players were having their initiation into the game did not in the least detract from either the interest or the excitement which prevailed throughout.

Tables for supper were laid under the trees and appetities sharpened by exercise did full justice to the abundance of good things provided.

A soft ball team from Lindsay Lodge, I.O.O.F., had challenged the "Triple Link Club", Peterborough,to a game after supper and a goodly number of the picnickers found their way to the field where the competition took place. Evidently the T.L.C. was too much for its opopnents from the start, but both sides took so much enjoyment out of the friendly game that play was continued until it was almost too dark to see the ball. The teams lined up:

T.L.C. — Pacey, p; Miller, c; Munroe, 1b; Long, 2b; Warde, 3b; Grant, rf; Acford, lf; Crowe, cf.

R. J. Martin and F. Mowry were plate and base umpires, respectively, the score being 20-8, favor of the Triple Links.

Several races which had been left over for the evening had to be dispensed with owing to the growing darkness but a game of "pass ball" between the ladies and the men was put through with a good deal of hilarity, the former winning the chocolates.

A special priez given to the Lodge having the largest number of members present, and averaging the highest mileage, went to Golden Link, Peterborough, which had thirty-five in attendance. Mrs. Thomas presented the prize, half a dozen dainty salad bowls, Sister May McLean, Noble Grand, receiving the award on behalf of the Lodge of which she is the presiding officer.

Some of the younger folk remained for the dance in the evening, but the majority of the picnickers were on their homeward way shortly after nine o'clock, the consensus of opinion being that the occasion had proved so successful it would be wise to make it an annual event.

LINIMENT FOUND TO BE POWERFUL GERMICIDE

Originally, Absorbine Jr. was sold only as a pain reliever and an embrocation. It was soon discovered that the liniment had value as a germicide and it is now used as a mouth wash, for wound dressing and for disinfecting purposes.

Another surprise was yet in store. A. Wm. Pratt of Springfield, Mass., applied Absorbine Jr. to a varicose vein to relieve the intense pain. Not only did the pain leave, but he noticed every day the swollen vein becoming smaller. The treatment was kept up and, today, Mr Pratt's legs, though he has never used anything else on them, are as smooth as when he was a boy. It has now been proved that Absorbine Jr. is of value in the treatment of varicose veins, leg ulcers, boils, pyorrhoea and a number of other ailments and injuries besides that for which it was first prepared. Nothing serves so many every day purposes and nothing is better entitled to its place in every home. When it is needed, it will be needed in a hurry. Don't wait for someone to be hurt. Get it at your druggist's today. $1.25 everywhere.

RUN DOWN IN HEALTH.

Why Many Men and Women Are Badly Handicapped.

When you are so run down in health that it impairs the efficiency of your work as well as your power to enjoy leisure hours, or obtain rest, it is time you looked to the cause. If you do not, a serious breakdown is almost sure to result. In nearly all cases this condition, which doctors usually describe as generaly debility, is due to poor blood—blood that is deficient in red corpuscles. When the blood is thin and weak your whole system suffers. You lose appetite, have no energy, your nerves trouble you and you feel restless.

What you need is help to build up your blood and you should begin at once to make your blood rich and red by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You will soon notice the difference in your health by a better appetite and increased vigor. The reason is that the new blood created by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills stimulates all the organs of the body to healthy activity and so the system gains nourishment and strength. If you are weary or out of sorts, begin gaining new strength today by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. "I was in a badly run down condition," says Mrs. J. Potter, of Winnifred, Alta., "when I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they fully restored my health. I strongly recommend this medicine to all weak people."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The engagement is announced of Gladys Marian Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith, to Mr. Havelock Cameron, B.A., Sc., of St. Catharines, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Graham, the marriage to take place early in September.

WOOLER CHURCH IS REDECORATED

Unique Color Scheme Harmonizes Well With Architectural Design.

GARDEN PARTY.

WOOLER, Aug. 14.—The redecoration of the United Church is completed. This large and well designed church lends itself to the magnificent interior decoration. The color scheme is unique, inasmuch as the interior is sufficient in strength of character to carry out a bold and sturdy treatment.

The scheme of color is composed of rust ivory, biscuit, and plain ivory. The centre ceiling is of ivory plate, and the upper walls and outer ceilings of rust ivory tile. The large frieze is also of rust ivory and the walls of biscuit, a trifle in the burnt cast.

Altogether this church interior is one of the finest in Ontario in its decorative character, and is among few that could be so treated. It possesses a dignity and restfulness, and a richness in the rust ivory effect produced in the tiling that is unsurpassed.

The architecture is good and the decorations so assist the architectural design that the whole is superb. It is restful, beautiful, and the general effect is wonderful.

The decorations and the color scheme are the inspiration of C. B. Scantlebury of Belleville.

The United Church of Wooler enjoys a decorative beauty and restfulniess second to none anywhere. The morning and evening services were largely attended by visitors from Toronto, Belleville, Brighton, Trenton, Frankford, Carmen, Orland, Bloomfield, Lindsay and Campbellford.

Rev. C. W. DeMille, B.A., of King Street United Church, Oshawa, delivered two very earnest and impressive sermons at these services. Rev. H. B. Neal, pastor of the church was present at the morning service. The choir gave special music, assisted by Mrs. Frank Morgan of Carmen.

One of the most successful evenings spent on the lawn of the United Church on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Tables were arranged in length of church, on the south lawn, lighted with gasoline lanterns. Here, ice cream and cake were served to a very large company.

"Wooler Band" furnished music during the time of refreshments and music in the open air always appeals to the enjoyment of the public.

At 9.30 the people were invited to the auditorium of the church for the varied programme. Rev. H. B. Neal, chairman of the evening, called on the Misses Bryant of Stockdale to favor with violin music, which is always accepted as a rare treat.

Mr. McClocklin, manager of the Standard Bank, Trenton, gave vocal numbers of the highest class, and was much appreciated.

Vocal solo—C. Rogers of Carmen.

Vocal duett.—Edith Austin and Ada Whitney.

A temperance recitation by Arthur Putnan.

Rev. S. F. Dixon, the pastor of this church twenty-three years ago when the church was dedicated, was present and gave an address very fitting to the occasion, and he and Mrs. Dixon received a hearty welcome from the members of the church.

Proceeds of the evening were over one hundred dollars.

MOCK REGATTA AT SANDY POINT

Many Events Designed To Provide Merriment at Kawartha Park.

COMMUNITY PICNIC.

Last Friday afternoon Kawartha Park store was strangely deserted. Even the arrival of the mail boat failed to attract the usual expectant crowd, for Sandy Point had lured to its shores the whole community.

The occasion was a hastily improvised community picnic and mock regatta ,and the unqualified success of the innovation bears witness to the fact that there is still plenty of initiative and organizing power along the shore. Men, women and children turned out en masse to enjoy something novel in the line of water sports. That which added much to the enjoyment of the spectators was the fact that the participants in the various events were all well known —ample demonstration of which was to be found in such lusty cheers of encouragement as "Go it, Charlie!"; "Sock 'im, Jim"; "Keep it up, Florence"; "Come on, Helen"; "Hurrah for Doris!"

A list of fifteen events—all devised to afford the maximum amusement to the spectators—was run off in fine order under the able management of Mr. Budreo, Mr. Brock Mr. Morphet, Mr. Williamson, Mr. Maurice Feigan, and Mr. Heber Rogers.

When the last race was over, the whole crowd seated themselves in close proximity to a long table under the trees, which was fairly groaning with its load of tempting viands. Sandwiches (ad infinitum), hot dogs, doughnuts, cake and pies of every variety were soon demolished by the hungry hordes, while fragrant coffee and bottles of pop helped to satisfy the thirsty ones. The ladies of the shore, under the supervision of Miss Pearl Brock were responsible for this exceedingly delightful part of the programme.

The grande finale came with the distribution of the prizes—Miss Clara Adams looking after this part of the programme. It must be confessed that these prizes varied slightly from those donated by the Juniper Island Regatta Committee, than which there are none better!) for the latter are coveted not only for the honor associated with them, but also for their intrinsic value. Nevertheless, the all day suckers and tin whistles seemed to bring joy to the hearts of the winners, and contributed much to the general merriment. Judging from the enthusiasm displayed, the community picnic bids fair to become an annual event.

Gunwale race.—1, Jimmie Ellis; 2, Maxine Rayson.

Log paddling race.—1, Jimmie Ellis; 2, Maxime Rayson.

Tug of war.—1, Florence Adams, Maxine Rayson, Jimmie Ellis.

Tub race.—1, Charlie Glover.

Multiple-Cylinder Performance with Chevrolet Economy

—that's why hundreds of thousands of owners are proclaiming today's Chevrolet the greatest achievement in Chevrolet history!

Everywhere the world over, it is sending Chevrolet popularity to new record-breaking heights. Everywhere it is recognized as the climax to twelve years of constant improvement by Chevrolet and General Motors engineers! And a single ride will tell you why.

Into the field of low-priced cars, today's Chevrolet has brought exactly the slow-speed smoothness, exactly the velvety acceleration, exactly the freedom from high-speed vibration that have been the big reasons for the buying of multiple-cylinder cars.

Imagine loafing up a hill in a loaded car —with the motor turning so easily that you are almost unconscious of its operation. You can in the smooth Chevrolet! Imagine rushing from 10 to 30 miles an hour before your watch ticks ten times —with never a semblance of straining or labor in the motor. You can in the smooth Chevrolet!

Imagine speeding at 40 or 50 miles an hour in a Coach or Sedan — and being able to talk without raising your voice above the conversational pitch. You can in the smooth Chevrolet!

And above all, imagine the satisfaction of enjoying such phenomenal qualities together with an amazing economy of operation. You do in the smooth Chevrolet! Compare abilities on any basis with any car you have ever driven. Try it in traffic—over the hills—through clinging mud and sand.

Go to your Chevrolet dealer prepared for a ride the like of which you never dreamed possible in other than a multiple-cylinder car. For that's exactly what you will discover at the wheel of the smoothest Chevrolet in Chevrolet history!

The Smoothest Chevrolet in Chevrolet history is selling at the Lowest Price for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada.

Slender Lines Find Favor

The rich designs of the bordered materials form decided trimming features in themselves. Cut to slip on over the head, and with a convertible collar that may be fastened high, this distinctive-looking frock for daytime wear is developed in bordered crêpe of graduated polka-dot pattern. A single large tuck in front of each shoulder gives easy fulness over the bust, and the long full sleeves are gathered into narrow wristbands. There are two large patch pockets, and a narrow belt is worn at the low waistline. No. 1197 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 3¼ yards 36-inch, or 3¼ yards 40-inch, or 2⅛ yards 54-inch bordered material, as pictured. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. TRUCK STRIKES BUGGY.

Prominent Farmer Painfully Injured on Outskirts of Forest.

FOREST, Aug. 14. — Robert Brandon of Warwick Township, a member of the firm of Brandon Brothers, well-known breeders of Clydesdale horses, was painfully injured in an accident late last night. He was returning home from Forest with his horse and buggy, and when at the outskirts of the town he was struck by a light auto truck driven by Arthur Steele, of Forest. Mr. Brandon was thrown out, and suffered a lengthy scalp wound, besides briuses on his face and body. He was picked up unconscious and taken to Forest. He was later removed to his home. The buggy was totally demolished.

THE MATERNAL INSTINCT

"If you wish, Joan," I continued, "I will go with you to your lawyer tomorrow morning so that if anything unexpected comes up I can tell someone all about it, or at least supplement what you have to say. In things like this you know it is well to have a witness."

"I expect," said Jerry, "as much as he will hate it, your brother will have to come out here and be present at the settlement. That will take some time you know. I am somewhat at loss to know why he has not spoken of that before."

"Perhaps he has," said Joan, as a slow blush of shame spread over her face. "There are three letters, one an airplane special at the house. But to tell the truth I was so worried about my own affairs that I did not open them. John often sends me special letters when he wants books or instruments or something done for him in the city, and I thought these letters were about some of the things that could wait until I knew what was going to happen to me. I'll go home now and read them and let you know in the morning.

"But you must know, Mr. Hathaway, that if we find things all right and if all my brother and I have to do is to sign a few old papers, I shall expect you to book Judy's and my passage on the next boat."

Jerry looked at me and appealingly. I saw his hand tremble as he tried to raise the thick white coffee cup casually to his lips. There was an expression on his face that made my heart beat a little faster. I had never seen Jerry Hathaway when he seemed so troubled.

All at once I found that there was new feeling within my soul as I watched him. I wanted to comfort him.—wanted to hold his head against my heart. I wanted to smooth his hair which had become mussed in our long ride from the city when he had been without his hat.

For the first time in my short life I felt that motherly instinct that merciful Providence had planted in the soul of every woman. Until now I had been so interested in my affairs and the exciting experiments that I had been making in every day living, that the idea had never come to me that my own way was the way of every woman. It was the fulfilling of God's great plan. It was the great thing that makes a woman something more or less divine. It was the thing that has made great painters place a halo around the head of Mary —it was the thing which makes all men at some times in their lives look upon some woman and adore.

YOUR JEWEL COLOR FLOWER

By Mildred Marshall

The agate, today's talismanic stone, brings great good fortune to those who travel on this date, protecting them from danger and assuring them of reaching a safe destination and attaining success on their errand. The ancients believed that it was especially potent in protecting its wearers from lightning.

The onyx, today's stone, protects its wearer from the ardors of unwelcome love, and endows him with coolness and poise.

Striped materials are fortunate for wear on this day, especially if green is the predominating color.

The humble forget-me-not is today's lucky flower, and is believed to bring happiness and contentment when it opens its heart to the sun on a window ledge.

GIRLS, BE DIFFERENT!

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(Associated Press). — "Try to be someone who counts and not one of a crowd," is the advice Catherine Countess of Westmorland gives to young girls.

The Countess says thoughtful persons cannot but regret the suggestion of "mass production" there is in a crowd of modern girls, all having hats and frocks which are almost identical and utterly lacking individuality. Even their talk is standardized.

"So few girls dare to be themselves," said the Countess. "They smoke and drink and dance to all hours because they want to be in the swim."

HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, but do not Compel"

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)
SATURDAY AUGUST 14 1926.

Contrary planetary influences may be strong today, according to astrology. There is an aspect stimulating and helpful as well as others read as adverse.

Under this rule there may be a sense of uncertainty and indecision. Sensitive persons may be subject to forebodings, which should not be noticed.

While this configuration prevails it is wise to seek the companionship of happy, successful persons and to shut out all thoughts that are not distinctly construction.

Care should be taken not to entertain ideas which are in any way depressing. The attitude of criticism should be avoided.

This is held to be an auspicious sway under which to seek employment. Promoters should benefit and they may be cheered by the prophesy that immense projects are to be launched successfully in this country.

Again warning is given against overfatigue and nerve strain. The rule makes for peevishness and irritability; it is not good for domestic felicity.

Military matters inevitably will come to the fore where preparedness will be discussed and peace movements will be projected.

With the autumn ingress next month the rising position of Mars gives small hope of harmony among the nations of the earth. Unrest and distrust will be widespread.

Great Britain is to meet new problems in which coal, iron, steel and oil interests will be involved.

Great storms, sudden and destructive, may be expected.

There is a sign which appears to presage acrimonious debates in the fall political campaigns. One great party will dominate in an amazing manner, it is prophesied.

Financial stimulation through new trades and new products of manufacture is foretold. The winter will bring wealth to certain business men.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a most auspicious year in which they should use all their energies in pushing their best ambitions.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly successful in all their affairs. The e have the prospect of prominence. Many public officials are born under this sign.

SUNDAY AUGUST 15 1926.

According to astrology this is not a fortunate day in planetary direction and for that reason it will be wise to rest and to go to church.

The Moon is in a sign making for uncertainty and discontent. It is well not to encourage any analytical line of thought.

While the configuration prevails, the objective rather than the subjective point of view is to be cultivated.

It is well to delay letter-writing as there may be a tendency to indulge fault-finding moods. Love missives should not be penned in this adverse rule.

The wise will ask no favors today and they will avoid relatives who expect to remember them in legacies.

Persons who have attained to conspicuous positions will now be targets for severe criticism. Even those in highest offices may not escape unfavorable comment.

There is a sign indicating increase of divorces, rather than falling off in the number of marriages that are failures, but a reaction of sentiment is to be apparent in the public mind which will be less tolerant of modern customs permitting many weddings.

Rumors of international misunderstandings and financial misapprehensions may now be of sinister character, the seers foretell.

Once more the people will turn to the churches, it is prophesied. Old faiths will be defended and new dissensions precipitated, it is prognosticated.

The ministry is to become more popular as a calling for talented young men, and their financial rewards are to be more generous, if the stars are wisely interpreted.

It has been long foretold that many new teachers of religious cults will come in the autumn and there will be intense interest in spiritual ideals of life.

This is not a lucky day to make plans and all who talk politicss will be wasting their time.

Women probably will be quiescent until after the autumn ingress when they will push many reform movements.

Persons whose birthdate it is may meet exciting experiences in the coming year. They should safeguard all their possessions, including legal papers.

Children born on this day may be intense in nature and exceedingly ly difficult to control. They probably will be exceedingly talented and individual.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By Mildred Marshall.)

Facts about your name, its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day, and lucky jewel.

INEZ

(The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

Inez has a saintly origin, since it is derived from the Greek word 'agnos' meaning 'sacred, pure,' and comes into usage through the Latin word for lamb, which is 'agnus.' The lamb was the symbol of the Roman maiden whose place of martyrdom named the Church of St. Agnese. Pilgrimages are made there, and it is said that the gentle saint has appeared to supplicants in human guise, with a lamb of purest whiteness by her side. Each year two lambs are brought to the Pope and blessed in the Church of St. Agnese; then they are shorn, and the wool is spun and woven by the nuns into palls presented by the Pope to each primate.

Agnes, or Agnese, is in popular usage as a proper name in England, France Germany. Portugal is responsible for Inez. Soft as Agnese, it did not please the Portuguese, who changed it first to Ines, indicating the liquid sound of 'gn' by the cedilla. Later it became Inez, and named the ill-fated Ines de Castro, whose doom made it famous above all Portuguese feminine names.

Ines and Inez flourished for centuries there before they were brought to England, and, without being anglicized, were used as British names unreservedly. The diminutive which the Portuguese had evolved, Inesila, was left in its native land as being too Latin for English adoption. Italy, too, rejected it, preferring Agnese, but also adding its own Agnete and Agnesca.

Thomas Hood wrote a charming lyric to "Fair Ines":

"Oh saw ye not fair Ines?
She's gone into the West,
To dazzle when the sun is down,
And rob the world of rest;
She took our daylight with her,
The smiles that we love best,
With morning blushes on her cheek,
And pearls upon her breast."

Chrysolite is Inez' talismanic stone, "the chrysolite of sunrise," wrote Shelley. If worn upon the left arm and set in gold, it will drive away all evil, and protect its wearer from contagion.

PRICE TREND IS DOWNWARD

All Countries Having Stable Currency Show Decrease During Year.

OTHERS GO UP.

The end of June British wholesale price index number is stated by the British Information Service of the Bankers Trust Company of New York to have been the lowest with one exception since January, 1916. An examination of the index numbers forco untries whose currencies are now on a stable basis shows that this trend is common to all of these countries; for example, in March, 1915, just before Great Britain resumed specie payments in modified form, the price index number was 164.8; at the end of June, 1926, 146.9. Bradstreet's number for the United States at the same dates was 148.6 in 1925, 138.3 in 1926. At the same dates in 1925, the Canadian Bureau of Statistics reported 161.6 and for the month of May, 1926, 157. The same trend is noticeable in the following countries: Switzerland 166-145; Germany, 142-134.9; Sweden, 163-143; Norway, 276-196; Denmark, 220-141; Holland, 155-143; Shanghai China, 160.3-155.8 and in India 168-150. On the other hand, the countries whose currencies have not been stabilized show substantial increases; France 524-754; Italy 659-708.

WOMEN HOLD LEGION CROSS.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—(Associated Press). — Four women now have been decorated with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, the highest rank of that order. They are all Queens:

Queen of the Belgians, decorated in 1918.

Queen of the Rumanians, in 1919.

Empress of Ethiopia, in 1920.

Queen of Spain, in 1926.

No French woman holds this rank in their national order. The lowest rank in the Legion is that of Knights, then come Officers, Commanders, Grand Officers and finally the Grand Cross. The President of the Republic is "Grand Master."

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE FLYING SHIP—II — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

Girl with Whom Every Man Flirts---THE NURSE

Every man flirts! Not "outrageously," perhaps; not on the street corners, maybe; not as a deliberate life profession in all cases; but every man flirts. If you don't believe it, ask the girls in positions where a modicum of flirtation has become an institutional sort of phenomenon no less taken for granted than grape fruit or toast at the breakfast table. They'll tell you that every man flirts.

Occasionally it's only an innocuous little twinkle in the eye that betrays him. But down in his heart he is flirting. And then the gamut runs on up to such flirtations as occasionally land the flirtees in the police court.

Getting-well men flirt with the nurse—but naturally! It is her smiles that often make him well. In fact, it's a sign that he is getting well, when he begins to flirt, and her twinkling eyes buck him up.

Who wouldn't be sick—when getting well is so pleasant? And Nurse knows it. Oh, yes, she knows it. When Mr. Man turns the corner and it's time for him to "sit up and take notice'—just watch Nurse! She'll make him snap out of it!

One of the peculiar things about nurses is their expecting a man's pulse to remain normal while they hold hands. Nurse's hand is so cool, her finger tips so firm and elusive—but still when the little old chart shows a pulse count of 86 instead of the 76, or 74, or whatever it is that is considered normal, the nurse will never be blamed.

"Lucky dog," says the man visiting his pal who is sick—and if he half appreciates his good fortune he will agree that it's not so bad to be sick.

An Independence Story

By RUBY DOUGLAS

"I know—I suppose I should be thankful but, somehow, it seems like such an unromantic place for an aesthetic dancing class—above the fire house!"

Dora Beecher was nearly in tears. Her sister, practical, prosaic, un-imaginative looked at her with blank expression of disapproval.

"What does it matter WHERE you teach—so long as you have the pupils?" she asked.

Dora shook her head in double despondency; one for the recurrent thought of the cold, bare room over the local fire department, the other for her sister's utter lack of understanding.

To try to make Bella appreciate how much of herself she put into this work, how much environment meant, how essential beauty would be—well, it would be like teaching Bella to dance.

She had managed her little dancers for the first few weeks in the big family parlor, as they still called it, but now that the group had grown too large she had been forced to seek a hall wherein to meet her classes.

The room over the volunteer fire department on a village side street was the only available place. And she had engaged it this afternoon. There seemed to be two or three smaller rooms in the back of the same floor because, on the door leading up the narrow wooden steps was a printed sign which said, "Justice of the Peace."

"I suppose the place is all right," she admitted to herself as she climbed the steps to wait for her class. "But, somehow, I have always dreamed of teaching in a lovely setting. This may be very satisfactory for a drab lawyer whose ambition is to be a Justice of the Peace but——"

"How do you do, Miss Beecher," sang out the musical voice of the young woman who played the piano for the classes. "Isn't this a lovely cheerful room for the kiddies?"

Dora smiled. "Why—yes," she said. "It does seem light and airy."

Presently, on tip-toe as kiddies do when they are in a foreign environment, the little ones began to arrive, slipper bags on their arms, faces obviously newly washed, best frocks and party manners in much evidence. They were nearly all girls but a stray boy popped his shy head in now and then and was urged to enter by Dora who greeted them all as if she held real love in her heart for them. And, indeed, she did. Love, beauty, rhythm, harmony—this was what life meant to Dora.

At three o'clock the piano sounded forth in the strains of the march Dora had taught the children was the signal for class work to begin. They took little mates and tiptoed about together in their soft black ballet slippers until the teacher felt that they were in a mood to begin.

From marching the little ones were taken through graceful arm movements, into simple steps, simulations of capturing butterflies, dancing about as scampering leaves, all the pretty ideas that could be translated into dancing.

Rosy rays from the early-setting winter sun shone through the west windows and gave a glow of warmth and beauty to the room. Dora began to wonder, even in the midst of her teaching, how she had imagined the room to be unattractive. It was lovely and the children were adorable.

She was standing before her little class, dressed as always for teaching, in a rhythm gown of palest pink crepe, her cheeks glowing many shades deeper, her hair in ringlets about her forehead. The sunset fell on her.

Donald Burns, Justice of the Peace, happened to pass the open door. He stood, enchanted. He, too, in days gone by, had deplored his fate at having to take an office in so unattractive a building as the fire house. He, too, had ambitions, ideals, but—his everyday job in the village was a means to their attainment. Now, as he openly evesdropped, if looking and listening are so described, he felt as if it were the most wonderful place in the world.

Dora looked up and caught his eye. She smiled, and he stood until the lesson was over.

His lawyer's mind was working quickly. He must find an excuse for lingering. He had no children to enter in the class. He was not married. His sister—— Ah——

Dora went up to him.

"I was wondering whether you would have room for a little girl, perhaps?" he said, somewhat embarrassed.

"Why, certainly. Bring her in next Thursday, by all means," said Dora. "How old is she?"

Donald was more embarrassed than ever. "I—I don't know exactly but she's about as big as these children," he explained.

Dora thought it was a funny man that did not know the age of his little girl.

All that week she thought of the new pupil she was to have and of the wonderful good fortune that had brought her to so attractive a hall for her class. That is, Dora thought of the man whose office adjoined her class-room. Something had told her the child he spoke of was not his own.

It was many Thursdays afterwards that the Justice of the Peace, Judge Burns, they called him, and Dora Beecher, the dancing teacher, lingered in the class-room to tell each other the old, old story of love.

Even a volunteer fire department building may be romantic.

WOMEN'S INDEPENDENCE NUMBER

Equal or Imitating? Which? : By Wilson Craw

One of the results of the great war is that women have taken upon themselves a new roll in the life of the community, in the life of the state, in sport, church, other professions and developments that was never dreamed of in 1914. During the war women were forced into positions which were onerous and something entirely new to what they have been used to and it can be safely said that they came through in the pinch. These duties developed in them a certain independence which they never would have had if there had been plenty of men available. Today the question in applying for a position of whether you are a man or woman does not enter into consideration; it is, can he or she fill the position in the best interests of the employer?

They have taken a position in secretarial work which a man will find very difficult to fill. The confidential secretaries of the cabinet ministers are in the most cases women and these have become so familiar with the work of the department that men may come and go with the change in governments but these women go on indefinitely. In placing a woman in such a position the minister has to trust her with some of the greatest secrets of the state. They have had to attend strictly to business and could not communicate any private information; so the old theory of the quick way of spreading news, telephone, telegram and tell-a-woman has been exploded right here, for they would not be holding those positions of trust if they had in any sense of the term broken faith.

Women have forged ahead in the line of sport in the past few years. Gertrude Ederle, the swimming star, accomplished a feat the other day that few men have been able to do, that of swimming the English Channel. University girls these last two or three years have been taking part in the most strenuous of all games, that of playing rugby. Skating records are held today by Canadian ladies and they have been taking part with the men in one of the hardest tests of endurance, that of mountain climbing. Right at home in our city we have the best example of women's accomplishments in the line of sport. The C.G.E. ladies softball team are able to hold their own with any of the men's teams in the city and why just today the girls' teams have become so slow to them that they are taking on the Kiwanians in a fixture. When the Southern California Yachting Association holds its annual regatta this summer one of the yachts which is going to participate will be manned by a crew of women.

Women were put on an equal footing with men in our municipal affairs when they were given the franchise and to prove themselves equal to the occasion we find them occupying positions on the board of education, on municipal councils, seats in the legislatures and federal house and down in the State of Texas "Ma" Ferguson is in the Governor's chair. Having women in these positions along with the men has added a smooth touch to the debates and surroundings which was sadly lacking before and everything on a whole runs much more smoothly when one of the feminine sex occupies a chair, for a man will not or very seldom does demonstrate his "bourgeois" nature when a woman is present.

In the professional life women have been somewhat tardy but today we have women doctors, lawyers and preachers but not in so great a number comparatively speaking as in the other sphere of life. It used to be thought that a woman was somewhat hardened when she entered upon a medical course but today they are entertaining by the hundreds. Very few denominations will ordain a woman to be a minister but the day is fast approaching when they are going to demand to be treated alike with men in this line of service; for they are occupying the pulpits in the large churches on Sunday now.

Politically, women have not been a success in Canada for they lack the smooth and polished finish that denotes a politician. It is "yes" or "no" with them but a politician will never put you off with a poor answer. In the financial world the women's accomplishments have been small, some have made money but the great majority who have tackled big problems have not had the best of success; perhaps this is the result of the man holding the purse strings too long. Women are advancing very slowly in the industrial sphere simply because they lack the desire to take up such a line of life. In scanning over the various spheres in which the men are found in life it will be very difficult to find one that there is not some woman able to fill it just as capably. Perhaps the only one is soldiering and lately women are known to become pretty good sharpshooters.

With women gaining these advancements, if we might call them that, they have lost a great deal of their femininity and have taken on that coarser nature and appearance of the man. Instead of occupying an equal footing with men just as they were created they have tried and are trying more every day, to act like men, dress like them, do as they do, and imitate them to the farthest possible degree. The bobs are becoming more mannish every day, they dress the same. Some smoke, others drink, and they they wonder why men are so set up about themselves.

Perhaps the answer for all these unfeminine like ways is though fairly successful at their jobs they long for a home of their own and the question to them is how can they get one. They have tried to act natural and failed to so now they try powdering, rouging, wearing short skirts to cause attraction, dancing the Charleston, smoking and drinking and such like. These things are helping them to have a good time but soon the flower will fade and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred they are as far from having a home of their own as before.

Independent Of What? Styles? Amusements?

By Jeannette

"Gentle Jane was as good as gold. She always did as she was told. So when she grew up she was given in marriage to a first-class earl who kept his carriage."

The young lady referred to, the heroine of the "Chronicles of Gentle Jane," who also was spoken of as an outstanding example of table etiquette, because "she never spoke when her mouth was full," lived a long time ago, quite a long while back, in fact, some three-quarters of a century have elapsed since she flourished in all her glory. She was the type of young lady who subscribed religiously, in her dress, to the ancient belief that a woman grew on a pedestal, and she would have had an attack of the fashionable "megrims" of the period if anyone had mentioned "legs" in her presence. She wore tooth-oil ringlets and a corset that compressed her natural twenty-four inches of waistline into a fashionabe compass "that could be spanned by a man's hand." She wrote a modish back-hand stroke of Italian origin, painted a little in oils on velvet and worked "samplers" that asked the Lord in uneven stitches to bless the home, and she "adored" Elizabeth Barrett Browning's poems. Her reward for this behavior, as you see, was a fine one. She had an earl for a husband, not a second-class earl, by any means, but a nobleman of the first water, and she went out of existence with the carriage that formed one of his charming possessions.

She hasn't any modern prototype at all. Even the most backward of the females that exist at the present time couldn't be called 'gentle.' That isn't an adjective that applies to the lady, be she young or old, of 1926. A woman may be "old-fashioned," or a "prune," or a "Dumb Dora," or a "flapper," but you will never hear her referred to as "gentle."

The famous Wilsonian phrase of "self-determination" caught the fancy of womankind the world over, as well as ticking the minds of various small nations who have been kicking vigorously ever since at the bonds that yoke them to larger governing powers. So when the lady decided on "self-determination," she went the whole hog, as one might say. She didn't make any mental reservations at all. She smashed windows and burnt buildings and orated on public platforms until she got the vote, she ignored the feeble bleatings of the masculine population against the desecration of her "crowning glory" and ruthlessly scissored her hair, she dressed herself like a man and went to war with a bayonet on the end of her gun, she proved her pre-eminence on the field of many sports, she disregarded the dictates of modesty and what used to be thought natural feminine reserve, in the days when it was in fashion, and exposed her knock knees to a gaping world, she went in wholeheartedly for "petting" parties and high-balls and cigarettes. And now she is just a little tired of it all. Yes, sir, the beckoning Finger of Change, the arbiter of woman's destiny the world over, is appearing faintly on the horizon. She has tried everything and now she is ready to step back on the pedestal. She is just beginning to reform her dress in the matter of stocking'd and high-necked bathing suits, she is starting to lift an eyebrow over the escapades of gorgeous parties. She is beginning to reform. One of the signs is the return of the glove to favor.

All of which hasn't much to do with the picture, in a way. But amusements show the trend of the mind, it is said. "By a man's recreation shall you know him." And the same applies to the female of the species.

Anyway, the 'Cross Word Puzzle' and "Mah Johng" and the "Charleston" can't be considered exclusively feminine forms of indoor sport. The masculine mind became ensnared with their intricacies fully as much as the mind of his lady. The first two incentives to mental effort, as you can see, are pretty well done for. They have evidently received an official count of ten from the referee and have received a K.O. from the hands of the fair lady, who is already turning her attention from the weak-looking Charleston gentleman. And it's just about time. We walked down the street recently behind a pair of legs that are adepts at the Charleston, and the poor things wobbled curiously as they made their way along. There was an insecure wriggle to the ankles that was strongly reminiscent of recent ball-room triumphs in the Charleston line.

The Cross Word Puzzleitis craze never hit the lady very hard, anyway. She may have found out what the "great auk" was, after thinking for years that it had something to do with a mountain range, and she may have rejoiced in the knowledge, acquired by way of filling up adjacent spaces until only two sections remained untenanted, that "H. O." was a portion of the chemical formula for water, but she didn't evince any more interest in this valuable information, or as much, perhaps, as in the knowledge that a "cake eater" was the latest fashionable term for an impecunious and unwanted young man.

Then Mah Johng also had a short tenure of favor. Beloved of Orientals, those placid gentlemen who think nothing of sitting for long hours staring into space, whose background of Confucian calm leads them to the belief, entirely at variance with Occidental tradition and training, that nothing really matters, its convolutions and unwindings are foreign to the quick-thinking Western intelligence. Who cares about "east" and "west" winds, anyway, except as they are connected with the balminess or otherwise of the atmosphere in which one moves?

As for the Charleston, it has never really conquered its antecedents. Under the belief that it might have better recognition in another guise, its proponents re-christened it several times, but the vagueness of the color line that has its full flowering in the "Jim Crow" districts south of the Mason and Dixon line still gives a flavor to this product of black and tan dance halls.

What next? That is the attitude of the lady whose gaze seeks in far fields for something new to interest and amuse her. She still wears short skirts and unconfining clothes, so exercise of a severe physical type has no terrors for her. Her mentality has not fully recovered from the onslaught of cocktails and "Fatimas" and all-night parties, so it can't be anything too fervidly mental in character. She has tried nearly everything up to date and has become a trifle jaded in consequence, so the logical amusement of the near future will have to be a cross between a mild form of physical exercise and an equally unexacting type of mental endeavor. Why don't the ladies take up the conquest of the billiard table, for example? An entirely new costume, for costumes must always be considered in connection with any sport or amusement, might be evolved, and color effects could be considered with regard to the tints of the balls and the implements used. We would have "billiard ball" patterns in materials, just the same as we had "cross word puzzle" designs and Chinese characters in gowns during the Mah Johng craze. It would also carry with it the masculine companionship which is such an essential to enjoyment, and, above all, it would see the conquering by the lady of one of the last masculine outposts. She is still, in a way, with pool and billiard parlors untenanted by the fair sex, somewhat in the position of Alexander, seeking "new worlds to conquer." She has not yet tracked an unwary billiard ball to its proper pocket nor made her mark with a misplaced cue, on the green top of a pool table. She is not yet "sitting on the top of the world." She is still trailing along in second place. It is a pity.

Independent---But Eternally Femine

By James Turnbull

Much has been said and written about the independence of the modern woman and her passion for the things designated by custom to the realm of the male, but it is questionable indeed if the subject will ever attain the stage when further discussion will seem unnecessary. One day a prominent author or thinker comes forward with a treatise that he fondly imagines will dispose of the subject for good, and before the ink has had time to dry, some new angle will make its appearance, and presto! the burning question is opened up again.

This talk of women's independence to a sophisticated male is, in the parlance of the street, simply "applesauce." In fact, this much vaunted question of independence has become a regular nightmare, for no matter where a person goes, what he says, or what he does at some stage of the game, along will come a specimen of the 20th century woman who fondly imagines that she was destined for the great task to which she has pledged herself, viz., the equalization of the sexes.

As a result, today women have made their entry into practically every phase of the business world. We hear of them in Wall street engaged in managing brokerage houses, owning and managing a line of steamboats—in fact, within the last few days we have seen that the first woman landscape gardner has made her appearance. They proved their worth as munition makers during the war, and it has to be admitted that in most cases where they have invaded the territory formerly dominated by man alone they have made good.

The suffragettes of the past, who in order that women might have the franchise, created scenes that eventually landed them in jail, and when they attracted the attention of the world to their cause by their hunger strikes, finally won out, and on election day their presence at the voting booth is not only welcomed but is an object lesson to the high and mighty male, who does not take the trouble to avail himself of the opportunity of declaring himself as good as the next man. Anyone who has attended a political meeting knows what cajolery is resorted to in order that the woman may be influenced to register her vote in favor of a candidate. Aspiring politicians these days do well to include in their tirades again the opposition some idealistic talk about the homes of the nation and the women who manage them, better conditions for the children; some have even been known to speak ardently upon the merits of the much discussed subject of prohibition, when at a glance, even to a casual observer, their looks have belied them.

In the field of sport also has woman demonstrated her independence; just the other day a woman accomplished the mighty feat of swimming the English Channel, an achievement that hitherto has been beyond the hopes of most men.

In many more fields the prowess of women has become an established fact, and every day brings a fresh example of some new achievement or some new pinnacle that has been beset and won by a woman, but in spite of these omens of the increasing number of women who are by their actions notifying the world of their supremacy in almost any line they seem to take up, the question of their independence still provides fuel for argument. Why is this? Is it simply because the men are jealous and refuse to admit that women have proved their equals, or is it because a woman, no matter to what heights she may aspire, or what she may accomplished, is, after all, a woman.

On the platform, on the street, by her actions, a woman may signify to the entire world that she has come to a realization of her place in the sun, but behind it all —and this is what provides the spice—she is still the comfort-loving creature of former days. While she may claim the rights of man to do what she pleases in whatever manner she wants, she still claims the right to be a woman. She expects a man to forgo his privilege of remaining seated on a crowded street car, and usually smiles a sweet acceptance when an embarrassed male proffers his seat. In this connection, who has not noticed the antics of the man who declares to all and sundry that "he'll be darned if he will give his seat to a woman" when a gorgeously arrayed and snappy looking product of the present-day plants herself in front of him. The man for once does not wish to be the centre of attraction; evincing a sudden interest in the columns of his newspaper, he spreads it out in such a manner that he is effectually protected from the appealing glances that come his way. Observing him closely, however, he is ill at ease, and if the journey is of any length, one finds that a woman has for once won a silent battle.

The same woman who can propel a canoe in a fashion that excites the admiration of a man to such an extent that he wishes he could follow her example when she comes to shore is just an ordinary everyday girl depending (as it were) for his assistance. He rushes forward, tells her the boat is too heavy, and almost breaks his neck in an effort to be of assistance. The same girl who will dance every dance on a programme and seem sorry when it is over will on some other occasion plead tiredness if asked to walk a distance half the length she has danced.

The capable woman business executive who perhaps in the course of a single day handles business involving thousands of dollars, or who efficiently manages an office staff consisting mainly of men, asserting her opinion on every matter that comes up for settlement, is usually considered to be the same behind the scenes, but is it really so? We have made exhaustive enquiries in this connection and have been forced to the conclusion that irrespective of what occupation or profession a woman may follow she is in the long run a woman susceptible to the flattery and attentions of the man.

Some women, indeed, in a vain effort to declare their independence, adopt the garb of the man (whether they consider it superior or not is not known), cut their hair, indulge in various habits that formerly were the privilege of man, and generally ape his conduct in places where the eye of the public is upon them, and what is the result? They undoubtedly bring forth considerable comment from the other women who see them; admiring or otherwise glances from the men with whom they associate, but in the main they only subject themselves to ridicule as the new role they have adopted does not conform to the standards set by the world at large for their behavior. There is no doubt in the minds of many that the women who claim this independence are making a great mistake. If they only realized it they would discover that instead of gaining ground they are in reality losing in the long run. Despite their declarations that they are independent of man for his help, where, oh where, is the woman who when a tiny mouse approaches will face it? Only an hour ago she may have asserted herself in the way of the new inspired female, but in a moment she is again the woman we used to know—the weaker sex, to be protected at all costs from whatever trouble may cross her path. In view of the fact that no matter what is said on the subject, there is still room for further discussion and the whole question can be summed up in "Only the styles have changed!"

IS SHE : : : : : : By J. Beauclerc

A young lady rolls her stockings. Is it because she is independent and doesn't care whether other people approve or not? No, of course not. It's because she is so dependent on style that she does what is in style whether it suits her or other people or not.

Being plump, she rolls and diets. Independent? No, thin girls are stylish. If she were independent and didn't give a hoot whether she was pleasing to look at, she would eat the things she liked and would never bother with all her exercises and apparatus.

It is whispered, "Gentlemen prefer blondes." Does she say, "I'm going to stay as I am. I can't be bothered changing my appearance to suit a man."? Not she. Peroxide and henna find their places on the dressing tables of many, and good looking natural brunettes become artificial looking blondes.

The story is told of the lady who gave her new hat to the cook because she saw another one like it. That might be interpreted as being evidence of a desire to be independent and different, but would that same lady wear a large picture hat if fashion decreed a toque. Yet if she did that she would be sure to be different.

All this talk of independence is so much eye-wash. Who is independent? Some would say that the person who is pert, with a do-as-I-please air, is independent, but it is as much a pose for getting ones own way as the flattery and cajolery of another. The man or woman who runs a business is said to be independent, but depends on the customers and must cater to their wants. The possessor of an "independent income" depends on his banker or on the firm in which his money is invested.

Perhaps Robinson Crusoe was independent, and the hermits of ancient days who lived in caves. The family, in cave man days, was an independent body, but its members depended one on another. As civilization developed men and women became more dependent on each other, first in the same nation, and gradually with all the world. The United States has its Declaration of Independence. Independent—permitted to govern itself, yes. Independent—able to get along without having anything to do with other people, no.

The Amazons are the earliest examples of the striving of women to escape their dependence on men. They sent all their male children to the neighboring races and trained the girls to fight and to govern the country. Men were not wanted. Their race has disappeared and historians argue as to the truth of the Greek story, as well they may.

The olden times—the good old days, sighs a hen-pecked husband—when a man kept his wife in subjection, after he had dragged her by her hair from her father's home, by means of a club, have gone Does the practice of bobbing signify that women fear their return and wish to give prospective husbands no hand hold? Women no longer obey their parents in the matter of choosing a husband. They don't wait on him hand and foot when they get one of their own choosing. They go to business and compete with men on equal terms. They vote and enter Parliament. That is the end of their independence.

Fashion is the ruler in the lives of most women, and, barring occasional oddities, fashion is mainly concerned with making women attractive to look at. What for? To please other women? Nothing doing. To beat out the other woman in the greatest hunt of all, the man hunt. They study out their particular abilities and the likes and dislikes of the lordly male who is the immediate object of pursuit. One lady is of the clinging vine type. Another is out to beat Lenglen and Ederle. A third discusses erudite times with the ability of a college president. Some are all things to all men and seek to have several on a string, slaves to their slightest whims. Whatever is the particular talent, milady develops it and uses it to the utmost, proclaiming loudly at the same time her utter independence of men and her desire to make the male members of the population more dependent than woman ever was.

From the time the small boy turns handsprings or makes faces for the entertainment of the favored one, until all ambition is gone, the most important end of life, it would seem, is the pleasing of the opposite sex, and the most boastful clamor of independence, whether man or woman, is keenly alive to the impression given one or all. To some, the opinion of the general public is of little concern as long as "the only one" is pleased. To others there is no single person to please but the desire to make a good impression is the basis of much of the effort in the world, whether that effort be commercial, military, athletic, or aesthetic.

HOW NOW, SPENCER.

At a recent period in the annals of the human family there existed a diminutive feminine specimen of humanity, whose most conspicuous personal decoration was a capillary spiral appendage of minute dimensions. This descended exactly in the median area of her alabaster brow.

At intervals when she was amiably disposed, she produced upon all beholders the impression of being excessively agreeable; but when she abandoned herself to the natural inclinations of an unregenerate spirit, she exhibited such symptoms of depravity, that her deportment became positively execrable.

A volume about the size of the Chicago directory was carried in. Solomon turned the pages by the handfuls until there were no more to be turned, and still there were no unfilled pages. A frown appeared upon his face. He closed the book and gazed at the lettering on its back.

"We will have to have more system around here," he thundered, glaring at the secretary. "This is last year's edition."

Does The Women Ever Pay : By W. Edgar

It all depends on the point of view. Stories with subtle, intricate plots that take the reader through a maze of dialogue (mostly feminine) and plot covering the whole gamut of human life, dramas voluptuos in setting and thrilling in action, and even movies full of life and color, discussing the problems through chapters, acts and reels arrive inexporably at an affirmative answer to the question that refuses to be shelved.

Only the other day just outside the Examiner office a group of practical philosophers debating the question, "Does woman ever pay?" came to the unchivalrous ecnclusion, "Never if she can get away with it."

The whirligig of time has brought about many far-reaching changes in the status of woman. Historians tell us that once upon a time (that is how all fairy tales begin) woman was a chattel, a creature without rights or privileges, subject to the wishes and commands of her lord and master. Not a few "warweary" husbands of modern days have been heard bitterly to assert that such a period never existed or that if it did the fact was merely another proof that men had deteriorated in the process of being civilized. They are equally incredulous of the theory that at one time mankind did his wooing with a club and bestowed kicks and cuffs in lieu of caresses on the partner of his dwelling house under the ledge of the granite rocks of aeons ago. At any rate whether her assent has been from the bottom floor or from two or three stories up, whether slow or sudden, there is no doubt whatever of the fact that she has climbed into the seats of the mighty, and in many cases bosses the show much more efficaciusly than did mere man.

In fact she has in many cases beaten him at his own game,—and not only in modern times. It is now a far cry back to the days of "Good Queen Bess," who wore her crown and wielded her sceptre with all the assurance of the two-fisted, hard-fighting, hard-drinking members of her family who occupied the throne in the troublous days before her. There is no doubt that the imperious lady ultra—feminine as she was in many respect, made her courtiers step lively if they were going to keep their jobs or indeed their heads on their shoulders. This same Queen Bess was a notoriously bad payer. It is on record that her parsiomony was such that Walsingham, her greatest minister, whose genius thwarted the plots of enemies at home and abroad, received little recompense for his years of service and died so poor that he had to be buried at night to save the expense of the elaborate funeral rites usually accorded to the nobility of his day.

The cry for equal rights has brought with it its own peculiar and perplexing problems. Women are in every job—you can't keep them out. Away in the wildest and most inaccessible mountains in the interior of Greece there is a number of monasteries of the Greek Church inhabited by hermit monks who have vowed hatred to women. For upwards of 1,000 years woman had been forbidden to enter the precincts of the monasteries. Even female birds and animals have not been allowed to live in the neighborhood of the retreats. But recently two American girls managed to evade the ban by disguising themselves as porters attached to a party of male tourists who had been granted permission to visit the monasteries.

But one does not need to go to Greece to find outstanding examples of women invading realms hitherto restricted to men. In our own day we have seen the advent of women into the office of Governor of some of the States in the Union. Down in Texas "Jim" Ferguson was Governor of Texas and from all accounts made a bad fizzle of the job. Anyway he got kicked out without much ceremony and did not even get any recommendation for another job. Things looked pretty bad for the Ferguson family when "Ma" Ferguson announced herself as a candidate for the job on which "Jim" had fallen down with such a great crash. 'Ma' may not have scattered largesse about with a very liberal hand but she sure was lavish with the pardons, and many a jail bird had reason to bless the day when Miriam A. got into office.

Most folks have wondered how Mrs. Ferguson ever got into office, especially in Texas with its traditions of "bad men," fights with Mexicans, rebellions against the Government and all these things that are so essentially masculine, but a very plausible reason is that the woman Governor was elected by the votes of women—and men who were bossed by their wives. The woman Governor is a comparatively recent phenomenon but the woman political boss is an institution not at all modern. So when the mistress of the house remarked quite casually, but in a tone that no husband ever misunderstands and never dares to disobey. "Of course you are voting for Mrs. Ferguson, I expect!" husband meekly replied that he guessed so—and Mrs. Ferguson was duly elected. It might be difficult to say who paid the election expenses, but it is fairly certain that Ma didn't.

Lady governors are perhaps the outstanding examples of woman's assertion of equal rights, but there are others that arouse similar misgivings among the unchivalrous males. But there. The barber shop, once sacrosanct to the man, is now thronged by the ladies whose presence takes away that vague indefinable atmosphere of tobacco smoke, sporting gossip and political discussion long associated with a shop beloved of the male, to say nothing of causing long, exasperating delays and boosting up the price of a haircut, making that one time necessity a luxury only to be indulged in at rare intervals.

However, we must be fair and make this confession. We have never once heard of a man inviting a woman into a barber's shop and having to pay for the tonsorial operations that followed. Here, truly, "the woman pays."

But—go into a restaurant with one of them (they have quit dieting now) and you will most assuredly find that the old-time custom here prevails—and the woman does not pay. And nobody is more pleased at the fact than that insignificant creature, the mere man.

"And why, Roderick, did you kiss that little Eyetalian girl?"

"You said, Papa, I should never let a Dago by without I learned something new."

The Perfect Vacation : : By Sir Philips Gibbs

With the glory of summer weather the thought of holidays is haunting most minds between their spells of work in city offices and shops, and other places of daily drudgery.

The gaily colored posters on the station walls, calling to all the beauty spots of the world, have an irresistible lure. For there is a fortnight's liberty for most lucky folk. What will they do with it? Where and how can they attain that perfect holiday which is in every man and woman's dreams—just for once in a lifetime?

It is not a matter of geography, as long as one can leaves the streets behind, and, more important still, the nagging cares, the fretfulness, the nerve strain of modern life.

I have seen many good places in the world famous for beauty, too far away for a fortnight's holiday—the Californian coast, like an enchanted shore as one comes to it across snow-capped mountains; the Riviera in early spring, with a blue sky above and a blue sea below, and orange groves heavy with golden fruit on the hillsides; the islands of the Mediterranean; the glory of the Golden Horn, with the minarets of Constantinople and black, spear-pointed cypresses above, palaces, mosques, and the gardens of Stamboul.

But one need not go there for the perfect holiday. There are places much nearer home, not three hours' journey away, where that ideal may be fulfilled.

For what does one want for the perfect holiday? Nothing more in most of our hearts—than the open sky, a stretch of sand and sea, a countryside unspoiled by rows of mean dwellings, some winding lanes, a chance of loneliness, silence, liberty, a little sunshine, a sense of peace, an awareness of body and soul in harmony with nature, and a friend or two to share one's satisfaction.

The greatest of these is liberty, for that is the secret of all holiday-making.

We want to get away for a little whil from the rountine and discipline of life. Not to catch that mornin train, not to put on the same clothes, not to be bound down by the conventions and customs of our ordinary programme that is a sense of liberation which is necessary to the holiday spirit.

To take off one's clothes for a sea dip is a symbolical act. It is the return to nature from too much civilization which swathes our minds as well as our bodies in a thousand restraints.

Away with hard collars, black boots, tailor-pressed suits, this mummery of unnatural manhood! Let us lie for once in no more than a bathing suit, feeling the warm sand trickling through our fingers, and the sun and wind on our skins.

Let us have the taste of salt on our lips, and listen to little waves breaking, and stare away to a far horizon. Let us get back to primitive emotions — hunger, physical weariness after hard exercise, the lazy joy of sleep when the sun is warm upon our bodies.

There are people who go to smart hotels for their holidays, play golf in plus fours, read the morning papers on the terrace, dance a little after dinner to a jazz band, put on prety frocks, make new friends who talk the same old things, go to concerts, over-eat themselves, have a "gay" time in a highly civilized way.

Well, if they like it, that is all right. But it is not the perfect holiday. The ideal is only to be found in more simple ways.

It is better to cook one's own food than find it ready made. It is better to walk than to motor. It is best when one cuts out civilization altogether and live for a fortnight or more away from the crowd, out of touch with news, in something like the savage state, for long days which merge into night, when stars come out and little things stir in quiet woods, and the sea is like quicksilver under the moon.

Something like the savage state is good, yet not complete savagery. For it is highly doubtful whether primitive man or woman was really conscious of beauty, or loved nature, which is cruel when one has to fight it, or had any pleasure in thoughtfulness.

For the perfect holiday one must be very sensitive to one's surroundings, so as to draw the best out of them, and absorb their enchantment. One must love colour, so that sky and sea and long stretches of tawny sand, and the sunset-crimsoning of distant woods, and the glory of purple heather on the moor, and the flame-tipped feathers of great wings above the sinking sun may give one a sense of ecstasy.

And to love nature like that, to steal the secret of its beauty, one cannot come to a holiday with a blank mind. One must bring something beside the change of linen in one's kit bag. One should bring a little knowledge of the poets, so that old lines of melody run through one's mind as one walks. One should know something of books in which these things have been revealed. One must come to the perfect holiday with some spiritual treasure of one's own, some faith in the meaning of life itself, some sense of worship.

A holiday is a test of character, and the perfect holiday can only be attained by men or women who have something fine in themselves —a touch of poetry, the artist's eye, a little secret philosophy of their own, a spirit of adventure, a gift of comradeship, and a sense of humor.

They must have a touch of Peter Pan in them—the boy who would never grow up —and make big adventures out of little things, and walk with laughter in their eyes. Like Francis of Assisi, they must have a sense of brotherhood with the birds and all living things, and see a divinity in the tiniest speck of life in a wayside ditch.

There must be peace in their hearts, and no hatred and no malice and no envy for those who roll along the highways in expensive cars, or sit eating too much in great hotels. For they must know that the perfect holiday only comes to people like themselves, who have the liberty of the road and the tramping spirit, and a fortnight's scorn of civilization and its cramping ways.

Few of us have ever had a really perfect holiday. It is generally the one we are going to have.

Remembrance is best, and I for one can remember almost perfect holidays. They were before the time of wars and strikes. They were in my youth, when I was poverty stricken, yet not too poor to put in little old inns, to quaff my thirst with shandygaff at the end of a long white road, to smoke a cigarette on the stile across a by-path, to carry a book in my knapsack, to stand a drink to a friend.

The perfect holiday need not cost much in paper money or red gold. The sky, the sea, a sense of beauty, the heart of youth, a mind at peace, with a good comrade who knows how to talk and how to be silent—what more does one want when the sun is shining and the wind is in one's face?

Daily Short Story

THE RESOURCES OF DIPLOMACY

(By H. Irving King.)

Israel Vanderburg and Philip Scarsdale were highly respectable gentlemen of good financial standing. They cherished a thorough detestation of each other. It had sprung from a trifling disagreement ten years before and, watered and nourished by self-will, had reached its present proportions.

Israel had a daughter, Gladys, and Philip had a son, Thomas; and the young people were so far from partaking of the paternal animosities that they considered each other about as nearly perfect as it is given to mortals to be. Both parents got wind of the fact and fulminated and dogmatized upon the subject to their degenerate children.

"I had an awful row with Dad today about you," said Gladys one evening to Tom when they met upon the neutral ground of one of Mrs. Stuyvesent Mulgrove's dinner-dances.

"Having them oftener than usual lately?" inquired Tom.

"Yes, I think so," replied Gladys, "and I'm tired of them. Yet I'm awfully fond of Dad, too."

"I had a bit of a run-in with the governor, myself, yesterday about you," replied Tom. "The governor is an old trump in other respects; but when it comes to the question of our getting married he's the limit. What say, Gladys, let s go off and get married anyway. Neither of our respected parents shows any symptoms of recovering from what ails them."

Gladys was silent and thoughtful for fully two minutes—then she said: "We a e going to be married, of course—that is settled. But it would be so much nicer if we could do so with the consent of our pa ents. Before we take the step I think we should exhaust all the resources of diplomacy. It sounds immoral, I know, but the easiest way to rule a man is through his pet weakness. Now you just listen to me"—and she proceeded to formulate a plan of action.

"Tom," said Mr. Scarsdale suddenly at breakfast next morning, "I hope you are not still dangling after the daughter of that o'd thief, Israel Vanderburg?"

"Well," replied Tom slowly, "you see, it is this way. Mr. Vanderburg has announced his intention of casting Gladys off and cu ting her out of his will if sh marries your son."

"Oh, he has, has he?" growled Philip.

"Yes, sir," said Tom, "and he is really violent about the matter—declares such an alliance would break his hear and be a disgrac to his family. And as you are sc against the marriage also and have threatened to cut me off if it takes place—why, there you are!"

"Israel Vanderburg is an old ruffian and always was," said Mr. Scarsdale, and flung away from the table. But his son's statement of the case kept recurring to him all that day. He would go to almost any length to spite old Vanderburg.

Meantime Gladys was having a session with her paternal ancestor. "I suppose you will be hard-hearted enough to be glad of it," said she, trying to squeeze a tear or two into her bright blue eyes, "but Tom and I are up against it." First you objected; and now Mr. Scarsdale is furious at the idea of his son marrying your daughter—says it would disgrace him."

"Disgrace him!" cried Israel; "does that old ruffian have the cheek to talk that way?" And Israel departed, turning matters over in the gloomy and vindictive chambers of his mind.

For ten years now the former friends had been seeking for an opportunity to do each other a mischief, and had found none. Now, at last, was an opportunity presented.

"Tom," said Mr. Scarsdale that night at dinner, "does that Vanderburg girl take after her father?"

"Oh, no," replied Tom; "everybody says she is her mother over again."

"You go and marry the girl," cried Mr. Scarsdale. "How Israel will rave, I'd like to hear him."

And Mr. Vanderburg said unto Gladys, "So Scarsdale thinks he would be disgraced if Tom and you got married, does he? Nothing would give me greater satisfaction. You marry Tom just as soon as you can."

The marriage was hasty, the flight abroad on the wedding tour immediate. Philip and Israel, passing on the street, were each surprised to see upon the face of the other a smirk of malignant satisfaction. What could it mean? They were shrewd men and after profound consideration arrived a th true solu t on of the case. Bu they were also proud men, unwilling to admit that they had been outwitted, and so held their peace. A year later meeting each other one morning on the street Israel, with beaming face, accosted his old enemy for the first time in many years.

"It's a boy, Philip," said he. "I have just come from the house. Both doing fine."

"I was on my way there," replied Philip; "come alon; back with me. I uppose we have been two old fools. What are they going to name him?"

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliff

SHE DESCRIBES A NEW LAME EVENING WRAP

Madame has just received some new model wraps and gowns from Paris, and of course we manikins were most anxious to see them.

There were some stunning things among them, but the loveliest of all, to my way of thinking, was an evening wrap of silver lame.

And when I say wrap, I mean it literally, for it was nothing but a strip of the lame about two yards long and a yard and a quarter wide. This particular wrap was heavily embroidered in scarlet flowers and vivid green leaves leaves.

Madame asked Pam to don the wrap that she could see how effective it is.

Pam is surely one of the most artistic girls I have ever known, and Madame usually asks her to wear the most exotic and unusual of her creations.

When Pam put the wrap around her, and draped it into a most graceful line, she certainly did look stunning.

We were standing admiring the effect, when a young and lovely actress for whom Madame designs costumes, both for street and stage wear, came in.

She spied Pam immediately, and exclaimed:

"What a lovely wrap, and how gorgeously you have draped it, Madame. May I try it on?"

She was delighted when she found that it could be draped in any way one might most fancy and asked Madame if she couldn't have one like it. Madame explained that it was a sample wrap, and that she did not think the red particularly becoming to Miss Elliott's style. So she is making one for her in silver lame, but the embroidery is to be in shades of blue, which will look stunning, as Miss Elliott is a blonde with perfect coloring. The wrap is to be lined with blue crepe to match the flowers.

This Straight Piece of Silver Lame Forms the Newest Evening Wrap

Madame is planning to make more of these wraps, using chiffon velvet and soft satins and crepes. Some are to be embroidered and some are to be hand painted.

Piano Elves

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS.

WHEN a small person starts music lessons there are many discouraging days when his fingers just will not go right, but blunder along instead, and he feels there's nothing quite so irksome as practicing. Those are the days when grown-ups must make practicing as interesting as possible and help the child look ahead to accomplishment. Easy pieces with melodies for words are interesting, and simple duets seem big and encouraging. The value of hearing good music can not be over-estimated. Not all children will develop into artists, but it's mighty nice to be able to play some instrument to an interesting degree—not to mention the excellent mental discipline of a task met and accomplished every day, such as comes with definite practicing periods.

OUR piano's full of fairies,
Or perhaps they're little elves,
Who, when I pull the stopper out,
Make music all themselves.

They go dancing o'er the white keys,
Or run tripping o'er the black,
And then they slide clear down the scale
And bump their way right back.

The big bass notes make booming sounds,
The high ones sing a song,
And all the little tinkling ones
Keep running right along.

When I play our piano
I can't make it sound that way,
But mother says she'd rather hear
Me practice any day.

And, if I work on notes and scales,
I'll be the little elf
Who plays on our piano—
Tinkly, like it plays itself!

LOVE LETTERS THAT MADE HISTORY

(By Joseph Kaye.)

WARREN HASTINGSAND MARIAN IMHOFF

Warren Hastings is the English diplomat who is noted in history chiefly for being the victim of the celebrated Hastings Impeachment. The service he rendered his country merited a greater reward than he received but this very ungratefulness on the part of his country made him famous. If there had been no impeachment the name Warren Hastings would have been known but dimly and only to historians.

Warren Hastings was the first Governor-General of India and his ruling of that country helped vastly in its development. But Hastings had created enemies and when he returned from India he was accused of misdeeds and impeached. His trial lasted seven years and he had ranged against him such eminent orators as Burke and Sheridan. He was eventually exonerated of the charges but his fortune was all expended in his defense and he was left a poor man. The East India company gave him a pension and in other ways he was made to feel the regret of others for the injustice done him.

Hastings' romance with Marion Imhoff reads like fiction. On board the boat that took him to India he fell ill and was nursed to health by the Baroness Imhoff, wife of a German miniature painter, both of whom were Hastings' acquaintances. The friendship between Hastings and the baroness developed into love but there was no scandal and no hard feelings on the part of the baron. The baron decided that the worth of a wife may be measured financially and he agreed to a money settlement, in consideration for which the baroness' divorce was made possible and when she was free Hastings married her. Marian was an attractive and cultivated woman and though she was forty at the time of her marriage to Hastings and had children by her former marriage, to Hastings neither her age nor her family mattered. He adopted her children and they lived a life of true happiness, as this letter gives ample evidence:

"My Dearest Marian—I am indeed a fortunate man and am tempted to adapt the term even to superstition; and no wonder for the belief has seized others long since and universally. Last night at about nine o'clock Major Sands brought me news of Pipps arrival at Calcutta, and (may God bless them both for it!) a short but blessed letter from you, dated the 15th of May, the date of your departure from St. Helena and written on board the 'Atlas' . . .

"All my past doubts and the fixed gloom which has so long overspread my imagination are dissipated like the darkness before the equinoctial sun rising on the plains of Suckrowl (do, my dear Marian, allow me to talk nonsense), and have given place to the confident hope that every dreaded obstruction will follow them and that I am once more destined for happiness. I am already happy; for as God is my witness that I prefer your happiness to my own, I feel the measure of my present joy full. . . .

"I must repress myself, for if I write all that the fullness of my heart is ready to dictate I shall never come to an end. . . . Adieu, my beloved, my most deserving and lovely Marian. May the God whose goodness I have so wonderfully experienced bless you with health, safety and comfort and me with the repossession of my sweet Marian! Amen! Amen! Amen! I never loved you so much as I do at this instant and as I have loved you since the delightful news of last night—Adieu, my most beloved, adieu."

NUMEROUS SPECTATORS WATCH ANNUAL TRENT RIVER REGATTA

Rev. J. D. Paterson Acts as Judge in Life Saving and Artificial Respiration Contest.

HIGH STANDARD.

Entire Programme is Carried Out To Successful Conclusion.

Fine weather and a large and interested crowd of spectators favored the annual regatta at Trent River, where the entire programme was carried to a successful conclusion.

The various events were contested in spirited fashion and the crowd was generous in its applause of all the competitors.

An interesting item on the programme was the life-saving and artificial respiration contest for a fine cup presented by E. W. Beatty, president of the C.P.R. The judge in this competition was Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' Church, Peterborough. Mr. Paterson is an official examiner of the Royal Life-Saving Society of England, and when he qualified for this distinction, was the third person in Canada to do so. After having given his decision, Mr. Paterson expressed the opinion that the standard of efficiency of the competitors in this event was very high and above the usual calibre of the average contestant in similar competitions. The winner, Earl Warren, is one of the champion swimmers of the Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, and holds the Award of Merit of the Life-Saving Society.

The features of the regatta that caused great amusement and excitement were the log burling contest and the chase of the goose.

Fred Keller, the only entry for the first competition, had great difficulty in maintaining his position, being repeatedly immersed in the water by the rolling of the log. Eventually, however, although handicapped by the lack of a pole of the right size, he managed to get into position and rode the log in fine style down the river.

The catch the goose contest was a long chase and a stern one. The bird, in the endeavor to elude its would-be captors, half flying and half swimming, led the competitors a merry dance right round the pier and down the river, frequently ducking when capture appeared imminent, and re-appearing some yards away from the eager, excited youths who were pursuing it. At an early stage in the event it was captured by an ambitious youth who had stationed himself in a strategic position on the bank, from which he dived into the water and seized the prize. This capture was protested and the goose was again released and was chased until exhausted, becoming the trophy of "Nod" Wight.

Specially noteworthy was an exhibition of high diving from the bridge. The swan dive was performed by Misses Helen and Vivianne McCormack and Messrs. Roach, Faulkner, Christie, Harrison, Tilkey and Young. The Jack Knife dive was carried out by the same individuals. Clarence Christie did the running straight dive and the sisters McCormack performed the "neat dive" in neat fashion. Mr. Roach in the front dive, Miss Helen McCormack in the back dive, and Miss Vivianne McCormack in the soldier's dive aroused a great deal of enthusiasm. Miss Helen McCormack dived three times in succession—in the back flip, the swan and the Jack Knife dives. Miss Vivianne McCormack was awarded 28 points out of a possible 30, being three points ahead of her nearest competitor.

In connection with the regatta two dances were held in the afternoon — one in the Coral Gables Casino and the other in the Whitehall. The Northumberland Regiment Band from Campbellford was in attendance, and added to the enjoyment of the day. The owner of a motor boat who kept running his craft along the course during the regatta came in for a great deal of adverse comment.

BEATS FORMER RECORD BY TWO HOURS

Gertrude Ederle, who on her second attempt to conquer the English Channel last week was successful. The swiftly changing conditions of the Channel proved propitious, and Miss Ederle achieved her ambition, clipping some two hours off the former record. Her time was 14 hours and 31 minutes. From left to right are to be seen Chashak, Egyptian sportsman; Mrs. M. Duetchel, Miss Ederle's sister; Bill Burgess, Miss Ederle's trainer and a great swimmer himself; Bob, the Alsatian police dog, also a swimmer; Gertrude herself, her father, Isnak Helmy, Egyptian apirant; Henry Vincent, manager of Perrault, a Canadian contender; Mlle Sione, French aspirant; Omer Perrault, of Montreal, Canadian aspirant for natatorial laurels. They are all enjoying themselves on the beach at Gris Nez, France, where Miss Ederle has been training.

TORONTO GAINS TWO GAME JUMP ON THE LEADERS

Two Runs in Tenth of Each Game Wins Victories.

ERRORLESS BALL.

Bears Now Within Half a Game of the League Leaders.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—The Toronto Leafs were a little closer to the second place Newark Bears yesterday as a result of a double victory over the Keys at Reading yesterday afternoon, while Newark were winning one game from Rochester. The Keys, generally an easy proposition for the leading clubs in the International League, fought hard yesterday, and the visitors were forced to go ten innings each game before finally gaining the decisions. The scores were 8 to 6 and 5 to 3, two runs in the first half of the tenth of each game giving the Maple Leafs the victories.

Newark's decision over the Colts was earned by a 1 to 0 score, with Mammaux getting the edge of Karpp in a tight pitchers' battle. Both teams played errorless ball. The victory brought the Bears to within half a game of the League-leading Baltimore Orioles, who were idle, as were the Buffalo Bisons.

Syracuse and Jersey City split a double-header at Jersey City, the Stars winning the opener 3 to 1, and the hosts taking an abbreviated seven-innings affair, 2 to 1. Four errors by Jersey City in the first game helped the Syracuse cause.

LENGLEN'S ACT GOOD FOR GAME

Her Temperament and Unbeaten Record Made Trouble, Says Paper.

LONDON, August 13 (Canadian Press).—The official organ of the Lawn Tennis Association, commenting on Susanne Lenglen's act in turning professional, says: "The plain fact is that Mlle. Lenglen's retirement from amateur lawn tennis is all for the good of the game, for her temperament was always making for difficulties and her title of unchallenged champion has always made her arrogant with other players.

"It is safe to say that not only Wimbledon, but all tournaments at which she has been in the habit of appearing, will be all the more peaceful and pleasant in consequence of her withdrawal."

CLERKS SHUT OUT OUTLAWS' TEAM

Thomas Hurls No-Hit Game While Team Mates Slam Coulter.

CAMPBELLFORD, August 14.—The Clerks applied the whitewash to the Outlaws in Thursday night's association softball game, winning 16 to 0 in a seven-innings game. It was only the second time any of the teams had been shut out, and the Clerks' effort was nearly perfect, only one man reaching first. After two were out in the fourth, Coulter slammed a hard one at Atkinson, and the Clerk shortstop fumbled long enough for the fleet-footed Outlaw pitcher to beat the throw to first.

Thomas pitched fine ball for the Counter Hoppers, not issuing a walk, and he had the hard-hitting Outlaws popping up or hitting right to a waiting fielder, and they turned in one of their good fielding games, and every one collected at least one safe hit.

Coulter, although not hit hard, was very wild and his support was anything but brilliant.

The Outlaws were another team that found it hard to field a team, and they hardly ever presented the same line-up in two successive games, but they stuck to the finish and gave every team a battle.

The line-up:

LONDON, England, August 14. — Canadian Press. — The selection of the cricket team to represent Australia in the fifth and last test match with England to be played at the Oval, London to-day, will be made from the following players: Collins, Bardsley, Ryder, Andrews, Woodfull, Ponsford, Macartney, Oldfield, Grimmet, Mailey, Gregory and Richardson

YANKEES WIN LAST OF SERIES FROM SENATORS

Lou Gehrig's Two Homers Gives New Yorkers Winning Score.

GAMES CANCELLED.

Walter Johnston, Victim of Attack, Was Relieved in Fifth.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—The Yankees finished their somewhat mediocre series display against the Senators at Washington yesterday by winning 7 to 5. Washington had previously taken three straight. Lou Gehrig was the shining light in the New York triumph his two homers giving the Yanks their margin of victory. Walter Johnson was the victim of the visitors' attack and retired in the fifth. Morrell relieved him, and was touched for a homer by Combs in the seventh.

The Yankee-Senator game was the only American League contest played yesterday. Philadelphia and the Red Sox were scheduled for Boston, but wet grounds caused the postponement. No other clubs were scheduled.

WILLS WILLING TO FIGHT CHAMP

Will Meet Dempsey Any Time Without Any Purse.

CALLS HIM LIAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (Canadian Press).—Harry Wills told the New York Sun to-day that he is ready to fight Jack Dempsey for nothing, just for the satisfaction of knocking out the champion.

The negro, who has vainly sought a match with Dempsey for nearly six years, joined his manager, Paddy Mullins, in calling the champion a "liar," for his assertions that he tried to make the match.

"I'll fight Dempsey any time he wants to meet me at Broadway and Forty-Second Street, and I don't want a penny to fight him either. I'll knock him out so quick he'll be sorry he was ever born."

HAY COMES FIRST.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 13. —When there's haying to be done, what's a little matter of $1,500,000? At least the hay had the call recently, when a meeting was called to decide a $1,500,000 dairy pool merger. It was a fine day to rake and mow, and so many of the farmer-stockholders were absent that no vote could be taken.

KEENE FALTERS AND COGS WIN

Take Second Game of Finals By Hard Hitting in Fourth.

TEAMS NOW TIED.

Cognawagas developed a swatting punch against Max Robertson at Exhibition Park last evening and forced Keene into a playoff for the Wright Trophy. Keene, minus their regular catcher, who met with injuries in a game on Thursday, had a lead of 3 runs half-way through the contest, but Cogs broke loose in the fourth and scored six runs. They continued the attack in the fifth getting three more tallies when Robertson was relieved by Gene McCarthy, who fanned Weese to retire the side, and went back in the sixth to stop the Cogs. Billingsley held Keene to six hits, widely scattered. Two runs counted by Keene went in on a wild throw to second by McGee.

The third and deciding game will be played at Lakefield next Monday evening, and the winner will meet Crescents for the East Peterborough League championship.

COLLIE BATTLES ENRAGED BULL TO SAVE GIRL

Eight Year Old Girl Is Tossed Up By Angry Animal.

CHASES MOTHER.

Dog Holds Bull Until Woman and Girl Get Through Fence.

OTTAWA, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—Thrown three times into the air by an enraged bull on her father's farm at Clarence Creek on Thursday, Grace Duquette, 8-year-old daughter of Dominic Duquette, now lies in hospital here suffering from terrible wounds to her abdomen and back. Her condition, although considered serious, showed improvement yesterday.

According to the story told by the little girl's mother, Grace was in the act of chasing the bull from a field of grain, into which it had gained access through a break in the fence. The bull at first showed signs of running away from the girl, but suddenly turned upon her.

Attracted by the screams of her daughter, Mrs. Duquette ran from the house in time to see the little girl staggering in the path of the wild animal. The family pet, a large collie dog, also went to the rescue, and clearing the fence, charged at the bull's head.

While the dog and the bull were battling it out, Mrs. Duquette dragged her then unconscious daughter under the fence, and was making for the house, when the bull, tearing away from the game dog, charged after the mother and daughter. Mrs. Duquette, carrying her daughter, managed to get into the house before the animal was able to do further damage.

SMART DRIVER IS FINED $25

MAY LOSE LICENSE.

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 14.—Magistrate Maxwell issued a stern warning to the smart alec type of automobile driver yesterday when Charles Couttes, a Lawrence Station youth, appeared on a charge of reckless driving. Couttes paid a fine and costs totalling nearly $25, while judgment was reserved on the more serious feature of the case which provides for a term of imprisonment and a cancellation of a driver's license. Witnesses told the court that Couttes persisted in driving slowly in front of another motorist and zigzagging across the road in a journey from Port Stanley to Shedden on the night of August 5. The complainant said that when he attempted to get ahead of the defendant, the latter would speed up.

MAKE LONG TRIP

This model, he says is thoroughly seaworthy and is increasing in popularity with tourists.

Incidentally, Mr. Currie gave expression to the belief that as builders of canoes, the local company is unsurpassed by any in the world.

Following the rapid increase in automobiles there was a lull in the use of motor boats he thinks, but on account of the congestion of cars in the highways the number of motor boats in use is on the increase.

There are also more Ontarians than formerly spending their holidays among their native scenery, instead of crossing the line at vacation time.

Mr. Currie who is Secretary of the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corporation of Toronto is American-born, but has resided in Canada for many years. His vessel flies a pennant made by himself with the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes arranged in a manner calculated to please the susceptibilities of both countries, the British emblem being uppermost on one side, and similarly Old Glory on the other.

His youthful companion, Mr. Laird, has gained 8 pounds in weight during the trip.

TURKEY FORBIDS FOREIGN CHAMBERS

Merchants May Form Societies But Not Chambers of Commerce.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 14.—(Canadain Press.)— A Turkish Government order, which became effective on Thursday, says that in accordance with the New Turkish laws, all foreign chambers of commerce are illegal. The Minister of Commerce has stated that foreign business interests will be permitted to form an association or society, but that the only Chamber of Commerce will be allowed to operate in Turkey is the Turkish Chamber.

The drastic action of the Turkish Government, which effects seven chambers, is holding keen interest for foreign commercial circles, where it is pointed out that this is the first instance of a nation suppressing the chamber of commerce of another power. Business circles are complaining that the chambers were closed without advance warning, causing considerable embarrassment and dislocating business.

HARVEST LABORERS RUSHING TO WEST

More Than 2,000 Have Already Reached Winnipeg —More To-day.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 14,— (Canadian Press.)—The influx of harvest help brought from all parts of Eastern Canada to aid in garnering the Western grain crop, was in full swing. The vanguard of the harvest rush, totalling more than 2,000 has reached Winnipeg and the force is expected to be swelled by nearly 4,500 more to-day. The trek of the Prairies will continue into next week, and it is estimated that about 60,000 men will be distributed throughout the three Provinces.

DANCERS HUNT NEW JOBS.

KARACHI, Aug. 14.—(Associated Press).—All the beautiful young dancing girls who flitted about the palace of the Maharajah of Indore whose chief charmer, Mumtaz Begum, cost him his throne, are hunting new jobs. Application of a rigid economy program in the State of Indore called for the discharge of the entertainers.

Their actual salaries, it is explained, were not so much—only about 3,000 pounds a year—but the cost of upkeep was much greater. Large sums it seems were squandered in satisfying their fastidious little tastes for trinkets, veils and perfumes.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Grand Trunk Pacific Debentures Go To 50

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Grand Trunk Pacific Railway debentures reacted to 50 on the stock exchange here this week. This, nevertheless, is a striking figure, considering the lower prices of recent date.

The market, however, while fluttered at the announcement of the Grand Trunk Pacific debenture holders' committee that further negotiations are pending between the debenture holders' committee and representatives of the Canadian National Railways with a view to arriving at a possible amicable arrangement in connection with the payment of interest on the debentures, apparently on second thoughts regards such negotiations as being merely in the air, or if actually entered into as likely to be prolonged for a considerable length of time.

Wheat Values Hold Up Despite Fall In Corn

CHICAGO, August 14. Canadian Press. — Good buying quickly developed in the wheat market to-day and prices went higher. Prospects of a decided falling off in domestic arrivals of wheat was cited as an incentive to buy. Opening at 1-8c off to 1 1-8c advance, wheat boon scored material gains all around, corn and oats becoming firmer too, corn starting at 1-8c to 5-8c declin but subsequently rising to above yesterday's finish. Provisions were strong.

Stubborness with which values of wheat held up yesterday in face of sharp fall of the corn market tended to give renewed courage to-day to traders inclined to the buying side of wheat. In this connection it was pointed out that primary receipts are now running about 2,750,000 daily, compared with 3,500,000 bushels to 4,000,000 a short time ago, and that a further notable reduction appears likely as soon as a rush of farm offerings from eastern territory is over.

Rise and Fall Bewilders Stock Market Followers

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—An abrupt opening decline in stock prices and an equally brisk recovery in the late trading yesterday bewildered stock market followers as they attempted to gauge the effects of two important financial developments — the raising of the local Federal Reserve Bank rate to four per cent. and the declaration of a 50 per cent. stock dividend by the General Motors Corporation.

Fears that the higher bank rate might be intended as a gesture against excessive speculation, making stock market borrowing more difficult and the belief that the General Motors "melon" had been fully discounted caused heavy selling of stocks at the outset, depressing prices of many issues one to ten points. Constructive forces rallied to the market's support, however, on the theory that all the day's news was fundamentally favorable. As a result of their aggressive bidding, net gains of one to ten points predominated at the close.

Speculative interest centred largely on the fluctuations of General Motors, which fell as low as 193 3-4 in the early slump and then soared to 208 at the close, a gain of 4½ points over Thursday night's final price. United States Steel, American Smelting, Case Threshing Machine, Dupont, Allied Chemical and other industrial favorites closed 2 to 7½ points higher. A strong investment demand was in evidence for high-grade railroad shares most of the day, carrying Atchison, Norfolk and Western and Baltimore and Ohio to new high records.

Sharp Advances Feature New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (Canadian Press).—The recovery in stock prices which started late yesterday gained momentum under a tremendous outburst of buying in to-day's brief session which carried more than a score of issues, including United States Steel Common, Dupont, American Smelting, Rock Island, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio to new records for a year or longer. With the "floating supply" of many high-grade issues apparently reduced by investment purchases and the absence of any concern over a possible restriction of credit on securities collateral, prices swept forward in impressive fashion, extreme gains of 1 to 15 points being distributed over a broad list.

Week-end trade and mercantile reports testified to the generally high rate of industrial activity, with hopes held out in several important lines for further expansion this fall. The growing belief that the United States Steel and other large corporations, particularly those enjoying large current earnings, and possessing huge undivided surpluses would follow the lead of General Motors in making generous distributions to the stockholders was reflected in the brisk demand for all stock mentioned in connection with the "melon" cutting rumors.

Rails also were in good demand on the theory that holders of those shares also were in line for special distributions in view of the record breaking earnings and traffic reports of the past year.

The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 1,000,000 shares.

British Railways Show Some Buying At Home

LONDON, England, August 14. — Canadian Press Cable. — Although conditions on the stock exchange continue quiet the stability of the market, which, as already noted, has prevailed for several weeks, is still fully maintained. If anything a brighter light came over certain sections of the market towards the end of the week.

The latest pronouncement of the leaders of the striking coal miners show that they are exceedingly anxious to secure negotiating powers from the men. If the delegate conference next Monday furnishes such powers it should not be long before the miners and the government again get together, and the government in turn, bring about a meeting between the miners and the mine owners.

Intensely loyal as the men are to their unions and to the miners' federation it seem probable that the present trickle of men back to work will enlarge into a current. This is not to say that a general collapse of the strike is imminent, even after sixteen weeks of struggle, bu the longer the national settlement is postponed the greater becomes the probability of district settlements, which the leaders are anxious to avoid.

In view of these considerations some small amount of buying of home rails has been visible this week despite the fact that the railway traffic returns have shown only illusory improvement through holiday travel. Some of the leading railway lines, however have recovered in price what they lost recently on being quoted ex-dividend.

For the same reason there has been some slight inquiry for iron and steel shares. Several large firms have been cheered also by their having secured fairly substantial contracts for overseas work. Incidentally several of these contracts have been obtained by British firms despite lower tenders from continental firms.

POSTMAN FINDS GEM SMUGGLER

New York Mail Carrier Responsible For Arrest of Belgian.

DIAMONDS SEIZED.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—The vigilance and alertness of a young mail carrier, whose name has been withheld by the United States Postoffice authorities was responsible for the arrest of G. Brill, a Belgian, aged 60, yesterday. He will be charged with having received and sold more than $10,000 worth of smuggled diamonds. These are alleged to have been sent to him via the mails by his son, Solomon Brill, in Antwerp.

The letter carrier noticed that following each arrival of a mail steamer from Europe, Brill always received from ten to a dozen bulky letters. These were always addresesd in the same handwriting and postmarked Antwerp. His suspicions were aroused, and he reported the matter to his superiors.

An investigation was ordered, and nine undelivered letters to Brill were discovered. The letters were allowed to proceed in the usual way, but special agents were on hand when Brill received them.

They ordered him to open them and found a total of about 300 diamonds wrapped in tissue paper and pushed in between sheets of heavy writing paper. The stones were about the size of a large pin head and are said to be used in women's bracelets.

As soon as the diamonds were found the special agents questioned Brill. They say that he admitted having sold smuggled diamonds for the past month, and estimated that he received a total of 100 carats.

THREE DROWN IN OTONABEE

HON. VINCENT MASSEY DECLARES MEIGHEN COMMITTED 7 OFFENCES AGAINST DOMINION OF CANADA

Speech at Otonabee in Support of Candidature of J. J. Duffus.

ROBB BUDGET

Peterborough Man Eulogizes Labors of Liberal Minister of Finance.

At Keene Town Hall, on Saturday evening, in his native township, fore the men and women among whom he had lived in his early youth, J. J. Duffus fired the first gun in his campaign to win back West Peterborough to the Liberal fold. He was aided in the meeting by Hon. Vincent Massey who for a short time before the General Election last year was Minister without Portfolio in the King Government, and by W. A. Anderson, Deputy Reeve of Otonabee.

Mr. Massey, in his address brought out seven specific charges against the Prime Minister, declaring that Mr. Meighen precipitated a great controversy and assumed the responsibility of the Governor-General's action by taking office after dissolution had been refused to Mr. King; that Mr. Meighen deceived the Governor-General by representing that the Conservatives could carry on Government when he knew perfectly well that they could not do it; that he formed a shadow Government that was totally illegal; that he permitted a campaign of slander to be carried on in his behalf; that he slammed the doors of Parliament on the faces of the members; that he caried on a government that was composed of one Minister, Mr. Meighen himself, who was out of the House, the others being merely acting ministers who had been sworn into office; and that his use of Orders in Council finding three fourths of the money required by means of Governor-General's warrant was an abuse of a legal right to a purpose for which it was never intended.

Chairman's Remarks.

F. A. Easson who was elected to the chair, in his introductory remarks referred to the fact that Mr. Duffus was born in the township, and declared that the candidate was fitted to represent the constituency as he was thoroughly familiar with the problems of the city and country alike. There were too few men like Mr. Duffus in political life, he said. Mr. Duffus was a man who could be relied upon; there had never been a shadow of suspicion attached to his name. Mr. Duffus had been a successful man in the city. He had acquitted himself with credit as president of the Chamber of Commerce and as Mayor of Peterborough. He was widely esteemed everywhere and all knew that when he was elected, he would discharge his duty and would not simply play at politics.

J. J. Dufus.

Mr. Duffus who was received with cheers said he felt somewhat embarrassed at the many nice things that had been said of him at the meeting in the township where he was born. He again intimated his resolve to conduct a campaign free of slander and mudslinging and uttered protest against the statements of Messrs. Bell and Nicholson at Conservative meetings. It was impossible to slander public men in this way, he said, without doing the country untold harm. He thought a campaign should be conducted in such a way as would not destroy reputations of public men, the traditions of the parties represented or of the high offices to which the contestants aspired. Concerning the steamer Margaret, the names of Liberal Ministers had been mentioned in connection with an alleged orgy of women, wine and song. The statement had been made publicly several times, broadcasted throughout Canada and blazoned across the skies for all the world to see. Nothing could be more damaging if true, nothing more damnable was ever circulated in any country. How could one ever hope to get honest, decent men in public life if such detrimental statements were bandied about? What about the wives and families of the men who were thus slandered—all for the sake of a little party and political advantage? These statements had been made in the presence of Mr. Meighen. He had not repudiated or denied them and must take his share of the blame.

Robb Budget.

Proceeding to discuss the record of the Liberal administration, Mr. Duffus said the Robb Budget was the best since Confederation. The reductions in the cost of farm implements had benefitted the people of Otonabee as well as the other riding. Sweeping reductions estimated at nearly $25,000,000 had been made; the abolition of the receipt stamp tax, the introduction of penny postage and the taking off of the tariff on automobiles had been advantageous to the common people. Mr. Meighen had said the reduction of tarriff on automobiles was one of the most transparent shams on record and had said, that in any case, nine cars out of ten were luxuries. Mr. Duffus ridiculed this statement. When did it become the province of the Premier to say who should have cars and who should not have them?

In spite of the opposition of Mr. Meighen —who declared that he would oppose every proposal of the Liberals—was this the attitude of a statesman? — the Liberals had brought in a balanced budget, an adverse trade balance of $29,000,000 in 1921 was changed to a favorable balance of $401,000,000 at the present time; new markets had been opened up for Canadian farmers by treaties and trade agreements with 385,000,000 people; the Customs and Excise receipts last year increased $10,000,000 from 1924. Trade has grown to be two and quarter billion of which the greater portion, namely $1,315,000,000 was to be attributed to exports.

Deputation From Oshawa.

Some time ago 4000 men journeyed from Oshawa as a deputation to the Governmentasking the Ministers to refrain from putting the reductions of taxes on automobiles into effect. "Save our homes", was their cry.

What happened? In the first quarter of 1926, the net income of the General Motors was $34,854,816 which figures were double those of the same quarter of last year.

The Ontario Steel Products had made a dividend. This company manufactured automobile parts, and was one of those which were supposed to be ruined by the changes made in the tariff by the Liberals. The Ontario Malleable Iron Company, of Oshawa was enjoying its best year since pre-war days. This company was now employing more men than were usually employed at the busiest season. It was also interesting to note that the latest figures for auomobile production were those sent out by Hon. Mr. Chaplin, Conservative Minister of Trade and Commerce who recorded a total production of automobiles in the Border Cities of 21,420 in June 1926 as against 15,420 in June 1925 when a tariff imposed by the Tories was in force.

All these figures went to show that the blue ruin and tariff talk of

FACES CHARGE OF MURDERING OWN DAUGHTER

Seventy - Two - Year - Old French-Canadian Commits Heinious Crime.

BRUTAL SLAYING

Testimony Indicates Bitter Fight for Life on Part of Victim.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Aug. 16. —(Canadian Press.) — Alexandre Lavallee, gray-haired, 72 years of age, still erect and looking strong, is confined in the local jail charged with the murder on Tuesday last of his own daughter, Rose Anna, married to Louis Devaudreuil. The jury of Coroner Henri Beaulac, charged the father with the crime after hearing evidence and then deliberating for 10 minutes. Testimony indicated a bitter fight for life by the victim and her final brutal slaying.

Found lying across her bed by neighbors to whom Lavallee had said he had found her dead, the bed, floors and walls of her room were spattered with blood. There were several fractures of the skull, the left temple was broken in pieces, and the left lower jaw was completely crushed. Chief of Police Vachon, of Three Rivers, said Lavalee's garments were splashed with blood and there were blood and scratches on his face. The chief took about thirty hairs from beneath the nails of the victims and then cut off a piece of her father's hair. Dr. R. Fontaine, Montreal, testified that the two samples of hair "were in every respect skin." The inquest was held on Saturday at St. Etienne des Gres, where the murder took place.

SEVERE 'QUAKE SHAKES ENGLAND

Windows Broken and Chimneys Shaken Down in Early Morning.

PEOPLE ALARMED.

LONDON, Aug. 16—The severest earthquake in Great Britain in thirty years struck Southern England just before 5 o'clock yesterday morning. It was described as being accompanied by a rumbling sound like a railroad train, culminating in an explosive noise. Windows were broken and chimney pots were knocked down.

In more than thirty towns and cities residents are reported to have run into the streets in their night clothes. In some cases it was an hour before constables induced them to enter their houses again. Some townspeople of Duddleston were terrorized when a man rushed through the streets in his nightshirt, shouting: "The end of the world has come." In Hereford the shock caused the clock in the Town Hall to strike three times. Among the places slightly affected was Stratford-on-Avon.

The counties affected were Derbyshire, Somerset, Devonshire, Herfordshire, Warwickshire, Northampton, Leicestershire, Radnorshire, and also Bath and Bristol and Landrinod.

In the last five days tremors have been reported from every continent except Australia, being more or less disastrous in the Eastern Mediterranean region and the East Indies. Slight shocks have been felt in England three times in the last two weeks.

City Boys Lose Lives When Skiff Overturns Near Cookman Cottage

Tragedy Was Unseen and Time of the Drowning Is Not Known—Hope Abandone fter Long Labour With Artificial Respiration —Bodies Recovered.

HAD BEEN WARNED AGAINST SKIFF ONLY A SHORT TIME BEFORE

THE DEAD.

Allan Barnes.
Leonard Barnes.
Bertie Cookman.

A pleasant row on the Otonabee River ended fatally this afternoon for Allan and Leonard Barnes, and Bertie Cookman. Although warned by George Cookman, uncle of one of the boys, not to go out in a skiff, they took the craft and a few minutes later they could not be seen. Help was summoned and the bodies were recovered by members of the local fire department a few moments after their arrival on the scene. Work was immediately started in an attempt to resuscitate them, but proved futile. The bodies were ordered taken to Comstock's undertaking parlors, after Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young had viewed them.

It is not known how long the boys were in the water, as the upsetting of the skiff was not noticed, and it was not until Mrs. Cookman saw that they were not in sight that she gave the alarm. Chief Newhall, who lives nearby, was soon on the scene, and members of the fire department followed.

FIRE DESTROYS OLD PAVILION AT BRIDGENORTH

Peterborough Fire Department Fights With Flames For Nearly 2 Hours.

COTTAGES MENACED.

Chief Gimblett Prevents Conflagration From Effecting Great Damage.

Fire, the origin of which is still unknown, breaking out after midnight on Sunday morning, burned down to the ground the old Dance Pavilion which was in use at Chemong Park before the erection of the present building. Only a corner of one of the gables was left standing after the flames had completed their work of destruction.

At 12.54, a call for assistance was sent out to the Peterborough Fire Department, and after receiving the necessary permission from Acting Mayor Nagle Phelan, who was awakened from sleep for consultation on the 'phone, the firemen, under Chief George Gimblett, hurried to the scene.

On arriving at the Park, the Chief at once recognized that no hope remained of saving the building, which was fast disappearing before the devouring flames. The firemen turned their efforts towards preventing any extension of the fire, as the flames travelling the grass and igniting some of the branches of the trees adjoining the building, threatened to create a conflagration that would have wiped out the greater number of the surrounding cottages. Only 25 feet away stood the cottage of Alderman W J. Hancock. Between the two buildings is located a garage, which to-day is a scorched and blackened witness of the near approach of the flames.

Manfully aided by numerous cottagers and farmers, the Department battled with the flames for nearly two hours, saving the garage, and confining the damage entirely to the old building At itmes the flames reached to the top of the high trees and the figures of the men moving around in the work of salvage, cast grotesque shadows on the grassy sward illuminated by the flames.

Mrs. F. D. Kerr and Mrs. F. Hall supplied coffee to the fire fighters.

After satisfying himself that all danger of an extension of the fire was past, Chief Gimblett, convinced that further labors were inadvisable on the pavilion, which was still aflame, withdrew his men.

Yesterday the ruins were still smouldering slightly, and attracted considerable attention from a large number of spectators who visited the park.

Messrs. Doukas and Gettas, the owners of the burned building, were in Toronto at the time of the fire. No estimate of damage is yet available.

Perrault Sails For Home No More Channel Swims

LIVERPOOL, August 16 (United Press)—Omar Perrault, the French-Canadian, who recently was defeated in his attempts to swim across the English Channel, sailed for home today aboard the White Star liner Celtic. "I'll never try again to swim the English Channel," he said, just before embarking.

VISITOR TO CITY IS BADLY HURT IN COLLISION

Cars Crash at Corner of McDonnell and Aylmer Streets.

HAND MANGLED.

Another Occupant of One Car is Somewhat Shaken Up.

Fred Hicks of Woodbridge, a visitor in the city, was seriously injured and had his hand badly mangled in a collision between two cars at the corner of McDonnell and Aylmer Streets, about 7 o'clock last night.

The other car, driven by E. M. Wall, 264 Rubidge Street, was proceeding north on Aylmer, and the car driven by Mr. Hicks was travelling east on McDonnel Street when the accident occurred. The force of the impact completely overturned Mr. Hicks' car, pinning its occupants in such a manner that it required the aid of eye witnesses to release them. Mr. Horsley, who was travelling in Mr. Hicks' car, was also injured, but is believed to be suffering mainly from shock.

Comstock's and Belleghem's ambulances were called to the scene and both victims were removed to the hospital. Enquiries this morning elicited the information that both were progressing favorably. It is thought that Mr. Hicks' hand, which was badly injured, may yet be saved, but at the time of going to press nothing definite could be obtained in this regard.

Girl Lost For Five Days Found In Weak Condition

GAGETOWN, N. B., August 16 (Canadian Press).—After being lost in the dense woods near here for five days, while she lived on berries and slept under trees, fearing each night she would be dead before morning, having seen a wildcat and a bear, Miss Eva Coy, aged 23 years, was found about six miles from her home yesterday. She was greatly weakened and had apparently not risen from the spot where she lay down to sleep on Saturday night. Her first request was, for a drink of water.

JACKSON PARK HEALTH CAMP VERY POPULAR

Three Batches of 60 Children Cared For This Year.

HAVE HAPPY TIME.

Recreation and Good Food Bringing Little Bodies Up To Weight.

"You'd better be careful, or you will be sent home," is the threat for misbehavior that the children at the camp at Jackson Park employ, when remonstrating with each other. They like it so well, this outdoor life under the tall pines at the park and in the swimming pool in the lower section, that they regard as real punishment any curtailing of their fun.

The Camp, maintained by the Peterborough Health Association at the Park, has been more popular than ever this year. During the three periods of three weeks each that mark the division of the Camp's existence in the summer months, over sixty children have been accomodated, and, and the total for this summer will be well over two hundred.

The daily routine is the same as that followed out in previous seasons. The children are brought to the park in the morning and returned home in the afternoon by a big bus that delivers them near their respective homes. They have their breakfast, mid-day dinner, and four o'clock lunch at the Park, with plenty of fun and amusement in the way of swimming, playing games, swinging, drawing with colored crayons, and listening to the stories told them by different teachers of the city who have taken the children's recreation hour this year. Ladies of the committee of the Health Association, which has charge of this work, look after their welfare in turn from week to week, they have a trained nurse consantly supervising their play and meals, a group of doctors make bi-weekly visits to the camp and examine them carefully for physical defects, and a competent housekeeper prepares their meals. Mrs. F. Law is the nurse at the camp this year, and Mrs. E. Smith is the housekeeper who looks after the meals, a sample of which is their last Friday dinner of mashed potatoes, scrambled eggs, canned tomatoes and ice cream.

An odd commentary on the inability of the home in some cases to make the children eat what is wholesome and good for them is afforded by the difficulty in making many of the youngsters eat staples such as porridge, corn flakes and brown bread. Their turn up their noses at these things, very often, but grow to like them as they find they cannot have just what they like, as is the case at home. An average of forty quarts of milk and about ten large loaves of bread per day, with other foods in like quantities, is required to keep the camp going. Often treats are given the children, in the way of special desserts of fruit and ice cream and candy.

There is very little irksome supervision of their playtime. They are allowed to amuse themselves in their individual ways, always under the watchful eye of the nurse, however. After their swim in the afternoon, they sit around and read the funny papers, the larger girls spelling out the sentences to the tiny tots; or swing under the trees, or play ball on the green. They improvise simple games with sticks and bits of rope, or wrestle before an admiring audience for possession of some small plaything, always remembering, evidently, that they can't be too rough. And their small manners are polite as they take the big slices of bread for their afternoon lunch and murmur "Thank you" for the milk ladled out so carefully by one of the larger boys, whose companion, a handsome child with dark eyes and pleasant ways, is passing the bread around.

"Has the cow gone dry yet?" asks a tiny lad with curly topknot, evoking a storm of mirth from his companions. They have a passion for curls, these children, and will point with pride to the wavy haired members of the different groups. "Did your little brother who died have curls, too?" asks a small lady of her boy companion, and he goes on to relate the length of the curls of that member, to an admiring group. They carry their liking just a little bit too far,

KEEN CONTESTS ARE EXPECTED IN COMING FEDERAL ELECTION IN EASTERN ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

Fifteen Candidates Have Been Nominated From 25 Constituencies.

NINE ARE ASSURED

Rumored That There Will be Many Last-Minute Nominations.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 16 (Canadian Press).—Keen contests in the following Federal elections are expected in every constituency in Eastern Ontario and adjacent Quebec districts. To date 25 candidates have been nominated for the 15 constituencies in the area. Of these two will be three-cornered contests and nine straight fights are already assured. Three nominations yet have to be made, while rumors are afloat of last minute nominations in a number of other constituencies.

In Renfrew North and South there will be three-cornered contests with Progressive candidates entered in opposition to nominees of the Liberal and Conservative parties. In Renfrew South, J. F. Gibbons was nominated at a farmer convention to oppose Dr. M. J. Maloney, Conservative member in the last House, who is seeking re-election, and Mayor J. L. Murray, the Liberal nominee. Mr. Gibbons announced his intentions to retire from the field, but after a further meeting of the district farmers' organization he announced he would remain in the running. In Renfrew North, W. R. Kirk (Progressive) will oppose L. E. Cotnam, Conservative member in the last House, and Dr. M. McKay, Liberal nominee, who was defeated in the last election by 4,521 to 5,303 votes.

In Grenville-Dundas constituency, the Liberals have given no indication yet of entering a candidate. The fight at present is between two cousins, A. C. Casselman, Conservative member in the last House, and W. Casselman, Progressive nominee.

A feature of the campaign in Labelle County is that none of the recognized parties will be represented. Henri Bourassa, who sat in the last House as an Independent, is running again under the same banner. He is being opposed by J. E. Morandville, who styles himself a Protectionist, unattached to any party.

Conservatives — D. D. McCuaig (Glengarry), A. C. Casselman (Grenville-Dundas), Dr. R. F. Preston (Lanark), Stewart McClenaghan and Hon. Dr. Chabot (Ottawa—two seats), Dr. M. J. Maloney (Renfrew South), L. E. Cotnam (Renfrew North), W. Thivierce (Russell), Dr. C. J. Hamilton (Stormont), Dr. F. A. Dumas (Hull, Que.), L. Ladouceur (Pontiac, Que.), F. A. Labelle (Wright, Que.).

Liberals — M. N. Cummings (Carleton), A. J. Macdonald (Glengarry), Gordon C. Edwards and E. R. E. Chevrier (Ottawa—two seats), J. L. Murray (Renfrew South), Dr. M. McKay (Renfrew North), A. Goulet (Russell), A. A. Smith (Stormont), Dr. J. E. Fontaine (Hull, Que.), F. S. Cahill (Pontiac, Que.).

Progressives — W. Casselman (Grenville-Dundas), J. F. Gibbons (Renfrew South), W. R. Kirk (Renfrew North).

Independent—H. Bourassa (Labelle, Que.).

Protectionist—J. E. Morandville (Labelle, Que.).

CELEBRATES THE OPENING DAY OF CENTENNIAL

Large Crowd Attends 100th Anniversary of Founding of Ottawa.

SHOULD BIND BONDS.

Canadian Military Forces Take Part in Monster Celebration.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 16 (Canadian Press).—"Ottawa, nee By-town, welcomes you." is one of the banners greeting the visitors for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of this place by Col. By. The ceremonies began yesterday with a military service at Lansdowne Park, at which over 20,000 people joined with the military forces of the garrison and visiting units in Divine worship. Loud speakers carried the words of those conducting the service to the multitude of worshippers and the massed bands of the Governor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa, the Queen's Own of Toronto, the 38th Highlanders of Ottawa, the 22nd Regiment of Quebec furnished the music. The Queen's Own also had about 500 men in the line of march and the Quebec Regiment slightly over 100, who received the plaudits of the crowds.

The address was delivered by Rt. Rev. Dr. Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London, in which he said that his message to Canada was that the bonds which bind this country to the Motherland be not broken. They were three-fold bonds which united the two countries, he said, the bond of sacrifice in the Great War, the bond of blood and the bond of a common Christian religion. He explained that while there were the Roman Catholic Church, the Church of England, the United Church of Canada and other denominations, they were all agreed on the fundamentals of the Christian religion, the holy trinity, the atonement and the incarnation.

The Bishop brought the best wishes of King George. He said it was fortunate that his visit to the capital of Canada should have made it possible for him to be present at this important ceremony, and expressed confidence that Canada would be a great nation, perhaps the first nation of the world. Dr. Ingram urged that care be taken to bring in people of British stock. "We can send you a million people," he said, explaining the steps being taken to send people from the British Isles to this country, adding: "And they will be a million of our best."

Two Buried Cities Found By Mexicans Recently

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16 Two reports have been received here of discoveries of ancient buried cities. The first of these, a Maya city, was found near the village of Santa Elean in the state of Chiapas by government scientific party and the other is said to have been discovered on a ranch near Juxtlaphuaca in the state of Guerrero.

Little information is given regarding the Maya city but El Universal prints a story of the second find. It says an elderly rancher has discovered on his ranch caves of an enormous area, petrified human bodies, cooking utensils, pottery and knives and forks. The rancher believes he has discovered a city.

WOODMAN SLAIN BY BLOW OF AXE OF INSANE MAN

Worker in Lumber Camp, Suddenly Crazed, Attacks, Companions.

FLEES TO WOODS.

Fellows Round Up Alleged Slayer and Summon Police.

CHAPLEAU, Aug. 16 (Canadian Press).—Avila Patnaud, a French Canadian, is in custody here in connection with the death of William Kurgan, in the employ of the McNaught Lumber Company, who met a violent death at Devon, Algonma District, six miles east of Chapleau, on Sunday evening when he was struck on the head with an axe, alleged to have been in the hands of Patnaud, who it is thought had become temporarily insane. Inspector Jordan of the Provincial police and Constable Anderson were summoned from here. No reason is given for the attack on Kurgan.

Patnaud is alleged to have grabbed an axe and aimed blows at two fellow workers, who managed to escape with slight bruises. Unaware of the attack, Kurgan is said to have received the full force of the blow on the back of the skull, almost severing the top from his head. Death was instantaneous. Patnaud is alleged to have fled to the surrounding bush, where he was captured after the chase and taken back to the lumber camp.

MAN IS THROWN OFF SPEEDSTER

A. Beausoleil, Brock Street, Hurt on C.N.R. Near Haliburton.

HAS BROKEN LEG.

A. Beausoliel, 369 Brock street, supervisor on the Canadian National Railways, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg when a "speedster" on which he was riding left the track throwing him into the ditch on Saturday last.

Mr. Beausoliel had some inspection work to look after near Haliburton and it was somewhere near that point that the accident happened. Although suffering from a broken leg he managed to crawl toward the machine and shut the engine off. He was lying at the scene of the accident for almost two hours before he was discovered. First aid was rendered by his rescuers and the victim was removed to Peterborough by a freight train on Saturday night and admitted to St. Joseph's hospital. The hospital authorities reported that he was progressing favorably this morning.

No laundry—discard like tissue

FIBRE FACTORY BURNED DOWN

Loss of $100,000 Sustained in Serious Fire in Midland.

WAREHOUSE SAVED.

MIDLAND, Ont., Aug. 16 — A disastrous fire occurred here last night, involving a loss running into $100,000 or more,when the International Fibreboard plant was practically wiped out. The outbreak bore all the appearance of an explosion, so rapid was the spread of the flames.

The plant was equipped with a modern sprinkler system, but it and the best efforts of the brigade were unable to cope with the fire in the main buildings.

The warehouse is the only part to remain standing. As the wind was blowing from the southeast, no damage was done to the sawmill of Manley Chew.

The fibreboard plant employed 140 men working day and night, the night shift having gone off duty when the outbreak occurred.

This plant was first organized as the Georgian Bay Shook Mills and later taken over by Firstbrooks, Ltd., who sold it to the present owners two years ago, after their Penetang branch was burned.

TO MAKE SURVEY.

Herbert Greenfield, former premier of Alberta, has been appointed my the provincial government to take charge of a survey of the province for the purpose of determining areas suitable for land settlement, especially community lines. On completion of this work he will go to England to work in conjunction with the various emigration organizations operating there.

FRANCE WILLING TO REMIT PART OF GERMAN DEBT

If Allies Agree To Cancel All Debts Among Themselves.

REVISE DAWES PLAN.

French Engineer Says His Nation Would Cut Debt Two-thirds.

PARIS, August 16. — If the United States cancelled the debts owed her by her former Allies and associates, France would agree to remission of two-thirds of the German debt due under the Dawes plan, it being understood that the Allies and associates would cancel their own debts mutually. This statement is made by the French engineer, Philippe Bunau Varilla, in an open letter to Frederick W. Peabody, published in the Figaro. Mr. Peabody is the American to whom Secret y Mellon wrote the lette. which started the United States treasury's controversy with Winston Churchill.

Anticipating the objections of some Americans that if the Allied debts were cancelled it would be unfair to let Germany struggle under the burden of the Dawes plan annuities, Bunau-Varilla declared his country would ratify an arrangement whereby the United States and the Allies having wiped the slate clean of all their debts Germany would have two-thirds of her debts remitted, the remainder being collected for partial compensation for ravages caused by the war.

Bunau-Varilla's letter is significant in that it is not the first time lately that a French voice has been heard in favor of revision of the Dawes plan.

BATHER'S BODY FOUND AFLOAT

Had Apparently Died of Exhaustion at Beach Near Toronto.

FOUND BY FRIEND.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—Robert Forrester, aged 30, lost his life in the waters of Lake Ontario last evening, while swimming at Rose's Beach, Stop 2, the Lake Shore Road. No one saw the unfortunate man drown, but his dead body was found floating in shallow water about two hours after he had first entered the lake. The body was removed to Ross Craig's undertaking parlors, Queen Street West. An inquest will be held in due course.

Forrester was out swimming with Steve Fitch, a friend. They entered the water about 4 o'clock. Forrester eventually swam away from Fitch. It was not until his companion had been gone for some time that Fitch began to get uneasy about him. He told Leslie Kempt about it, and together they set out to find Forrester. After a long search they came upon his body floating in the water about 15 yards from shore.

They called the main life-saving station at Bathurst Street. In turn, Superintendent Lang notified Officer Airey, of the Humber Station. Airey and his crew set out, and with little trouble recovered the body. Superintendent Lang also went out in response to a call to the mouth of the Humber, but it turned out that it was for the same accident. Dr. McCormick, Spadina Avenue, and the life-savers, tried artificial respiration, but without result.

It is thought that Forrester got out of his depth. Realizing his he started to swim to shore, but became exhausted before reaching there. Then his body was washed inshore to the spot where it was found.
